In the Paths of Righteousness

As the Thanksgiving holiday approaches, our children might study about the Pilgrims and our country's first Thanksgiving at Plymouth, Massachusetts. According to Webster's Dictionary, a pilgrim is a wayfarer or one on a journey, especially a journey to a religious place. A pilgrimage can also mean our journey through life...the paths we travel to find God in our lives.

The Pilgrims of Plymouth, Massachusetts, risked their lives crossing the treacherous Atlantic Ocean on the Mayflower, suffering disease and death on their long journey in search of a place where they could worship without being persecuted for their religious beliefs. Psalm 23:3-4 must have comforted them on their arduous journey... "He [God] leads me in the paths of righteousness for His name's sake. Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I fear no evil; for Thou art with me;..."

Because those brave men and women paved the way for our religious freedom, we need only walk down the street or drive across town to worship. This week, won't you travel the "paths of righteousness" to worship in God's House? May you have a blessed Thanksgiving.

Worry Subsists By Lack Of Faith

To have faith is to be sure of the things we hope for, to be certain of the things we cannot see.

Good News Bible
Hebrews 11:1

One thing that we can never have too much of is faith. Living in today's fast-paced world, and trying to keep up with our hectic daily lives is not always easy. Unfortunately, anxieties have become a greater part of our everyday living, and for many of us, it seems that each day brings new problems. We should resign ourselves to the fact that we will always have concerns to handle; however, the important thing is how we let these concerns affect us. Expressions such as, "I should have" or "I could have"are phrases that indicate that we are living in the past, and should serve as a reminder as to how we should act in the future. Although we cannot change our past mistakes, we can build on them to help make us a more faith-filled person. Being accountable for our actions and knowing that God is aware of our weaknesses, as well are our strengths, should encourage us to try to do what is in His will. Being overly concerned with " what could have been" is not only demoralizing, it reflects a lack of faith. Trusting in God and believing in ourselves, along with daily prayer, will help develop our faith and help us to live better lives.

AROMA EFFECTS OF LAVENDER OIL

Lavender is an herb commonly used for its fragrance value (perfumes, potpourri, and decorations). Some research now suggests that lavender oil can be used as aromatherapy. Gently sniffing the oil can help soften the memory of past events that have been preciously remembered as unpleasant or painful. Aromatherapy sues the oils of plants, trees, and herbs for their medicinal value. Scents from these oils are thought to activate olfactory nerve cells in the nose which stimulates the area of the brain associated with emotions and memory.

Although a tincture of lavender used in clinical trials to ease mild to moderate depression was found in a research study to be slightly less effective than the prescription drug imipramine when used together the combination proved more effective than either component alone. The aroma of lavender oil seems to induce relaxation and sedation in humans. There is also some evidence that lavender oil may have pain-relieving properties or possibly anticancer activity. However much more research is needed to confirm these suspected effects.

A Hairy Issue

Q. I love my cat, but she sheds long hairs everywhere! It's a real struggle to keep my apartment free of cat hair, which some of my friends are allergic to. Any suggestions? — Annabelle T., Brooklyn

A. Cat owners worldwide are faced with the nagging problem of shed hair on furniture, floors and clothing. And cleanup can be time-consuming, so any way of reducing the amount of hair a cat sheds is beneficial.

The first thing to do is begin combing your cat's coat daily. The amount of hair she sheds may not be reduced right away, but over several days it will lessen (though it will not completely go away, especially since she is a long-haired cat). Combing will also remove loose dander — the fluffy fur located close to the cat's skin that most allergy sufferers react to.

Next, prevent the cat from resting on furniture or items that you don't want hair shed on. In the short term, place washable throws, blankets or covers on the cat's favorite furniture, put away clothing in a closet or dresser (or place dirty clothing in the hamper), and vacuum and sweep daily.

For long-term prevention, in addition to daily brushing, create more desirable spots for your feline to hang out in, and encourage her to use them rather than the furniture. A cat hammock or cushioned bed, for example, placed in a warm and sunny location, could become her favorite spot.

Q. I have a Little Orphan Annie Ovaltine shakeup mug. I think it is probably from the 1930s. — A.B.K., Elbridge, N.Y.

A. There were several different mugs, colors and designs issued by Ovaltine during the 1930s and '40s. Without knowing which one you have, I simply can't provide you with an accurate answer.

Q. I have a small collection of carnival glass that I would like to have appraised. Can you help me? — Irene, Newport, Ore.

A. Two carnival glass experts are Helen Greguire, 216 Mountain View Road, Landrum, SC 29356; and Kitty Umbraco, P.O. Box 5331, Richmond, CA 94805.

When contacting dealers and experts mentioned in this column, it is always good manners to enclose a SASE as a courtesy. One of the better clubs is the International Carnival Glass Association, P.O. Box 306, Mentone, IN 46539.

Q. I have a booklet titled "In the Rocky Mountains with the Indians, Bear and Wolf" by William H. Crane and published in 1913 by the Smith-Brooks Printing Company of Denver. It has more than 160 photos, and I am curious about it. — Betty, New Smyrna, Fla.

A. The Smith-Brooks publishing company specialized in custom printing and produced dozens of publications during the early years of the past century. Many featured various cities, sites and attractions of Colorado. These have become quite collectible, especially in the Rocky Mountain region. George Foott is a private collector who might be able to help you. His address is 120 West Park Ave., Salida, CO 81201.

Strange BUT TRUE

• It was — perhaps unsurprisingly — an 18-year-old boy who invented water skis.

• It was Winston Churchill who made this sage observation: "Men occasionally stumble over the truth, but most of them pick themselves up and hurry off as if nothing happened."

• To remain in orbit, the space shuttle must maintain a speed of 17,000 miles per hour.

• Here's a thought-provoking tidbit for those who get nervous when thunderstorms occur: Worldwide, lightning strikes the ground approximately 30 million times every year.

• In practically every household, office and business in the modern world you will find one ubiquitous item: scissors — the kind with blades that cross. This tool began coming into common use in the 1500s, but it was actually invented long before that — in the year 100 A.D.

• There is a species of fish known to marine biologists to be so aggressive and pugnacious, it was named "Jack Dempsey."

• Famed actor of the golden age of film, Clark Gable, is reported to have showered five times every day.

• John Forbes Kerry and George W. Bush are ninth cousins.

• It's been reported that the Smithsonian Institution — popularly known as "America's attic" — is in possession of more than 141 million items.

• The world seems to be overwhelmed with newspapers these days — nearly every small town publishes one for local news, and national and international papers are available everywhere. Back in George Washington's time, though, newspapers were scarcer, and they were often difficult to come by, especially ones from overseas. Despite the problems this scarcity presented, President Washington subscribed to 10 different papers in order to keep up on the events of the day.

Holiday Tour To Include Sines, Mattson House

"Chanticleer," the home of Roger Sines and Suzie Mattson, will be among the tour stops on this year's Home for the Holidays House Tours, sponsored for the 13th year by the local chapter of the American Red Cross.

The tours will be held on Friday, Dec. 3, from 4 until 9 p.m., and on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Chanticleer, completed in November 2002, is set on eight acres in the community of Heron Cove. As guests approach the 1/4 mile driveway, they may very well see a flock of turkeys or a family of deer, and perhaps a snowy white owl soaring above. Guests will also cross two streams to enter the property, and they, too, are usually bustling with wildlife activity, the homeowners said.

Designed and built by the homeowners who are contractors/designers by trade, this home was built as a showplace of different design techniques and styles for their clients to view. Each room in the house has a different theme.

The house features two extra-wide porches made of natural slate. As for the architectural aspects, guests will notice that arches are an overall theme. The main entrance to the living area is framed by two arches made of custom oak trim. A stacked stone fireplace is the focal point of the casual living room. Two authentic elk antler chandeliers, purchased by the owners in Idaho, hang in the room, and there is also an alder wood root table purchased in Jackson Hole.

The "cowboy" bathroom features an old barn board vanity with a surface sink and faucet mounted in the wall, along with "old west" style accessories and furnishings.

The breakfast nook features the colors of red and yellow and offers a prime viewing area for the deer, which pass through the property daily. The adjoining kitchen houses the collection of roosters (or "chanticleer"). A large granite island serves as a spot for casual dining, homework, or any other such task. The "bug" bath down the hall is still a work in progress, the owners said, with "grass" tiled floors (the only grass on the property which does not require mowing). The hand-painted frogs, ants, and butterflies on the wall, all done by family members, live in harmony on the branch that appears to have grown from the grass floor.

CHANTICLEER, HOME OF ROGER SINES & SUZIE MATTSON, ON ARC TOUR

The main level master suite has walls finished to resemble stucco, and the lighting has been set into a trough to highlight the whitewashed pine ceiling. A marble fireplace, a hand-painted armoire from Europe, and a woven leather bed are just some of the pieces in this particular room. The master bath features a natural slate floor, custom cabinetry, and river rock shower with a waterfall.

The most important room in the design of the house, the owners said, is a room large enough to hold the hunting trophies acquired over the past 30 years, throughout North America. This room features cathedral ceilings to allow for the 3-foot antlers of the elk and deer. Guests will also meet up with a grizzly bear upon entering the room. Turkey, antelope, various species of fish, and mule deer fill the room's walls. Bright red fabrics and leather with cowhide chairs make it a masculine room that is popular during football seasons, the owners said.

Tour tickets for all guests, including children, are $8 in advance and $10 at the "door" (on the days of the tours). The other sites on the tour this year are the German Village at Fantasy Valley, the home of Michael and Sandy Bello, and the McHenry United Methodist Church.

Guests will be asked to remove their shoes before touring the sites, organizers noted. They will also be asked to refrain from photographing or videotaping in the homes.

Tickets are available at Proudfoot's and Gregg's pharmacies in Oakland, Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek, and the Deep Creek Pharmacy.

ANIMALS IN NEED OF HOMES FOR CHRISTMAS – The Garrett County Humane Society will be selling these fun but practical animal totes at the Farmers' Market, Oakland, weather permitting, this Friday, Nov. 26, from 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. The totes will also be available for purchase from Thanksgiving Day weekend until the week before Christmas at Rudy's in downtown Oakland and the office of Yellowstone Log Homes in McHenry, located just off Rt. 219 and Mosser Road. Persons are asked to call the businesses for their holiday hours. "We would like to thank both businesses for allowing us to put the totes in their stores, so they can be easily seen and purchased," said Lisa Baker of the Humane Society. "All of the totes are $12, but we have a few birds left that will be $10 each," she said. "Please be prepared to pay with a check or exact change; credit cards will not be accepted." The types of animals available now are black bears, cats, wolves, terriers, fawns, and three kinds of Labrador retrievers. Rabbits and spotted ponies will also be available early next month. The proceeds benefit neglected and homeless animals and help the continual promotion of spaying and neutering in the county. Persons with questions may call Baker at 301-387-4425. Those who would like to purchase several totes or are interested in a certain type that is sold out may also call Baker.

Jail Assault Nets Six More Months For Illinois Man

An Illinois man who was already serving a sentence in the Garrett County Detention Center had an additional six months added to his jail stay after he pleaded guilty to assaulting another inmate on the cellblock. The hearing took place in Garrett County District Court recently.

Michael Adam Kile, 20, of Joliet, who was being held on a conviction on charges involving an auto theft and theft of gasoline, entered another inmate's cell as he slept and beat him. The victim required medical treatment for his injuries after the August incident. Kile pleaded guilty to second-degree assault before the bench of Judge Ralph Burnett, and was handed a six-month term consecutive to the sentence he is currently serving.

Steven John Kile, 24, also of Joliet, who was also arrested at the time of the incident, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge.

In other district court news, James Eugene Reed, 23, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a one-year sentence, all but one month of which was suspended, and was fined $405 and placed on two years of supervised probation. Reed's July arrest stemmed from a traffic stop along Hutton Road. A drug detection dog alerted to the possible presence of drugs in the vehicle, and a search led to the discovery of a bag of marijuana in his pocket.

Daniel John Tibbs, 21, Terra Alta, W.Va., pleaded guilty to possession of Oxycodone and was handed a 10-day jail sentence. Four pills of the prescription medication were found on his person as sheriff's deputies carried out a search at a Mtn. Lake Park home.

James David Ayersman, 38, Morgantown, received four days in jail and an order to complete 30 hours of community service after he pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and failure to obey a lawful order. The charges stemmed from Ayersman's September arrest by Maryland State Police troopers for loud and intoxicated behavior outside the Point View Inn. Ayersman had yelled obscenities at police, grabbed his genitals, and stiffened his extremities when troopers tried to arrest him.

Jeremy Colt Moyers, 22, Accident, pleaded guilty to trespassing and was handed a 90-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, and was placed on two years of supervised probation. He was arrested during a June trespassing incident at a Deer Park residence, when he returned to the location several minutes after sheriff's deputies had issued a warning.

Charles Elmer Friedline, 23, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to felony theft and was handed a six-month suspended sentence, fined $100, placed on two years of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 100 hours of community service. Friedline's August arrest by state troopers stemmed from his theft of a four-wheeler from a Sky Valley home where he was replacing a roof.

John Kenneth Ghiloni, 24, Medford, Mass., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession, and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) and a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended. He was also fined $200 and placed on one day of unsupervised probation. The charge stemmed from an August traffic stop on South Third Street, when a drug dog scan led Oakland police officers to search Ghiloni's car, which was found to contain marijuana, pipes, and weighing scales. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Joseph Keenan Chavez, 40, Warrenton, Va., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, and was fined $355, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted. Sheriff's deputies arrested Chavez in August after a drug dog scan of his car during a traffic stop on Interstate 68 at Friendsville led to a search that uncovered marijuana and a smoking device. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Devin Stewart Kimmel and Gregory Mervin Sowers, both 28-year-old College Park residents, each pleaded guilty to marijuana possession, and received a PBJ and a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended. Each was fined $300, placed on six months of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. An additional charge of driving while impaired (DWI) was stetted, while a charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted. The charges stemmed from an April traffic stop by sheriff's deputies along Snowy Creek Road, when a drug dog alert led to vehicle search that uncovered a smoking pipe bearing burnt residue.

Justin Ray Dalton, 20, Morgantown, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, and was fined $200, placed on six months of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. Dalton's May arrest by state troopers stemmed from a traffic stop on Garrett Highway near Deep Creek Lake. The odor of burnt marijuana led police to request a voluntary search, and Dalton turned over a bag of marijuana.

Galen Everett Beckman, 44, Oakland, pleaded guilty to felony destruction of property, and was handed a 60-day suspended sentence, placed on six months of supervised probation, and ordered to pay $869 in restitution to his victim. Beckman was arrested by sheriff's deputies in June after he broke out a window of his employer's home, destroying a fax machine as shards of glass fell into it, and destroying a cooler located in the bed of a parked company truck. The incident stemmed from a dispute over wages. An additional charge of disturbing the peace was not prosecuted.

Derek Ryan Steffan, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to drug paraphernalia possession and was fined $200. His March arrest by sheriff's deputies came after his wallet was located with a smoking pipe concealed under it on a picnic table in Oakland.

William Steward Keiper III, 21, Oakland, pleaded not guilty to misdemeanor theft but was handed a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, one year of unsupervised probation, and 20 hours of community service. Additional charges of unlawful taking and unlawful use of a motor vehicle were not prosecuted. Keiper's August arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from his borrowing of a friend's vehicle and using it outside the stated purpose. The vehicle was never returned, and when it was recovered numerous items were missing from within.

Shawn Michael Leaber, 30, Greentown, Pa., pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a PBJ and a six-month suspended sentence, fined $225, placed on one day of unsupervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. State troopers had jailed Leaber during a July traffic stop on I-68 near Grantsville, after he voluntarily turned over a bag of marijuana, a smoking pipe, and a seven-inch K-bar knife. Additional charges of possession of drug paraphernalia and a deadly weapon were not prosecuted.

Patrick Wade Friend, 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to disorderly conduct and received a PBJ, a 30-day suspended sentence, a $50 fine, six months' unsupervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. Additional charges of driving while under the influence (DUI) and DWI were stetted, and a second-degree assault charge was not prosecuted. Friend's May arrest by Oakland police officers stemmed from a fight in the Sheetz parking lot that was witnessed by a police officer who later determined that Friend had driven to the location while possibly intoxicated.

Kelly Lee Brower, 24, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a PBJ, fined $405, and placed on 18 months of supervised probation. The charge was filed after Brower's initial August arrest by sheriff's deputies for littering incidents when he and two other individuals allegedly dumped old tires in a creek and on a property west of Oakland. Two counts of littering faced by Brower were stetted, while two counts of littering faced by Christina Ethel McCrobie, 19, Oakland, were not prosecuted. The driver of the van Brower and McCrobie were in at the time of the incident, Donald Gordon Aronhalt Sr., 51, Oakland, was served with a summons charging two counts of littering, which were eventually placed on the stet docket.

Timothy Allen Welch, 39, Oakland, faced three counts of second-degree assault that were placed onto the stet docket. The charges were filed by sheriff's deputies who arrested Welch in July for allegedly beating his girlfriend and her two teenage children.

Carrol Uphold, 38, Oakland, faced charges of false imprisonment, intimidating a juror, harassment, pandering, and disturbing the peace, each of which was stetted. Uphold was arrested by sheriff's deputies in July after he allegedly attempted to pressure a resident of his apartment building into having sex with him, threatening to have her evicted if she did not comply.

Kenneth A. McRobie, 23, Oakland, was handed stet rulings on charges of misdemeanor theft, harassment, and telephone misuse. His July arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from alleged ongoing harassment of a woman that included numerous phone calls and a theft from her apartment.

Daniel Craig Hoover, 55, Oakland, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge filed by state troopers who arrested him in June.

David Armstrong, 32, Kitzmiller, was not prosecuted on a second-degree assault charge filed by sheriff's deputies in July.

James Edward Robertson, 36, Frostburg, was not prosecuted on one count of felony theft scheme and six counts of misdemeanor theft filed by sheriff's deputies in August.

Victims Refuse To Testify

Two defendants – Patrick Sean Murphy, 38, Grantsville, and Bradley Kent Lewis, 30, Friendsville – were both deemed not guilty of respective second-degree assault charges filed in the wake of reported domestic assaults. In each case, the alleged victim refused to testify against them.

Hansen Named Head Athletic Trainer At PSC

Potomac State College of West Virginia University recently hired Seth R. Hansen of Oakland for the position of head athletic trainer and instructor of physical education.

In addition to teaching college classes, Hansen will supervise and maintain a student athletic training program and provide medical coverage for all eight NJCAA athletic teams at the college.

"Potomac State College has one of the best and most unique athletic training facilities and programs in the area. I am very excited to take the helm and use my education and experiences to make it even better," Hansen said. "I look forward to working with and providing the best possible care for each and every athlete to keep [him/her] at optimal performance."

Hansen received his bachelor's degree in sports medicine from West Virginia Wesleyan College in Buckhannon and his master's degree in recreation and sport science, with an emphasis in athletic training, from Ohio University in Athens.

His previous experience includes serving as head athletic trainer and professor of health and physical education at Garrett College, where he also served as sports information director and assistant baseball coach.

While a student at Ohio University, Hansen worked as a graduate assistant to the athletic trainer providing coverage for all varsity and junior varsity athletic teams. Hanson also served as athletic trainer, physical therapy aide, and fitness director at Garrett Orthopedic Physical Therapy, where he assisted the physical therapist with rehab protocols and administration of therapeutic modalities. As fitness director, he conducted fitness evaluations and designed exercise programs.

His certifications and licenses include those from the National Athletic Trainers Association; National Strength and Conditioning Association; Ohio Occupational Therapy, Physical Therapy, and Athletic Trainers Board; and American Red Cross.

Hansen is also a member of the West Virginia Athletic Trainers Association.

Authorities Warn Residents Of Recent Power Ball Scam

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office and Garrett Bureau of Investigation are warning residents to be aware of scams such as the Australian Power Ball Scam.

According to police, like most scams of this type, an individual is notified that he/she has won a large amount of money, in this case $350,000. Because of processing fees and insurance, a payment of $4,000 is required before receiving the winnings, said police. "Of course you lose the $4,000 and your winnings never arrive," said a spokesperson. This scam is conducted by the "International Prize Disbursement LTD."

"Individuals should be very careful when responding to scams such as these. Check for misspelled words and offers that seem too good to be true," said the spokesperson. "Don't be victimized by these scam artists, especially during the holiday season."

Some Burns Can Be Treated At Home

Over 2 million Americans require some type of treatment for topical burns each year. First degree burns, such as serious sunburns, develop a painful pink color and affect only the uppermost layers of the skin. If the burn goes deeper and ranges from dark red to yellow-white causing exquisite pain, then it is usually classified as a second degree burn. Burns that cause no pain because the nerve endings have been so severely damaged, with no blistering, are called third degree burns. An example of a third degree burn is from extended contact with steam or fire, where damage reaches further to the subcutaneous skin tissue.

In general, third degree burns, and burns in children under age 2, should always be seen by a physician. Also, burns to the hands, feet, face, genitals or any burn that does not cause pain should be treated immediately. Generally, most of the other types of burns can be treated at home. Cocoa butter, glycerin, and petroleum jelly applied to the burn area can act as a skin protectant. If the skin is broken, applying an antibacterial ointment will usually prevent infection. Burns that fail to improve in 5 to 7 days should also be seen by a physician.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Stream Buffer Program Offered Through USDA

Landowners interested in enhancing the quality of streams on their private property have the opportunity to join the Conservation Reserve Enhancement Program (CREP) offered through the Garrett USDA Service Center. CREP offers financial assistance to install wooded or grassed buffers in areas adjacent to streams and wetlands.

"Riparian stream buffers benefit stream quality in several ways," stated Mike Kozier of the Garrett USDA Service Center. "Buffers can minimize the amount of sediment in streams as the result of storm runoff, or by stabilizing streams against bank erosion. Wooded buffers can shade streams from sunlight and help keep water temperatures low in the summer months. Buffers can also provide habitat and food sources for several types of wildlife."

Stream buffers may be planted with grass and clover mixtures or trees. The landowner's objectives, soil type, and type of buffer each play a role in determining the species used in the buffer planting.

Eligibility of a site for CREP is determined by the existing vegetation, the proximity to streams, and cropping history. Areas which currently have existing buffers may be eligible to increase the buffer width through the program. CREP requires a minimum buffer width of 35 feet. In some cases, the width of the buffer area eligible for the program is 300 feet. Some highly erodible land may be eligible for enrollment in grass buffers through CREP if the land is located within 1,000 feet of a perennial stream.

CREP agreements have a term of 10-15 years. Annual rental payments include the base rental rate for the soil type, any applicable incentives, and a small payment for maintaining the practices in the agreement. For some types of buffers, incentives are greater than in previous years of the program. For wooded buffers adjacent to perennial streams, CREP pays an annual incentive payment of $200 per acre for the first 50 feet of buffer width, $50 per acre for the area between 50 and 100 feet in width, and the base rental rate, typically $40, for any buffer width beyond 100 feet. Grassed buffers adjacent to streams have incentives similar to those above except that the incentive for the first 50 feet of buffer width is $150 an acre. Annual rental payments typically range from $100 to $250, depending on the type and width of buffer.

The program can cost-share on development of water sources to offset the exclusion of livestock from in-stream water sources. Spring developments, pipelines, and troughs are typically eligible for cost-share. In some cases, limited access to the stream may be used for livestock watering. Cost-share is also available for fence to exclude livestock from buffer plantings. For most practices, the cost-share rate is 87.5 percent of the practice installation cost.

"Landowners will be responsible for maintaining buffers by applying herbicide and by mowing," Kozier said. "Maintenance is essential to ensuring that buffer areas include favorable plant species. Landowners will be responsible for maintaining buffer areas in accordance with the Maryland Noxious Weed Law. Areas enrolled in CREP cannot be harvested for hay, grazed, or have timber harvested for the term of the agreement."

Landowners interested in installing stream buffers may contact Kozier at 301-334-6955 or Chad Bucklew 301-334-6957. Persons may also visit the Garrett USDA Service Center at 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite C, Mtn. Lake Park.

Input Sought On Environmental Incentives Program

The Garrett Soil Conservation District will solicit public input on practices to include in the 2005 Environmental Quality Incentives Program (EQIP) for Garrett County during a 9 a.m. meeting on Monday, Dec. 6. The session will take place at the agency's Mtn. Lake Park offices at 1916 Maryland Highway, Suite C.

The Environmental Quality Incentives Program offers financial assistance to private landowners to install conservation practices that protect and improve soil and water quality. Conservation practices cost-shared through EQIP in past years are fencing and water developments for rotational grazing systems, non-commercial woodlot thinning, tree planting, manure storage, and feedlot runoff management. The local workgroup meeting will survey the interests of landowners, and identify potentially new resource concerns to be addressed with EQIP funds.

Persons interested in attending should make a reservation by calling Chad Bucklew at 301-334-6957.

Field Activity Is Wrapping Up

There were 5.1 days suitable for field work for the week ending November 21. Soybean harvest was 81 percent complete, 6 percent above last year and slightly above the five-year average. Winter wheat was 94 percent planted, 3 percent above last year and the five-year average. Pasture was rated 24 percent excellent, 44 percent good, 25 percent fair, and 8 percent poor.

Harvick holds on for win

HARVICK

Kevin Harvick closed out the Busch Series season Saturday by holding off a last-lap challenge from Jamie McMurray and winning the Ford 300 at Homestead-Miami Speedway.

Kyle Busch was third ahead of Reed Sorenson, who posted his best Busch finish in five career starts on NASCAR's No. 2 circuit.

Harvick said he was able to capitalize on the horsepower of his No. 29 Chevrolet during his late-race battles with McMurray.

"This is a new engine package," he said. "It was fun to drive today. To have those restarts at the end was what we needed."

Martin Truex Jr. clinched the series title the previous weekend at Darlington.

FORD 400 REVIEW

A banner day for BUSCH

Roush Racing driver dodges disaster to win Cup championship

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Homestead, Fla.

NASCAR got the late-season, big-league drama it's been seeking when the Ford 400 at Homestead-Miami Speedway capped off a 10-race "playoff" that turned out like a Super Bowl settled on the last play of the game or a World Series decided in the bottom of the ninth inning of Game 7.

The 2004 championship, the first to be determined with the Chase for the Nextel Cup format, wasn't resolved until the last lap of the season-ending 400.

Kurt Busch, who bounced back from a broken wheel to finish fifth in the race, wound up with eight points more than Jimmie Johnson, who was runner-up in the race and in the title hunt. It was the closest points finish in NASCAR history.

"This is parallel to the Super Bowl or the World Series," an exuberant Busch said afterward. "It's like any other championship in the world."

Busch, who at 26 is the circuit's fourth-youngest champion, said there was intense pressure on him throughout the race.

"I felt like I had the whole weight of the world on my shoulders every lap," he said. "I felt like I was alone, or I had my whole team behind me ... so many emotions, and to be able to pull through and finish like we did, to cap off a great season, is an unbelievable feeling."

There was plenty of drama throughout the day, with the points lead see-sawing back and forth during the race, and all three contenders — Busch, Johnson and Jeff Gordon — having problems at one time or another.

But when Ryan Newman hit the wall two laps shy of the advertised distance, it brought NASCAR's green-white-checkered-flag finishing policy into play. That lined up the three championship contenders bumper-to-bumper — Gordon fourth, Johnson fifth and Busch sixth — for a two-lap dash to the finish line.

When all the subplots were sorted out and the points were tallied, Kurt Busch was off for a celebratory lap around the track while his Roush Racing teammate Greg Biffle was headed to Victory Lane.

Earlier, on Lap 91, Busch suddenly slowed on the track. Just as he steered his car toward pit road, the right front wheel broke completely off the car. But like the three times he spun during earlier Chase races, Busch managed to avoid contact with walls or other cars.

He said it was important at that time to not let the setback get the best of him and his team.

"At that point it was time to either shape up or ship out," he said. "I wanted the team to rally ... to know that we had no more room for mistakes."

Johnson and Gordon also dodged disaster. Johnson started 39th and avoided two early wrecks. Gordon had a tire go flat during a caution period and was able to have it changed without losing laps.

Johnson, who led the circuit in wins with eight, badly wanted to win the title to honor the memory of the 10 people associated with his Hendrick Motorsports team who died in an Oct. 24 plane crash.

"With the loss of so many people in the October tragedy, it's amazing that we were able to have the finish that we did," Johnson said. "But we can leave here knowing we gave everything we could."

Under the old system, Gordon would be celebrating his fifth title, while Busch would be fourth, 247 points behind him.

CHASE SCORECARD

1. Kurt Busch
Sunday finish: Fifth
Points: 6,506
Overview: Overcame losing a right front wheel and a pit stop slowed by an air hose caught under a tire. Fell to 28th after starting on the pole, but rallied for a top-five finish to win the title.

2. Jimmie Johnson
Sunday finish: Second
Points: -8
Overview: Rallied from a 39th-place start to contend at the end. "I wish we could have gotten the job done," Johnson said, "but we can leave here knowing we gave everything that we could."

3. Jeff Gordon
Sunday finish: Third
Points: -16
Overview: His left rear tire went flat when he was running third 117 laps in, then slid back to 24th. "That flat left rear tire really got us behind and we fought back all day long," Gordon said.

4. Mark Martin
Sunday finish: 11th
Points: -107
Overview: Never contended after tire trouble. "We put ourselves in a position to be a contender and then we had a flat tire under caution, so I'm not going to say it was bad luck," Martin said.

5. Dale Earnhardt Jr.
Sunday finish: 23rd
Points: -138
Overview: Never got closer than eighth. "The car was really good at one point, but from there on out, it was the worst car I ever drove," Junior said.

6. Tony Stewart
Sunday finish: Fourth
Points: -180
Overview: A fuel intake problem took him out of the lead on the final restart with three laps to go. He'd been black-flagged on Lap 172 for disobeying a NASCAR directive to control his car on a restart.

7. Ryan Newman
Sunday finish: 30th
Points: -326
Overview: Led with four laps to go, but a flat tire sent him into the wall. Criticized NASCAR for not keeping the track free of debris. "We're a championship team that had a lot of bad breaks," Newman said.

8. Matt Kenseth
Sunday finish: 19th
Points: -437
Overview: Defending champion suffered the worst finish in the Roush stable on Sunday. "We just have to figure out how to get our stuff running like [the rest of the team]," Kenseth said.

9. Elliott Sadler
Sunday finish: 34th
Points: -482
Overview: Long day for Sadler's team went totally south on Lap 157 when his car went spinning into a wall. Average finish was 33rd over the last five Chase races.

10. Jeremy Mayfield
Sunday finish: 35th
Points: -506
Overview: A blown tire sent the No. 19 Dodge into the Turn 2 wall on Lap 114, dealing Mayfield another disastrous day. "Hopefully, we'll get all this bad luck out of the way and come back strong next season," Mayfield said.

A tough way to end 2004 season for Evernham Motorsports drivers

By RICK MINTER
Cox News Service

Homestead, Fla.

The 2004 season ended in disappointment for Evernham Motorsports drivers Jeremy Mayfield and Kasey Kahne. Both crashed during the Ford 400.

"It wasn't a good way to finish the year, but we'll think about it during the offseason and we'll get better over the winter," said Kahne, who finished second five times and third twice in his rookie season but failed to win. "We came close a lot of times, but we just didn't get it done.

"Either way, we had a good season," he said.

Mayfield, who made the cut for the Chase to the Nextel Cup with a win at Richmond in the final race before the start of the playoffs, also vowed to be better next year.

"Hopefully we'll get all this bad luck out of the way and come back strong next season," he said. "It was great to make the Chase, but we want to do more than just make it next year."

Newman blames debris

Ryan Newman, who led 72 laps including 22 late in the race, fell from the top spot with seven laps to go after a tire on his No. 12 Dodge blew as he entered Turn 1.

He blamed NASCAR for not blowing tire-puncturing debris off the track.

"It was pretty embarrassing that NASCAR didn't clean up the track," he said, adding that officials promised in the drivers meeting that they'd keep the track clean.

"It's pretty disappointing, but it's pretty convenient and on par for NASCAR," he said.

Cup drama overshadows Biffle's win

By AL LEVINE
Cox News Service

Homestead, Fla.

For a driver not contending for the Nextel Cup championship, the season-ending Ford 400 is a strange race to win.

The championship contenders get most of the coverage. Their point status is continually updated. The fireworks and confetti have to be shared.

But Greg Biffle was delighted to be relegated to the picture-in-a-picture on NBC's screen as teammate Kurt Busch was holding off Jimmie Johnson and Jeff Gordon for the Cup title.

Biffle led 117 of 271 laps in the No. 16 Ford Sunday at Homestead-Miami Speedway but needed to pass Tony Stewart on a green-white-checkered restart with three laps remaining to win the race.

Despite having a dominant car, Biffle also had a bit of luck. Ryan Newman's No. 12 Dodge, leading with four laps to go, blew a right front tire and smacked the wall. Then Stewart, who inherited the lead from Newman, stalled out with a fuel intake problem two laps from the end.

"It's unfortunate that the [No.] 12 car had trouble," Biffle said, "but that was the determining factor to give me the opportunity to win. There was no way we were going to catch him. We were a lot faster than those guys but four laps wasn't going to be enough."

It was Biffle's second win this year.

"It does a lot for us," Biffle said. "Our team has been this strong the second half of the season and [in] all of the Chase races. We just haven't had the finishes that we feel that we should have, but this is what the team is capable of. This is what I'm capable of as a driver when we have the right race cars at the race track and the aero balance is correct and the engine performs like it did today."

Biffle expected to find the same kind of success at the Cup level that he had in trucks and Busch, where he won championships in 2000 and 2002, respectively.

But he has struggled this year. Things got so bad that there were rumors Biffle would leave team owner Jack Roush's organization.

"When our program was looking dismal, I went to Jack and told him I was unhappy," Biffle said. "I felt like we weren't really given the opportunity to be as competitive as we needed to be and he helped us get that program turned around," he said. "The reason I'm still there is because he knows what happened today is what I'm capable of as a driver."

Greg Biffle's victory Sunday was his third Cup win and his second in 2004.

Garrett Chamber Provides Autumn Glory Follow-Up

Planning is already beginning at the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce for the 2005 Autumn Glory Festival, from ordering more festival buntings to seeking entertainment for the kick-off dinner, a spokesperson noted this week in a wrap-up report.

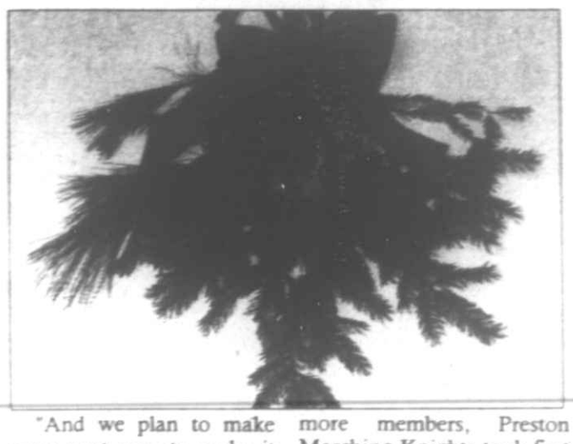
"We are looking forward to next year's Autumn Glory Festival," said Garrett County Chamber of Commerce president Charlie Ross. "We will build on the new efforts made this year and, with cooperation from Mother Nature, will have a spectacular celebration."

The weather for this year's event was unprecedented for the festival — sleet, some snow, thunder and lightening, and driving, nearly constant rain.

"It was wonderful how the bands and floats stayed in the parade in spite of this year's unusual weather," said Deb Clatterbuck, director of tourism and marketing. "They were determined to give our residents and visitors a good time. We appreciate the efforts of everyone who helped keep the spirit of the Autumn Glory festivities alive."

Rachel May, director of communications, said that the chamber made several changes in this year's Autumn Glory brochure.

GARDEN CLUB SWAGS AVAILABLE – The Mtn. Laurel Garden Club is selling its own handmade swags as a club fundraiser. Four different varieties of ribbon and cones decorate the swags, which will be sold during Oakland's Christmas on Main Street celebration, set for Friday and Saturday, Dec. 3-4, in downtown Oakland. Each $15 swag benefits the club's educational programs and local horticultural projects. Pictured above with a swag are Carol Craver, left, and Patty Copeland, members of the club's Ways and Means Committee. One of the variations of the swags is shown below in greater detail.



"And we plan to make more next year to make it even more useful and user friendly," she said.

Winners of this year's Autumn Glory Grand Feature Parade were as follows:

For bands with 70 or more members, Preston Marching Knights took first place.

For bands with fewer than 70 members, the first place winner was Petersburg High Marching Vikings. Taking second place was Carmichaels Area Junior/Senior High School Band, and third place was awarded to the Glen Burnie High School Gopher Band.

The Ruth Enlow Library Book Cart Drill Team took first place in the drill team/majorette/twirling division, and the Crissettes Twirling and Dance Team took second.

In the police and military drill team category, first place was awarded to the American Legion Dundalk Post #38 and second place was awarded to the Parkville American Legion Patriots.

In the middle school bands division, coming in first was Central Preston Middle School Wildcat Band, and at second was the South Preston Yellow Jackets.

In display units, the Aurora Girl Scouts were first and Red Hat Gals of Garrett County were second.

The Terra Alta Bank took first place in the professional float category. Under the commercial category, first place was Top Soil Enterprises, second was Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and third was Brenda's Body Shop.

In the amateur category, float winners were Loch Lynn Church of God in first, Aurora School in second, and Oakland Health and Racquet in third.

BITTINGER
by Darryl Glotfelty

The Bittinger 4-H Club will hold an all-you-can-eat buckwheat cake supper on Friday, Dec. 3, from 4:30 to 7 p.m. at the Bittinger fire hall.

The meal includes homemade buckwheat cakes, pancakes, sausage, and sausage gravy. Drinks are included. Cost is $5 for adults, $3 for children ages 6 to 12, and free for children 5 and under. All proceeds will benefit the Garrett County 4-H/FFA Scholarship program.

The buckwheat cakes are prepared by Pat Lohr of Swanton, who uses an original recipe declared to be "the best" by all who have eaten them. Railey's Mountain Lake Vacations and Brenneman's Store donated the market hogs purchased at the fair for the freshly prepared sausage that will be served.

Servers will be Blakely, Darryl, and Elliot Glotfelty, Meredith and Caity Sussman, Matt, Scott, and Emma Bass, and Alex and David Beitzel.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It seems to me that everyone around Rock Lodge Road except for me has already seen the mysterious white stag. Marci Glotfelty saw it in her garden and called the sight "eerie." It regularly visits the lawn of Lesa Whittemore, playing with the normal brown deer. She described it as mystical and almost like a unicorn. Woe to anyone who slays a unicorn and no one wants to kill it. To any hunter reading this column, the landowners plead to you, "Please don't kill a magical creature that blesses our land with his presence. Even my Claire saw it in our woods.

Perhaps the only sure way to protect it is for us to prohibit any deer hunting in our woods. I guess we should pray for snow for deer season so that it makes it somewhat safer than for its darker brothers. Anyone who cares about keeping Bittinger a magical, special place would want it alive and well, giving it a chance to spread his rare genetic heritage into future generations. If we have to have the most Arctic weather south of the Mason Dixon Line, we deserve the rare treasure of a herd of white deer. We already can claim the honor of being the winter home of some Arctic rough-leg hawks. If you want to possess it, just take a camera when you are in the woods hunting, or for whatever, and shoot a photograph of it.

I want to paint him with a background of the aurora borealis, which once again made its appearance here and was seen by Kevin Dodge on one of our rare clear evenings or nights that we had recently. We are not lucky at all for some of the best celestial wonders; the lunar eclipse and the Leonard meteor shower were both obscured by thick cloud cover. Those in the eastern part of Maryland, even with too much light from the urban lights, had clear skies for those two events.

Once again a former resident of Dung Hill Road is in the star role in the Christmas Spectacular at Radio City Music Hall. Charlie Hall once lived on top of Dung Hill before moving full time to Manhattan. If you happen to see the lightup of the Rockefeller Center Christmas tree, Charlie usually is part of the event, as well as the Good Morning, America program on ABC.

Much more serious news is the condition of Phillip Buckel, who suffered a serious stroke in the left side of his brain last week, which unfortunately means that the right side of his body is impaired. He is now in the intensive care unit at Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, which means only his family can visit him. His wife Sandra and son Randy of Grantsville, daughter Amy and husband from Philadelphia, and, of course, his brother Gary, are very busy going over to the hospital. Unfortunately, our Pastor Pat is on vacation, but I am sure that Pastor Randy Nairn is there for him and his family. The only thing we can do is to keep Phillip and his family in our prayers. Personally, I do not pray that he will just survive but survive in good shape so he can still live his life to the fullest. I know so well it is not easy for a person who is still in the prime of life to be unable to do what we know we should or want to do.

Last Saturday I once again watched one of my favorite movies, "To Kill a Mockingbird." Its hero said, "You can't understand a person unless you walk in their shoes.' Anyone who would walk in my shoes would know that I do pretty well, all things considered. Just to keep trying is a big job enough for anyone in my situation, even if my way is different from how you would do it. I hope Phillip is luckier than I and finds some who are really happy that he is still alive, not only in word. It is not hard to say "I love you or I care about you." It is much harder to find someone who still believes you are worthy of their time and willing to share their life with you.

Luckily, Charlie Ross was picking up a key for the 4-H Center that morning when Phillip collapsed and could call 911 immediately. Most of the time Phillip is busy at his work as caretaker of the center and works alone most of the time.

Ruth DiPaolo and Betty Sacra of Winchester, Va., attended a birthday dinner for Betty's cousin, Elaine Jacobs of Barton, on Sunday afternoon. Betty spent Sunday night at Ruth's home. Although mother was not up to par, she was able to host a 16th birthday for her granddaughter Caitlin on Sunday evening, attended by Caitlin's cousins and aunts and uncles, except for Barry, who had to return to his home in Frederick after a weekend visit in Frostburg and here. He was anxious to get home to take care of his cats and will return for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Speaking of that holiday, the deadline for this column is moved up so I have not too much time to write too much more.

Happy Thanksgiving to you all, and give a special thanks if you are over your 50th birthday without a major health crisis. Enjoy your family while you still can because one ugly truth I learned was that something can change everything for you without warning. Taking for granted all the blessings we have, especially your family, love, security, and independence, can turn into something very painful. Now I don't know who Joan Glotfelty Sussman is anymore, because I defined myself in my relationship with other people – my students, my children, the man in my life, and even my horse. When they are gone, what is left? Just myself. The only thing I can do now is to make the best of what is.

It was not flooding that closed Mosser Road last week. It was just that they were putting a new bridge over the Glades. It turned out that the fear about looking at Rock Lodge spring wasn't a valid excuse, as when I finally got over to it, it was in full flow. After 14 months of above-average precipitation in Pittsburgh, I am sure we got more rain and snow than they did. Speaking of Pittsburgh, at long last it looks like we might be in for a winning season for our dear old Steeler team. It seemed so long that I had heard good news about them and it seems that every weekend now it is nothing but good news.

It is interesting to me how many die-hard fans of the Pittsburgh teams are here in Garrett County, many more than for our in-state Baltimore teams. I guess it is because we get mostly Pittsburgh stations on TV and Pittsburgh is a couple hours closer than Baltimore. That is the logical reason. But I know for me it started in 1960 when the Pirates won the World Series and I can still hear Bob Prince on the radio. I was just totally in love with the players of that team, especially Roberto Clemente. Even after those players are long gone, I still transfer my loyalty to a new group of team members being led by Willie Stargel. Even as a luke warm football fan that I am, with the Steelers of the early 1970s one couldn't help but love the Steel Curtain and the Immaculate Reception by Franco Harris.

TARGET THE BUYERS!

Have you noticed how political campaigns target specific groups of voters? The needs of each group are identified and addressed separately, because politicians recognize that the voting public is not a single, generic person, but a collection of millions of personalities. Positions on Social Security are addressed to older generations, while tax incentives for business are aimed at corporate types, and so on.

That strategy is known as "target marketing." When selling your home, it could be the single most important strategy implemented by your real estate agent. Buyers have different needs, just like voters.

If your home has three bedrooms, two baths, a fenced yard, and is near schools, a family with young children might find it attractive. On the other hand, if you own an executive home on the fairway of a golf resort, it is not likely to appeal to college students.

When listing your home, ask the agent for details about the marketing plan used to attract buyers. Look for an innovative, imaginative approach to locating and attracting specific buyer groups.

Ask what advertising or promotional vehicle will be used: internet, newspaper ads, direct mail flyers, brochures? What is the plan if the first approach doesn't yield results? Target marketing is an extremely effective method of attracting homebuyers, and no one understands the process more than a real estate professional.

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Local Students Participate In "Living History"

by Jo Donaldson
Chamber of Commerce

More than 170 students from Garrett County schools and another 40 parents and teachers had a chance to step back in time to the 1750s, when future President George Washington traveled through Garrett County. Frontiersmen and Indians shared stories at a trading post and encampment during the "Living History Program" last weekend at the Western Maryland 4-H Center.

"You can get an idea what it was like then for him to be here where you are," said Robert Adamovich, who portrayed a maker of maps of the colonial frontier. The historical columnist and lecturer took students back to Washington's first expedition on the Nemacolin Trail.

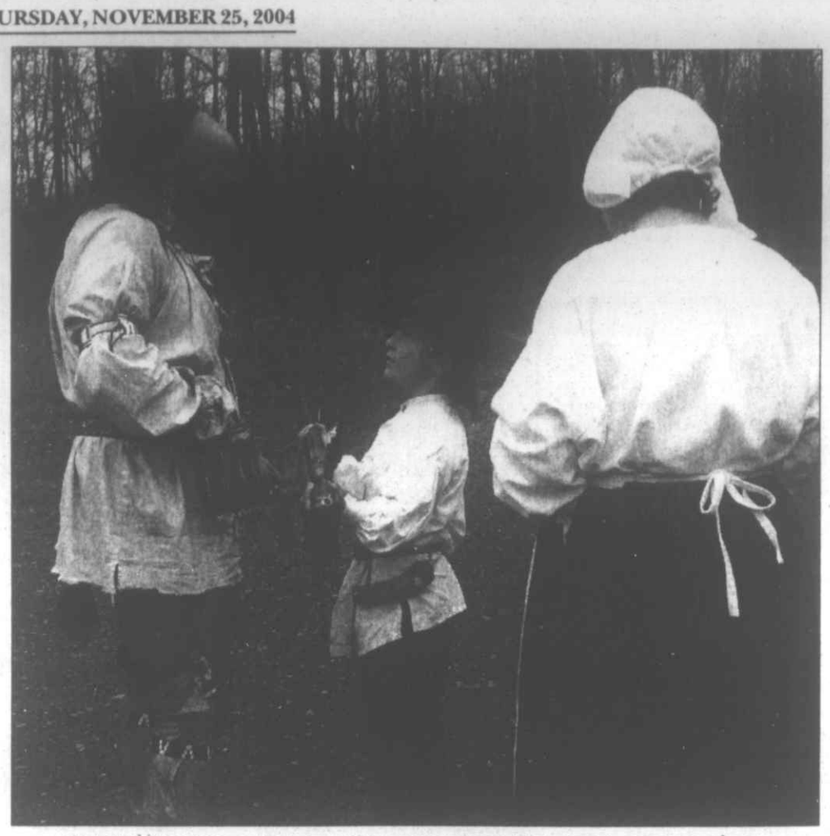
He told the groups how 21-year-old George Washington tried to deliver a letter from the governor of Virginia telling the French to leave those lands. Although he realized the French would not leave, he made detailed notes during his trip, describing the land, the people, and the distant fortifications.

Washington's report to the governor and legislators was considered among the first "shots" fired in the French and Indian War, said Adamovich.

"The significance of these events on our country's history must be recognized," said Charlie Ross, president of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce. This Living History Program recognized the 251st commemoration of Colonel George Washington's first expedition on the Nemacolin Trail, later Braddock's Trail, then the National Road, and his encampment in Garrett County as he marched to destiny in the French and Indian War.

"This is the reason we are here today," said Bob Bantz, as he held up a string of furs. Native Americans sold furs to people in Europe. Both the French and English wanted this territory.

Bantz led students and teachers on part of Braddock's Trail, originally Nemacolin Trail. The light rain did not dampen spirits.



MORE THAN 170 GARRETT COUNTY STUDENTS attended the Living History Program last weekend at the Western Maryland 4-H Center near Bittinger. Dressed in 1750s attire, re-enactors gave the students a glimpse into the life of frontiersmen, frontierswomen, and Indians living near the Nemacolin Trail. See story for details. Pictured at left Heron Indian Ghost in the Head (portrayed by Todd Johnson) teaches 6-year-old Zack Durst how to load and fire a musket, while Zack's grandmother, Jean Durst of Grantsville, looks on. Other re-enactors included Ryan Cuba, Robert Adamovich, Charlie Ross, Dave Bicker, Bill Durst, and Bob Bantz. Photo by Jo Donaldson.

"He stopped and told us how they got the wagons down," said Derrick Noble and Logan Hinebaugh of Crellin Elementary School, who were impressed with the rugged trail.

Students touched and tried to identify furs displayed around the room, along with other items from that period in history. Willy Pase, Ross Gank Jr., and Ryan White had different opinions about the stew, hardtack, pumpkin, and sassafrass tea available for tasting.

"Ghost in the Head" (a Huron Indian portrayed by Todd Johnson, who considers himself a re-creationist) told students how he had terrible nightmares. The French and elders of his tribe told him he could not get rid of them until every Englishman was dead. So he became utterly obsessed with destroying the English.

"This is great for the kids to see history come alive," said school superintendent Wendell Teets. "We are very fortunate that the chamber actively worked with the school system to present this knowledge. It is like being there."

Dave Bicker was the magistrate and Ryan Cuba was the trader. Austin Meshach Browning, Bill, Jean and Zack Durst, and even Ross (as a frontier merchant) were among others in period outfits.

"The kids were loving it," said Ross of the living history events and particularly the musket firing on Saturday morning. "I spoke with Dr. Teets, and I was encouraged by his invitation to offer this program to all other fifth grade classes and eighth grade classes in Garrett County."

Other volunteers at the event were Jack Caruthers, Tom and Juanita Browning, Connie Margison, Karen Reckner, and Paul Shogren.

Planning is beginning for more living history events in 2005. Besides this fall event, a spring program will revisit the time when Colonial militia crossed northern Garrett County in 1754 heading toward Fort Duquesne. Also, events are being planned to tie in with the 1755 Braddock's March to and from his ill-fated battle.

Exact dates and times will be announced later and information posted on the chamber's web site: garrettchamber.com.

Children Set To Perform Musical At LL Church

The Loch Lynn Church of God children's department will present "Sing a Song of Christmas" on Sunday, Dec. 12, at 6 p.m. The program is a simple musical for children that celebrates the birth of Christ using familiar carols and narrations.

Following this performance, the "Perpetual Flow Youth Ministries" will perform human videos as well as several musical numbers. The public is invited to attend.

For more information, persons may call the church office at 301-334-3221.

"Everyone loves to hear children singing, especially at Christmas, so let the joy of the season ring as the children present 'Sing a Song of Christmas,'" said a spokesperson.

Garrett County's Recycling Rates Increase In '03

The Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) has completed its review of Garrett County's Maryland Recycling Act (MRA). Tonnage Report for calendar year 2003. Garrett County achieved a recycling rate of 18.9 percent, with a source reduction rate of 19.9 percent, which is an increase from the 2002 rate of 16.06 percent, or a source reduction rate of 17.06 percent, according to General Services' Solid Waste & Recycling Division.

The MRA requires that Garrett County divert at least 15 percent of its waste to recycling programs. All counties in Maryland report their recycling tonnages to the MDE for review and approval.

Though the county's recycling rates increased in 2003, it still has the lowest rates in the state, according to the MDE. The division, however, has plans to increase those numbers.

"Although Garrett County has reached the mandated 15 percent in recycling, it is our goal to surpass last year's recycling rate by encouraging more residents and businesses to not only recycle, but to also reduce waste at the source," said Kimberly Madigan, recycling coordinator for Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling.

In the 2000 session of the Maryland General Assembly, the Senate passed a joint resolution creating a voluntary statewide waste diversion goal of 40 percent. This goal consists of a 35 percent recycling rate and up to 5 percent credit for source reduction. Taking the source reduction credits into account, Maryland achieved a 39.6 percent statewide diversion rate, Madigan noted.

Source reduction means the design, manufacture, purchase, or use of materials or products to reduce the amount of waste generated. It includes reuse, waste elimination, package reduction, and substitution. Examples include using rags instead of paper towels, packing lunches in reusable containers, and donating usable items to those in need.

"Garrett County residents and businesses have accomplished improvement in their recycling efforts over the last two years," Madigan said. "There is a genuine interest in preserving the natural resources and beauty found in Garrett County."

As a reminder to residents and businesses, recycling is offered in Garrett County free of charge. A sticker is not required to recycle at any of the seven

Local Woman Injured In Farm Accident

A Swanton woman was treated and released from Garrett County Memorial Hospital last night after she was thrown from the back of a tractor along with a load of hay, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Linda Carolyn Paugh received minor injuries after she fell off the tractor when the tractor and load of hay swayed, causing it to shift, said police. The tractor was operated by her husband, William Paugh.

No charges were filed in the 8 p.m. incident.

THE MAGIC OF THE SEASON — It's hard to believe that the holidays are so very close, but indeed the time is nearly here. As each day passes, the anticipation builds, especially for the younger ones among us. And what can fuel that excitement better than a beautiful miniature train display? This is the handiwork of Scott Atwill, who builds the popular scene each Christmas in downtown Oakland. He's going to have to do it forever because it has become such an important part of the season for local children (and adults, too). It will be completed for this Friday evening's Christmas on Main Street celebration in the town, beginning at 5 p.m. Such celebrations are happening all across the county. Christmas in Friendsville will also be held Friday evening, and there will be a community Christmas party in Gorman on Saturday evening. A number of festivities and celebrations are slated all month. See today's special publication, Home for the Holidays, for more information. Thanks for another wonderful display, Mr. Atwill! Agencies Meet To Prepare For Winter Operations

Several local and state agencies recently met prior to the regular Traffic Advisory Committee meeting to review and discuss operational issues for the upcoming winter season.

Items of discussion included plans for school closings and delays, mutual-aid agreements, emergency declarations, and notification procedures.

The agencies remind all residents and visitors that it is illegal to park a vehicle on roadways or shoulders designated as snow emergency routes, which includes all county and state roads in Garrett County, when the Snow Emergency Plan is in effect. Furthermore, county roads may remain under a snow emergency after the state plan has been lifted.

"Failure to comply with this regulation may result in the vehicle being removed at the owner's expense," said Brad Frantz, director of Garrett County Emergency Management.

County and state crews are not authorized to plow private roads and driveways, and residents should contact a private snow removal contractor for such services. Crews will, if possible, clear a private drive only to allow for an emergency police, fire, or EMS vehicle to gain access to a residence, added Frantz.

Those attending the winter operations meeting were representatives from Emer-

Senate Panel, Ehrlich's Study Group Both Propose Malpractice Solutions

by Ryan Spass
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - A Senate panel is proposing to cap damages in medical malpractice cases where a patient dies and to freeze awards for pain and suffering in lawsuits against doctors and hospitals.

The Senate Special Commission on Medical Malpractice Liability Insurance said it hopes the five tort provisions it recommended Wednesday, along with work it did earlier on patient safety and insurance, will be hammered into legislation in time for any special session of the Maryland General Assembly.

Gov. Robert Ehrlich, Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert and House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel, agree a special session is needed before Jan. 1, but disagree on the provisions of a bill. The General Assembly is scheduled to convene its regular session on Jan 12.

The medical malpractice problem is acute. Doctors rallied in the capital Wednesday before the Senate panel's meeting to call attention to the fact that their premiums — up 33 percent — were also due Wednesday.

One doctor said he will close his practice Jan. 1 because he can no longer afford liability insurance. The Senate task force recommended freezing the pain-and-suffering damage cap at $650,000 and reducing the cap in death cases from $1.6 million to $975,000.

It also proposed mandatory mediation before medical malpractice trials, sanctions against attorneys pressing frivolous cases and forbidding admission in court of any apology by a doctor. The committee did not vote on the proposals, but a majority of the 12 members supported the recommendations.

"Yeah, these aren't perfect . . ." said Sen. Lisa Gladden, D-Baltimore City. "Let us try these five recommendations. If they don't work, let's come back next year and try again."

It is the second task force in two weeks to make recommendations for medical malpractice reforms.

Gov. Robert Ehrlich's study panel released its proposals Nov. 24, including a provision to lower pain-and-suffering damage awards to $500,000.

The governor's malpractice commission also proposed establishing a funding pool to help pay for rising insurance rates, but did not specify the source of the money. Ehrlich opposes a plan supported by the Senate panel to impose a 2 percent HMO tax.

Ehrlich's task force also recommends limiting attorney's fees, a stipulation not addressed by the Senate committee.

The two task forces concur on patient safety reforms, such as imposing a fine on hospitals that fail to report negligence and requiring the losing party to pay costs for a trial.

They also agree that insurance companies providing medical malpractice liability coverage be required to submit an annual report. However, they disagree on the recipient of

Shuttle Service Now Operating In Grantsville

A new public transportation shuttle service for the Grantsville area has been inaugurated by the Garrett Transit Service (GTS). The 12-passenger shuttle, which will run twice daily, includes the town's apartment complexes, library, medical center, drug store, and restaurants.

In order to introduce the public to the new service, which began on Nov. 22, GTS is not charging any fares for passengers until Monday, Dec. 13.

The twice-daily run connects the Grantsville Senior Center and the Grantsville Plaza, and riders can get on and off as many times as they choose just by asking the driver. A one-time daily fare of $2 enables passengers to ride the shuttle all day.

The route begins at 9:30 a.m. on weekdays (no weekend service) at the Grantsville Senior Center and travels a fixed route through the town to the Grantsville Plaza, arriving there at 10:15 a.m. to conclude its

Commissioners Hear Agency, Staff Reports

The Garrett County commissioners held their November staff meeting this week, hearing reports from 15 county government offices and agencies. Some of the topics discussed were the county's new sexual assault response team, influenza vaccines, economic development, and bear claims.

Dove Center

Heather Hanline, Dove Center director, reported that her staff had been working with Garrett County Memorial Hospital to retain a forensics nurse. Cathy Chapman, CRNP, of the Garrett Medical Group will be available to examine sexual assault victims. Special equipment was also recently purchased through two foundations for her to use.

Hanline also noted that Garrett County's first sexual assault response team had been formed. In addition to Chapman, the team includes the state's attorney, Garrett Bureau of Investigation officers, Dove Center staff, and Garrett County Department of Social Services personnel.

Garrett County was one of only three counties in the state that did not have a sexual assault response program, Hanline noted. Previously, victims had to be transported to Cumberland or Morgantown, W.Va., to be examined, which created even more trauma for the victims. Sometimes victims did not want to examined after finding out that they had to travel out of the county, Hanline noted.

She said now, hopefully, the program will help lower the trauma for victims and assist the state's attorney in handling their cases.

The response team is developing protocols on how to handle sexual assault cases. Hanline said the goal is to establish a set of procedures for the cases, regardless of whom the victim first contacts, such as the sheriff's office, hospital, or social services.

Health Department

Health Officer Rodney Glotfelty said the two recent influenza clinics at the Garrett County Health Department went well. More than 480 scheduled persons were waiting for shots at one point, but have been vaccinated "without much fuss," he noted. Health Department personnel even vaccinated some elderly patients who were in their cars outside the facility, he added.

Of the original 2,000 residents a waiting list for vaccines, 1,173 received them during the clinics, according to Glotfelty. Because of a vaccine shortage, those on the list were prioritized based on age and health

Local Lawmakers Hear Residents' Concerns, Discuss Legislative Issues

Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards, House minority leader, held their annual prelegislative meeting for the public Monday evening at Garrett College. The event was co-sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Garrett County.

The local lawmakers listened to residents' concerns and discussed some of the issues to be addressed in the Maryland General Assembly. The 419th session will begin on Wednesday, Jan. 12, and adjourn 90 days later on April 11.

"The state is still broke, but not as much as before," Edwards said. Last year, law makers were able to reduce the budgetary deficit, but it's still $300 million, he noted.

"I don't see any major cuts this year," he added. "It's the coming year we have to worry about." But the economy is expected to keep improving and revenues to increase, which will help, he said.

Another major issue facing the General Assembly this year is medical malpractice insurance reform. Medical liability premiums for physicians who deliver more than 30 babies a year are expected to increase 86 percent on Jan. 1.

"We're losing doctors," Edwards said about the increase's effect on Garrett County.

The House passed a medical malpractice reform bill last year, "but the Senate didn't do anything with it," he noted.

Hafer indicated that getting a bill passed this year will again be difficult. "It seems trial lawyers have been very generous to Democrats," he said.

The local lawmakers said several tort reform bills are being drafted by various legislators and that the governor had some ideas on the subject. Edwards said if the "three head honchos" – Gov. Bob Ehrlich, Senate President Mike Miller, and House Speaker Michael Busch – can agree on one bill, it will be the one that can make it through the legislative process.

Accident School Receives $7,233.68 For Performance On MSA Exam

Accident Elementary School was one of 562 elementary, middle, and high schools across the state recently recognized by the Maryland State Department of Education for the academic performance of its students. Accident was the only school honored in Garrett County.

The recognition program recognizes schools for its overall performance on the 2004 Maryland School Assessment (MSA) and for improving the performance of special populations of students from the 2003 MSA to the 2004 MSA.

Special populations include race/ethnicity, special education, limited English proficiency, and students who are receiving free or reduced price meals. The program, established by the Maryland General Assembly in 1996, is now required by the federal No Child Left Behind Act of 2001 (NCLB).

Title 1 elementary and middle schools will each receive a modest financial award. Accident Elementary will receive $7,233.68. All recognized schools will receive certificates of recognition for public display.

"The School Recognition Program allows us to acknowledge the success of staff and students in raising the performance levels of all students," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "Once again, we share our pride in Maryland Public Schools for improving the performance of their special populations and for their overall achievement."

About 25% of the schools are being recognized for overall achievement and 25% for showing improvement among special populations. Some schools are among the top 25% in both categories. The recognized Title I schools will receive small monetary awards that

Hunter Dies Of Apparent Natural Causes Monday

A Harford County man succumbed to an apparent heart attack early Monday morning while camping along Meadow Mountain on the outskirts of the Savage River State Forest. The incident is under investigation by the Maryland State Police, among other agencies.

Charles Frederick Wagner Sr., 57, Edgewood, was camped along a snowmobile trail in the vicinity of Otto Lane and West Shale Road when, around 3 a.m., his hunting partner stated that he awoke as Wagner was complaining of chest pains. Wagner lost consciousness, and his partner called 9-1-1, and upon arrival paramedics found only a slight heartbeat.

No further information was provided by the MSP McHenry barrack.

Deer Strikes Car In Oakland, Injuring Driver

A deer ran into downtown Oakland's main thoroughfare Saturday afternoon and into an oncoming vehicle, injuring the driver. Oakland police officers investigated the 4:45 p.m. incident.

Amber Hardesty, 24, Oakland, was traveling south on Third Street near Gregg's Pharmacy when the deer ran into the path of her 1996 Hyundai. Hardesty was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue squad.

No charges were filed.

Christmas Bird Count Slated In Central Garrett

The Garrett County segment of the National Audubon Society's 105th annual Christmas Bird Count (CBC) is slated for Saturday, Dec. 18. The count area will encompass a designated circle with a diameter of 15 miles centered near Deep Creek Lake, comprising approximately 177 square miles.

The Garrett County CBC is open to birders of all skill levels, and local residents can participate by serving either as field observers or feeder watchers. Field observers will move from place to place in the area recording the number and species of each bird seen and heard, while feeder watchers count the number and species of birds that come to their feeder. Each counter also records the number of hours they spend watching birds.

Over 55,000 volunteers from all 50 states, every Canadian province, parts of Central and South America, Bermuda, the West Indies, and Pacific Islands count and record every individual bird and bird species seen in a specified area. Each count group completes a census of the birds found during one 24-hour period between Dec. 14 and Jan. 5 in a designated circle 15 miles in diameter.

CBC compilers enter their count data via Audubon's web site at www.audubon.org/bird/cbc, where count results from 1900 to the present are available, or through the Bird Studies Canada's homepage at www.bsc-eoc.org, where the 105th Count results will be viewable in near real-time.

"The annual CBC is vital in monitoring the status of resident and migratory birds across the Western Hemisphere," said CBC director Geoff LeBaron. "The data, 100 percent volunteer generated, have become a crucial part of the U.S. government's natural history monitoring database. Articles published in the 103rd CBC issue of American Birds helped ornithologists better understand the magnitude of the effects of West Nile virus on regional bird populations."

To volunteer for the Garrett County CBC, persons may call Connie Skipper at 301-387-5227, or Fran Pope at 301-334-4908.

Correction Noted To Collision Story

An account of a motor vehicle accident that appeared in last week's paper was incorrectly reported. The Tuesday, Nov. 23, collision was investigated by the Maryland State Police.

Timothy Allen Kisner, 22, Oakland, was driving a 1985 Mack trash truck on Sandy Shore Road when he allegedly failed to yield the right of way at the four-way intersection with Shingle Camp Road. Kisner entered the intersection just as a 1990 Mercury Topaz operated by Randall Dean Dumire, 44, Mtn. Lake Park, approached. Kisner's truck, which pulled in front of the oncoming Mercury, caught the sedan's front end beneath the Mack's undercarriage.

Dumire was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

Kisner was charged by the investigating trooper for causing the accident by failing to yield right of way.

Friday Rollovers Attributed To Ice-Covered Roads

Authorities cited icy road surfaces as the cause of two separate single-vehicle accidents Friday morning in northern Garrett County.

The first accident occurred at 7:20 a.m. near New Germany State Park, according to Department of Natural Resources park rangers. Three youths were injured in the mishap.

Christine Slaughbaugh, 41, Eglon, W.Va., was driving north on New Germany Road when she hit a patch of ice south of Fairview Road and lost control of her 1997 Chevrolet Blazer. When the SUV started sliding, she reportedly overcorrected and hit an embankment, causing the vehicle to roll onto its side.

Slaughbaugh's three passengers – her 18- and 13-year-old daughters and a 14-year-old friend of the family – were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of minor injuries. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed by the investigating park ranger.

The second crash occurred at 10:47 a.m. on Hoyes Run Road, when two western Pennsylvania men were injured when their pickup truck rolled over after hitting a patch of ice, according to Maryland State Police troopers stationed at the McHenry barrack.

Harry Readshaw, 68, Pittsburgh, was traveling south approaching Oakland Sang Run Road when he lost control of his 1999 Ford Ranger after striking an icy patch. The truck left the roadway and struck an embankment, and overturned.

Readshaw and his passenger, Harry Readshaw IV, 38, Coraopolis, Pa., were both transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad to Garrett Memorial Hospital. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed by the investigating trooper.

first leg. The shuttle then returns to the senior center via the same route, arriving there at 11 a.m. The second run begins at 11:30 a.m. when the shuttle departs from the senior center, and concludes at 1 p.m. upon returning to the senior center.

"There is a great need for public transportation in the Grantsville area," said GTS director John Hill. "This new shuttle will enable individuals to go to doctor appointments, shopping, visiting, or any other destination in Grantsville for a very affordable price."

The route schedules for the new service are posted at many locations in Grantsville, or persons may call the Garrett Transit Service at 301-334-9431 or toll free at 1-888-877-8403. GTS is an agency of Garrett County Community Action.

World-Class Kayaker To Speak At GC

Business executive, entrepreneur, environmentalist, and world-class kayaker Risa Shimoda will be the speaker at the December colloquium of the Adventuresports Institute at Garrett College, slated for 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8, in Room 224 of Garrett College's Continuing Education building. The free, one-hour event is open to the public.

Shimoda, who is a board member of the Adventure Sports Center International, will focus on the vulnerability and opportunity associated with the business of emerging sports, particularly the paddle sports industry. A regular paddler on creeks and streams in and around Garrett County, Shimoda said she enjoys being a role model for the growing number of women who are discovering a love for paddling.

Shimoda has been an avid whitewater boater since 1979, competing in slalom, freestyle, and squirt boating. She has been a member of the elite Precision Kayak Demonstration Team and presented an exhibition at the 1989 Whitewater World Championships, which were held on the Savage River. convenient refuse disposal and recycling sites. Materials that may be recycled are newspapers, telephone books with covers removed, glass bottles and jars (clear, green, and brown), aluminum cans, #1 and #2 plastic jugs and bottles, office paper, used motor oil, and antifreeze.

For a list of locations or additional information on recycling in Garrett County, persons may call 301-387-0322 or visit the Solid Waste & Recycling Division's web site at garrettcounty.org.

To promote more recycling in the county, Madigan will be working with schools and county government offices. Additional recycling containers will be purchased and placed at the facilities to encourage students and workers to recycle cardboard, newspapers, office paper, and aluminum cans.

She also wants to provide more "fun" educational programs for students of all ages. A magic show with a recycling theme is planned for next spring in some of the local schools.

The division is also planning to hold another electronics recycling event in the spring. Unlike the previous "e-cycling" event held last spring, businesses will be able to participate this time, Madigan noted.

To further promote recycling, the Solid Waste & Recycling Division will build a recycling processing center at the Garrett County Landfill. Gary Love, the division's supervisor, said the facility will be a 18 foot by 120 foot pole building constructed on a concrete slab.

Materials such as card board, magazines, and tin cans would be dumped separately into a compacter, baled, loaded into trailers, and then shipped directly to facilities that use the materials. Love said the direct shipment will help eliminate the "middle man" and reduce the cost of recycling.

Construction of the recycling center could begin next spring.

Stop the Wind Turbines...

After reading about and listening to the debate over giant wind turbines for a number of weeks now, it is the opinion of this writer that they are not a good idea for Garrett County, and we should do what we can to keep them out of here.

There are a variety of reasons to oppose these things, including the apparent destruction of birds and bats, light pollution, and noise pollution. So far we have not seen piles of dead birds and bats at the base of any of the wind turbines that are already in place, even though there is now evidently some pretty good data to show that they are indeed wiping out a lot of bats. (Bats are our friends, as they consume billions of bugs.) We all know that automobiles kill far more birds than wind turbines, and the levels of light and noise pollution are also not extremely significant.

However, there are two major reasons that we should oppose their erection here on the mountaintop. We have far too much at stake here, as we depend so heavily upon the tourist trade and, like it or not, the sale of real estate to folks who are looking for a second home or a retirement location, away from the hubbub of where they may reside right now. As impressive as those monsters are to look at, do we really want to have scores of miles of our horizons permanently lined with them? There is no question that property values are going to suffer. Their use in the vast areas of the West and Midwest makes more sense, as they can be positioned on tracts of remote land that are virtually worthless for any other use.

The second major reason to oppose the turbines is the fact that the amount of energy produced, even by dozens of them, is so tiny relative to the amount of electrical energy that is demanded. Their impact on the electrical grid is miniscule. We are all for harnessing energy and turning it into electricity with almost no environmental hazards to our land, water, and air as a result, but the investment — thousands of enormous wind turbines atop our mountain ridges — is simply not worth the return.

The county commissioners have so far generally endorsed the construction of the wind turbines because the county will realize a rather hefty check in return, but, gentlemen, it's not worth it. Besides, we are no longer a poor county, and you guys are doing an excellent job of managing the county funds without allowing wind turbines.

To the Editor:

I think every state's schools including Garrett County's should be closed on Veterans Day. We should have and show respect to those who fought for us in those tragic wars. We lost many and many of the ones who are living are scarred for life. We need to take time to think about them and what they've done for our country. If it weren't for them, who knows where we would be this very day?

Sincerely
Alisha Harvey

WALKING THROUGH WORLDS – PART 1

The propaganda has it that there is one University of Paris with 15 campuses. In fact, there are 15 universities of Paris, each independent and jealous of the others, and yet all regulated by a central bureaucracy somewhere in the bowels of French government.

The idea was, 40 years ago, to create these campuses as magnets of certain disciplines. Hard sciences would be located on one campus, social sciences on another, humanities on a third, and on and on. Paris-X at Nanterre, a suburb of Paris, was to be the home of philosophy.

The Sorbonne, Paris-I, argued that it had been the home of philosophical tutelage since the 12th century, and should continue that tradition. Thus, instead of one school of philosophy, there were to be two, one at Nanterre and the other at the Sorbonne.

Fast forward to A.D. 2004 when Jeffrey Wilson goes to Paris: There are outstanding people at both universities, and he would like to take courses at both. Not only would he like to take courses at both, but he would like to receive credit for those courses.

C'est-moi, Jeffrey Wilson!

I had permission from the professor at the Sorbonne to take his course, but because it was a doctoral level course, I had to have administrative permission as well. The first stage of this was to go to the Sorbonne, where the registrar for philosophy kindly gave me a letter, signed and sealed, which said I was registered, but that I had to complete my registration elsewhere.

One Friday I set out to elsewhere, in the 13th arrondissement – a part of Paris where I had not yet been – in order to complete my registration. I presented the requisite documents necessary in order to wait in the first line. Fifteen minutes later I arrived at the desk of the functionary, an obese and much pierced young man who, when I said that my name was Wilson, said in English, "Do you mean 'Wilson?' If you're English, you're always English." Yes, welcome to France – again.

I then went to the second line, which took about the same amount of time, before being permitted to enter a room – not quite a holy of holies but you get the idea – where there were five chairs for an additional period of waiting, as it turned out – only a few minutes.

I have a theory that no one really lives any longer than anybody else. Longevity gains are merely God's way of making up for the time we spend waiting in line.

In this office, a young woman about the age of my daughters interviewed me. She put me through the usual drill (my date and place of birth are recorded in hundreds of files by now), and then said I would have to pay 150 Euros. I explained that this could not be correct. I was, after all, a student of the University of Paris, campus 10 at Nanterre.

She went to find a supervisor who was also cheerful and friendly, and who told me one of the great French lies, like the American "The check is in the mail." "You may be able to get a reimbursement later," she said, "but today you have to pay." So I thought, "Okay, I'll pay today, but I'll get it back later." Upon reflection, it might be wise not to hold my breath.

So I went onto the next line where I was to pay the 150 Euros and receive my student card, my second student card since I already had one for Paris-X. When it was my turn, this latest functionary told me that neither of my credit cards was any good, that cash was no good. I could pay by check, drawn on a French bank, or by money order from the post office.

The post office, as it turned out, was a quarter of a mile and a world away. Suddenly I was in the Far East. One after another there were Chinese and Vietnamese restaurants, groceries, travel agents and video stores.

I arrived at the post office, where there was another line. When it was my turn, the clerk told me, I could not use my ATM card inside the post office, but if I went outside, there was an ATM machine where I could use it. So I went outside, extracted my cash, then came back inside to get my money order, and then back to the university administration building to pay and finally receive my student card for the Sorbonne.

While I am always more or less hungry, by then it was the time of day when it is fitting to be hungry.

There were all those exotic restaurants I had passed, many of them pas cher, as the French say – "not expensive." I returned to one of them. It looked like a small box sitting on the plaza between two modern apartment high-rises.

Like a signal to the initiated, cut-out letters were pasted on the window: "PHÔ." I opened the door and walked through, as if through Alice's looking glass.

To be continued next week.

HOW CAN WE MAKE YOU UNDERSTAND?

Picture this: A room full of mothers, together for some motherly reason, with a little time on their hands. What will they talk about? Maybe men in their life, or how busy everyone is, how tired everyone is, how their kids are doing. All of that, yes. One topic, though, will set the room abuzz with dynamic discussion. It will bring laughter and may just as easily bring tears. While one woman talks with animated gestures, the others will listen, sometimes even perched on the edge of their chairs. And what is this captivating topic? Childbirth, of course — the topic we mothers can discuss until the cows not only come home, but are milked, fed, and tucked in for the night.

How we love to tell our stories, to relive and repeat our very own life and death adventures. And why not? Childbirth is a defining event for every single mother, I don't care who she is. It is a ride she takes alone, even though she is surrounded by nurses, at least one doctor, husbands, mothers — she is alone on her own path. And she must perform. She must see it through. It is her moment, and it is life-altering.

So of course we love to tell it, and we love to hear it. We all belong to the same sorority in this, and we can empathize better than anyone else. When we talk about it, we strive to express how remarkable it was. We try to tell how much it hurt, how hard we had to work, and how exquisite it was to hear that first noise from the little person who up until that second was joined to us in the most amazing and mysterious way.

When I had our first son, I remember feeling frustrated because I knew all the doctors and nurses around me, caring for me and my precious cargo for months — they did this all the time, and my pregnancy and my baby were not new to them. I wanted to shout that I was pregnant, I wanted everyone to see how wonderful this was. But I was certainly aware that I was one of many women in the same place, and of course one of the trillions of women before me on this planet to do the same thing. And not that I wasn't cared for with expertise and true concern. I do not believe that a woman can get any better prenatal and birth care than she can through the medical professionals in Garrett County, and at the maternity suite at Garrett County Memorial Hospital. I will never understand why anyone would choose to go out of the county for that. I had three babies in that hospital, after months of care from Dr. Karl Schwalm and Dr. Patty Gotsch, and some others no longer here. I wouldn't trade that experience for anything. And if any reader is pregnant now and wondering if she should seek care locally, I can say with confidence that she will not find a better place.

But back to the frustration of expressing oneself. We mothers each have our journey and we want to express it, so we do talk about it and relive it from time to time throughout our lives. Talking about it helps us gain reassurance that other mothers do indeed have a good idea of what we each experienced, and that gives us a sense of being understood. And that, in turn, gives us satisfaction and peace.

Now we face a crisis here in Garrett County — one that surely most people are now aware — and one that the lawmakers of this state must understand. The local obstetrics professionals — who could move to cities and make far more money than they do here in the mountains — are facing ridiculous medical malpractice insurance premiums. If they want to be insured in their work (and they must be insured to work in our hospital, of course), then they must be willing to pay thousands and thousands of dollars into malpractice insurance. And this is because people of our country are suing doctors, at the encouragement of trial lawyers, for millions and millions of dollars every year. And the insurance companies are not innocent. They, too, milk the system for every possible dollar, to protect their own companies, they say, but also because there is money to be made, and they are certainly making it, hand over fist.

Doctors are human beings. They do make mistakes. Sometimes they make terrible mistakes, and there are some out there in the world who probably should not be practicing. For that percentage, we do need recourse when those horrible mistakes happen. But I believe the vast majority of them are a hardworking lot, putting themselves in dire situations constantly, routinely on call, and ready to help most of the time, especially those who live in rural areas where there are not 50 doctors to chose from. And they are facing the possible end to practicing obstetrics in Garrett County. It is not an overstatement, it is not a threat. It's a fact. We are in crisis, like it or not, and we must make every legislator of this state understand. Yes, babies will be delivered for the coming year because the hospital board has figured out a plan to help cover the doctors that long. After that, if still so few are listening, then baby delivering will stop here. And that, in a nutshell, will lead to an increase in our infant mortality rate. Simply put, babies will die because of the lack of services. Some mothers will die, too.

Unfortunately, human nature causes us to often put off what should be preventatively addressed, and it seems as if some of our state senators are doing just that, not listening to us, not understanding. Some seem to be getting it, but others still are ignoring their rural neighbors. They do not understand our demographics here, they do not realize how far we would actually have to travel to give birth. They look only at the cities, maybe figuring that the majority of Marylanders live there anyway, so the rural folks should just get with the program.

What truly lies at the bottom of the entire situation, though, is simple. Greed. Greed on the part of lawyers, insurance companies, and yes, even many of those doing the suing. The love of money is the root of all evil, the Bible says, and this is certainly solid evidence of that. The verse goes on to say that those who do covet money have "pierced themselves through with many sorrows." How true.

Legislators, make a difference. Change the world. You can do it. And you are apparently paying some attention — we have reports of that in this issue. But more must be done. Residents, write to them. Tell them to put aside any allegiance to fellow trial lawyers or insurance moguls, tell them to seriously consider the babies of the rural places of Maryland. Make them understand. This is about nothing less than life. Everyone must work to grasp the system and wrench it back to the place of reason. Today.

KITZMILLER YOUNGSTERS LEARNS ABOUT FIRE SAFETY – Students at Kitzmiller Elementary School recently learned about fire prevention when Jim Browning, mayor and second assistant fire chief, visited the school. Browning discussed fire safety and showed the students his fire fighting equipment and uniform. The school, in partnership with the Kitzmiller Lions Club, also sponsored a pizza party for the entire school. Browning is pictured above giving some students an up close look at his suit.

conditions. Glotfelty noted that the department administered 1,600 flu shots last year.

The department's original allotment from the state was 800, but was able to acquire more vaccines. As a result, the Health Department was also able to give flu shots to 200 critical care patients in local nursing homes and assisted living facilities, the director noted.

Economic Development

Frank Shap, Garrett County Department of Economic Development, said American Woodmark is expected to begin constructing its facility at the Keyser's Ridge Industrial Park in the spring and be in operation by the fall.

He also reported that Phenix Technologies had begun moving operations into its new facility in the Central Garrett Industrial Park in Accident. Once the move is complete, the county will begin marketing Phenix's old plant, which is located near the new facility. Shap said there had been some interest expressed already in the old plant.

An agricultural product manufacturer has also expressed interest in the shell building owned by the Maryland Economic Development Corporation, Shap reported. That facility is located in the Southern Garrett Business Technology Park near Mountain Lake Park.

Economic Development director Jim Hinebaugh noted recently that ClosetMaid was still planning to build a facility in the Northern Garrett Industrial Park in Grantsville. Some incentives that the state offered to company to build there will expire soon. In order not to lose those incentives, Hinebaugh said, ClosetMaid needs to begin construction by summer 2005.

Extension Office

County Extension Office director Ann Sherrard told the commissioners that bear claims for damaged crops were down this year. Only three farmers reported damage to their corn and oats. She said most of the claims were filed before the one-day bear hunt last month. She also noted that the low number of claims may be because of an abundance of other available foods for the bears.

To the Editor:

On behalf of the hospital, all local physicians, and our area residents, we want to publicly express our appreciation for the quality and extensiveness of your newspaper's coverage of the local medical malpractice crisis. Our ability to educate the public and call them to action was greatly enhanced by your willingness to cover this important public health issue, and your ongoing exposure will hopefully motivate our downstate legislative leaders to find a solution to our obstetrics threat as well as general malpractice reform.

Your newspaper's activism in this instance (as well as others in the past and future) makes your paper more than just a digest of area happenings; it makes you the beacon of change and advocacy for those without a voice. Thank you for accepting this role on behalf of all of us.

Yours truly,
Wayne R. Johnson,
Chairman
Garrett County Memorial Hospital Board of Governors
Donald Battista
President/CEO

To the Editor:

Thank you for sending me the November 18th edition of your newspaper. It is obvious from the extensiveness of your coverage that the medical liability insurance crisis in Maryland is of vital importance to your community, as it is to my own constituents. It needs to be addressed, and I fully support reform.

Unfortunately, I have yet to have an opportunity to vote on any bill on this issue. I believe in straightforward honesty, so let me tell you where the problem lies.

The Democratic leadership has blocked all attempts by the governor or members of the Republican Caucus from introducing the needed legislation. Recently Senate President Mike Miller, who happens to be a trial lawyer, has decided to change the make-up of the committee which will decide on this issue by removing Senator Brochin, who supports the doctors, and replacing him with another senator, who is a member of Peter Angelos' law firm.

I have only one vote, and do not have the power to manipulate the system, but my one vote is with you, to help protect our communities from losing health care professionals.

Sincerely yours,
Rick Impallaria
Delegate
7th District

To the Editor:

Let me add a note of caution to the increasing diatribe about frivolous law suits and insurance rates. The high-dollar awards by jury panels in medical and injury law suits are only a small fraction of the money that the insurance companies are now trying to recoup by raising their rates. The major insurance companies have generally returned very good dividends to their shareholders. But during the 1990s they invested heavily in the stock market and sustained heavy losses when the market crashed at the end of that decade. They are now trying to replace the money lost in those investments by raising our rates, and not just for malpractice insurance.

All insurance rates have risen, some dramatically, and most without any justification of jury awards.

While it is clear that some, but certainly not all, medical and injury awards are frivolous, and some, but not all, are excessive, the remedy for the problem does not lie solely in "tort reform." The policies and actions of the insurance companies need to be more closely scrutinized and regulated so that we can be sure that they are not playing fast and loose with the money they are, in essence, holding in trust for us.

To the Editor:

"Those who cannot remember the past are condemned to repeat it." – George Santayana (1863-1952), Life of Reason.

Mr. Santayana was not a cliché; he was an original thinker of celebrated renown in his own time, and even more so in memoriam.

The thought Santayana's provocative insight provokes in me, as a former teacher and near history major, is: You cannot remember your past if you have never been taught it. Or, if you have been taught a variant, and its context has been distorted with leftist propaganda and deliberately compiled with critically important blatant omissions, what does that portend for those so "enlightened"? Even more important, what does such a fraudulent reality suggest for the future...or the longevity of a country so deliberately put at risk by leftist inspired dogma, half truths, and flat-out lies by so-called educators throughout academia—and a totally disingenuous, dishonest really, "mainstream" media in denial of our heritage and even our humanity?

Our "...one of a kind Constitution...," supposedly the Law of the Land, has been reduced to a heart-breaking sham. Thanks to the left, it casts but a mere shadow of its true, but now only former, majesty. It has become little more than a moldering monument to the predilections of too many self-absorbed men and women in black robes barely bothering to cloak their individual agendas. We should all know by now that when judges make law from the bench, the people are no longer free.

As Joseph Sobran, the columnist and Constitutionalist, so aptly puts it: "We now live in a 'Post Constitutional America'...where the U.S. Constitution poses no serious threat to our present form of government."

Sobran goes on to profoundly say, "What is even worse is that our Constitution illiteracy cuts us off from our national heritage and the national genius of our founders. Our children today, in order to learn the truth, have to first unlearn so much of what they are taught in the name of our Constitution, political history or American history, which is mostly just so much liberal propaganda. Sometimes this is deliberate. Even worse, sometimes it Isn't."

Our schools are failing primarily because the left has succeeded, with the aid of a whole host of willing fools, in making them liberal indoctrination centers; not places of learning and honest debate.

This all must change if our beloved nation is to survive with our founders' imprimatur, and original intent, still within hailing distance. Otherwise, our enemies within, and without, win; game, set, match!

Cordially,
Ronald R. Rowan

We would like to thank Dr. Johnson, Dr. Goralski, and the third floor nurses and staff of Garrett County Memorial Hospital for the care and kindness shown to Peggy DiSimone during her last illness.

A special thanks to all our friends who sent flowers, visited at the Funeral Home, sent food, especially Browning's Foodland, and all those who called expressing care and sympathy.

Thank you for helping our family through a very difficult time in our lives. We cherish your friendship.

The DiSimone Family

Thank You

In this Thanksgiving season I wish to thank everyone at Dennett Road Manor for the care and love that you have shown my mother, Beatrice Faye Paugh. In her passing it changes much in my world and I am sure yours also.

All of you show great care and I see that you work hard. Unfortunately in your job I am sure you are often not appreciated. I want to assure you I am eternally grateful for all you have done.

The truth is I have grown to love all of you as I have spent time amongst you. Wherever in this world I shall be I will always think of you. You will be in my heart and prayers forever.

This community is blessed to have a facility and staff that shows such professional and caring ways. I have never encountered a single group of people who are or were so loving and dedicated. Thank you from the bottom of my heart.

In 1943, the couple moved to Cumberland, where Mr. Johnson served as district forester for the Maryland Department of Forests and Parks.

In 1960, the Johnsons moved to Severna Park when Mr. Johnson became assistant state forester. In 1963, he was appointed superintendent of the Maryland State Park Service. Mr. Johnson passed away in 1990.

Adorable Adoptables

READY FOR A NEW HOME is this male longhaired orange and white cat, pictured above left. He's already neutered, but needs to be vaccinated. His owners had to give him up because they are moving out of town. Pictured above center is Puddles, a female tabby with white. She is 5 years old, spayed, and declawed – so she will have to stay inside. Several dogs are also available for adoption from the Garrett County Animal Shelter. A medium size female hound/Lab mix was found near Turkey Neck Road. She is wearing a blue collar and is described as having a nice personality. Below is a male Doberman mix who was left at the shelter after hours, so there is no information about him. He is large, but seems friendly. Several of last week's dogs were reclaimed or rescued, but all of the featured cats are still at the shelter. "Remember now that it is cold, please make sure all your animals have shelter from the wind, rain, and snow, especially smooth-haired dogs," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "If you see an animal without adequate food, water, or shelter, please contact the Animal Shelter or the Humane Society." For more information persons may call the shelter at 301-334-3553.

God saw she was getting tired and a cure was not to be,
So He put his arms around her and whispered, "Come with Me."

With tearful eyes, we watched her suffer and saw her fade away.
Although we loved her dearly,
we could not make her stay.

A golden heart stopped beating, hard working hands to rest,
God broke our hearts to prove to us,
He only takes the best.

We miss you and love you, Mom, Heather, & Family

Bernadine, Sherry, and Terry Friend recently attended funeral services for Larry Hite at the Zeigler Funeral Home, Hyndman, Pa. Larry, who died suddenly from cancer, was a college classmate of Terry and Penny Friend Batham and spent much time over the past 35 years at the Friend family residence.

Terry Friend hosted the family Thanksgiving dinner for his parents and sister, Bud, Bernadine, and Sherry, at his home in Cumberland.

BITTINGER

We added a new member to the Bittinger area's small and exclusive artist clan recently. Ed and Bonnie Ulrich moved from a lake house near Arrowhead to Nayburlee Farm because the lake area was getting too crowded. They moved to Garrett County from the Baltimore/Annapolis area largely to escape the crowds and the traffic jams. However, that stretch of Garrett Highway seems to me almost just as crowded as a metro area at times. Sometimes with cars, sometimes with deer. Last Sunday they became members of Emmanuel Lutheran in Bittinger, transferring membership from St. Mark's in Oakland.

Bonnie is a photographer and her work will be on display at the Art Council Gallery on Alder street in Oakland through December. Her artist reception will be this Friday evening between 6 and 8 p.m. It is possible to catch both her reception and dine at the Bittinger fire hall on buckwheat cakes.

Unfortunately, in my experience many in Bittinger find it hard to make the drive to Oakland to attend an artist reception. I was pleased to see the Ramseys and Doug Stanton show up at my show at the Gallery in Oakland, and more recently Sue Arnson's show at the Garrett College Gallery. I must admit that my show was in the middle of a blizzard, and even though I had to go, I was not very happy because that storm was (at least to me) the worst of last winter.

Today we are dealing with some iffy power issues and many downed trees and branches around here, including a large hemlock branch that fell in front of the Bass house, and a big one which almost crushed the Southerlys' garage. Neither Sheila nor I are really hip to technology, and still haven't figured out why we get so many random power surges, which I know threw a lot of breakers in many homes in the Bittinger area today.

According to Kevin Bass, the wind was the worst since 1998 at his house, measuring 67-mile-per-hour gusts. The wind seemed to come from all directions, and, of course, was accompanied by the predictable drop in temperature and the random snow. Then we got a minor arctic blast with more light snow that blew around like crazy. I saw many broken limbs that had fallen, especially from old apple trees and pines. But it looks like we dodged the bullet.

As nasty as we had, it could have been worse. I hope it straightens out for the 4-H dinner on Friday and for Bonnie's reception. I hope members of St Mark's will show up for her, because any artist can have her nerves shot wondering who will come and be terrified that no one will show up.

See more Bittinger news on page C-6.

Both Propose

that information.

The Senate task force wants information sent to the General Assembly, while the governor's committee wants the Maryland Insurance Administration to have oversight.

But there is dissent even in the ranks of the Senate panel.

Sen. Sharon Grosfeld, D-Montgomery, said the task force's proposals are premature because the committee hasn't received the data it requested from Medical Mutual, the insurance company that covers more than 75 percent of Maryland physicians.

There is no guarantee that freezing the cap on pain-and-suffering damages will help curtail the increase in doctors' insurance costs, she said.

"We don't have the data to prove this is necessary," Grosfeld said. "This is outrageous."

Chairman Brian Frosh, D-Montgomery, said because the task force doesn't know what effect the cap will have on escalating premiums, the commission is "shooting into the dark to a large extent."

Nevertheless, he said he hoped the combination of the commission's findings will resolve the crisis. He said the recommendations should be united into one bill, which he anticipates will be finished in time for a special session, if necessary.

Willard Edwards, president of MedChi, said she thought freezing the cap would mitigate the situation.

"I think the combination of all the points in this bill will help all of this," she said.

Most players were optimistic a special session will soon be convened.

"My goal is obviously a special session this month," Ehrlich said at the Board of Public Works meeting Wednesday morning.

Delegate Charles Boutin, R-Harford, said he's heard rumors a special session could convene toward the end of December or Jan. 10-11, just two days before the regular session begins.

"It's no big deal for people to come in two days before," Boutin said.

The problem with a special session in January, Boutin said, is that doctors' insurance payments will be overdue by then. But, he said, the state could work out a deal between doctors and insurance companies to account for any new law.

KITZMILLER HOLDS BLOCK PARTY – The town of Kitzmiller participated in National Night-Out in cooperation with the Garrett County Sheriff's Department, as part of a national crime prevention event recently. Deputy Chris Helbig and his K-9, Bach, held a demonstration. Other deputies provided fingerprinting and distributed drug information. The Garrett County Health Department also participated, along with the Shriner Clowns. Music was provided by Gospel Four, a group from Swanton. Also in attendance were the three county commissioners and Delegate George Edwards. Various rides and games, face painting, and raffles were also held as part of this second annual town event.

Md. Arts Council Seeking Applicants

The Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC) is seeking applicants for its newest grants program titled "ARTvantage."

Launched last fiscal year, the program fosters and supports the creativity of Maryland's artists and organizations to engage with communities, explore ways to innovatively serve the citizens of Maryland, and expand arts participation to citizens who have limited opportunities to experience the arts.

ARTvantage is funded through the National Endowment for the Arts Challenge America Program. The program will provide awards from $5,000 to $20,000 for projects that will take place between July 1, 2005, and June 30, 2006. Applications are due no later than January 13, 2005.

Two workshops will be held for applicants needing assistance with the application, or for those who want more information about the program. The workshops will be held on Thursday, Dec. 16, 10 a.m. to noon and 4 to 6 p.m. at the MSAC offices at 175 W. Ostend Street, Suite E, in Baltimore. Persons should contact the MSAC to preregister (410-767-6555 or msac@msac.org.)

More Experienced Ram Squad Anticipates Success In 2004-05

For the first time in several seasons, Southern High School boys' varsity basketball coach Tom Bosley is not having to face replacing three or four of his senior starters, an exciting prospect for Ram fans, as Bosley's teams historically have been among the top two or three in the region no matter how much rebuilding is needed.

The Rams will open their 2004-05 campaign next Tuesday in Cumberland against Bishop Walsh.

With practically an entire new team last season, the Rams finished with a respectable overall record of 15-10, won nine of their final 12 regular-season contests, and fell just a few points short of defeating eventual state runner-up Allegany in a 1A West Region semifinal.

"We definitely played much better at the end of the season than we did at the beginning," Coach Bosley said, "That can be attributed to inexperience. As the season progressed, we developed a great deal of confidence and belief that we could compete with anyone in our region. I expect that same confidence to carry over into this season."

Returning starters include senior point guard and playmaker Cory Bosley (6-0), senior wing Corey Tressler (6-3), and junior center Evan Lantz (6-5). Senior Andrew VanBogelen, described by Bosley as "the team's best all-around athlete," did not return to the team this year.

Cory Bosley, who has started in the Ram backcourt the past three years, averaged 10 points per game last season, had 93 assists, and committed just 69 turnovers in 25 games.

Tressler paced the team in scoring with a 17-point average, and was also the squad's rebounding leader.

Lantz has added weight, strength, and confidence, according to Bosley, which should give the Rams a significant inside threat to take some of the scoring load off Cory Bosley and Tressler.

Also back this year is 5-10 senior Brad Reese, who was the first guard off the bench last year and, along with junior Bret Dewitt, will be depended upon to take the place of graduated seniors Dewaine Jones and Karl Hillen as the team's defensive leaders.

Also expected to see considerable action will be juniors Jimmy Hinebaugh (5-9) and Joey Tressler (6-2). Hinebaugh is one of the better shooters on the team and Tressler, an excellent shooter, was the scoring leader on last year's winning junior varsity team.

Two other players who Bosley hopes will add to the inside threat will be senior Chris Miller (6-0) and junior Nathan Harris (6-4).

Also moving up from the junior varsity are juniors Nick Gregg (5-10) and Erick Blamble (5-11).

Rounding out the team, but unavailable until mid January, will be senior returner J.D. Plank (6-0), who is still nursing a knee injury from football season.

Bosley said that one of his concerns is a lack of depth, especially inside, with Lantz being the only player with significant experience in the center position.

"Our main strength will be the outside shooting ability of Corey Tressler and Cory Bosley, coupled with the strength and improved inside play of Evan," he said.

He anticipates that the toughest opponents on the Ram schedule will be Allegany, Northern, Fort Hill, and next Tuesday's season-opener opponent, Bishop Walsh.

The Spartans are returning four of five starters and six of their top eight players from last season.

The annual Snowball Classic, scheduled for December 28-29 and considered the area's premier tournament, will feature two of Maryland's Class 3A final-four participants in Linganore and McDonough, along with perennial power St. John's Prospect Hall.

"Our goals this season are the same as they are every year: to win the WMIL title, the area title, the regional championship, and the state championship," Bosley said.

The Rams have reached the region championship game five out of the past six seasons.

Assisting Bosley again this year are Dave Bender, Matt Redinger, and Mike Saturday.

Next Tuesday's junior varsity game at Bishop Walsh is scheduled to tip off at 6 p.m., and the varsity game will follow at 7:30.

The Rams' first home game will be Friday, Dec. 10, against Beall.

Only two games were played in Mountaintop Basketball League action over the weekend. Coney squeaked past ConDoerr 59-56 as Dave Houghton netted a day-high 34 points, and Bosley Construction crushed Copeland's 81-58.

ConDoerr jumped out to a 19-12 first-quarter lead over Coney with help from a trio of three-pointers by Dennis Gibson, but Coney rebounded to grab a 31-28 halftime lead. ConDoerr's Ronald Rhodes scored 19 of his 26 points over the final two quarters, but it was not enough as Houghton hit the final four free throws to ice the game for Coney.

In the other contest, Bosley Construction took its third win as Jason Brenneman and Jonathan Price scored 21 points apiece to pace a 23-point win over Copeland's. Doug Copeland tallied 19 points and Jason Shank 13 for Copeland's.

This coming Sunday's Mtn. Top Basketball League action at Garrett College is pushed back one hour from the usual starting time because of a Laker women's basketball game. At 2 p.m. ConDoerr will face Mtn. Top Paving (scorekeeper Copeland's); at 3 p.m. Copeland's battles Coney (Mtn. Top Paving); and 4 p.m. Bosley Construction meets up with Team 6 (Coney).

SHS Girls Tune Up For Title Defense With Rebuilt Roster

The Maryland State 1A defending champion Southern High School girls varsity basketball team opens its 2004-05 campaign with a new coach and a number of players who will be getting their first taste of extended varsity play. Yet the Rams have reason to be optimistic about the coming season, for the new faces in varsity red and white bring with them extensive winning experience honed as members of the top junior varsity squad in the area.

"Of course we have to find players to make up for the loss of 80 percent of last year's scoring offense, but it's not impossible," observed first-year Ram skipper Rodger Bowman, who replaces Don Stemple, the long-time SHS girls' basketball guru who retired after last season.

Replacing storied SHS girls' basketball names like Becca Flanagan, Robbin Gregg, Justine Pagenhardt, Sabrina Scheffel, and Roxanne Hoalcraft is a tall order, there is no doubt. However, Bowman and his assistants, Steve Cosner and Ken McLaughlin, have a determined group of athletes who were fully supportive of their former teammates, while patiently biding their time for their own chance at the spotlight.

It also helps that the Ram coaches have one of the taller squads in the area to work with. Junior center Caitlyn Brown (6-3) is the tallest player on the roster, and along with junior guard/forward Kendra McLaughlin (6-0) and senior guard/forward Jasmine Scheffel (5-8) should provide a strong triumvirate foundation for Southern to build on. "We should be able to out-rebound our opponents," Bowman stated. Expected to start along with those three are sophomore guard Sarah Stephens and either senior guard/forward Kayla Nazelrod or junior guard/forward Sarah Cosner.

"All of our players have an understanding of the game and what we want to accomplish," Bowman stated. "We're hoping to make continued success each week, and build up to a strong finish at the end of the year."

Southern kicks off its campaign in Oakland Wednesday night as Tucker County pays a visit. Tip-off for the varsity contest is set for 7:30 p.m., following a 6 p.m. junior varsity game.

Undersized Husky Boys Aim For Heights Of High School Hoops

The 2004-05 Northern High School boys' varsity basketball team won't be the tallest in the area – the 11-player roster averages just under 6 feet per player – but the Huskies have set their sights no less high than any of the bigger squads in the area.

NHS will get an early chance to show the best of those bigger squads what it has to offer, as the Huskies open at home with WMIL rival Beall in a 7:30 p.m. contest on Tuesday, then in succession take on three of western Maryland's perennial powerhouses in 2A Fort Hill, defending region champ Allegany, and cross-county nemesis Southern.

Befitting their team mascot, the Huskies are not about to shy away from the challenges ahead of them, according to NHS head coach Paul Edwards.

"We're not very big again, so rebounding and defending the paint becomes a factor, the sixth-year NHS skipper said of his vertically challenged unit. "However, our depth is better this year with 11 guys, and the talent pool is up in those 11."

The Huskies will put three returning starters on the court season, as guard Chris Speicher (5-9), and forwards Blake Walker (6-2) and Brent Beachy (6-2), all juniors, bring back valuable starting experience from their sophomore seasons. Speicher led the team in assists last year at 6.5 per game, while Walker was the second leading scorer with a 10.6 point per game average while putting together a 59 percent field goal average. Walker averaged 10 points per outing, good for third on the Huskies' roster, while earning WMIL honorable mention accolades.

"I think Brent and Blake will be one of the better forward tandems in our area this season," commented Edwards. "Both of those guys should score some points for us, and both play very hard on both ends of the floor.

"I think our guard play will be sold with Chris returning and senior Aaron Rawe (5-11) rejoining us. Senior Matt Bass (5-10) also proved to be a very solid and valuable backup for us last season."

Also on the NHS roster are senior center Eric Johnson (6-0), a returning letterman, and classmate and fellow center John Maxim (6-3), and senior guards Chris Fickes (5-10) and Scott Pusateri (5-8). Rounding out the squad are junior center Paul Logan (6-0) and forward Kory Gibson (6-2), making the leap to varsity status in just his freshman year.

"Even though we are deep, we are relatively inexperienced with only five guys having varsity time," Edwards said as he outlined one of the challenges his squad has to face. "I think Allegany is the team to beat in our region this year, and I also think Southern will be tough and Bishop Walsh will be very good.

"Our team goals are to win the league, the region, and ultimately the state championship," stated Edwards. "First, we'd like to win the McDonald's Christmas Classic," set for Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 28 and 29, on the Huskies' home floor.

NHS HOOPSTERS ARE A SENIOR-LADEN SQUAD – The 2004-05 girls' varsity basketball team at Northern High School has the luxury of an experienced roster loaded with upperclassmen. Five seniors and four juniors will hit the court for Husky coach Dave Yoder this season, which kicks off Monday when Salisbury's Elks pay a 7:30 p.m. visit (6 p.m. junior varsity start) to the Huskies' Igloo in Accident. Pictured kneeling from the left are Tiffany Yoder, Jeseca Gibson, Jessie Fratz, and Maranda Funk. Standing are Amanda Heacock, Amy Shaffer, Lakin Weimer, Kayla Kipp, and Jayme Miller.

NHS Girls Bring Experience To Bear For Basketball Campaign

After countless pick-up games, youth league contests, and junior varsity outings over the years, it all comes down to this season for a number of members of the 2004-05 Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team. Five Huskies are seniors playing in their final campaign this year, while the other four members of the varsity roster are juniors who also bring valuable playing experience to the NHS cagers' court.

"We have five solid seniors and two juniors with varsity experience," second-year Husky coach Dave Yoder said of his unit. Although the loss of last year's captain, Lyndsi Butler, to graduation leaves a major gap to fill, Yoder thinks his players can rally around each other to improve on the 7-17 mark of the 2003-04 squad.

"Two of our biggest strengths, along with our experience, are team unity and a positive attitude," the NHS skipper said. "We have talented assistant coaches in Bob Shaffer and Donna Hoffman, and are blessed with enthusiastic and supportive parents with positive attitudes that they've instilled in their kids."

Two of the main weapons in the Huskies' arsenal this campaign will be center Lakin Weimer (5-11) and guard Jeseca Gibson (5-4), both seniors and returning starters. However, "everyone will play and contribute this year," Yoder said. "Our players are excited to get started, because all of them worked hard in the off-season to improve their basketball skills."

The Huskies open against Salisbury on Monday, when the Elks pay a 7:30 p.m. visit to NHS. The varsity contest will follow a 6 p.m. junior varsity outing between the two squads. Northern travels to Beall on Wednesday.

A MICHAEL JORDAN MOVE is demonstrated above left by Garrett College's Marco Van Pelt, as he takes flight toward the hoop to record a dunk against the visiting Frostburg State University junior varsity on Monday. Van Pelt scored 14 points in the contest that was easily won by the Lakers, 107-59. Driving the ball into the lane above right is Laker Doyle Brown, who finished with 17 points against Frostburg and led the Lakers in scoring last night with 26 points against the College of Southern Maryland. The Lakers also easily won that match-up, 115-75, to up their overall record to 8-2 and their Maryland JUCO mark to 3-0. Photos by John McEwen.

Lakers Dominant In Wins Over FSU Jayvees, So. Md.

Utter dominance would be a good way to describe the efforts of the Garrett College men's basketball team in two outings this past week, as the Lakers embarrassed the visiting Frostburg State University junior varsity Monday, 107-59, and then flattened College of Southern Maryland, 115-75, in a Maryland JUCO contest played last night in LaPlata.

The victories upped the Lakers' overall record to 8-2 and their JUCO mark to 3-0.

Lavonti Jeter and Adam Morgan led six Lakers in double figures Monday against the Frostburg State jayvees, with Jeter pouring in a game-high 26 points and Morgan connecting for 22.

Doyle Brown added 17 points to the Laker total, while Marco Van Pelt netted 14, and Antoine Williams and Tauvon Pettiford each contributed nine points.

Morgan also grabbed nine rebounds and Largent dished out 10 assists.

The Lakers took control of the contest early and never looked back, building a 41-28 lead by halftime and then scoring 66 points in the second half to crush the Bobcats.

Leading Frostburg's scoring were Marcus McIntyre and Brandon Howell, each of whom recorded 14 points.

The Lakers struggled in the early minutes of last night's contest with Southern Maryland and found themselves down by a 15-7 margin. They battled back to take the lead for good, though, when a jumper by Brown put them up 24-22.

The Lakers would then conclude the first half with a 30-7 scoring surge, which gave them a commanding 54-29 lead at intermission.

Brown led Garrett in scoring with 26 points, while Tristan Largent finished with 21 points and nine assists.

Morgan, Jeter, and Pettiford also reached double figures with 15, 14, and 10 points, respectively, and Jeter and Tyrice Watkins each pulled down eight rebounds. Brown also had four steals.

Leading Southern Maryland (2-6 overall, 0-2 JUCO) were Joe Flegler with 25 points, Pat Harper with 20, and Justin Jackson with 14. Javon Sparrow recorded six rebounds.

The Lakers out-rebounded their hosts by a 40-26 margin.

"It took us a while to wake up," stated Laker coach Dennis Gibson, who substituted freely through the first quarter of the contest.

"We really didn't play very well defensively, but we had another good shooting night and rebounded well," he added.

The Lakers finished with 12 three-point shots among 45 baskets.

The Lakers will play two more conference games next, by hosting Essex Community College this Saturday and entertaining Dundalk CC next Wednesday. The tip-off for both games is set for 7 p.m.

Garrett Women Win Joust With Southern Md. Knights

The Garrett College women's basketball team trounced the visiting College of Southern Maryland last night, 77-56, in the Lakers' JUCO debut. The win gives Garrett a 3-1 record, with the only loss a one-point defeat, so the Lakers are putting up an excellent showing for a very young squad that continues to improve.

GC ran away from the Knights early last night in McHenry, and rolled up a 42-25 lead by the halftime intermission. In the final tally, freshman forward Jami Anderson scored 21 points, sophomore forward Autumn Beavers netted 11 points, and freshman guard Karly Hall had 11 points. Freshman forward DeKresha Davis ripped down 15 rebounds, Beavers hauled in nine, and Anderson had seven. Freshman guard Victoria Lawson dished out five assists and snagged seven steals, while Anderson and freshman guard Danyell Thompson had three steals apiece.

"Jami really stepped up her game tonight," Laker coach Thea Garland said afterward. "We're expecting big things from her this year, and she's starting to come into her own by showing her scoring and rebounding skills.

"Victoria did an excellent job filling in at point guard for the injured Denae Kennedy, and DeKresha did a great job for us on the boards.

"We're still young, and just taking things one step at a time," Garland concluded. "Although we still have lots of work to do, I'm very

Pair Of Runnin' Rams Named To All-Area Squads

Two members of the Southern High School cross country teams — one on the girls' team and one on the boys' team — have been named to the All-Area cross country squads for their outstanding efforts during the recently completed 2004 season.

Sarah Cosner, a junior who placed fourth individually in the Western Maryland Interscholastic League championships, 10th in the 1A West Region meet, and 28th in the Maryland State 1A championships, was among 10 runners named to the girls' All-Area team.

"Sarah has been a great example of the hard work and dedication that should be shown by a leader of the team," stated SHS girls' coach Steve Cosner. "We're looking forward to her continued improvement next year."

Named to the boys' All-Area squad from Southern was Derek Upperman, also a junior, who placed 11th in the WMIL meet and 15th in the West Region championships.

"Derek consistently placed first or second for our team and performed best when the pressure was on," said Jamie Beeman, SHS boys' coach. "His leadership and experience were very valuable."

Both the SHS girls' and boys' squads qualified for the state championship meet this year and placed sixth and seventh, respectively.

Lawmakers Hear

Edwards said legislators wanted to hold a special session before the General Assembly meets so that they can focus soley on tort reform. That way the issue won't get bogged down or lost within the regular legislative process and hundreds of other bills.

Whatever reform bill is introduced, however, does need to address short-term and long-term issues at the same time, the minority leader indicated.

Additionally, according to Edwards, everyone has to cooperate in the reform process. He said insurance companies have to examine their reserves and rates, lawyers need to consider claim caps and fees, and doctors need to reprimand their negligent colleagues.

Donald Battista, chief executive officer of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, gave Hafer and Edwards two large accordion file folders filled with letters from local residents asking legislators to resolve the medical malpractice insurance crisis.

Hafer will deliver his packet, along with a cover letter outlining the local problem, to Miller, while Edwards will give his folder to Busch.

As of Tuesday, the hospital had collected 750 letters containing 1,000 signatures, and more are coming in every day, according to Battista. Ehrlich will also receive a packet of letters, he said.

Battista said Hafer and Edwards were very aware of the local crisis and have been very receptive to resolving the issue.

Mountain Lake Park resident Dave Insley, an insurance agent, asked the local lawmakers to also consider introducing legislation that would penalize medical insurance companies if they do not handle claims in a timely fashion.

He said he spends many hours a week helping people through the complicated, laborious claims process. "The system needs to be modernized," he said.

A claim goes through numerous offices, and each time someone "touches" it, a mistake can be made, which further complicates and delays bill payments. Even after he finally finds the mistake with a claim and notifies the company, it takes a long time for the company to fix the problem and pay the claim, Insley noted.

"If they (insurance companies) were penalized," Insley said, "I guarantee they would fix it." He suggested that companies reimburse claimants if their bills are not handled in a timely manner.

"I'm well aware of what you're talking about," said Hafer. He has experienced similar claim problems involving two family members.

Another highly debated topic in the Maryland General Assembly in recent years has been a proposed slots bill to provide revenue for Maryland schools. Oakland resident David Moe asked Hafer and Edwards Monday night if slots would be addressed again this session.

Unless House Speaker Michael Busch changes his mind, Edwards said, it seemed highly unlikely a bill would pass. Last year the governor's slots initiative passed the Senate twice, but Busch refused to allow it to come to a vote, the Maryland House Republican Caucus noted in a press release this week. The governor's slots proposal could have netted the state $600 million in new revenue for education, according to the caucus.

Several local residents also asked Hafer and Edwards to examine the issue of wind turbines further. The Maryland Public Service Commission (MPSC) has approve the construction of 67 turbines along 13 miles of Backbone Mountain and is reviewing plans for 24 others atop Roth Rock. Members of the Friends of Backbone Mountain noted that the negative effects of the turbines far outweighed any possible benefits.

Vince Collins said the MPSC should look into the issue more and that legislators should do their "homework" on turbines as well.

"I'm for windmills, but I don't want to see them on every piece of land in the county," Edwards said. He indicated that he would question the MSPC further.

He and Hafer will meet with the Garrett County commissioners on Tuesday, Dec. 28, to hear local officials' list of legislative requests for the General Assembly. Edwards said the public would have another opportunity at that meeting to discuss issues.

Funding For Flood Gauges Expected To Be Restored

Senator Paul Sarbanes announced this week the restoration of key funding for the monitoring of water volumes and flood control efforts in western Maryland waterways. The FY 2005 Omnibus Appropriations Bill included $250,000 for the Army Corps of Engineers for the continued operation of flood monitoring gauges on Willis Creek, and the Monocacy, Youghiogheny, and Potomac rivers.

In addition, funding will be utilized for the continued operation and maintenance of flood control levees in the Cumberland area.

Final Congressional approval and presidential signing of the FY2005 Omnibus Appropriations Bill are expected sometime early this month.

Sarbanes said he and Senator Barbara Mikulski worked to include the funding in the final spending bill after learning that the Corps of Engineers had planned to shut down the stream gauge operations that continuously monitor the flow of water on these waterways because of cuts in the federal budget.

The monies provided in the bill will be passed on to the U.S. Geological Service (USGS) and the city of Cumberland to continue their operations and maintenance of the stream gauges and the pumps for the levee system, according to Sarbanes.

The USGS uses the gauges not only for flood control in the area, but also in determining the "release" of water from the Jennings-Randolph Reservoir and the Savage River Reservoir in maintaining the water flow into the Washington, D.C., region downstream.

"These gauges act as an early warning system for not only rising waters in the area, but also in letting boaters and fisherman know of low water in their areas," said Sarbanes. "Through our efforts we have been successful in providing a dedicated funding source to the Army Corps of Engineers for this program for the next year and averted a shutdown of these important monitoring activities."

WORLD AIDS DAY PROCLAIMED World AIDS Day was yesterday, Dec. 1, as proclaimed by governing bodies across the globe, including the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. A staggering 35.7 million adults and 2.1 children were living with HIV/AIDS worldwide at the end of 2003, according to the United Nations – a tally matching the populations of Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, and Ohio combined. World Aids Day has been observed annually since 1988, and this year's theme, "Women, Girls, HIV, and AIDS," highlights the many ways the disease attacks females, including through sexual transmission. The majority of HIV infections come from heterosexual sex, with women more likely to become infected than men. Seated, from the left, are Garrett County commissioners Ernie Gregg, Dave Beard, and Fred Holliday. Standing are West Virginia University student and Garrett County Health Department social work intern Josh Hazelwood and his daughter Madison; Mountain Glade Adult Day Services director Joann Harsh; Health Department program director and Garrett County AIDS Council chairperson Donna Fost; AmeriCorps member and Pandora's Box theatre troop director Christie Hamilton; Pandora's Box members Rose Jackson and Megan Viar; Health Department nurse Cindy Mankamyer, RN; and regional HIV/AIDS caseworker Hector Gomez. Complete information, statistics, educational materials, and other facts about the disease are available at www.avert.org.

GCMH Honors Its Respiratory Care Therapists

National Respiratory Care Week (Oct. 24-30) gave Garrett County Memorial Hospital the opportunity to honor the respiratory care practitioners of its Mobile Medical and Cardio Pulmonary Services departments.

"During this week, we recognized the many skills and services our respiratory therapists provide to our hospital patients and physicians," said Eric Tribbey, director of Cardio Pulmonary/Mobile Medical Services.

Respiratory care practitioners work under the direction of a physician and assist in the diagnosis, treatment, and management of patients with pulmonary disorders. Respiratory care practitioners are licensed by the Maryland Board of Physicians and achieve credentials through rigorous testing under the National Board of Respiratory Care.

A display located in the hospital lobby educated visitors about various respiratory conditions and featured a poster introducing the hospital's respiratory therapists.

Members of the GCMH Mobile Medical/Cardio Pulmonary Department are Fred Callis, CRT (certified respiratory therapist); Sonny Colaw, RCP (respiratory care practitioner); Randy Crabtree, RRT (Registered registered respiratory therapist); Jennifer Droppleman, CRT; Tammy Everly, RRT; Dan Gaither, CRT; Bob LaRue, CRT; Krista Mangold, CRT; Linda Nazelrod, RRT; Barbara Sisler, RRT; Jason Smith, RRT; Tom Striplin, RRT; Eric Tribbey, RRT; and Trish Wilt, RRT.

As part of the celebration, GCMH, in cooperation with the Garrett County Health Department, also offered a free asthma camp to area children.

Relay For Life Committee Meeting Set

The next meeting of the 2005 American Cancer Society Relay For Life planning committee is set for 6 p.m. Tuesday, Dec. 7, at the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company fire hall. All interested persons may attend the planning session, scheduled to run 90 minutes.

For additional information, persons may call Donna Broadwater at 301-334-6307.

GIEC Names New Director

Paige Quigley has accepted the position as director of the Garrett Information Enterprise Center (GIEC) on the Garrett College campus. The new director will be responsible for coordinating services to the start-up businesses that occupy offices in the incubator center, as well as attracting new tenants to the building.

Quigley has had over 10 years of financial management/business experience, including owning and operating her own business, the Brick House Bakery in Vermont. Most recently she served as program coordinator of Willy Wisp Early Childhood Learning Center where she increased attendance, achieved profitability, and developed employee communications. Prior to that, as office manager for Chinook LLC, she managed sales transactions and finances. From 1990 to 1993 she worked as food and beverage manager at Vernon Valley Resort in New Jersey, and later at Stowe Mountain Resort in Vermont.

After graduating with a bachelor of arts degree from Gettysburg College in 1985, Quigley worked for four years as manager, then assistant general manager for the Gilbert Robinson Restaurant Group in Washington, D.C, Boston, and Weehawken, N.J., where she hired and trained staff, prepared budgets, and completed inventory.

Quigley lives in McHenry with her husband Bill and their three children, Carson, Bryce, and Keaton. She currently serves as president of Accident Elementary PTO.

Christmas Auction Fundraiser Slated By Garrett BPW

A Christmas auction has been slated for Thursday, Dec. 9, at Will O' the Wisp to help finance scholarships for mature women in Garrett County. The annual benefit is sponsored by the Business and Professional Women (BPW) of Garrett County.

The event will be held in the restaurant's Sitzmark Room, where a social time is set for 6 p.m., dinner at 6:30 p.m., and the auction will begin at 7:30 p.m. Tickets for the dinner, which will feature two entrees, cost $10. Persons who cannot attend the dinner can still attend the auction.

Donations of auction items are also being sought for the benefit. Donated items can be homemade, holiday-related items, something purchased new, or a business donation.

"The auction is a great place to add to those Christmas presents and/or stocking stuffers," said event chairperson Linda Fike.

Through the organization's other fundraisers this year, including yard sales and a Garrett County Fair booth, the BPW has raised enough money for one scholarship, and hopes to raise more to be able to provide a second scholarship.

Persons interested in taking part in the buffet dinner may contact Joanne Harsh at 301-334-0585 by close of business on Monday, Dec 6.

Volunteers Sought To Shovel Snow For Senior Citizens

The Area Agency on Aging, a department of the Garrett County Community Action Committee, is seeking volunteers and/or vendors to either shovel or plow snow for senior citizens in their communities.

"Every year we receive numerous calls from seniors requesting help in removing snow from their sidewalks and driveways," said an agency representative. "In some cases the older person resides at the end of a long road not plowed by the county and is unable to get out. Unfortunately, the agency does not have the resources available to assist these individuals."

She added that winters can be extremely harsh in Garrett County and that citizens needed to prepare now to meet the needs of older adults to assure their safety during the coming winter months.

The agency will develop a list of individuals who are willing to shovel snow and to plow driveways and private roads.

"We would like to recruit not only volunteers, but persons willing to perform the necessary work for reduced fees," said the representative. "Although many seniors are willing and able to pay for the service, others are on fixed incomes and cannot afford a large fee."

"This would be an excellent project for high school students seeking community service hours," she added. "The agency would be more than happy to match students with older adults in their communities needing snow shoveling."

Persons interested in volunteering or offering their services for a reduced fee are asked to call the agency at 301-334-9431, ext. 140.

The agency also encourages residents to assist their elderly neighbors during bad weather.

"This can be as simple as checking to see if they need anything from the store when you are making a trip or offering to shovel their walk after a storm," the spokesperson said. "Simple kindnesses like these are not forgotten."

Natural Products That Lower Cholesterol

The use of natural supplements may help lower LDL cholesterol (often referred to as bad cholesterol). A compound called pterostilbene found in blueberries recently was proven to lower cholesterol as effectively as a popular prescription cholesterol-lowering drug. Pterostilbene is also thought to have powerful anti-cancer fighting properties as well. Oat bran and other soluble fibers have long been known to reduce LDL and total cholesterol as a part of a diet low in saturated fat.

Two supplements, beta-sitosterol and psyllium seed, can significantly reduce LDL cholesterol, but do not affect blood levels of HDL cholesterol (the good kind). Psyllium seems to be especially effective when it is taken at the same time a fatty meal is consumed. Flaxseed also lowers LDL and total cholesterol levels according to some medical studies, but it does not seem to have much effect on postmenopausal women with elevated cholesterol. Other supplements that may lower cholesterol include alfalfa, avocado, calcium, magnesium, and olive oil.

Gone are the days when the only bookstores are small ones with narrow aisles and dusty tomes on worn shelves. Today, we can walk into mega-bookstores smelling of gourmet coffee, enjoy their reading material and listen to relaxing music. Latté in hand, we can sink into chairs so plush we might want to spend the night.

Yet, one fact remains unchanged. Of the all-time bestsellers, the Holy Bible remains number one. Why? Perhaps it is because the Bible contains such a variety of subjects. Among other topics, we find adventure, genealogy, romance, birth, death, poetry, family dynamics, miracles, and reassurance. However, and most importantly, the Bible is our guide for living our lives successfully, peacefully, joyfully, and more abundantly.

We read in 1 Peter 1:23-25... "You have been born anew...through the living and abiding Word of God; for 'all flesh is like grass and all its glory like the flower of grass. The grass withers and the flower falls, but the Word of the Lord abides forever'."

The Bible remains the greatest book of all because so many devote time to studying God's Word. Wouldn't your local House of worship be an appropriate place to start this week? The Bible is timeless.

Living a Balanced Life

If we want to keep a wholesome perspective in our daily lives, we must strive to maintain a balance in the activities that occupy our time. Overall an even distribution of most everything we do is important in order to live a wholesome and healthy life. Too much, or too little, of almost anything that we get involved in on a daily basis could prove to be harmful to us if the imbalance persists. Surely being productive and always doing a good job is important; however, becoming a workaholic is not always a good thing if our life is constantly overly involved in work. Balancing labor with recreation and rest is helpful to stay mentally sound, and moderate exercise along with eating a balanced diet are necessary to stay physically healthy. Attending a place of worship on a regular basis, and daily prayer are beneficial, and help us to have a good spiritual life. God blesses those who recognize Him as their source of strength, and He wants us to take care of ourselves, physically, mentally, and spiritually. Therefore, appropriate amounts of rest, relaxation, and prayer, along with our daily chores are all necessary to maintain this vital balance in our lives.

He makes me to lie down in green pastures; He leads me beside the still waters. He restores my soul.

Another Lowe point for 'West Wing' alum

Rob Lowe

Q: I am a Rob Lowe fan. What's going on with his show "dr. vegas"? –Stephen Dunson, Troy, N.Y.

A: Nothing. CBS axed the show after only a few airings. It was Lowe's third series in six seasons. After playing Sam Seaborn on NBC's "The West Wing" for its first four years, he moved on to the same network's "The Lyon's Den," which also ended up having only a brief life last fall. You can anticipate seeing Lowe in more TV movies at least, since he's also made his mark there. He starred in the recent CBS romantic comedy "Perfect Strangers," which was preceded by his turn in the TNT remake of Stephen King's horror tale "Salem's Lot."

Q: When will the series "Summerland" return? –Tim Beebe, Ypsilanti, Mich.

A: There wasn't a firm date set at press time. The WB Network simply labeled the time frame "midseason," which could be any time between January and April. We aren't surprised by the order for a second season of Lori Loughlin's family drama. With all the hue and cry about original programming by several broadcast networks last summer, "Summerland" was just about the only new show to prove itself a genuine ratings success.

Q: Can you tell me what happened to Jerry Orbach after he left "Law & Order"? I thought he was to be in another series, but I've seen nothing yet. –Van, Fayetteville, N.C.

A: Not only is the veteran actor set to return, but he'll reprise the character Lennie Briscoe – now a New York district attorney's investigator instead of a police detective – in "Law & Order: Trial by Jury," the franchise's fourth show, which NBC is expected to debut early in 2005. Amy Carlson ("Third Watch") and Kirk Acevedo ("Band of Brothers") also have been cast in the series.

Q: I was upset when, after getting almost all the way through the Nov. 10 episode of "CSI: NY," it was cut off by a network news report. How did it end? –Mike S., via e-mail

A: Boy, did we hear about THIS afterward. After the incident in which a CBS producer (who was then fired) decided to break into the last five minutes with a report on the death of Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat, CBS reran the "CSI: NY" episode two nights later. Admittedly, because of the closeness of the timing, many viewers may not have known. Our policy is not to reveal endings of stories – especially ones sure to be repeated again – so as not to ruin anything for first-time viewers later. That said, we've asked CBS to notify us when another repeat date for that episode is scheduled; if we have that information in time, we will pass it along.

Garrett College Inducts Phi Theta Kappa Members

Seventeen Garrett College students were inducted into the Phi Theta Kappa international honor society for two-year colleges during a recent ceremony in the Garrett College Art Gallery.

The Garrett students inducted were Megan E. Bessey, Megan Brenneman, Sheena A. Brenneman, Tracy D. Browning, Jesse N. Curtis, Mildred W. Dunbar, Cassie N. Gregory, Cassandra L. Kave, Regina C. Lewis, and Jodie D. McClintock.

Also inducted were Stephanie L. Niner, Jared Peters, Amanda D. Reckart, Gillian A. Shreve, Glenda M. Sisler, Linda M. Sleeman, and Lori D. Yoder.

These students and their families were welcomed and congratulated by GC president Dr. Steve Herman and Dr. Virginia Broaddus, dean of academic affairs, who also administered the pledge and awarded certificates. The meaning of Phi Theta Kappa was explained by social sciences professor Elizabeth Luers, advisor to the Garrett College chapter, who then presided over the signing of the roster and discussed the All American two-year college academic team.

Phi Theta Kappa was established in 1918 by Missouri two-year college presidents to recognize and encourage academic achievement, and provide opportunities for individual growth and development. Today it is the largest honor society in American higher education, with more than 1.3 million members at 1,100 chapters in the United States, U.S. territories, Canada, Germany, and Japan.

Lowell Leitzel, Southern High School student council advisor and Garrett County Association of Student Councils (GCASC) advisor, accompanied the group to Huntingtown. Scholarships will help toward training to be certified in a trade, training in technical schools, or enrolling in courses in a 2- or 4-year college or university. Students need to pick up applications soon to allow time to complete the application package. Application requires an essay, three reference letters, completion of application form and an official school transcript. Applications are available in the Guidance Office. Applications can also be downloaded from www.aasa.org/discover.htm. The deadline for receipt of the application is Jan. 7, 2005. Please note that students planning to attend a technical school are particularly encouraged to apply. However, the scholarship is open for any student who meets the above criteria.

Flowery Vale Health & Fitness Center

With Thanksgiving behind us, we look forward to the other holiday festivities ahead. Let's try to keep a healthy outlook as we prepare special foods to welcome guests and celebrate the season. Let's enjoy the holidays and not make ourselves crazy trying to avoid all the delicious treats. The goal should be to maintain our weight and to eat reasonable portions. We should try to keep up with some regular aerobic movement such as walking.

Don't forget, the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center is open weekdays from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. to help us maintain a healthy lifestyle. The center will close for the holidays from Dec. 24 to Jan. 3.

In November we had the crew from Garrett County Northern Rescue Squad Station 2 talk with our members about proper response to an emergency situation. It was a very informative presentation. They have offered to give a CPR certification class for our members in January. Anyone interested in signing up can contact our office for information at 301-746-8050.

Coming up this month is our training on the use of our AED (automated external defibrillator). We have a unit at the fitness center, and we encourage everyone to come to our meeting at 10 a.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 8, to learn how more about use of this life-saving device.

When you make your New Year's resolutions for 2005, consider joining us for a weight control support group. At Flowery Vale we host a TOPS meeting to encourage each other in maintaining healthy weight and share information on good eating habits.

In our TOPS meetings, we have talked often about the trend toward "low carb" dieting. You will be happy to know that we have always been on the right track with our programs: Latest articles offered on nutrition say low carbohydrate diets are effective for rapid weight loss, but most nutritionists think they are unsuitable as a lifelong diet plan. Moderation is the key. Cut calories, avoid empty-calorie foods, exercise regularly and eat plenty of nutritious foods, and you will have a fit, healthy body. Eat plenty of fruits, vegetables and whole grains. These foods are restricted or prohibited on most low-carbohydrate diets, but they are vital to health, well-being and longevity. These are not the foods that make you fat!

Sit in on one of our Wednesday morning TOPS meetings for more information. Don't miss out on any of the services that we offer to you here at the center.

U.S. Department of Agriculture researchers recently found that daily cinnamon supplements reduced total cholesterol, bad cholesterol, and triglycerides anywhere from 13 to 30 percent in a study of 60 men and women with type 2 diabetes. That's comparable to benefits seen with statin drugs. Study author Richard Anderson, Ph.D., thinks cinnamon may be just as beneficial for healthy people. In previous test tube studies, Anderson found the spice contains polyphenol similar to insulin, the hormone that clears sugar from the blood.

Cinnamon seems to help the body use insulin more efficiently. "This reduces insulin resistance, which is the cause of type 2 diabetes and a major risk factor for heart disease," Anderson said. In the latest research, cinnamon also cut blood sugar levels by 20 to 30 percent, which can help prevent the damage diabetes can inflict on nerves and blood vessels. He also said that some people who were taking medications for diabetes have been able to get off them and use cinnamon alone.

The Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center for the Mature Adult is operated by Garrett County Community Action's Area Agency on Aging. The center is open to county residents age 55 and over. To learn more about the Flowery Vale Health and Fitness Center, persons may call 301-746-8050.

Oakland Man Arrested On Assault Charge

An Oakland man was charged with second-degree assault after police investigated an anonymous complaint at an Oakland residence early Sunday morning, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Brandon Edward Ross, 28, was arrested after it was determined that he struck his girlfriend in the face and caused minor injuries. According to the deputy, the alleged assault was the result of an earlier argument, and alcohol was a factor.

The victim refused medical treatment, and Ross was taken to the Garrett County Detention Center while awaiting a bond hearing.

Message from the Dean's Desk — Garrett College

by Dr. Virginia Broaddus
Dean of Academic Affairs

At this time of year, I'm reminded of the importance of stepping back and being thankful for what I have. Luckily, I can count blessings both personally and professionally, including being grateful for our students, their many accomplishments, and the faculty and staff with whom they work.

For instance, I'm grateful that Kristin Hoffman, one of my former advisees who spent her senior high school year doing ECAP work at Garrett, has been inducted into the Golden Key Honor Society at West Virginia University, where she's majoring in forensic science. Kristin is a true scholar and also a genuinely kind and caring person whose volunteer work has been recognized through her induction into Alpha Lambda Delta and Alpha Epsilon Delta, two service societies. She's currently volunteering at West Virginia University, and I know that she'll make a super medical professional. It's always rewarding to see our former students shine, and indeed, Kristin will always be one of our stars.

I'm thankful, too, for some of GC's emerging stars, particularly for the ingenuity and hard work that students bring to Garrett no matter whether they're in their forties or in their late teens. Last week, I got to witness such ingenuity when I attended our High School Computer Repair Academy's Open House. The academy, which features two "corporations" headed by students, sent its CEOs and vice presidents to invite me to attend an evening presentation that they designed and produced. Corporate leaders Chris Deem, Brad Lilly, and Daniel Frederick ably represented their classmates in making an appointment to see me, informing me of the event, and asking me to attend. The entire class's skill was abundantly evident as students presented PowerPoint presentations, did demonstrations, and ultimately engaged in a competition in building computers. Their instructor Rich Seese, board of education personnel Kurt Lear and Ann Frantz, multiple parents, siblings, friends, and I were all incredibly impressed by their skill. When these students have completed their program, they'll be ready to take industry certification exams that will testify to employers just how well they can do in a professional setting, and they'll also have earned 12 college credits during their senior year in high school.

Speaking of professional settings, each day I'm thankful for the caring staff and faculty who make up our GC family. This week, they'll celebrate a day of thanks as they join together for a "pot luck" luncheon celebrating the season. There, perhaps they'll talk with Kevin Dodge and learn about the work that he and his students undertake in banding saw-whet owls, work recently spotlighted in the Nature Conservancy journal. This project involves 33 current and former GC students, mostly from our Natural Resources and Wildlife Program, who are running a northern saw-whet owl fall migration study every night through late November, ultimately putting U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service bands on the birds before releasing them to continue their migration. Kevin could share stories about students like Jacob Vitak, who has completed a job supervising a vegetation survey crew for the Nature Conservancy and is now successfully completing his bachelor's degree in wildlife management at West Virginia University.

Perhaps those attending the luncheon might have a chance to learn about some of their colleagues' recent accomplishments, such as Jack DuBose's being asked to contribute to Review Revue, a journal dedicated to reviewing poetry texts. Jack, a published poet himself, was asked to contribute by Frostburg State University's Creative Writing Center director Jerry LaFamilia, who (with Jack) participates in FSU's Writing Group. Or perhaps colleagues could hear from art professor Ron Skidmore, as he sings the praises of two former students, David Higdon and Lynford Yoder, whose work is now showing at GC's Art Gallery. David and Lynford's work is part of an exhibit produced by the Thursday Night Art Group. Those who visit the gallery and see the exhibit, which is on display through December, will be impressed and grateful for the talent our community holds.

In the end, our community has abundant gifts, and no matter where I look at GC, I find reasons to give thanks for what we're able to give our students and what, in turn, they bring us. Our students, and by extension we at GC, are rich in gifts indeed, and we are glad to give thanks for them not only during this time of year, but all year long.

THE NORTH GLADE 4-H CLUB IS SPONSORING a "Warm Up, Feed and Give to our Community Christmas Tree" for its annual Community Service Project. The club has placed a Christmas tree in a corner at Curt's Corner/Anchor Mart, which is located at the corner of Rt. 495 and North Glade Road in Swanton. The club began this project last year by setting up a tree at the same location to collect hats, mittens, and scarves to give to needy families in the Swanton/North Glade community. The first-year response was great, and in addition to hats, scarves, and mittens, donations of canned goods and toys were also collected, said a spokesperson. Last year, just a couple of days before Christmas several members of the club drove around with their parents and delivered the donations to several needy families in the Swanton/North Glade community. This year the club will again be collecting hats, mittens, and scarves (for children and adults) and canned goods. In addition to these items the club has also adopted three specific families through Social Services to collect for. These families are in need of the following items for Christmas: Family #1: board games for a 10-year-old boy. Family #2: Three girls' (ages 7, 9, and 13) porcelain dolls, videos, jewelry, socks, bear, and teenager items. Family #3: Father has cancer monetary donations or items for boys ages 8 and 6. Persons wishing to donate items to this project may drop them off at the tree in Curt's Corner/Anchor Mart or may contact June McClosky at 301-387-2990. Pictured above, in the front from the left, are Tyler Gilpin, Jeremy Ashby, Todd Custer, and Nicole McClosky. In the back are Derek Gilpin, Lee Custer, Rachal Winegardner, Liz Regina, Samantha Gibson, and Rebecca Winegardner.

Huxford Speaks At Symposium In Pittsburgh

Dusty Huxford, president and CEO of Financial Computer Support Inc. (FCSI), was a guest speaker at the recent Financial Planning Association of Pittsburgh's symposium, held at the downtown Westin Convention Center Hotel.

Huxford's presentation focused on business succession and the transitioning of a business from one generation to another. Speaking from personal experience, Huxford highlighted what was done right and wrong within his own company's transition after the sudden death of his father. He also offered points of consideration for other businesses to help them prepare for a smooth continuation in light of unexpected circumstances.

In other business-related activities, Huxford was invited to attend the annual Ameritrade Powersource Conference in Los Angeles, Calif. Representing FCSI, Huxford participated in numerous discussions about the diversity of FCSI's software, a company spokesperson said.

Winter Pet Safety

As cold weather closes in around the country, keeping pets safe from the perils of icy conditions is as important as ever. In addition, we're entering the holiday season, a time when many people are preoccupied with preparing the house for visiting family and friends, or making travel plans. Keep your furry, feathered or scaly friends in mind during this time.

Outside the home, common dangers include jagged ice and hidden debris that can cut open a dog or cat's paw. Spilled antifreeze, from folks winterizing their cars, can attract pets by its sweet taste. Frozen sidewalks and extreme cold can put your pets at risk of frostbite on exposed skin. Small pets may not be able to keep warm outdoors and could experience hypothermia.

Prevent injury to your pets outside by placing booties on your dog's paws and a sweater (available in different sizes at the pet store) around his body. For pets that won't wear these items (like cats), check their paws closely for cuts or patches of frostbite after time spent outside, especially the bottoms of their pads.

If your dog or cat stumbles or seems lethargic after being outdoors, look for signs of antifreeze around their nose, mouth and paws. Antifreeze is typically a bright green color. Any trace of this, or any suspicion that your pet has drunk this chemical, means immediately rushing to the emergency veterinary clinic. Antifreeze can cause permanent kidney damage and is often fatal, so time is of the essence in treating your pet.

Indoors, make sure your pet drinks plenty of water and, if trapped inside due to a snowstorm, gets enough exercise. If you own a fish, bird or lizard, make sure they are minimally affected if a power failure occurs. Backup power supplies (typically sold as UPS — Uninterrupted Power Supply — units) will keep aquariums functioning properly for a short period. Place birds in well-insulated rooms that will remain warm for longer periods.

With a bit of planning and watchfulness, your pets will have a safe and enjoyable winter season.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• It's been calculated that to work off the calories consumed in one Big Mac, a webhead would have to surf the Internet for five-and-a-half hours.

• The American Automobile Association has become a ubiquitous presence in modern America; motorists across the country take advantage of its discounts, roadside service and maps. The company has been around nearly as long as cars — AAA published its first road map as early as 1905. For those who are curious, the map was of Staten Island, and it was hand-drawn on linen.

• It was journalist Walter Winchell who made this sage observation: "Gossip is the art of saying nothing in a way that leaves practically nothing unsaid."

• When the Eiffel Tower's lease expired in 1909, the Paris landmark was so universally disliked that it was nearly dismantled. Radio rescued it, though; the tower turned out to be so useful for its antenna, the government decided to leave it in place.

• Here are a few additions to the list of words brought into the English language by playwright William Shakespeare: remorseless, bedroom, epileptic, impede, arouse, anchovy and zany.

• Garlic was considered to have medicinal properties as early as 2000 B.C.

• Most people have heard of Schlitz beer (though perhaps there aren't very many people who claim to drink it on a regular basis). Well, originally it was named the Krug Brewery. When the owner passed away, one of his employees, Joseph Schlitz, married his boss's widow, took over the operation and renamed the brewery after himself.

• Are you a die-hard pet lover? If so, then perhaps you've heard of cologne designed for dogs. There are at least two brands on the market: "Timmy Holedigger" and "Aramutts."

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Dec. 10, 1869, Wyoming territorial legislators pass a bill that is signed into law granting women the right to vote. Many legislators supported the bill because they thought it would win the territory free national publicity and might attract more single marriageable women to the rugged, isolated region.

• On Dec. 12, 1913, two years after it was stolen from the Louvre Museum in Paris, Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece "The Mona Lisa" is recovered inside Italian waiter Vincenzo Peruggia's hotel room in Florence.

• On Dec. 7, 1941, at 7:55 a.m. Hawaii time, hundreds of Japanese warplanes descend on the U.S. naval base at Pearl Harbor in a ferocious assault. The surprise attack killed some 2,400 Americans, rendered much of the U.S. Pacific fleet useless and drew the United States irrevocably into World War II.

• On Dec. 11, 1956, the Hays Code, the movie industry's tight restriction of language and subject matter, is eased slightly for the first time since its adoption in 1930. Actors could now mention abortion, drugs, kidnapping and prostitution.

• On Dec. 9, 1963, the last American-made Studebaker was produced, and the automobile factory in South Bend, Ind., closed forever. Studebaker, started during the Civil War, was once the world's largest manufacturer of horse-drawn carriages.

• On Dec. 8, 1980, singer John Lennon, a former member of the Beatles, the band that transformed popular music in the 1960s, is shot and killed by Mark David Chapman outside his apartment building in New York City. After the murder, Chapman waited calmly for police to arrive, reading a copy of "The Catcher in the Rye."

• On Dec. 6, 1994, Orange County, Calif., declares bankruptcy after a dalliance with high-risk investing leaves the affluent community's investment fund some $2 billion in debt. It was the single biggest bankruptcy filing ever by a municipality.

Q. I have a 1932 image of Donald Duck. The colors are still bright and vivid. Who can I contact who might be interested in it? — Margaret, Esterhazy, Saskatchewan, Canada

A. One of the better clubs is the National Fantasy Fan Club for Disneyana Collectors and Enthusiasts, P.O. Box 19212, Irvine, CA 92713. Ted Hake is an expert. His address is c/o Hake's Americana and Collectibles Auction, P.O. Box 1444, York, PA 17405.

Q. I have a series of old newspaper from the 1940s featuring news about Hitler, the bombing of Pearl Harbor and other war-related stories. Do they have any value? — Kathleen, Bradenton, Fla.

A. Most old newspapers have little or no value in the collectible marketplace. There are exceptions, however. If you have an actual copy of the Honolulu paper published the day following the Japanese attack, the Memphis Commercial Appeal death issue of Elvis Presley or the "Dewey Defeats Truman" edition of the Chicago Tribune, you have a rare collectible. Otherwise, most older newspapers sell for less than $10 each.

Two established vintage newspaper dealers are Phil Barber, P.O. Box 8694, Boston, MA 02114; and Rick Brown, 6031 Winterset, Lansing, MI 48911.

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management reported that the following dogs were recently picked up as strays and are now housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter:

A mixed black Lab, female, Spring Glade Road area; mixed black sheepdog, male, George Washington Highway; mixed Doberman, male, left outside the animal shelter; and a mixed hound, female, Turkey Neck Road area.

These animals must be claimed within 72 hours. For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553.

A UNIQUE GIFT FOR THE HOLIDAYS – "If you have someone on your list who has everything, but you still would like to give him or her a gift, why not make a donation in his or her name to your local animal shelter, rescue or Humane Society?" suggests Lisa Baker of the Garrett County Humane Society. "Any donation would be appreciated and used to help the animals." Baker said a few years ago a friend gave her two daughters a small gift and a card that said a $20 donation had been made in their names to the Garrett County Animal Shelter. "I thought it was a great idea, most kids get plenty of gifts this time of year it was a great way to show compassion to animals that are homeless," Baker said. The shelter donations can be used by the shelter to purchase snacks, extra collars, leashes, or other needed items. Donations to a H.A.R.T of Garrett County or the Humane Society could also be used to help transport an animal to its new home or help an animal be spayed or neutered. "If you prefer not to donate money," Baker said, "consider donating items such as cat or dog treats, dog collars, or heavy leashes directly to the shelter. Donations of newspapers, blankets, and towels for the shelter are also appreciated." For more information, persons may call Baker at 301-387-4425.

McHenry UM Church On ARC Holiday Tour

The Garrett County Chapter of the American Red Cross will host the 13th annual Home for the Holidays House Tour on Friday, Dec. 3, from 4 until 9 p.m., and on Saturday, Dec. 4, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m. Among the tour stops on this year's circuit will be the McHenry United Methodist Church, located at the fork of Bumble Bee and Mosser roads.

The church was originally the United Brethren Church in the McHenry community, housed at the "Spiker" church, or the "Arden Chapel," beginning in March 1888. The first church was located along Bumble Bee Road. This building was razed in 1916 and relocated at the present location.

The present church was built behind the old church, and members worshiped in the basement until the construction was completed and the old church was torn down.

The present church was dedicated on June 16, 1957. The total cost of the new structure was about $32,000. This did not include donated labor and materials. The structure is 40 by 70 feet and is covered in red brick. The interior of the sanctuary is a combination of Celotex and light oak paneling, with red carpeting. The seating capacity is approximately 250 people.

The timber for the church was furnished from the old Maholm Glotfelty farm and at the time of the church being built was owned by C.W. Wagner.

The stained glass windows were paid for and donated by members of the Church in honor or in memory of family members.

McHENRY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH ON ARC TOUR

The church has a full basement with a kitchen, fellowship hall, Sunday school rooms, bathrooms, and storage.

After the merger of the Evangelical United Brethren Church and the Methodist Church in 1968, the McHenry Church became the McHenry United Methodist Church.

A new front entrance was added in 1983, as well as a new steeple. Church members donated chimes in 1984. These chimes play every day at noon and 6 p.m. and can be heard throughout the McHenry and Deep Creek Lake area.

In addition to the church, this year's Red Cross tour will feature two private homes and the German Village at Fantasy Valley in McHenry. The homes open for guests are those of Roger Sines and Suzie Mattson, located in the Heron Cove community, and Michael and Sandy Bello, located along Tanglewood Drive.

Tour tickets for all guests, including children, are $8 in advance and $10 at the "door" (on the days of the tours).

Guests will be asked to remove their shoes before touring the sites, organizers noted. They will also be asked to refrain from photographing or videotaping in the homes.

Tickets are available at Proudfoot's and Gregg's pharmacies in Oakland, Arrowhead Market at Deep Creek, and the Deep Creek Pharmacy.

Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis Pain Relief

Juvenile rheumatoid arthritis is a persistent or recurring inflammation of the major joints that occurs in children and teenagers. It is the most common form of arthritis in children and affects an estimated 30,000 to 50,000 children in the United States alone. The joint pain may come and go; however in this form of rheumatoid arthritis, any number of joints may become involved as well as other organs, including swelling of the spleen, liver, and lymph nodes. A high fever and rash may occur before the joints are affected. In severe cases, permanent damage to the joints occurs leading to physical deformities and irregular bone development, especially in areas of the jaw and chin. Inflammation of the iris of the eye is common with all forms or rheumatoid arthritis, including the juvenile variety. If left untreated this type of eye inflammation can lead to permanent eye damage and even blindness.

Pain medicines are the most commonly prescribed drugs for treating rheumatoid arthritis, including the juvenile variety. Nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs), which include aspirin and ibuprofen, are excellent choices for relief of mild to moderate pain. Another class of NSAIDs called COX-2 inhibitors may also be useful in managing the pain of this type of rheumatoid arthritis.

The club members voted for new officers. Serving for the 2005 term will be president Shaina Custer, vice president Nicki Bender, secretary Ashley Rodeheaver, treasurer Bradley Rodeheaver, and reporter Tyler Bowman.

The results of the Fair Board election are in, and the club members discussed those appointments. Members were reminded to have their record books ready for presentation by the next meeting, which will also be when 4-H re-enrollment forms, distributed at the November meeting, will be due.

Next month's meeting, the final meeting of the year, will double as the club's Christmas Party. The event will take place at the Accident fire hall at either 6:30 p.m. Sat., Dec. 18, or 2 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 19. Class On Wills And Probate Set At Garrett

An informational session titled "Ten Most Often Asked Questions about Wills and Probate" is slated from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Monday, Dec. 13, at the Grantsville Outreach Center. Joseph DiSimone, Register of Wills for Garrett County, will provide the instruction with assistance from Chief Deputy Register of Wills Rita Watson.

The session will answer basic questions including: What is a will and what does it do? What does it take to draft a will? How do I choose an executor and what percentage of my assets do they take as a commission? What is the probate process and is it necessary for my estate? The presentation, which will include handouts, will be followed by a question and answer session.

"Everyone knows the importance of executing a Last Will and Testament, yet many people have never written one or even know where to begin," a spokesperson said. "To those who are unprepared, take note: If you die intestate (without a will) the Probate Court will see that your estate is administered according to the Estates and Trusts Code, and maybe your assets will not be distributed according to your wishes. Perhaps the court will never know the guardian you have in mind for your minor child.

"Find out how much of your assets the state will take if you die without a will. Who are your legal heirs? Take charge of your estate – tell the courts what you want done with your assets."

Registration is required due to limited seating. For more information or to register, persons may contact Terry Beachy at the Garrett College Grantsville Outreach Center by calling 301-895-3368, or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrettcollege.edu.

The class is an offering of the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

She concluded with scripture and prayer.

COMPARING APPLES TO APPLES!

Imagine visiting a giant furniture warehouse to purchase a dining room set. There are four identical sets, yet each has a different price. Of the four sets, three seem overpriced. After comparing, you would probably purchase the one with the lower price. All had the same features and the same number of chairs, so why pay more?

Overpricing a home can bring the same results. Think how a buyer would react. After looking at half a dozen homes, the search is narrowed to three that meet the buyer's needs. Comparable in size, style, and condition, two of them are priced well above the third.

The buyers will likely purchase the lower priced home. After all, why pay more for the same features? Buyers use overpriced homes to justify their decision to buy another.

What if the buyer does offer full price on an overpriced home? When the appraisal required by most mortgage companies fails to meet the agreed upon price, the buyer will be forced look elsewhere.

Homes rarely sell for more than fair market value. To learn the probable sale price of your home, ask an agent to perform a Competitive Market Analysis to arrive at a price range in which your home is likely to sell. By basing your price on facts, you can enjoy an early sale at the best possible price.

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Christmas Concert "Gloria" To Be Presented By Choral Society

The Garrett Choral Society, under the direction of Julie Turrentine, will present its annual Christmas concert, this year titled "Gloria," on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 7:30 p.m., and on Sunday, Dec. 12, at 2 p.m. Both performances will be at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland.

The concert will feature the performance of John Rutter's Gloria, a contemporary three-movement piece. Commissioned in 1974, Gloria was drawn from the second section of the Ordinary of the Mass. The text is that of the angels proclaiming the birth of Christ, as found in the Gospel according to St. Luke.

Rutter is a British composer born in 1945. He is the founder of the Cambridge Singers, and divides his time between composition and conducting. He has penned numerous choral pieces popular in both small and large choirs, as well as other singing groups.

The concert will also include a variety of other seasonal and familiar selections. A number of solos and duets will be performed by members of the group. The Carmina Banana Singers, a performing octet, will be on the program as well.

Muriel Franc, pianist and organist, and the Garrett Brass will provide the accompaniment for the performance. Members of the brass choir are Moe Turrentine, Joe Ashby, and Royce Warnick, trumpets; Larry Perez, Herb Lambert, and Don Sincell, trombones; Dave Wheeler, bass; and Robbie Kutchman, percussion.

Tickets are $8 for adults and $4 for children 12 and under. Advance tickets are available at Gregg's Pharmacy or from any Choral Society member.

The performance is dedicated to Nancy K. Learey, the founder of the Garrett Choral Society and its longtime director.

Funding for the concert is provided in part through a grant from the Garrett County Arts Council.

Local Farmer Among LEAD Class IV Fellows

Twenty-four individuals have been named to the LEAD Maryland Foundation's fourth class of Fellows. The LEAD Maryland Foundation is the state's Agricultural Leadership Development Program.

Garrett County resident Bill Bishoff, a dairy farmer, is among these 24 individuals. He will join the other Class IV Fellows to spend the next two years participating in a series of eight 3-day seminars, a Washington, D.C., study tour, and an international study tour. Each Fellow will also complete an individual leadership project, or practicum.

The coursework is designed to provide personal development and leadership capacity growth opportunities to the Fellows, who will in turn provide leadership and solve problems within Maryland's rural, agricultural, and natural resources communities and industries.

The new class, with the average age of 36, is made up of 8 women and 16 men, representing 14 Maryland counties from all regions of the state, including Garrett, Wicomico, Cecil, and Calvert counties. Half of the class members are farmers/growers/producers who produce, sell, or work with grain, beef, poultry, horses, hay, organic poultry and eggs, vegetables, pumpkins, timber, straw, fruit, wine grapes, and/or milk.

The other half of the class has work in areas such as marketing, finance, research and education, communications, governmental relations, nutrient management, feed and supplies sales, economic development, planning and zoning, and forestry services.

Maryland's rural communities and agricultural sector are increasingly buffeted by external and internal forces for change, a LEAD spokesperson said. Those changes include such things as population growth (much of it sprawling onto rural landscapes), globalization of markets, increasing focus on the quality of the environment, and an aging rural population. To successfully adjust to such forces, the number and capacity of Maryland's rural and agricultural leaders must increase, the spokesperson said.

LEAD Maryland's leadership development fellowship program involves diverse groups of 20-25 Fellows in a two-year program designed to increase participants' assurance, skills, and knowledge for mobilizing people to solve problems. LEAD prepares emerging leaders to seek solutions and communicate in ways that will enhance the future of Maryland agriculture, the spokesperson said.

The Class IV Fellows join the ranks of 68 other people who have completed the LEAD Maryland Fellowship Program. LEAD's new group, Class IV, will attend their first seminar in February 2005.

The LEAD Maryland Foundation, Inc., is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit. Sponsors of the program include the Maryland Department of Agriculture, the UM Cooperative Extension, the Maryland Farm Bureau, the Maryland Grain Producers Utilization Board, the Maryland Agricultural Education Foundation; Mid-Atlantic Farm Credit; the Maryland Agricultural Education and Rural Development Assistance Fund, Delmarva Poultry Industry, Agway Foundation, the Choptank Electric Trust, the Maryland Soybean Board, the Maryland Agriculture Council, and other various grantors, businesses, organizations, and individuals.

AGR-LITE CROP INSURANCE DEADLINE FAST APPROACHING FOR WEST VIRGINIA

The USDA Risk Management Agency (RMA) has approved a modified version of the Adjusted Gross Revenue (AGR) whole farm insurance program for West Virginia. The new plan is called AGR-Lite and is now available in all West Virginia counties. AGR-Lite offers certain features not available under regular AGR.

For example, farmers who derive more than 35 percent of their income from animals or animal products may still be eligible for coverage under AGR-Lite. In addition, farmers will not be required to purchase individual crop insurance policies in addition to AGR-Lite; however, they may obtain such additional protection if they so desire. The maximum dollar protection under AGR-Lite will be limited to $250,000.

The sales closing deadline is January 31, 2005. Farmers should contact a local crop insurance agent for more details. For a list of crop insurance agents, farmers may contact their local USDA Farm Service Agency office or log on to the RMA web site at: http://www3.rma.usda.gov/tools/agents/

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Since it is early December when you read this, it must be deer season around Bittinger. It appears every gun owner is out in our woods as our roads are so busy with, of course, pickup trucks. Very few hunters would go hunting in any other kind of vehicle, except that it looks like the whole McHenry Barrack squad was parked on the property of one local homeowner.

It seems a shame that we have such good weather as November has never shown us. A little cloud cover and not too cold with no rain or snow or sleet. It is a shame the hunters do not get the real backwoods experience. Those bucks would mean much more if the lucky guy who bagged it had to wade through knee-deep snow or fight a howling blizzard. But there is no whiteout providing any cover for the prey.

I had some wonderful memories of deer season when I was a kid, as we had a houseful of downstate guests and the pre-dawn breakfast my mother and grandmother prepared for them of bacon, sausage, eggs, and dozens of perfect sourdough buckwheat cakes served with local maple syrup. The crew was mainly my father's cousins and their buddies. In my memories it was always real winter with a couple of snows. They used to wear the old-fashioned red/black plaid hunting outfits so more attractive than the modern blaze orange. But during the first part of last weekend I wished I was driving an orange car. It was pretty scary driving on the roads cutting across a prime hunting woods. However, you are not 100% safe even in your own home, at least according to my brother Barry, who reported to me last year that someone was hit by a shot in their Frederick area home. It certainly is not safe to allow your dogs outside during daylight hours.

During my early teenage years I was furious that I could not do my number of favorite activities such as roaming the woods on horseback. But my horse was deer colored and even if we were not an actual target, one still can't count out the stray bullets, especially with the long-range high-powered rifles now so in rage.

I can imagine how our troops travel around Iraq with so many blasts of high explosions in every direction. The only hunting I ever did was the formal fox hunting and even that was extremely proper and highly thought of with rules and customs, but still it was dangerous. Quite a few riders and their mounts were killed by a bad fall at a solid obstacle. But I can imagine how scary it must be to be in the woods with so many hunters with so many big guns. It definitely is not for me.

It sure seems as soon as deer season comes that it is time for the best breakfast food – buckwheat cakes. Even if your appetite is not that big in early morning, you can enjoy them as a dinner fare. A perfect opportunity to pig out on them will be the annual Bittinger 4-H Club buckwheat dinner served at the Bittinger fire hall this Friday, Dec. 3, between 4:30 and 7 p.m. But you better not wait until too late or maybe Randy Willey will eat all the cakes that the kitchen crew can prepare.

A final note about buckwheat cakes is that they are an excellent source of heavy duty fiber and perfect for cleaning out your digestive tract after Thanksgiving over-indulging. They are not kidding about the chemicals in turkey, as it has one of the most powerful sleep inducing components on earth. The living room at Rodney and Marci Glotfelty's late afternoon on Thanksgiving was full with sacked out adults. But the younger set enjoyed the return of the "big kids" who were home from college. They played dozen of games of Scrabble.

Their dogs enjoyed the presence of Robbie, as it was not the same as when he was away at college. My daughter Claire who was home for the holidays departed for her downstate trip to go out to dinner with Lloyd's parents. That is to Silver Spring with their version of Thanksgiving dinner with a reservation at your favorite restaurant and a handy credit card. Our family was in the kitchen all morning preparing the traditional dinner of roast turkey with all the fixin's. We had four kinds of pie, but personally I only have eyes for pumpkin pie on that day of the year. We did get our traditional Thanksgiving snow, but it was not any match for the one we got in my sophomore year at the University of Maryland which buried my boyfriend's Volkswagen under several feet of snow and extended our stay in Bittinger for several days. Luckily we took an instant snapshot of it buried under the snow to show our doubtful professors if we missed an exam or something else important.

The new bridge over the Glades is completed so Mosser Road is open again, but I was stopped yesterday by Donna Glotfelty's sheep pasture waiting for a crew scraping tons of forest topsoil off the road. How did it get there? Of course, off the logging equipment tires and big trucks. It took hundreds of years to make that soil from dead leaves, etc., and contain thousand kinds of seeds for the rare species that our hardwood forests contain. I wonder where the trucks dumped the many loads they hauled away.

I had a recent conversation with Kevin Dodge and I learned a new nature fact that the bigger species of owls liked to prey on his little sweet saw-whet owls. They don't limit their diet to wild birds. Darryl and Elliot Glotfelty lost several of their rare-breed chickens to the owls. Marci hesitated to let Toby and Cowboy outside after dark, although Toby is so fat and heavy it would have taken a very strong owl to carry him off.

Gary Buckel was just worn out from the funeral for his brother Phillip, as he had already lost six members of his family last year. Worst for him was the death last week for his little brother Phillip. I am not sure of the exact number, but way too many of the class of 1970 of Northern High School have already passed away. Gary does not even feel like going into the woods to bag a buck. But his cousin Pete Buckel did get an excellent buck already. Gary hopes to go out next week.

So far no one has seen our "white stag" since hunting season began. His fans are hoping he is far deep in the thick thickets on Meadow Mountain, or else stays in the woods where the hunters have promised they will not shoot him. However, I doubt that very many hunters know who are the woods' owners where they are hunting. Permission to hunt on private land is by written permission only. If anyone does shoot our white stag they might get a picture in the newspaper, but they will also reap bad luck and the admonition of the many wildlife lovers who prefer our wild animals alive and running free instead of having their heads on the wall or its flesh on some plates, especially if it is the white stag, which is the closest thing in modern-day to a unicorn. Even quite a few "big hunter" guys want it safe. It will be hard to know its fate during our long white winter, which makes it practically invisible and adds yet another unexpected hazard on our too-common roadway white-outs.

It still stuns me how fast and how completely night falls this time of year. It is pitch black at 6 o'clock in the evening just when my girls depart for the night. I am not really afraid of the dark, but I do get a panic kind of feeling as night falls these days.

I was surprised to get a phone call from Dottie George, who is the mother of my late classmate Jim George and also NHS secretary during my school days. We reminisced about my class trip to New York City when she was one of our chaperones. The chaperones were so busy wondering what the "Prune Growers Association" was up to that they missed the drinking party attended by some of their most favorite, upright students who dropped a trash can filled with water out the hotel window. But Dottie remembers me as "a smart girl" walking around Manhattan and falling in love with the Lower East Side with all its tiny shops selling the finest stuff – used books, records, crafts from all around the world, vintage clothes, and bakeries. I ended up years later living there for a few years so no wonder I felt so at home in it.

Dottie also told me that she was a matchmaker hooking up one of our local couples, who happen to be Bill Hady who is a relative to her late husband whom she introduced to Jenny Knox, and the rest is history. It was a match made in heaven. It is a real shame that I am so out of sync with everyone.

It is hard for me, for the first time in my life, to fall asleep lots of time when I should be calling someone to get news for my column. I am more full of energy and ambition at 5 a.m., which is no time to be making phone calls. But during the day when I could go somewhere or do something I feel like taking a nap.

I am happy to report that Rock Lodge spring is still running as well as ever even after the ground is frozen.

I heard that Lea and Mike Pochet were home for the weekend and were in church Sunday morning. Ed and Bonnie Ulrich, former members of St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland, were welcomed into new membership at Emmanuel. They reside along Bittinger Road on the old late Ed Buckel farm.

Linda Oester and Donna Glotfelty traveled to Frederick recently where they had dinner with Jeff, Sheli, Ashlin, and Abbie Gray, Ashburn, Va., to celebrate the 4th birthday of Abbie Gray.

Thanksgiving holiday dinner guests of Donna Glotfelty were: Jeff, Sheli, Ashlin, and Abbie Gray, Ashburn, Va.; Julius and Karmen Carey, Chris, Janelle, and Allison Carey, and Anthony, Mandy, and Laci Carey, all of Frostburg; Tom Glotfelty and Patti DeLano, Detroit; Tim Glotfelty, McHenry; Lisa and Amanda Platter, Smithsburg; Butch, Betty and Stella Bittinger, Grantsville; and Ida Reckner. Linda Oester, Salisbury, was an evening caller after she and her husband William returned from attending a weekend business conference at Baltimore's Inner Harbor. Donna and Ida were Thanksgiving supper guests of the Oesters at Penn Alps near Grantsville.

What's Happening At The Drane House?

by Becky Aiken and Sherry Georg

Does the smell of hot spiced cider, the sound of a crackling fire, and the taste of fresh baked cookies appeal to you? If so, then the Drane House is the place to be this Saturday, Dec. 4. The Accident Cultural and Historical Society is sponsoring a Holiday Cookie Shoppe to be held at the Drane House from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m.

The Drane House is located behind Zion Lutheran Church off Route 219, Accident. Cookies will be sold by the pound on a first-come first-served basis. Costumed docents will assist you as you select from over 30 varieties of cookies and sweet treats. The cookies will be placed in boxes ready for holiday entertaining or gift giving. Craft items will also be available.

The Drane House and garden will be decorated for the holidays. Mrs. Twylah Stewart's 4th grade class visited the Drane House this fall, and helped in giving the house a holiday feel by creating garlands and decorations from oranges and other natural materials.

Don't slave away in your kitchen baking all those holiday cookies. Instead, come sit by the fire and enjoy a free cup of hot spiced cider and buy your cookies at the Drane House Holiday Cookie Shoppe.

JUST ONE MORE DAY TO DONATE...

WARM THE CHILDREN

Providing New Winter Clothing For Needy Children

For the eighth year, The Republican is asking for your help. Without it, many Garrett County children will go cold this winter.

Just what is The Republican newspaper's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM?

The Republican's WARM THE CHILDREN PROGRAM is basically neighbors helping neighbors. We here at the paper are asking for monetary donations (tax deductible) from you, the readers. The collected funds are being used to purchase new winter clothing for Garrett County children in need. Because the newspaper administers the program, there are no added fees or overhead costs. Every penny donated is used to buy the winter items.

How are needy children being identified?

A special corps of volunteers is working right now to identify those in need this year. (Please do not call for the service. If you have been selected, you will be notified.)

How will the children's clothing be purchased?

Members of the Civic Club of Oakland are taking the families shopping at Wal-Mart. The children, with the help of their parents, may select their own new coats, hats, sweaters, long johns, jeans, boots, pajamas, or other needed winter items, spending up to $100 per child.

The Civic Club of Oakland is again heading up the volunteer/shopping coordination in the southern part of the county. Betty Ellington and Bobby Andersen are the head coordinators, assisted by several other Civic Club members. For the northern part of the county, Lisa Broadwater will continue her role as the coordinator of shopping at the LaVale Wal-Mart. Many other functions of the program are being handled by Civic Club members, for which the newspaper staff is very grateful.

THE REPUBLICAN with the GWFC Civic Club of Oakland

To make a donation, please complete the coupon below, cut it out, and mail it along with your tax-deductible contribution to the address noted. All checks should be made out to Warm the Children.

Donations should be postmarked by December 3, 2004. Those collected after December 3 will be saved for next year's campaign.

(ii) 10300 National Highway, NW, Cumberland, Allegany County, Maryland (Tax Parcel: 06-004040), and (iii) 823 East Oak, Oakland, Garrett County, Maryland (Tax Parcel: 17-001779) (collectively, the "Mortgaged Premises"), at the main doors of the Courthouse for the Circuit Court for Garrett County, 203 South 4th Street, Oakland, Maryland 21550, on December 15, 2004, AT 12:00 O'CLOCK P.M.

BEING THE SAME AS ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Allegany County, Maryland, and in Garrett County, Maryland, and more particularly described on Exhibit A to the aforereferenced Deed of Trust (and In the Deed of Trust as the "Deed of Trust Property"), which consists of three (3) parcels of land arid improvements thereon.

Bidders will be allowed to bid on each Lot individually and/or all Lots jointly. Subject to the Trustee's right to switch the order of bidding, the Mortgaged Premises shall first be offered for bid jointly (i.e., all the Lots together for a single combined bid for all Lots) (the "Joint Bidding"). Promptly following the Joint Bidding, a second round of bidding will occur pursuant to which each Lot that is part of the Mortgaged Premises shall be offered for bid separately (the "Individual Bidding"). Subject to the terms below relating to the subsequent default by a successful bidder, in the event that the highest amount bid jointly for the combined Lots in the Joint Bidding exceeds the aggregate highest amounts bid separately for the Lots in the Individual Bidding, then the Mortgaged Premises shall be sold together to the highest bidder from the Joint Bidding. On the other hand, but subject to the terms below relating to the subsequent default by a successful bidder, in the event the aggregate highest amounts bid separately for the Lots in the Individual Bidding exceeds the highest amount bid for the combined Lots in the Joint Bidding, then the Mortgaged Premises shall be sold as separate Lots to the separate highest individual bidders from the Individual Bidding. In any foreclosure sale conducted as set forth above it shall be possible, depending upon whether the successful bidder(s)/bid(s) is/are successful on the basis of joint or separate bids, for there to be as few as one successful bidder and/or as many as three successful bidders and, accordingly, for there to be multiple and different scenarios under which one or more of such otherwise successful bidder(s) could default on their bid(s). Accordingly, and to eliminate the inefficiency and potential economic risk to Borrower and Lender from successive failed foreclosure sales, Lender shall have the right to declare "back-up" winners (the "Back-up Winners"). In the event that the Lender shall determine to select Back-up Winners, then the Lender shall announce their identity prior to the conclusion of the above-described bid and foreclosure process, it being the intent of the Lender to select as Back-up Winners that person, or those persons, whose bid(s) will yield the greatest proceeds without, however, exposing Lender to a potential second default by the same bidder. Only qualified bidders will be allowed to bid — prior to bidding, bidders must deposit cashier's or certified check in the amount of $50,000 for each Lot the bidder will bid upon.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash deposit of $50,000 per Lot to be paid at the time and place of sale, except no deposit shall be required by note holder, its successors or assigns, and the same cash deposit may be used for both the Joint Bidding and the Individual Bidding. The balance of the purchase price is to be paid in cash at settlement, which shall be within thirty (30) days following the auction unless such period is extended by the Trustee, his successors or assigns, for good cause shown; time is of the essence; interest at the rate of 9.11% per annum to be paid on unpaid purchase money from date of sale to settlement. Property to be sold subject to all conditions, liens, restrictions and agreements of record affecting same, if any, and to existing leases, if any, except that it is the intent of the Trustee that any such items as may be extinguished by virtue of the foreclosure sale be extinguished. In the event purchaser fails to settle when required, property will be re-sold at purchaser's risk and expense (with defaulting purchaser liable for any readvertising and trustee's and attorneys' fees and costs arising in connection with failure) (although Trustee shall also have the right to convey to appropriate Back-Up Winner(s), if any). Taxes, water and all other municipal liens are to be adjusted to the date of sale. All other public charges and assessments payable on an annual basis to be adjusted to the date of sale and assumed thereafter by purchaser. Cost of all documentary stamps, transfer taxes, document preparation and title insurance to be borne by purchaser. Purchaser (as well as Back-up Winners, if any) may be required to execute a memorandum of sale at the time of sale. Back-up Winners' (if any) bids will be required to remain open for 40 days and deposits from Back-up Winners will be deposited and held by Trustee as security for their bids (and, if not used, will promptly be refunded).

Improvements being sold, 'as-is," whereas and without warranty, implied or express of any kind, including without warranty of merchantability or fitness for a particular purpose, and with purchaser responsible for all building and other code violations and all defaults (if any) by the landlord to existing tenants.

Town of Mtn. Lake Park

The purpose of this Notice is to identify two separate but related actions to be taken by the Town of Mtn. Lake Park.

On or about December 20, 2004, the above named Town of Mtn. Lake Park will request that the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development release funds under the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Program to be used for the following project:

Project Title: Mtn. Lake Park Sewer Improvement Project

Purpose of Project: Repair and replace defective sewer collector lines

Location: Scattered sites throughout the corporate limits

Finding of No Significant Impact

Notice is hereby given that the above named municipality has prepared an Environmental Review Record on the project described in this Notice and has determined that said project will have no significant effect on the quality of the human environment. No further environmental review of said project is proposed prior to requesting Release of Funds.

The Finding of No Significant Impact is based on the following:

Construction activities consist of installing and repairing sewer collector lines throughout the town of Mtn. Lake Park. Work will be confined to the public rights of way and depth of excavation will average six to twelve feet. All state and federal permits will be obtained prior to the start of construction and environmental impacts are considered to be temporary in nature.

The Environmental Review Record which documents the Environmental Review of this project is available for public examination at the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall during normal business hours.

Public Comments on Finding

All interested agencies, groups, and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments respecting the environmental impacts of the described project to the Mtn. Lake Park Town Hall and to the Department of Housing and Community Development. All such comments must be received no later than January 7, 2005. All comments will be considered and the Town of Mtn. Lake Park will not request the release of funds nor take any action of the project prior to this date.

REQUEST FOR RELEASE OF FUNDS

The Town of Mtn. Lake Park will undertake the project described above with Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds. This Notice also certifies that Britten L. Martin, serving in the official capacity of Mayor, consents to accept the jurisdiction of the Federal Courts if an action is brought to enforce responsibilities in relation to environmental reviews, decision-making, and action; and that these responsibilities have been satisfied. The legal effect on the certification is that upon its approval, the Town of Mtn. Lake Park may use the Small Cities Community Development Block Grant Funds and the Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development will have satisfied its responsibilities under the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969.

OBJECTIONS TO RELEASE OF FUNDS

Objections to the release of funds will be accepted by the Department of Housing and Community Development only if it is on one of the following bases: (a) that the certification was not in fact executed by the Certifying Officer; or (b) that the Town of Mtn. Lake Park Environmental Review Record for the project indicated omission of a required decision, finding or step applicable to the program in the Environmental Review Process; or (c) no opportunity was given to the Advisory Council on Historic Preservation or its Executive Director to review the effect of the project on a property listed on the National Register of Historic Places, or found to be eligible for such listing by the Secretary of the Interior, in accordance with 35 CFR, Part 800 (d) Objections by a Federal Agency. All interested agencies, groups and persons disagreeing with this decision are invited to submit written comments to the Town of Mtn. Lake Park and to the SCCDBG Program Manager, Maryland Department of Housing and Community Development, 100 Community Place, Crownsville, Maryland 21032-2023. Free Diabetes Mgmt. Classes Set In Grantsville

"Nutritious Meal Planning for Diabetes and Weight Management," a three-part series of frec nutrition classes, has been slated at the Grantsville Senior Center. The Friday afternoon classes are set for 1 to 3 p.m. on Jan. 21, Feb. 18, and March 18.

Course topics will include counting carbohydrates, portion sizes, monitoring fat and cholesterol, using artificial sweeteners, healthy food choices, reading food labels, and dining out healthfully.

"All of the recent media coverage on diabetes and weight management should not be taken lightly," said class instructor and registered dietitian Dr. Jennifer Bentlejewski. "It is true that diabetes cases have skyrocketed in recent years and weight problems are rapidly becoming one of the leading causes of poor health. Many people, both nationwide and in our community, deal with these issues every day."

Seating space is limited. For further information or to register persons may call Terry Beachy at Garrett College's Grantsville Outreach Center at 301-895-3368. The classes are sponsored by the University of Maryland Cooperative Extension and the Continuing Education and Training Division of Garrett College.

Earning ACM Nursing Degree

Garrett County resident Sara Ann Kelly Vance is slated to graduate later this month from Allegany College of Maryland, Cumberland, where she has been studying in the nursing program. She will be awarded an associate's degree in nursing during a baccalaureate service.

Vance, who took her prerequisite courses at Garrett College, is the daughter of Sheila Hardesty. She and her mother both reside in Swanton.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

MAGICAL WATER

Q. A movie and a book said that water molecules are affected by human thoughts. The movie showed water being exposed to negative human emotions and then forming strange shapes. How does that happen?

The accurate word for this is "hoax." There is absolutely nothing to it at all.

The hoax says that by using either negative or positive words, emotions and music, water's form can be influenced, producing either beautiful crystals or ugly shapes when freezing. After that, the next step is to attribute this property to the water inside your own body; and then to all the water on the earth. The theory is that positive thoughts make a happy planet via this mechanism.

This water theory is not supported by any scientific evidence whatsoever. Water itself is a pretty simple molecule, H_2O. In liquid form, many simple molecules rattle around, bumping into each other all the time. When frozen, it forms a regular crystal lattice of molecules locked together, and we use the term "ice" for that. There is absolutely NO "vibration" or emotion from humans associated with that.

What is it about people that makes so many believe a hoax? In the case of this water hoax, a Japanese "scientist" names Masaru Emoto starts with an accurate scientific fact: Snowflakes can take on an incredibly diverse variety of forms and crystal structures. Every snowflake has six-fold symmetry, but within that constraint the diversity is amazingly great.

But certain inconvenient scientific facts are never brought up. One fact is that water can freeze into an amorphous state, where the beautiful order and symmetry of a single snowflake is lost in the jumble. Another is that if there are chemicals in water (either dissolved or suspended solids), a different, irregular pattern of freezing can occur. (Freeze some salt water, some fresh water from a lake, and some distilled water to see the differences; keep an eye on it just as it starts to freeze.) The water in Emoto's experiment may not have been pure H_2O; it may have been combined with or contaminated by other substances. If any of that had been brought up, it would undercut the essential claim that how the water freezes is determined by thoughts and words.

Equally inconvenient is that fact that since the temperature of a human body is about 98°F, water never freezes inside a living body.

Most people know some of these facts, especially the last one. So why do they set aside their actual knowledge and embrace an elaborate tale? Well, it's always convenient to invoke science to buttress pleasant ideas: In the water case, the bottom line is "positive thoughts make a happy planet." It's a matter of conveying something that a person wants to believe. While it may be true separately that positive thoughts help make a happy planet, it's not because those thoughts affect water.

Dr. Sheahen is a physicist who was educated at MIT. He lives at Deep Creek Lake and has taught physics at Garrett College. Persons wishing to submit questions for this column may e-mail them to newsroom@therepublicannews.com.

NHS Graduates Earn AP Exam Scholar Awards

Two 2004 graduates of Northern High School have earned the designation of AP Scholar by the College Board in recognition of their exceptional achievement on the college-level Advanced Placement Program (AP) Exams. The AP Scholars are Annie M. Winter and Robert E. Glotfelty, who qualified for the AP Scholar Award by completing three or more AP examinations, with grades of 3.0 or higher.

The College Board's Advanced Placement Program offers students the opportunity to take challenging college-level courses while still in high school, and to receive college credit, advanced placement, or both for successful performance on the AP exams. Almost 17 percent of the more than one million high school students in more than 15,000 secondary schools worldwide who took AP exams performed at a sufficiently high level to merit the recognition of AP Scholar.

Students took AP exams in May 2004 after completing challenging college-level courses at their high schools. The College Board recognizes several levels of achievement based on student's performance on AP exams.

Most of the nation's colleges and universities award credit, advanced placement, or both based on successful performance on the AP exams. More than 1,400 institutions award a full-year's credit (sophomore standing) to students presenting a sufficient number of qualifying grades.

Thirty-four AP exams are offered in a wide variety of subject areas, each consisting of multiple-choice and free-response (essay or problem-solving) questions (except for the Studio Art exam which evaluates students' original artwork).

FSU Schedules Master's Teaching Degree Session

Frostburg State University's Master of Arts in Teaching – Secondary (MAT-S) program will host an informational meeting for prospective applicants beginning at 7 p.m. Wednesday, Dec. 8, in FSU's Framptom Hall. The program will get under way this coming summer, and the deadline for applications is April 1, 2005.

Dr. William Childs, MAT-S and K-12 graduate program coordinator, will be available to answer questions.

Frostburg State's MAT-S program is designed for career changers or recent college graduates who want to pursue a career in secondary education. The full-time program takes just over a year to complete, and provides its students with all the necessary coursework and classroom experience to obtain teacher certification in the state of Maryland.

For more information, persons may call Childs at 301-687-3087, or FSU's Graduate Services Office at 301-687-7053.

Grant Awarded To Help Businesses In Mtn. Maryland

Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. yesterday announced that the U.S. Small Business Administration had awarded a $78,950 grant to the state to help technology companies in western Maryland. The federal grant was awarded through the Federal and State Technology (FAST) Partnership Program to fund the Maryland Mountain Small Business Innovation Research (SBIR) Initiative. Only 21 states successfully won awards in this highly competitive program, according to the governor.

SBIR is a program that sets aside 2.5 percent of federal extramural research and development budgets for awards to small businesses. In FY 2005, approximately $2 billion will be provided to thousands of companies. Awards are given out in phases: Phase One provides up to $100,000 for six months to do proof-of-concept work. Phase Two provides up to $750,000 for two years to do prototype development. The small business retains ownership of all intellectual property, patents or licenses developed during the research process.

"My administration is committed to fostering the growth of small businesses throughout the state of Maryland by helping them leverage the significant federal science and technology funding," said Ehrlich. "The Mountain Maryland SBIR program will help small businesses in Maryland's Appalachian communities to more successfully compete for SBIR funding."

CHORAL SOCIETY TO PRESENT "GLORIA" — The Garrett Choral Society has been rehearsing since September to present this year's Christmas concert, titled "Gloria." The concert will include John Rutter's piece of the same title, a contemporary work with brass and organ accompaniment. A number of familiar Christmas carols and melodies are also included in the program, which will be presented on Saturday, Dec. 11, at 7:30 p.m., and Sunday, Dec. 12, at 2 p.m., at St. Paul's United Methodist Church in Oakland. The Christmas performance is being dedicated to Nancy K. Learey in honor of her founding of the Choral Society and her many years of directing it. Julie Turrentine, pictured at right, is now the director of the group. Tickets are available at Gregg's Pharmacy or from any member of the Choral Society, and persons are urged to purchase them in advance, as the concerts are usually very well attended. A feature story about Nancy Learey's history with the choral group will be published in next week's issue. Photo by John McEwen.

GC Nets Open Space, Rural Legacy Funds

Maryland Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. has announced that the Board of Public Works has approved $202,442 in Program Open Space and Rural Legacy grants for Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties. The funds will be used for playground and park improvements, and conservation easements in western Maryland.

"I am pleased that this round of approvals includes an item funded through our Rural Legacy program," said Governor Ehrlich. "The conservation easement being acquired will help protect the Bear Creek watershed and help preserve the natural landscape north of Deep Creek Lake."

Over three-fourths of the funds will be coming to Garrett County, divided as follows:

•$25,000 in Program Open Space funds to cover most of the cost of preparing the Garrett County 2005 Land Preservation and Recreation Plan, a planning project required by state law.

•$136,042 in Rural Legacy funds to acquire a conservation easement on 71 acres of wooded and agricultural land on the Bender farm, located north of Deep Creek Lake in the Bear Creek Rural Legacy Area. This acquisition is designed to protect woodland, active farmland, and wildlife habitat, and help preserve the area's scenic views. This easement agreement also stipulates that the timber on the property will be managed and harvested in accord with the Forest Stewardship Plan. Garrett County will hold the easement title.

The remainder of the funds were allocated as follows:

•In Allegany County: $15,000 in Program Open Space funds to renovate the community playground at Cresaptown Elementary

GC Officials Compile Legislative "Wish List" For Local Lawmakers

The Garrett County commissioners this week reviewed a proposed legislative "wish list" that local officials would like introduced into the Maryland General Assembly when it convenes in Annapolis in January. The proposals dealt with "tip jars," alternative sentencing options, water disconnect and reconnect fees, the Medbank program, tobacco sales, weight limits on county roads, and special event permitting.

Businessman Roger Ruff and representatives from local volunteer fire and rescue units requested legislation that would allow the county to tax paper gaming. Taxes collected from lottery ticket sales could go the county's 11 fire departments and two rescue squads, who are facing an increase in number of calls and cost of equipment. A new fire truck alone can cost $300,000, according to Ruff.

County officials noted that Allegany County already has "tip jars" that provide funds for its board of education and emergency services. They have been looking at how it licenses establishments, collects the taxes, and distributes the revenue.

Ruff said Allegany County may receive $600,000 in profits from its paper gaming tax this year. He noted that Garrett County's revenue would not be that much, but it would still be a substantial amount to help emergency groups with their missions.

"The money would stay in the county, [which would] reap it, and regulate it," Ruff said about the tax. "It's a win-win-win situation."

Director Gary Mullich, General Services, said a part-time administrative person would have to moni-

Commissioners Powerless To Stop Wind Turbines; Will Push For Studies

After the close of a three-hour presentation by a small cadre of wind power facility opponents Tuesday afternoon, the Garrett County board of commissioners repeated their position that without countywide zoning restrictions they have no legal authority to prevent local landowners from leasing their property to wind power interests or in any way regulate the size or placement of wind turbines along the county's ridges. The commissioners did indicate that in the future they will likely request that the Maryland Public Service Commission perform detailed examinations of any such applications for wind facility developments.

The session was held at the request of the Friends of Backbone Mountain, a citizen's group that opposes wind plants on environmental, scenic, and economic grounds. The Tuesday program, which featured a speakers' list of naturalist Jon Boone, real estate agent Russell Bounds, and Pleasant Valley resident and "concerned citizen" Heidi Kerns, was in the group's own words "a summary of the group's Nov. 11 program at the Pleasant Valley Community Center. That event drew 187 people, according to Boone.

Tuesday's session drew less than 20 observers, mostly from the ranks of county government and the news media.

"None of us want to see huge wind farms, but we don't have the authority to prevent it, either," Commissioner Ernie Gregg told the small gathering after the presentation concluded. "There's got to be a happy compromise."

The commissioners noted out that they did send letters to the Maryland Public Service Commission supporting an expedited review process of applications for a 67-turbine facility proposed by Clipper Windpower and a 24-turbine plant proposed by Synergics Energy, but pointed out that those letters were opinions only and do not hold any legal weight. The commissioners noted that they had studied the pros and cons of wind power facilities prior to expressing their opinions, which were based on their perceptions of economic and environmental benefits.

"We're here, and there are many more of us be-

Gov. Suggests Medical Poor Fund To Pay for Docs' Rising Insurance Costs

by Ryan Spass
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS - Gov. Robert Ehrlich Wednesday proposed using money from the Maryland Health Insurance Plan to help pay for doctors' escalating premiums, an alternative to using general funds or a tax proposed by top lawmakers.

The governor — who prefers using the general fund, but has failed to win support for that idea — unveiled his suggestion to Senate President Thomas V. Mike Miller Jr., D-Calvert, and House Speaker Michael Busch, D-Anne Arundel. The two legislative leaders support lifting the 2 percent tax exemption on HMOs to help pay for increasing rates.

Ehrlich declined to reveal his funding formula in interviews after the meeting, however Busch released some details. The governor's office declined to confirm the funding source. The funding source continues to be the most controversial aspect of writing a medical malpractice bill, which legislators hope will prevent doctors from quitting under pressure to pay a 33 percent rise in premiums at the new year. The three leaders hope to solve the issue in a special session before the end of the year.

The governor has said a special session is only possible if the three leaders agree on the major provisions of

IT'S CHRISTMAS IN GRANTSVILLE — The annual Grantsville tree-lighting ceremony was held Saturday in conjunction with Christmas in the Village at Spruce Forest and the Grantsville PTO Christmas celebration. According to Grantsville mayor Gerry Beachy, over 80 people were on hand to witness the lighting of the new town Christmas trees located at the Grantsville Town Park. Santa was present to lead the countdown to the tree lighting. Beachy explained that a new tree was planted this year, since the old one was removed by the State Highway Administration during the upgrading of the intersection of Routes 495 and 40. Decorations for the town tree were made by Grantsville senior citizens and students from Grantsville Elementary School. A small tree was also planted next to the town tree, and was decorated by Grantsville Head Start students. Chuck McCollum, town manager, and Robin Jones, town clerk, coordinated the lighting and decorating of the trees.

Ferguson Noted With "You Make A Difference" Award

Hospice of Garrett County volunteer George "Junior" Ferguson was honored with the "You Make a Difference" award during the Hospice Network of Maryland annual awards dinner, which was held recently in Annapolis. These awards are presented annually by the Hospice Network of Maryland to individuals for "extraordinary commitment to the hospice concept and to their hospice patients and families," said Hospice of Garrett County executive director Brenda Butscher. "Junior is the ultimate volunteer for Hospice of Garrett County. He is a very kind and considerate person who is never too busy to help others."

Ferguson began volunteering for Hospice in 1995 by transporting medical equipment and supplies to patients' homes. He then became the official equipment and delivery man, and later he joined the Hospice Newsletter team in the assembly line and transported the newsletters to the post office. He also assists with the annual Christmas Luncheon, Memorial Service, and the Walk For Hospice.

Ferguson's community service extends beyond Hospice, as he also volunteers for the Garrett County Historical Society and its Museum, as well as the American Red Cross. He is known as the "Cookie Man" to many area residents for the thousands of cookies he has baked for local bloodmobiles over the years. He also shares his cookies with many other local organizations, including the Southern High School girls' basketball team, a favorite of his.

"It is an honor to volunteer for Hospice," Ferguson said as he accepted the award. "I am glad that I can make a difference in the lives of the terminally ill patients in Garrett County. I enjoy being a part of the Hospice team."

FERGUSON EARNS HOSPICE HONOR – Oakland resident and longtime community volunteer George "Junior" Ferguson received the Hospice Network of Maryland's "You Make a Difference" Award in a recent Annapolis ceremony. Man Arrested After Single-Vehicle Mishap

A Bayard, W.Va., man was arrested on drunk driving charges after he was involved in a single-vehicle accident on Silver Knob Road at midnight on Saturday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Vincent Bolyard, 26, was operating a 1992 Plymouth on Silver Knob Road when he failed to negotiate a turn and traveled off the road and into a ditch located on private property. He was arrested and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, driving while impaired by alcohol, and driving on a revoked license. He was also cited for failure to stay right of center, police said.

Various Cases Heard In GC Circuit Court

An Oakland man, Charles French Stinson, admitted in Garrett County Circuit Court this week to violating his probation in two cases. Judge Jim Sherbin reimposed Stinson's suspended sentences of one year in the Garrett County Jail in each case. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Stinson, 49, had been placed on probation in January after pleading guilty in the two cases to driving while his license was suspended or revoked. The conditions of his probation that were violated included consuming alcohol and additional violations of the law, according to the state's attorney.

He was charged by local police in July with assault and disorderly conduct and in August with destruction of property and disorderly conduct. Alcohol was a factor in both instances, the state's attorney noted.

In other Circuit Court news, a charge of possession of marijuana against Chrystal Lynne Louden, 43, Oakland, was placed on the stet (inactive) docket on Tuesday. Conditions of this disposition require that she obey all laws or the case will be rescheduled for prosecution.

According to the state's attorney, Louden was charged by sheriff's deputies last February during an investigation concerning a child falling from Louden's vehicle as it traveled through Oakland. A passerby observed the child fall from the open rear door of the vehicle and land on Oak Street, and the vehicle continuing down the street. The child was taken by the witness to the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, where Louden later appeared looking for the child.

While examining the door and passenger compartment of the vehicle, deputies observed a trace of marijuana on the floor of the vehicle.

Also in Circuit Court this week, Gary Wayne Ward, 48, Baltimore, pleaded guilty to driving under the influence of alcohol. He was then sentenced by Sherbin to 30 days in the Garrett County Jail, with that entire sentence suspended. Ward was also placed on probation and fined $500.

Ward was stopped by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in July after his vehicle was observed crossing the center and edge lines of the road as it traveled north on Garrett Highway in the area of Foster Road. Ward failed a series of field sobriety tests and was arrested, according to the state's attorney.

In other Circuit Court news, an Oakland area man's violation of probation case was also heard recently. Judge John McDowell sentenced Robert Carroll Hesson, 54, to seven months in the Garrett County Jail. A motion for work release, however, was granted.

In April of this year, Hesson pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to a driving while impaired charge. The judge sentenced him at that time to one year in the Garrett County Jail, which was suspended. Hesson was fined and placed on supervised probation for nine months.

Stop For Vehicle Violation Leads To Drug Charges

A Cumberland man was arrested on drug charges after his vehicle was stopped on Glendale Road early Wednesday morning for a tail light violation, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputes.

Michael Kenneth Welsh, 29, was charged with possession of marijuana and possession of drug paraphernalia. A consent search of the vehicle revealed a quantity of suspected marijuana and a smoking pipe.

He was remanded to the Garrett County Detention Center awaiting a bond hearing.

Traffic Stop Leads To Drunk Driving Arrest Of TA Man

A traffic stop on Kendall Drive in Crellin Tuesday afternoon led to the arrest of Theodore Ringer, 44, Terra Alta, W.Va., according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Ringer was charged with driving under the influence (DUI), driving while impaired (DWI), and DUI per se.

Ringer was released on his own recognizance.

McHenry Man Sentenced In Burglary Cases

A McHenry man pleaded guilty this week in Garrett County Circuit Court to two charges of fourth-degree burglary. Judge Jim Sherbin sentenced Willie Franklin Friend to one year in the Garrett County Jail for each charge, with the sentences to run concurrently.

Upon his release, he will be on probation, with conditions that include making restitution to the victims.

Friend, 28, was arrested in April by Maryland State Police who responded to a call that Friend was trying to enter a residence along Penn Mar Drive in McHenry, according to the state's attorney.

While meeting with the complainant in the case, another area resident also reported Friend trying to enter his residence and police found Friend on the porch of that residence in the act. Police reports note that Friend was intoxicated at the time, the state's attorney said.

Mom & Dad–
Harold (Boone) & Bessie Bowers, where you are celebrating together in Heaven!

Weep not now 'cause we've passed on,
for we're with the angels now.
And we are your guardian Angels, watching down from our cloud.
And when you smell our scent,
and you dream we exist, that's when we'll try to hug you and give you a kiss.
Everywhere that you go,
and everything that you do,
we will always be there, to watch over you.
So don't be scared of what's in store.
That's just us, not a creaking floor
And there will be times we'll turn a light on, or sometimes we'll even close a door.
But every night as we tuck you in we'll spread our wings once again.
And cover you up, with widespread wings
we'll talk to you in your dreams.
So weep not now 'cause we've passed on for we're with the angels now.

We love and miss you both,

Rotary Seeking Volunteers For Christmas Project

The annual Rotary Christmas Project, which this year will provide food and/or gifts for approximately 550 local families in need, will come to fruition this weekend. Volunteers are needed for both packing the gift/food boxes and delivering them.

The packing of the boxes will take place on Friday, Dec. 10, at Simon Pearce Glass Manufacturers, located near the Southern Garrett Industrial Park. Volunteers are needed to pack the food into boxes beginning at 6 p.m. Persons should follow the signs to the packing area.

The delivery of the goods will take place on Saturday morning (Dec. 11). Volunteers are asked to come to Simon Pearce to begin deliveries by 8 a.m.

"The number of families is high this year," said Daryl Walters, an organizer of the project. "We have 125 more than ever before." He also noted that there are more than 200 senior citizens included in the recipient list this year.

"We appreciate any assistance we get in packing and delivering," Walters said.

Man Jailed For DUI After Driving Through Yards

A McHenry man was apprehended by Maryland State Police troopers Saturday night after he drove his truck through two yards, and was arrested for driving under the influence (DUI).

Christopher Otis Cheek, 32, claimed that his 2004 Ford F350 pickup struck a deer while traveling north on Friendsville Road on the approach to Kisner Road at 11:47 p.m. Cheek was arrested after failing field sobriety tests and also was charged with negligent driving. He later was released on his own recognizance.

Chain Reaction Injures One; Man Faces Charge

An Oakland woman was slightly injured Monday afternoon when her car was rear-ended in a chain reaction accident on Third Street. A West Virginia driver deemed at fault by Oakland police officers was cited for causing the mishap.

At approximately 4:10 p.m. Jonnie Jo Lynn McDaniel, 31, was southbound on Third Street when she slowed her 1997 Subaru Impreza for flow of traffic. Following her was a 2000 Toyota Tundra operated by Clark Edmund Lanthier, 43, Swanton, and behind him was a 1994 Dodge Dakota operated by Ronald Edwin Mullenax, 51, Terra Alta.

As McDaniel and Lanthier both slowed for traffic, Mullenax's truck struck Lanthier from behind, forcing his pickup into the rear of McDaniel's sedan. The woman was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by the Southern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Oakland Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the accident scene.

Mullenax was charged with failure to give full time and attention to his driving.

Oakland Woman Charged After McHenry Mishap

An Oakland woman was slightly injured yesterday afternoon in a McHenry accident that led to charges being filed against her by Maryland State Police troopers.

At approximately 4:13 p.m. Jenna Raye Culp, 19, was traveling north on the east bypass road, adjacent to a Garrett College parking area, when she attempted to turn west onto Bumble Bee Road. In entering onto the roadway she reportedly failed to observe an oncoming eastbound vehicle and pulled her 2004 Ford Focus into its path. The second vehicle, a 1996 Ford F-150 pickup truck, operated by Grantsville resident Johnny D. Bowser, age not reported, unsuccessfully attempted to avoid the collision.

Culp was transported by the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. The Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Company assisted at the scene.

State troopers charged Culp with failure to yield right of way.

Board Of Ed. Meeting Slated

Board members will meet in closed session from 4:05 until 5:30 p.m.

Beginning at the 5:30 p.m. public session, agenda topics include a proposal by students of Swan Meadow School to select a county bird and flower, a report on Southern High Schools' Mock Election, information regarding county school participation in the first Robotics Competition, a report on bi-annual financing reporting, and matters related to the Maryland Association of Boards of Education.

Action items include supplemental material for the health curriculum and personnel recommendations.

David Bender, Garrett County's Teacher of the Year, will be recognized at 6 p.m., and will provide an overview of his experience as Garrett County Teacher of the Year along with a video presentation.

Time is set aside at 4 and 7 p.m. for public comment and participation on any topic. The pubic is invited to attend.

Cumberland Man Escapes Injury In Serious Crash

A Cumberland man faces charges after his compact sedan went airborne early Sunday and traveled over an embankment and nearly 500 feet into a stand of woods near Bittinger. He bore no signs of serious injury and refused medical treatment, according to the Maryland State Police.

Timothy Craig Claycomb, 28, was allegedly speeding on northbound New Germany Road north of Frank Brenneman Road shortly after 2 a.m. when he lost control of his 2002 Honda Civic. The car left skid marks measuring 178 feet before leaving the roadway and going airborne. State troopers located Claycomb a short time later as he was walking along New Germany Road, where he was arrested because of his "obvious state of intoxication."

Claycomb was charged with driving under the influence, negligent driving and violating a license restriction. He told the investigating trooper that he is currently on probation from a previous DUI conviction in Allegany County, police said.

Personnel from the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department and Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad assisted at the accident scene.

Claycomb was later released from police custody at the McHenry barrack on his own recognizance.

A Good Bill...

Among the pieces of local legislation that will be introduced in the 2005 General Assembly of Maryland next month will be a bill that will allow for home detention of persons sentenced to incarceration in the Garrett County jail. If passed, the bill would allow judges to sentence one convicted of a crime to home detention rather than jail incarceration, if they so choose. That option already exists in Allegany County.

Those inmates sentenced to home detention would be required to wear monitoring bracelets, by which their activities can be tracked electronically via the telephone system.

There are two major reasons why this proposal is a good idea, the first of which is purely economical. It's no secret that the Garrett County jail is routinely overcrowded, and unless there is a way to change those excessive numbers, construction of a new, bigger jail (at great expense) is the only option. While home detention will not solve all of the problems with our current jail, it should at least alleviate some of them and buy some time before building a new facility is absolutely necessary.

Inmates incarcerated at the jail also need to be fed, have access to and use of utilities, and be provided medical care when needed, all at taxpayer expense. An inmate incarcerated at home would have to cover all of those costs for himself.

The second major reason is that incarceration in jail is sometimes not warranted for the severity of the crime (e.g. smoking marijuana), and tends to do far more harm than good in terms of rehabilitation. Granted, a stint in jail is not and should not be comfortable. But in some cases, perhaps many cases, the inmate comes out of jail in a worsened condition, and more likely to return to a life of crime than if he were punished in some other way (home detention, for example). Home detention is still incarceration — a removal of one from society — but it provides an environment in which a person can more easily receive needed treatment and, it is hoped, be less likely to resume criminal behavior. Currently our judges' hands are somewhat tied, as incarceration may certainly be the appropriate punishment, but a jail cell is the only option by which that sentence can be carried out.

Of course, a single violation of home detention by an inmate would mean immediate jail incarceration.

To the Editor:

I want to commend you on the editorial last week, December 2, 2004, about the reasons to "Stop The Wind Turbines." You are so right and hit the nail on the head, listing every viable reason to oppose the construction of these monstrosities on our beautiful mountains. I wish that other citizens and elected officials in neighboring counties and towns are brought into the realities of the destructive value of these turbines.

Once again, thank you and keep up the good work.

Very truly yours,
DeCorsey Bolden
Avid Supporter of Friends of Backbone Mountain

To the Editor:

Did you know that you could have a heart attack by eating unhealthy foods? You can. You can also develop arteriosclerosis. Arteriosclerosis is a disease in which fatty substances build up on the inside walls of the arteries. As the arteries become clogged, blood flow decreases. In time, this can lead to a heart attack or stroke because your heart has to work harder.

So try to eat healthier, exercise two to three days per week, and get plenty of sleep each night. It's not too late to start living a healthy lifestyle.

Sincerely,
Bryan Wilkinson

To the Editor:

I had the opportunity to travel to Frostburg State University with my daughter and granddaughter (and her cheerleading squad) on Sunday, Nov. 21. What an awesome experience! There were so many schools that competed in the cheer division, and although we knew our girls were good we didn't know just how good until they competed against an all-star team and took first place!

What a wonderful way to remember Mariah's first year at being an Oakland Rams cheerleader! We're so proud of her. Thanks, Rhonda Sisler and Maria Carr, for a great coaching job!

A proud grandmother,
Sue Fulmer

To the Editor:

What a refreshing editorial in the Dec. 2 issue. I agree totally, let's not allow the huge wind turbines to invade the county. Not only are they hard to look at, even scary, but they are not worth it at all.This county has become a haven for those wanting to look at its scenery and enjoy its beauty. These wind turbines will change all that for the bad. Energy produced from these things isn't that much and it is more expensive anyway, so who needs it?

Attention, county commissioners: Please don't ruin the beauty of this great county and cook the "golden goose" so to speak, (AKA tourists/visitors), by allowing the turbines to destroy our beautiful scenery.

John L. Grumbach
McHenry & Baltimore

To the Editor:

Do you realize how unhealthy our population has become? It is known that Americans smoke more than any other people in any other country. Smoking can led to emphysema, which is a disease that damages your air sacs and makes your arteries smaller.

People are also eating a lot of high fat and unhealthy foods, which can lead to arteriosclerosis. This disease occurs when fat clogs the arteries, which makes it harder for blood to flow through your body. This can lead to heart attacks and strokes.

Our population is also becoming obese and diabetes type 2 is on the rise. People are eating too many carbs and processed foods and are not exercising. All of the above have contributed to the unhealthy lifestyles of many people today.

It is time to take notice of your own lifestyle. Do you see yourself in any of these examples above? If so, consider exercising for at least 20 minutes every day and at least 1 hour twice a week. Eat fresh foods, especially fruits and vegetables, as a part of your daily diet. Put out that cigarette! Think of how much money you would save, and not to mention how your lungs will clear up. It's your life, and it's your choice to make it a healthy one.

Sincerely,
Kristen Yant

To the Editor:

I am very concerned with the state of things in Garrett County. The top three items are: the taxing of all countians for the water and septic needed for the wealthy lake area, the desire of the commissioners to permit hundreds of wind turbines to be erected, and third, the potential loss of our doctors because of malpractice insurance.

Thousands of people live in our county, and the decision of three men has made all of these people obligated to pay for septic and water for unwanted homes that are ruining our mountain peacefulness and making developers wealthy. This will affect the citizens' incomes for a lifetime. An important decision like this should be stopped and made a matter of public vote.

The greed for more and more money is also behind the commissioners' wish to allow hundreds of wind turbines to mar our peaceful mountain landscape. This is another decision that will make a permanent change in our lives. They want people to come to our beautiful county, but they continually do things to make it less desirable. These wind turbines belong in vast, uninhabited plains, not on our beautiful mountains! Someone has to stop this before the power of a few men change our landscape forever. The important issue also should be a matter of public vote.

How many new people will want to come to Garrett County to live if there are not enough doctors and when no new doctors can afford to practice here? This is what the county government should be working on instead of pushing unwanted projects on its people in order to gain more and more revenue.

A pristine place to live with nature and beauty – that is why we live here, and we don't want it changed by ugly wind turbins, high taxes, polluted lake water, and no doctors!

To the Editor:

On Saturday, December 4, a benefit was held at the Oakland fire hall to assist the Terry Artice family. Mr. Artice, a young husband and father, was recently hit by a rare, cancerous, furious attacker. This attacker will require in-depth treatment outside the Oakland area.

Mrs. Artice is an employee of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and several of her co-workers, as well as many family and friends, put together this benefit to help the family during this time of illness and crisis. The event included a spaghetti dinner, silent auction, bake sale, candle sale, a 50/50 drawing and two raffles for a cord of wood and a high-back wooden rocker. Fellow employees and residents/businesses of the Oakland area donated all the items as well as their time to hold this event allowing all proceeds to go to the family.

My family and I attended this event end were so excited to see such a wonderful response. When you saw the efforts of so many – from so many different areas – pulling together to help a fellow human being, it was a true blessing to behold. Many times we feel that caring and helping have been lost in selfishness, but believe me, had you been there that night, love, caring, compassion, and help are alive and well in Oakland, Maryland.

My husband and I also both work at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, and I am so proud to say (although I knew) that we work with so many wonderful, caring people. I applaud each of you for your acts of love to this family.

God bless each of you!

To the Editor:

With the Christmas season quickly approaching, I cannot help but think about our brave troops serving overseas in Iraq and Afghanistan. Instead of sharing a day of family togetherness, enjoying a home style Christmas dinner, and unwrapping gifts with loved ones, these young men and women will be proudly serving our nation this holiday season.

Instead of facing the holiday rush to get everything done, our soldiers have to work daily to ensure our freedom and safety, as well as attempt to make life better for those in other countries. These men and women do not have the opportunity to kick back and relax like most Americans plan to do over the holidays, but rather they will be continuing their duties as usual.

Considering these thoughts, I think that we need to remember that it is thanks to our American soldiers that we can celebrate the holidays with our loved ones as we do. A quick glance through history shows us the many instances that our American soldiers have protected us so we could continue to live as we always have.

This is true for the current war as well. The soldiers serving in the war on terror are attempting to protect America from future attacks from terrorist cells that hate our very way of life.

So, I think that as we rush around this holiday season buying Christmas presents, sharing time with loved ones, and enjoying our holiday meals, we need to remember our brave men and women who are fighting to protect the freedom that we as Americans love. Let us remember our soldiers this holiday season and keep them in our thoughts and prayers that they will be safe and that they will soon return home to their families. May God bless our troops this holiday season.

To the Editor/Community:

Thank you for your recent letters and calls concerning the state of Maryland's ongoing issue of medical malpractice insurance rates and system tort reform. As you know, both attempts by the governor and the House of Delegates to initiate reform or cap malpractice settlements failed to win approval during the 2004 Session.

Over the interim, the governor has been visiting hospitals and meeting with physicians and leaders of the legislative body to try to build some consensus among all the parties involved to come together to work on an agreement that would begin a real solution to this crisis situation. He continues to hope for a special session prior to the start of the legislative session on January 12, 2005, to try to implement short- and long-term solutions.

The governor recently sent an updated proposal to legislative leaders. Some of the points of this legislation are:

•Changes in requirements for medical expert witnesses.

•Limit the payment of past medical expenses, limit future medical bills to the Medicare rate of reimbursement, and exclude any amount that would have been paid in taxes from an award.

•Retains current level of $650,000 payment on non-economic damages.

•Allows for periodic payments of awards in excess of $100,000.

•Requires mediation in an effort to resolve claims prior to court action.

•Limits attorney's fees to 40% of first $200,000 on a scale ending with 15% of any amount in excess of $600,000.

•Establishes a three-year stop-loss fund to be administered by the Maryland Insurance Administration.

There is no place for politics in this issue. Every elected official must work together in a bipartisan manner to effectively re-

WALKING THROUGH WORLDS – PART II

After spending a strenuous morning waiting in six different lines, I had just entered a Vietnamese restaurant.

The morning's movement through the chairs had suddenly become the initiation ritual for entry into another realm. On the other side of the glass wall was France, but I was now in a corner of Vietnam, perhaps not as it is, or even as it was, but only as it might have been.

My usual problems of communication had just compounded. I, whose French is not very good, had to speak to a Vietnamese, whose French was also not very good, albeit in a completely different way. After three goes, I managed to convey to him that I would order whatever he recommended.

He brought me a bowl of soup; at least "soup" is the closest name I can find for Phô. The large bowl of broth was filled with spaghetti-like noodles and various incarnations, if you will excuse the pun, of meat.

He also brought me a plate with bean sprouts and with a pile of greens and fresh herbs. The idea, one I had to grasp from watching others, was to mix as much of the bean sprouts, greens and herbs into the soup as one desired. I watched bean sprouts go back to the kitchen, and I saw greens and herbs go back to the kitchen. From my place only empty vessels were returned. I am, after all, a charter member of the clean-plate club.

As I tore the mint, basil, and others herbs and greens, and blended them with the steaming contents of my bowl, I watched other platters of herbs and greens come out of the kitchen. The mixture of greens and herbs changed, platter by platter. What remained the same was the perfect, clean freshness of every leaf.

A few members of a Vietnamese family came in and sat beside me at the table set for 12. Over the following quarter hour, the entire clan of three or more generations arrived (I imagine that they had come to France much the same way). I had become the only person at the table outside the family. A meal had made me increasingly a foreigner.

Delightedly sated, I passed through that opening in the glass wall which in the three-dimensional world one calls a door. The Vietnamese family expanded behind me.

My journey in far countries was not, however, at an end. I made my way up Rue de Tolbiac and then Avenue de Choisy. All along the way were oriental businesses, Vietnamese, Thailandais, Chinese even a Laotian.

The blend of European and Asian populations, signage in oriental characters and European architecture all contributed to a sense of dislocation. Was I in French Indochina (after all, the French blundered there before we Americans did) or in Indochinese France?

Of a sudden, I was in Place d'Italie of 21st century Paris. A mobile hung high above the square from a modern building of concrete and glass. In the center of the square is a memorial to the brave, resourceful troops who marched out of the heart of Africa in order to fight the Nazis, first in North Africa and then in Europe.

Place d'Italie set the theme for the evening. I attended a concert of Italian chamber music in the Salle Gaveau. Akadêmia, a group composed of six singers and a tiny orchestra, performed selections from Monteverdi's seventh and eighth books of madrigals.

For those who have never heard of Claudio Monteverdi (A.D. 1567-1643), he did for classical music what the Beatles, somewhat more recently, did for popular music. He was the first modern composer, and he is modern still. No composer has ever produced more daring dissonance than Monteverdi. His magic was to render those haunting chords in almost painful beauty.

The bureaucratic labors of the morning, the gustatory rewards of midday and the sense of wandering through worlds culminated in an evening of exquisite sound. The notes entered through my ears and found their way to my soul. The day had been many, but as Monteverdi resolved his dissonant chords the many became one.

The Metropolitan, the superb Paris subway, has a station nearby almost anywhere in the city. I descended to the train platform, and 15 minutes later I made my way above ground again, only a five-minute walk to my door.

Just before turning into my street there is a brasserie. The hour was past closing time. Inside, the bartender engaged two customers in conversation while a third, head on his arms, slept at the bar. Outside, a couple in a kissing clench leaned against a parked car for stability, lest they should literally fall in love.

Those were the last images before I made my way up the quiet street, rue Jean Ferrandi, and let myself into the house where I live. As my key turned the lock, I thought, "This was just a day in Paris."

Grantsville Man Sentenced For Sept. Assault

A Grantsville man who pleaded guilty to a second-degree assault charge was handed a two-year sentence, all but three months of which was suspended, during a recent Garrett County District Court proceeding. Visiting Judge Paul Stakem presided at the hearing.

William Russell Lyons, 20, was also placed on three years' supervised probation and ordered to pay $551 in restitution to the victim. He was jailed in September by Maryland State Police troopers following an incident at the Meadow View Apartments. The victim, who knew Lyons and who had obtained a court-ordered peace order in August, received a phone call from him on Sept. 29 telling her that his mother wanted to speak with her. The victim drove to the apartment complex but was unable to locate Lyons's mother at her apartment. As she was leaving, Lyons asked her to join him in his apartment to discuss some personal problems he was having.

Once in the apartment, Lyons began to attempt to kiss her, and when she refused he pushed her onto a bed and held her down by her wrists. As he continued to try to kiss the victim he also exposed his genitals, according to the charging statement. The woman was finally released at 3 a.m. after a lengthy struggle, which allegedly included instances of Lyons striking, choking, and kicking the victim, who was treated for her injuries at Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Lyons faced additional charges of false imprisonment and failure to comply with a peace order that were not prosecuted by the state attorney's office.

In other District Court news, a Grantsville woman received a three-month jail term for heroin possession.

Theodora Laura Linton, 36, pleaded guilty to the charge and was handed a three-year sentence, all but three months of which was suspended, and was placed on three years of supervised probation. Her July arrest by state troopers followed a search of her Main Street apartment that located a metal spoon bearing heroin residue and a tie strap, both hidden in an eyeglasses case inside her bedroom closet. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Linton also faced separate charges of possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia that were not prosecuted. Those charges were also filed by state troopers in July after a citizen's complaint of outdoor garbage led to the discovery of a smoking pipe bearing crack residue outside Linton's residence.

Randy Wayne Dalton, 30, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession, and Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph Burnett handed down a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended, and was fined $300, placed on one year of community service, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Those charges stemmed from Dalton's August arrest by Garrett County sheriff's deputies during a traffic stop on Hutton Road. A search undertaken as deputies took him into custody for driving while intoxicated (the disposition of that charge was reported earlier in these pages) revealed a bag of marijuana in Dalton's pocket.

Ricky Jay Curry Jr., 19, Oakland, pleaded guilty to marijuana possession and was handed a probation before judgment (PBJ) and a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which was suspended. He also received a $200 fine, one year of unsupervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. An additional charge of possession of drug paraphernalia was not prosecuted.

Curry was jailed in March by sheriff's deputies who stopped his vehicle on Pysell Crosscut Road. After a drug detection canine alerted to the possible presence of drugs in his vehicle, a search revealed a cigarette pack containing marijuana and a plastic bottle containing burnt marijuana residue.

Stephen Mason Williams, 22, Mt. Airy, pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana and was handed a PBJ, a 30-day sentence, all but two days of which were suspended, and a $255 fine, six months' supervised probation, and 30 hours of community service.

Sheriff's deputies arrested Williams in March during a traffic stop on Interstate 68 near Friendsville. A search following a drug detection dog's alert led to the recovery of several bags of marijuana and a smoking pipe from his car, and a pipe bearing burnt marijuana residue from his pocket.

Vana Sue Gank, 20, Mtn. Lake Park, pleaded guilty to misdemeanor theft, and Judge Stakem handed down a 30-day suspended sentence, a $155 fine, and 18 months' supervised probation. The charge stemmed from Gank's September arrest by state troopers for stealing $28 worth of gasoline from the McHenry BFS.

Gank also faced several drug charges that were placed onto the stet docket by Judge Burnett, meaning that the cases can be recalled for trial within the next 365 days if the state deems appropriate. Those charges – possession of heroin, marijuana, and drug paraphernalia, and maintaining a common nuisance – were filed in March by state troopers following a traffic stop on Interstate 68 near New Germany Road. After a drug dog alert, police located five bags containing suspected heroin in Gank's vehicle, along with suspected marijuana, a "hitter" used to inhale drugs, and numerous empty baggies indicating a possibility of intended distribution. An additional charge of possession of heroin with the intent to distribute was not prosecuted.

Cheryl Ann Paugh, 39, Thomas, W.Va., pleaded guilty to misdemeanor theft and was handed a 30-day sentence, a $100 fine, six months of unsupervised probation, and 30 hours of community service. The charge stemmed from a September shoplifting incident at the Oakland Wal-Mart store that led to Paugh's arrest by Oakland police officers.

Gary Lee Coddington, 23, Friendsville, faced a second-degree assault charge that was placed on the stet docket. He was arrested in September by sheriff's deputies following a reported assault on his mother at their Old Morgantown Road residence during an argument about his car.

Ramona Kay Schmidt, 52, Swanton, was handed stet rulings on charges of illegal possession of a prescription medication and driving while impaired (DWI). Her April arrest by sheriff's deputies followed a report of a suspicious person at the Shortstop store. When deputies arrived they found her extremely impaired inside the store, where she had driven to shortly prior to the incident. A search found one pill bottle, improperly labeled, that contained prescription Tylenol with codeine and Alprozolm.

Charges of second-degree assault and disorderly conduct faced by Brittney Nicole Wilburn, 18, Grantsville, were stetted by visiting Judge Edward Malloy. The charges stemmed from her September arrest by state troopers after a domestic altercation with her husband at a Grantsville video store.

Timothy Dallas Wilhelm, 42, Barton, was handed a stet ruling by Judge Burnett on a second-degree assault charge, while an additional assault charge was not prosecuted. Wilhelm's August arrest by state troopers stemmed from an alleged domestic altercation with his son.

Betty Jean Cooper, 50, Oakland, was handed a stet ruling on a second-degree assault charge filed in August by Oakland police officers following a reported domestic altercation with her fiancée.

Michelle Ann Lothes, 34, Hendricks, W.Va., was handed stet rulings on charges of second-degree assault and malicious destruction of property, which were filed by sheriff's deputies following an alleged September domestic altercation with her sister.

A malicious destruction of property charge faced by Gerald Thomas Stanton, 40, Waynesboro, Pa., was not prosecuted.

Darlene Georgia Dumire, 39, Mtn. Lake Park, faced charges of possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and maintaining a common nuisance, which were not prosecuted. The charges were filed by sheriff's deputies in May.

Jessica Kathleen O'Brien, 21, Damascus, was not prosecuted on possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia charges filed in June by state troopers.

Charges of marijuana and drug paraphernalia possession faced by Karen Marie Savage, 44, Pittsburgh, were not prosecuted. State troopers filed the charges in June.

Jamie Lee Shiflett, 21, Terra Alta, W.Va., was not prosecuted on a misdemeanor theft charge filed in August by sheriff's deputies.

Jill Elizabeth Speicher, 24, Md., pleaded guilty to DUI and was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $455, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 40 hours of community service.

Dear Friends and Neighbors:

Friends of Backbone Mountain

Protect Your Property

What will windplants do for you?

Huge industrial windplants pose a major threat to the enjoyment of a quiet rural life. Most people who live here don't want the mountains turned into an industrial landscape. However, wind facilities require a lot of land. A typical windplant consists of dozens of 400 ft. turbines in near perpetual motion arranged eight to a mile, each anchored on large concrete pads within a four acre clear-cut. Without enough land, the wind industry cannot do business. Consequently, wind developers seek long-term leases (typically 30 years) from private land owners, arguing that leasing land for green energy is a genuine public service. They soft-pedal the size of their turbines, the extent of dynamiting required, and the amount of land they will clear. They say that their windplants will not disturb the lives of neighbors, but those who live nearly a mile away from a nearby wind facility have told how wind turbines have degraded their quality of life.

Do you need a lawyer?

A property owner would be wise to consult an attorney before signing a wind lease. Wind operatives may cut roads through leased property, clear-cut forests at least a quarter-mile (4 acres) per turbine, and demand access at all times, considerably reducing privacy. Moreover, wind companies typically reserve the right to cancel leases with two or three months' notice, abandoning all equipment to the owner and posting a maximum bond of $2,000 for removal of turbines only. Such an amount would not pay a fraction of the cost involved in removing tons of deeply embedded concrete pads and 400 ft. tall wind turbines, let alone restoring the land to its pre-turbine state. Property owners may also be held liable if these giant machines cause damage; wind companies are typically Limited Liability Companies (LLCs), having already taken steps to limit their accountability for problems their facility may cause.

Will your property value decrease?

Property owners should be aware that a wind lease is likely to reduce their property's value significantly. Moreover, there are civic concerns involved because a wind lessor contributes to the devaluation of property throughout the viewshed, placing neighbors at risk. Neighbors who actually live near the turbines will be exposed to all the problems which residents of Meyersdale have so graphically described. Some property owners who have already signed wind leases are now very surprised to discover what they are losing and how much distress this industry will cause their neighbors. Few were made aware of the size and scope of these wind projects–and the relentless nuisances they cause, like noise, shadow flicker and loss of TV reception.

How do you want to be remembered?

For these reasons, any property owner within view of a windplant should think seriously before providing access and transmission/communication line easements, let alone siting the huge turbines. Let's preserve our mountains by using them in ways that honor their natural appearance, so that our children and their children will understand the importance of nature in our lives and our history. Let's not destroy this legacy for a few pieces of silver.

Pros and Cons of Acid-Fighting Drugs

Heartburn, otherwise known as gastroesophageal reflux disease or GERD, is a burning pain behind the breastbone that occurs when stomach acid and enzymes flow backwards from the stomach and into the esophagus. Americans spend over $13 billion each year for acid-fighting drugs to relieve the heartburn, indigestion, and ulcers that acid-reflux can cause. The most common way to treat GERD and related conditions is with medications that either neutralize stomach acid like antacids or prevent excess acid from forming in the first place such as with omeprazole or lansoprazole. Other drugs such as liquid Pepto-Bismol or sucralfate work by forming a protective coating on the lining to promote healing.

Research has shown, however, that stomach acid can actually be helpful in the body's defense against harmful bacteria that may be present in the stomach. In a recent study of more than 300,000 people who routinely took these acid-fighting drugs, such individuals had a higher risk of developing pneumonia, possibly because there was less acid in stomach fluids to fight harmful stomach bacteria. Physicians may soon need to decide if the acid should be controlled with drugs or left to protect against bacteria.

Buyers Should Be Aware Of Gift Card Fees

Noting a survey that said that two-thirds of consumers plan to purchase gift cards this holiday season, Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. has advised consumers to find out whether a card imposes fees or conditions, or has an expiration date before purchasing.

Gift cards are increasingly popular for their convenience to both the gift-giver and the receiver, Curran noted. However, some recipients of gift cards have been unhappy to discover that the card had expired when they went to use it, or that it was worth less than its original value because fees had been deducted after a certain period of time.

For example, some cards deduct $2 per month from an unused balance after 12 months. Other recipients were dismayed that if the item they selected to purchase with the card cost less than the amount on the card, the remainder would not be refunded as cash.

"To avoid unpleasant surprises with gift cards, shop around," Curran said. "Many retailers' gift cards never expire and never impose service fees that will reduce the face value of the card."

Terms and conditions of gift cards are often listed on the reverse side of the card or its packaging, or consumers can ask the retailer or check the retailer's web site for the information.

Curran also said consumers should be aware of differences between retailer gift cards and bank-issued gift cards, which usually bear a credit card logo and can be used in most places that credit cards can be used. The bank-issued cards often have upfront purchase fees, account maintenance fees, fees for checking a balance, and fees to issue a replacement card.

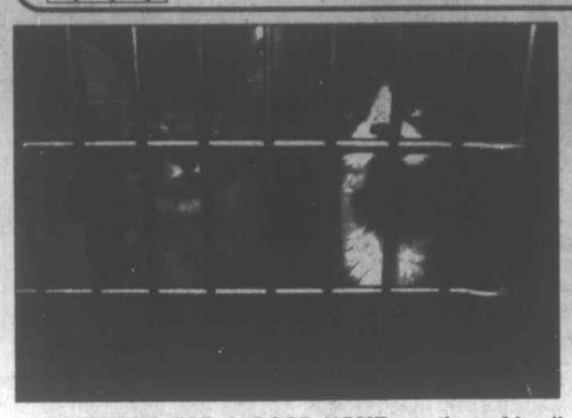
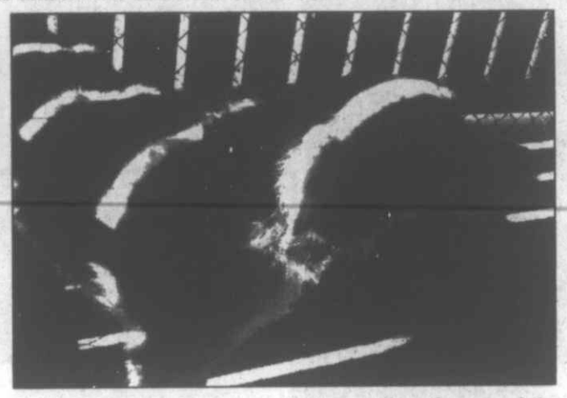
Adorable Adoptables



LOOKING FOR A GOOD HOME are these friendly felines. The one pictured above right is a very young longhaired female. Also available for adoption from the Garrett Animal Shelter is a male German shepherd-collie mix, below left, who was brought in as a stray. He was wandering around the Broadford Lake area for days, but no one has reclaimed him. "He is a happy guy!" said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. Also in need of a home is a male golden retriever mix who was picked up as a stray in the Pleasant Valley area, so shelter personnel don't know much about him. "If these dogs had identification tags or dog licenses, they could have been reclaimed by their owners by now and would not have contributed to the number of homeless dogs already at the shelter," said the spokesperson. "Lots of adult cats are available as well. Please do not adopt a pet if you are unable to provide shelter, food/water, love, and vaccinations for your pet." Spay/neuter assistance is available from the Garrett County Humane Society. For more information, persons may call the animal shelter at 301-334-3553.



Animal Shelter Report

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management reported that the following animals were recently picked up as strays and are now housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter:

Troops To Teachers Program Receives $2 Million Grant

The Maryland State Department of Education has been awarded a $2 million federal grant for a project designed to improve teacher mobility.

MSDE's Troops to Teachers Program received the three-year grant aimed at eliminating some of the barriers to certification reciprocity that military career changers face when they begin searching for teaching careers in public schools. A collaboration with the National Association of State Directors of Teacher Education and Certification, the Maryland project will help states across the nation increase opportunities for entering and staying in the education field.

"Maryland schools continue to have major teacher shortages, especially in math, science and other specific categories," said Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, state superintendent of schools. "This grant will allow us to work creatively to fill vacancies with qualified, energetic veterans of the military."

Certification requirements vary across the country, often making it difficult for teachers certified through Troops to Teachers to move from state to state. MSDE's project, one of two such grants awarded by the federal Troops to Teachers program, will review requirements in other states in an attempt to reach common ground.

The new project will recognize military career changers' qualifications and expertise, and help them acquire the additional skills they need to teach in Maryland's classrooms. Colleges and universities in the state will be invited to join the program through the teacher education programs.

Troops to Teachers was established by the Department of Defense to help improve public school education by providing funds to recruit, prepare, and support former members of the armed services as teachers in high need school districts. Since the program's inception in 1994, thousands of military retirees have become teachers throughout the U.S.

The program's success led to Troops to Teachers being made a feature of the No Child Left Behind Act. Through the new grant award, Maryland is recognized for its commitment to supporting Troops to Teachers and its national leadership in education and certification reform.

Bartlett Bucks Maryland Delegation; Votes Against Intelligence Reform Bill

by Christina Cepero
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Frederick Republican Rep. Roscoe Bartlett broke with his party — and the rest of the Maryland delegation — to vote against the Intelligence Reform and Terrorism Prevention Act of 2004 this week.

All seven of Maryland's other congressmen voted for the bill that passed the House 336-75 Tuesday, and Maryland Sens. Barbara Mikulski and Paul Sarbanes both voted for it Wednesday in the Senate.

The bill was based on the recommendations of the 9/11 Commission. It will create a national intelligence director, set up a counterterrorism center and a civil liberties oversight board, increase the number of immigration agents, and upgrade aviation security, border control, and cargo inspection measures.

Aides said Bartlett supported an earlier House version of the bill that included tougher restrictions on immigration. He voted against the final version of the bill because those provisions were stripped out.

Bartlett was pleased, however, that the final bill included language to ensure that the national intelligence director's office would not interfere with the Pentagon's ability to get intelligence to troops.

But that was not enough to win his support: Bartlett was one of 67 Republicans who opposed the bill, which is supported by the Bush administration.

Rep. Steny Hoyer, D-Mechanicsville, said that the bill is not perfect, but it does "take the much-needed steps to improve our ability to detect, prevent, and respond to future terrorist attacks."

Rep. Ben Cardin, D-Baltimore, also voted for the bill, even though it did not include a provision that would have shifted the way the Department of Homeland Security allocates funding. Cardin would like to see distribution based "more on threat levels and vulnerabilities than on per capita basis," said Susan Sullam, his press secretary.

"Maryland is in close proximity to (Washington) D.C., plus we have a number of important facilities in our state that could possibly pose a problem in terms of terrorism," Sullam said, citing the Port of Baltimore, the National Security Agency, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Fort Detrick, and Fort Meade.

She said Cardin, a member of the Select Committee on Homeland Security, will continue working to shift the funding formula. But he still thinks the bill approved this week will significantly improve intelligence operations, Sullam said, and was glad that it passed before Congress adjourned.

But Bartlett worried that Congress rushed the measure through. He would have preferred for the legislation to have been reintroduced in January so more hearings could be held.

"It was impossible to produce a good bill on such a complex issue that fast," said Lisa Wright, Bartlett's press secretary, who said Congress' haste could bring "unforeseen, unintended consequences."

After the House passed the measure Tuesday, the Senate approved it Wednesday evening 89-2, with nine senators not voting. Maryland's senators, both Democrats, supported the measure.

"It is now critical that the Bush administration moves forward quickly in providing the necessary resources to implement the bill," Sarbanes said in a written statement. "Without the funding to implement this legislation, we remain vulnerable to further terrorist activities both abroad and at home."

But for a Bethesda woman who lost a family member in the Sept. 11 attacks, the vote could not come soon enough.

"We were very, very pleased to hear the intelligence bill was passed, and we were getting a little disgusted about the politics of it," said Nancy Aronson, whose sister-in-law, Myra Aronson, was on American Airlines Flight 11 when terrorists flew it into the World Trade Center. "It's especially appropriate timing because tomorrow (Dec. 9) would have been Myra's 54th birthday, so it's very meaningful for us," she said.

PANDORA'S BOX TO PERFORM AT GC – Emily's Hope, an original play by Christie Hamilton, will be performed by Pandora's Box (a teen health theatre group) at Garrett College on Dec. 10 and 11 at 7:30 p.m. and Dec. 12 at 3:30 p.m. Admission is free. This group is sponsored by the Garrett County Arts Council, Maryland State Arts Council, and the Garrett County Health Department. A bake sale and raffle, sponsored by Friends and Families of Pandora's Box, will be held all three nights. Proceeds will go toward the purchase of Pandora's Box jackets and an end-of-the-year trip for the members. "Emily's Hope is a play about a 17-year-old girl who, on the night of her prom, is killed by a drunk driver. The play establishes a "genuine feeling of melancholy" through the use of Christmas scenes and sidebar monologues, said Lois Dever of the health department. Each character speaks about the night that Emily died. "The play will get to the hearts of teenagers and parents alike," said Dever. "Emily's Hope details with how drinking and driving can affect everyone, not just the person who was killed. This story could happen anywhere, at any time." Pictured above, in the front from left to right, are Stacey Sanders, Erin Bittinger, Clare Buckle, and Andrea Hedrick. In the second row are Kelly Baker, JoAnne Buckle, Shelly Lee, Tasha Stemple, and Maliciah McPhail. In the back are Rose Jackson, Amber Bittinger, Lauren Jolles, and Hannah Gnegy.

Daytime Theatre At OTT Slated

Our Town Theatre will host its last Daytime Theatre Workshop for the year on Tuesday, Dec. 14, 1-2 p.m.

Participants are encouraged to bring a short piece of literature about Christmas to share with the group.

Questions about Daytime Theatre may be directed to Jane Avery at 301-334-5640, option #3.

OTT Schedules Auditions For January Show

Auditions for the play 84 Charing Cross Road will be held at Our Town Theatre (OTT) on Sunday, Dec. 12, from 2 until 5 p.m., and on Monday, Dec. 13, by appointment.

The play, which is scheduled for production for January 27-30, was inspired by a true 20-year correspondence between a struggling American writer and a firm of British antiquarian booksellers. The two-decade relationship began in 1949.

"This warm, compassionate, and very human exchange was published as a book, and then skillfully adapted for the stage," said Jane Avery, artistic director of OTT.

Consisting of letters, the play involves just two actors, one male and one female, age 40 or older.

"Since the play deals with the reading of letters instead of their memorization, it is a perfect vehicle for those adults who are concerned about learning lines, or who are first-time actors," Avery said.

To schedule a Monday audition, or to obtain further information about the play, persons may call the theatre at 301-334-5640 option #3.

To date, the health department has vaccinated 1,572 persons. Vaccine has also been shared with nursing homes and personal care homes, and is currently being given to health care providers. The current supply of vaccine should be enough to immunize any interested person in these high-risk groups, said Lee.

Grant Awarded

The Maryland Technology Development Corporation (TEDCO), the state's designated SBIR outreach and technical assistance agency, developed the grant proposal and will administer the program in collaboration with the western Maryland technology business incubators – the Garrett Information Enterprise Center, the Allegany Business Center at Frostburg State University, and the Hagerstown Technical Innovation Center. The primary goal of the program is to in-crease SBIR and Small Business Technology Transfer (STTR) Program applications from the communities of "Mountain Maryland," the state's Appalachian region of Allegany, Garrett, and Washington counties.

"Maryland's participation in the FAST program leverages federal and state efforts in order to build higher education's capacity for technology transfer and commercialization," said Aris Melissaratos, secretary of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED). "In addition, the program combines TEDCO's expertise in providing customized SBIR assistance with the technical and business capabilities of the university-affiliated technology business incubators in the region, using the region's growing broadband capability to deliver online services and information."

The Mountain Maryland program will provide direct one-on-one counseling, present SBIR application development and project management workshops by nationally recognized experts, offer timely online reviews of SBIR proposals by experienced technical teams, and create an online SBIR networking program that provides access to information on the SBIR program and technology business assistance resources.

The federal grant of $78,950 will be matched by $42,720 in cash from TEDCO and $51,539 in-kind from participating organizations, according to the governor.

"TEDCO's program broadens existing mechanisms for accessing federal programs by Maryland businesses, strengthening the local companies and the region's technology economy," said Stephen J. Herman, president of Garrett College. "The Mountain Maryland initiative provides the crucial assistance needed to help and grow technology businesses in the western Maryland communities. We applaud TEDCO's initiative in developing this winning application."

The program will build upon the success of TEDCO's FAST-funded Maryland Minority SBIR Initiative, which worked to increase the participation of small businesses, particularly minority- and women-owned businesses, and Maryland's research-oriented historically black colleges and universities in the SBIR/STTR programs, the governor noted.

TEDCO and DBED recently were recognized as the leading backers of seed and early stage companies in the country, according to a 2003 survey published in the July 2004 issue of Entrepreneur magazine.

Companies and entrepreneurs can obtain more information on the Mountain Maryland SBIR Initiative online at Maryland-TEDCO.org/programs or by contacting Phillip Singerman at 410-715-4167.

Only one top performer was lost to graduation last spring, that being Eric Garlitz, who finished third in the 2004 regionals.

"We are still young in many weight classes, but we definitely see improvement this year, both in experience and overall depth," Stough said. "We are continuing to rebuild and we hope to qualify for the dual meet regionals this year."

Stough believes that Southern and Beall will be the Huskies' strongest opponents this year.

Assisting Stough is former Husky Aaron Hordubay.

The Huskies will face a stiff challenge this weekend when they compete in the Max Horz Tournament at Berkeley Springs, with preliminary matches on Friday and finals/consolations set for Saturday. They will travel to Beall next Thursday.

Mountaintop League Results Are Reported

Mt. Top Paving trailed ConDoerr at halftime, 41-33, but went to a zone defense in the fourth quarter and began to hit three-pointers to pull off the come-from-behind win.

Nathaniel Panther led Mt. Top with 24 points, while Matt Stephens netted 17 and Jeremy Skiles scored 15. Pacing ConDoerr were Dennis Gibson with 21 points, Ronald Rhodes with 20, and Mike Saturday Sr. with 14.

The score of the third game was knotted at 87-87 at the end of regulation, but Bosley Construction managed only four points in the extra period. Ram Grapplers Anticipate Another Winning Season

An experienced Southern High School wrestling team which finished last spring with a 13-1 regular-season record will get its mettle tested right away in the 2004-05 season, as the Rams and Coach Dave Taylor will open their campaign this Friday and Saturday at the highly competitive Berkeley Springs Tournament.

While outstanding grapplers Jason Weeks, Chris Bennett, and Dan Goulart were lost to graduation, a number of equally excellent team members are back this year, including reigning state champion Scott Wildesen, fourth-place state finisher Nathan Sines, and state qualifier Daniel Carr. Regional qualifiers who have returned are Justin Ratliff, Jeffrey Gregory, and Jeremy Gregory.

Also back with considerable experience are Justin Fitzwater, Brandon Manko, Christopher Tepper, Greg Graham, Andrew Pritts, and Josh Armstrong.

Coach Taylor has a roster of 33, the largest ever in school history, and there are a number of accomplished younger wrestlers who have moved into the program.

"Our great crop of freshmen includes youth national qualifiers Sean Sisler and Nick Tressler, along with Lee Custer, who placed third in the state last year in the youth division," Taylor said. "We also welcome back senior Greg Beckman.

"We will have solid, skilled wrestlers starting in all 14 weight classes," he said, noting that only seven of the 33 team members are seniors.

Taylor also stated that a "strong work ethic and excellent behavior" are two more of the current team's strengths.

As for concerns, he said that the Ram squad will have to face some of its toughest competition right away, in its first four outings.

"The Berkeley Springs Tournament is always a very tough event," he said. "Then we will host Harford Tech, which placed second in the state last season, after which we will take on two strong Pennsylvania teams in Meyersdale and Hyndman, the only team that defeated us in the regular season last year."

Taylor said that, besides the aforementioned teams, he expects Beall, Northern, Fort Hill, and North Hagerstown to also present good competition for the Rams.

"Our goals for the season are to improve on last year's successes," he said. "We would like to place higher at the Berkeley Springs Tournament, go undefeated in the regular season, and host the regional dual meet in February. We hope to wrestle in the state dual meet championships, take all 14 starters to regionals, and, finally, put six or seven wrestlers on the podium (top six) at the state tournament in March.

"These are pretty lofty, but the kids are working very hard in pre-season with these goals in mind," he concluded.

The Rams' first home match will be Friday, Dec. 17, against Harford Tech and Frankfort.

Ram Hoopsters Open Season With 56-52 Defeat By Spartans

The 2004-05 basketball season opened on a disappointing note for the Southern High School boys' varsity and Coach Tom Bosley Tuesday evening in Cumberland, where the Rams were topped by host Bishop Walsh, 56-52.

It was the third win in four starts for the Spartans, who led throughout the game, but had to hang on in the final minutes as the Rams staged a rally.

The Rams trailed 17-10 at the end of the first quarter and were down 28-19 at intermission. They battled back to cut the Spartan lead to four points, 36-32, by the end of the third period before falling behind by nine, 45-36, and then rallying one more time in the closing minutes.

But it was too little, too late, as BW's J.B. Neubauer came up with some clutch free-throw shooting (5 for 6) late in the fourth quarter.

The Rams were led in scoring by senior point guard Cory Bosley and junior center Evan Lantz with 16 and 14 points, respectively.

Corey Tressler, Southern's top scorer last season, was limited to eight points.

Leading all scorers was Spartan junior Milan Trivanovic, a 6-8 center who recorded 18 points. Chris Hendershot also reached double figures with 14 points.

The evening was not a total loss from Ram fans, as the Southern junior varsity crushed the BW jayvees, 56-27, in the preliminary game. Erik Cussins and Ryan DeWitt paced the Rams in scoring with 15 and 10 points, respectively.

The Rams will play their home opener this Friday against Beall, with the junior varsity tilt slated to tip off at 6 p.m. and the varsity at 7:30. They will host Petersburg next Tuesday (same starting times).

NHS Boys Open With Big Win Over Beall Mounties

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad opened its season Tuesday night with a 50-38 win over visiting Beall. Forward Brent Beachy led the rout with a 24-point performance, more than doubling his scoring average from last season.

Beachy had the hot hand from the outset, as the junior netted eight points in the first quarter to help Northern to a 16-8 advantage. The Huskies kept up the pressure over the next three stanzas, taking a 28-16 lead into the half and holding a 41-30 margin as the fourth quarter opened.

For the night Beachy hit 10 field goals, one a three-pointer, and sank three of four free throws, and snagged six rebounds. Junior guard Chris Speicher dished out 10 assists.

Carter Dickel scored 18 points for Beall and Matt DeRosa had 10 for the visitors.

SHOWING THEY HAVE A DOG IN THE WMIL HUNT, the Northern High Huskies downed league opponent Beall by a 12-point margin, 50-38, in their season debut Tuesday in Accident. Top scoring honors went to NHS junior Brent Beachy (#21), shown pulling up to bank in a short jumper in heavy traffic while surrounded by teammates Aaron Rawe (#1, back to camera), Blake Walker (#31), and Eric Johnson (#34). Beachy accounted for nearly half the Huskies scoring output with 24 points. See game details on Page A-13. Northern's next three outings will be a tough string, as the Huskies visit Fort Hill tomorrow and Allegany Friday, then host arch-rival Southern on Friday, Dec. 17. Photo by John McEwen.

Northern Girls Bag Elks, Fall To Beall's Mounties

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball team put on two impressive performances during the opening week of its season, as the Huskies downed the visiting Salisbury Elks Monday, 49-33, before being defeated by Beall last night in Frostburg, 58-42.

The Huskies were in the driver's seat from the outset in their opener with the Elks, running up a 12-4 first-quarter lead, a 23-13 halftime advantage, and a 37-26 third-quarter tally.

NHS got outstanding performances from two seniors expected to be lynchpins throughout the season. Guard Jeseca Gibson poured in 23 points for the evening, while center Lakin Weimer just missed a double-double by netting 10 points and hauling in nine rebounds. Gibson's game-high scoring tally came on nine field goals, including a pair of three-pointers, and three free throws.

Salisbury was led by Susan Kolb's 10 points.

Northern took the junior varsity outing with ease, 38-14, as Brittany Stein tallied eight points and Sarah Voelkel snagged eight rebounds.

Last night at Beall it was the Huskies' turn to fall behind early. NHS was down 19-8 after one quarter of play and 35-25 at the half still within striking distance. However, the Mountaineers came out on fire in the second half while the Huskies went cold, and Beall rolled up a 13-4 tally over the third period en route to a 19-point lead as the final stanza got under way.

Gibson netted 15 points with a trio of treys along the way, while Weimer contributed 12 points and ripped down a game-high 13 rebounds. The Mounties' Kacey Kahl led all scorers with 16 points while snagging eight steals. Beall had two other players record double-figure scoring efforts, as Emily Livingston scored 11 and Kaitlin Greig had 10.

The NHS jayvees were flattened by a Beall JV juggernaut, 45-17. Stein and Voelkel scored six points apiece, and the Mountaineers' Amy Farris had 15 points.

The Huskies kick off a three-game home stand Monday when Allegany pays a visit. Fort Hill's Sentinels will be in the Cove on Thursday, Dec. 16. Tip-off for the JV contests is set for 6 p.m., with the varsity battles to follow at 7:30 p.m.

NHS GIRLS KICK OFF CAMPAIGN IN STYLE – The local high school basketball season got under way this week, and the first contest of any Garrett County squad pitted the host Northern girls' varsity against Salisbury Monday night in Accident. NHS came away with a convincing 50-38 victory behind a 23-point performance by senior guard Jeseca Gibson (#22), shown above capping a Husky fast break with an easy layup as teammates Tiffany Yoder (#3) and Jessie Fratz (#12) trail the action. Below, junior forward Kayla Kipp (#34), determination evident on her face, battles for a shot at the basket while double-teamed by a pair of Elks. The Huskies are now faced with starting over with an even record, however, as they fell to 1-1 with last night's 58-42 loss at Beall. NHS hosts Allegany Monday. Photos by John McEwen.

Wellham To Remain As GC Netters' Coach

Garrett College volleyball coach Ann Wellham has reversed her decision to step down from the post and will be returning next fall for her fourth season at the helm of the Lakers' volleyball squad. Wellham also serves as director of athletics and professor of physical education at the college.

In addition to recruiting players for the college team, Wellham is looking for an assistant who has had playing experience, and who is interested in coaching at the college level.

"I decided that I was not ready to give up coaching," Wellham said. "I really enjoy working with the players and feel that our program has a positive impact on their skill development and overall personal development. My goal is to provide a competitive program that motivates players to improve their game and prepare them for the next level."

For information on the Lakers' intercollegiate volleyball program, GC's summer 4's league, the Mountaintop Women's 6's Volleyball League, and volleyball instructional clinics for youth offered at the college, persons may contact Wellham at 301-387-3052 or via e-mail at awellham@garrettcollege.edu.

Lakers Stop Essex, Crush Dundalk In JUCO Clashes

A pair of Maryland JUCO victories were recorded this past week by the Garrett College men's basketball team, as the Lakers defeated host Essex Community College on Saturday, 90-82, and then rolled over visiting Dundalk CC, last night, 84-48.

The wins upped the Lakers' overall record to 10-2 and kept them perfect in the JUCO rankings at 4-0.

Doyle Brown came off the bench to record a double-double — 24 points and 10 steals — and teammate Adam Morgan also netted 24 points, half of which were scored from three-point range, in the Lakers' victory over Essex.

The score remained close through much of the first half, with Essex holding a 28-27 lead with about seven minutes to play. But the Laker offense, behind the strong play of Brown and Morgan, ignited for a 16-5 streak that gave Garrett a 43-33 halftime advantage.

The Lakers would lead by as many as 13 in the second half and by as few as five with 2:43 to play, but the Knights would get no closer, as buckets by Brown and Tyrice Watkins put GC's lead back to nine.

Also reaching double figures in scoring for the Lakers were Lavonti Jeter with 13 points and Marco Van Pelt with 10. Jeter also grabbed a team-high seven rebounds, and Tristen Largent dished out 11 assists.

Pacing the Knights in scoring were Jamar Groves and Gary Neverdon with 19 and 18 points, respectively. Sherman Wilkes finished with 14 and Adriam Taylor scored 12.

The Lakers had a balanced scoring effort last night in their easy victory over Dundalk, with Brown pacing six GC players in double figures.

Garrett also took control of the game defensively from the opening tip-off, as the Lions were frustrated by a tenacious man-to-man Laker defense and managed to score just 17 points in the first half.

The Lakers also had to play without Adam Morgan, the team's leading scorer, top three-point shooter, and leader in free-throw percentage.

Brown recorded 16 points, Watkins finished with 14, Van Pelt scored 13, Largent netted 12, and Jeff Washington and Jeter each contributed 11.

Ten of Watkins' points were recorded in 12 attempts at the foul line, and Van Pelt was perfect in six attempts at the charity stripe.

Watkins also led the team in rebounds with eight, in steals with four, and in blocks with three. Van Pelt had five assists.

Kevin Mosley was the only Dundalk player who reached double figures, scoring a game-high 17 points.

The Lakers will travel to Potomac State College next Thursday, Dec. 16, for a 7 p.m. clash and will then take a holiday break until January 5.

SHS Grads, Teammates, Cousins Making Marks In NCAA Division I

JENNIFER BOSLEY

ASHLEY LILLER

Two multi-talented members of Southern High School's class of 2002, first cousins Jennifer Bosley and Ashley Liller, are now playing sports at the top of the intercollegiate athletics pyramid – Division I of the National Collegiate Athletic Conference (NCAA). The standout athletes, who both played for the Rams' softball and basketball teams while also putting up some fine academic numbers, are each in starting their junior years at new colleges.

Bosley has left Virginia's Radford University to continue her softball career at the University of North Carolina-Wilmington, where she is studying accounting. The UNC-Wilmington Seahawks play in the Colonial Athletic Conference.

Bosley appeared in 34 games for the Radford softball squad last year, compiling a 13-14 mark with a 3.24 earned run average. She set a new Radford record with 126 strikeouts in 159 2/3 innings, issuing just 59 walks along the way.

As an unprecedented four-time Area Softball Player of the Year, the righthander's all-but-unhittable pitching and batting prowess at the plate led the SHS softball team to consecutive Maryland state 1A titles in 2001 and 2002.

Liller, who graduated from Garrett College last spring, has begun play as a member of the Mt. St. Mary's College basketball squad in Emmitsburg, where she is majoring in business administration.

Last year at Garrett, Liller's backcourt speed and playmaking abilities helped boost the Lakers into the National JUCO tournament, as she received the Most Valuable Player award in the Region XX Tournament. She also earned a spot on the Maryland JUCO First Team.

At Southern, Liller was a four-year basketball letterwinner, and led the Rams to the state final game in 2001 and a 24-1 mark in the 2001-02 campaign. In her senior year, she was named the Area Basketball Player of the Year.

In high school, both Bosley and Liller excelled in sports other than the ones they have continued playing in college. Bosley was a standout forward for the Rams' basketball squad, while Liller was a stellar second baseman for the Southern softball team. The two were teammates on both those squads, where their leadership and unselfish team efforts played a large part in those squads' respective successes for Ram basketball coach Don Stemple and SHS softball coach Dave Bosley, both retired.

Bosley is the daughter of Lu-Jean and Dave Bosley of Oakland, and Liller is the daughter of Sue and Kevin Liller, also of Oakland.

GC Women Settle Pioneers, Fall To Louisburg, Down PG

The Garrett College women's basketball squad improved to 5-2 this week by taking two out of three home court contests. The action began on Saturday when Garrett demolished the Anne Arundel Pioneers by an 89-29 margin, the following day the Lakers were crushed by Louisburg (Pa.), 80-37. Last night GC rebounded back into the win column with a convincing 69-46 victory over Prince George's.

Garrett got off to a quick start against Anne Arundel, mounting a 43-11 advantage by the half. At the end of the contest GC had recorded 30 field goals, hitting 10 three-pointers along the way.

Freshman guard Karly Hall paced the Lakers with a game-high 24 points for the night, a tally that included a trio of three-pointers. Victoria Lawson netted 17 points. Frosh forward Westia Russell hauled down 10 rebounds, while Yolanda Anthony nine and DeKresha Davis had eight. Lawson dished out eight assists, and shared the lead in steals with Russell as each player snagged three steals from Pioneer ball handlers.

Statistics from Sunday's loss to Louisburg were not available.

Last night against Prince George's the Lakers exploded from a 29-24 halftime advantage to outscore the visitors 40-22 over the second half.

It was freshman Jami Anderson's turn to join Russell in the spotlight, as Anderson hit for 22 points and Russell recorded 19. Russell also ripped down 10 rebounds, and Anderson and Davis hauled in nine apiece. Sophomore Denae Kennedy handed out nine assists.

The Lakers' seven-game home stand concludes Saturday when Wilkes CC pays a 2 p.m. visit. Garrett's next outing, which will follow the Christmas break, is set for Wednesday, Jan. 5, at Allegany College of Maryland.

Charges Filed

bond hearing this morning, Thursday, Dec. 9.

Authorities are also seeking Shante Tawana Roberts, 23, aka Chante Roberts, Bronx, N.Y., the last suspect in these cases. She is considered a fugitive for her involvement in the first alleged robbery. She is wanted on armed robbery, assault, and theft charges.

According to reports, Roberts has ties to the Cumberland area and may be in the New York area at this time. A reward is also being offered for information leading to her arrest.

According to authorities, the first robbery occurred Nov. 2 when Gray, Roberts, and Stanford picked up the victim, who was allegedly selling marijuana, then drove to a nearby intersection where the two passengers pointed guns at him, took his marijuana, and made him depart on foot.

The second robbery reportedly occurred on the evening of Nov. 9 when the same victim was walking toward his residence in Accident and he was confronted by two males wearing ski masks and carrying guns. The suspects ordered the victim inside the residence and reportedly demanded money and drugs. The victim produced a quantity of money, and the suspects departed without incident, police said.

Persons with information concerning these incidents or the whereabouts of Roberts are urged to contact GBI Detective Aaron Wilson at 301-334-1909 or their nearest police department.

sides, asking you to tell the Public Service Commission, and the public, that you do not support these projects," Boone retorted. "Requesting expedited reviews of these projects sets a bad precedent that other wind developers will take note of."

"Many of you are remiss in what we can and can't do," said Gregg. "We have no land controls, and no countywide zoning, so basically we'd be unarmed even if we did actively oppose a wind project."

Planning director John Nelson echoed Gregg's remarks when Boone countered, "You don't need zoning, you can amend the county development plan."

"We can under the plan regulate height," Nelson explained, "but under a plan we can't pluck out and decide to apply a restriction to one structure and not to others. It must be on a countywide basis," which in effect means zoning, the commissioners added.

Cumberland-based attorney Gorman E. Getty III, the county's legal advisor, underscored the commissioners' position in a letter that responded to their request for clarification on the matter. "The Board of County Commissioners for Garrett County has adopted land use as a part of the Deep Creek Watershed Zoning Ordinance, but has not adopted a comprehensive countywide regulation of land use," Getty wrote in his letter, which was distributed at the Tuesday afternoon session.

"Based upon my review of the existing provisions of Maryland law, it would appear to me that the county's role is limited to one of essentially three roles: to actively participate in the encouragement of the location of such facilities, to actively oppose the location of such facilities in the county, or to take no public position with respect to these facilities.

"Because there is no formal regulation of the land use by the county, the county essentially, as a government, is in a position where it may, if it chooses, seek to sway public opinion or the opinion of those parties who do have regulatory authority, such as the Public Service Commission, or to choose not to participate in that process at all. While it is a matter which appears to have garnered much public interest, I am not aware of any formal role that the county has or is required to take, nor am I aware of any requirement that the county take a position, either for or against such facilities," Getty wrote.

Gregg told Tuesday's gathering, "Over the past two years, since this issue first surfaced, I can count on the fingers of two hands the number of opinions I've gotten from citizens opposing windmills, while on a routine basis we have citizens telling each of us – with some comments directly addressing this issue – 'Don't tell me what to do with my own property.' That's what it would take, and the people do not want that."

County administrator Monty Pagenhardt said yesterday, "The bottom line is that without zoning, there's nothing the commissioners can do. They are considering sending a revised letter to the Public Service Commission asking that the Synergics application undergo a thorough study rather than an expedited review, but that's basically an opinion just like the first letters were. We can't pick and choose land use without zoning."

Boone told the commissioners that the Friends of Backbone Mountain would be consulting its own lawyer to secure another opinion on what the county's legal options are. In the meantime, the group is continuing to explore legal action to try to stave off the Clipper facility, which has already met with PSC approval, and the Synergics facility, which is still under PSC review.

TIME OFF PAYS OFF – Southern Middle School student Dakota Workman, 12, took time off from his studies during the week of Thanksgiving to go hunting in West Virginia. He bagged his first deer ever, an 8-point buck, with a 7mm-08 rifle on private property in Pocahontas County. The young hunter is the son of Beverly Hamrick, Swanton, and Jason Workman, Hillsboro, W.Va.

Wish List

tor the process and a deputy would have to make periodic inspections at the gaming sites.

Lottery sales in Garrett County in FY 2004 amounted to about $2.6 million, according to Mullich.

Garrett County Sheriff's Office personnel also requested legislation that would give the county "legal authority to establish and administer expanded alternate sentencing options," including home detention.

"I think this is really a good idea," said Commissioner Fred Holliday. But he wondered if judges were inclined to support it.

Lt. Cindy Smith, Community Service Program coordinator, said the proposed legislation would not put any additional stipulations on judges. It would just give them different sentencing alternatives.

It could also save the county money. Sheriff Dick Sanders noted that the county has to pay inmates' medical bills if they serve their time in the county jail. With home detention, the county is not obligated to do so.

Smith added that Allegany County already has home detention as a sentencing option. She has been looking at that program as a possible model for Garrett County.

Director Mark Tonkvich and his Garrett County Public Utilities staff asked for a bill that would give the Garrett County commissioners the legal authority to establish and amend water disconnect and reconnect fees.

Tonkovich said the proposed legislation would serve a dual purpose. It would allow the department to establish disconnection/reconnection fees and to modify those fees as needed to cover labor and overhead costs in delinquent payment cases. Additionally, it could serve as an incentive to customers to pay their bills on time. Currently, there is no cost involved in disconnection or reconnection.

"This won't set rates," said county administrator Monty Pagenhardt. "It just gives us the authority to address the issue [of delinquent customers]."

Health officer Rodney Glotfelty would also like legislation to secure funding for the Medbank of Maryland Program.

"This will probably take having the governor reinstate the line item for Medbank of Maryland in the state budget to a level of $2,000,000," he said. "This will allow for all Medbank programs throughout the state, including ours, to be funded at their current levels and probably allow for some modest expansion in certain areas, such as the Eastern Shore."

Medbank helps low-income, chronically ill, uninsured, and underinsured individuals throughout the state get prescription medications at low or no cost through patient-assistance programs maintained by pharmaceutical companies.

Because of state budget cuts and operational changes last spring the Garrett County Health Department was in danger of losing the service. The commissioners, however, were able to allocate stopgap funds for the program in the county's FY 2005 budget.

About 600 Garrett County residents get their medications through the Medbank program, according to the health officer. More information about the service may be found on page B-1 in this edition of The Republican.

Additionally, Glotfelty requested that a tobacco-placement bill introduced during the 2004 General Assembly session be resubmitted. Introduced by Garrett and Carroll county health officials, the proposed legislation would limit minors' access to tobacco products at retail establishments. The bill failed to pass last year because of an unrelated amendment that had been attached to it, the health officer noted.

Fred Polce, general superintendent of the Garrett County Roads Department, would like local lawmakers to also introduce legislation giving the county "the legal authority to increase the maximum weight limit on all county roads by special exception to the tonnage allowable for state highways."

"It would be on a road-by-road by basis," said Commissioner Ernie Gregg.

A public hearing would be held prior to any actual change in the weight limit of the county road, county officials noted. Polce also stressed that there were no particular roads targeted for an increase at this time.

"It just gives us the option to do so," he said about the proposed legislation.

County officials will also ask Hafer and Edwards to introduce legislation that would give the Board of Garrett County Commissioners the legal authority to impose "special event" permitting. The Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development and the county attorney will draft the specifics of the issue.

Director Gary Mullich, General Services, said with the growth of the county, it was becoming more difficult to keep up with all of the events taking place and to ensure that coordinators were following proper food, alcohol, and safety regulations.

Criteria for issuing a special event permit could be based on a certain number of expected participants, restroom facilities, and security measures. The word "public" would also have to be defined, county officials noted.

The commissioners will go over the legislative requests further and present them to Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards on Tuesday, Dec. 28, for their consideration.

•In Washington County: $23,400 in Program Open Space funds to construct a gravel roadway and parking lot to accommodate users of the softball field and the new multipurpose field at Veteran's Park in the town of Smithsburg.

"The Department of Natural Resources' Program Open Space is a nationally recognized program that provides funding for Maryland's state and local parks and conservation areas," agency spokesperson Heather Lynch said. "More than 4,600 county and municipal park and conservation projects have been completed through the program, improving the quality of life for millions of Marylanders.

"The Rural Legacy Program is designed to preserve large blocks of contiguous open space that are among Maryland's most valuable lands because of their multiple agricultural, forest, natural, and cultural resources," Lynch continued. "To protect these resources, the Rural Legacy Program acts through local governments and private land-trust sponsors to purchase conservation easements from willing property owners."

For further information on Program Open Space, persons may contact regional administrator John Braskey by calling 301-777-2030, or via e-mail at jbraskey@dnr.state.md.us. Details on the Rural Legacy Program can be obtained from Garrett County planning director John Nelson at 301-334-1920, or via e-mail at johnn@garrettcounty.org.

State Sets Standards For Professional Quality Development For Teachers

Effective professional development for educators involves opportunities for learning with peers, strong leadership, adequate resources, and a clear consensus about expectations for teacher quality, according to new standards put in place this week by the Maryland State Board of Education.

Professional development should focus on strengthening instruction and should reflect an understanding of what teachers need to know to help students learn and what teachers know about how adults learn, the new standards say.

The new Maryland Teacher Professional Development Standards, produced with the help of nearly 1,000 educators, are intended to guide efforts to strengthen teaching in the state's classrooms. Along with the Maryland School Assessment and the Voluntary State Curriculum, the standards represent the state's three-pronged approach to improving instruction for all students.

The standards call on schools and systems to work together with higher education and other stakeholders to ensure that professional development is of the highest quality and readily accessible to all teachers. The standards also emphasize the central role of teachers themselves in constructing programs, along with school leaders, district staff, college and university professors, and MSDE.

"Teachers are at their best when they are actively engaged in their own learning," said State Superintendent of Schools Nancy S. Grasmick. "These new standards serve as a blueprint for all of us to follow in supporting teacher learning to ensure they have the tools they need to help all of our students master challenging material."

The new standards are the work of the 26-member Maryland Teacher Professional Development Advisory Council, which Dr. Grasmick convened in January 2003. She called on the group to develop a set of standards that would address Maryland's priorities for improving education for all students and to make recommendations for implementing the standards over time.

Unique to the process was the involvement of nearly 1,000 educators through a series of 72 focus groups that took place throughout the state. Information from those meetings helped the committee hone its recommendations for professional development.

The standards and indicators developed by the council provide local and state leaders with a yardstick by which to judge professional development programs.

The nine standards derived are:

Content Knowledge and Quality Teaching – Professional development that deepens a teacher's content knowledge as well as the skills necessary to learn and use the best instructional strategies and assess student progress.

Research-Based – Professional development that helps teachers apply research to decision-making.

Collaboration – Professional development that assists teachers to collaborate to improve instruction.

Diverse Learning Needs – Professional development that ensures teachers have the knowledge, skills, and dispositions to meet the variety of learning needs of their students.

Student Learning Environments – Professional development that helps teachers create safe, secure, and supportive learning environments.

Family Involvement – Professional development that provides teachers with the skills and knowledge to involve families and other community members as partners in the educational process.

Data-Driven – Professional development that is based on rigorous analysis of data.

Evaluation – Professional development that is evaluated on its effectiveness in improving teaching and student learning.

Design and Teacher Learning – Professional development that includes ongoing opportunities for practice, reflection, and feedback.

The standards can be used to plan, implement, and evaluate the wide spectrum of professional development available to teachers, including study groups, coaching and mentoring relationships, serving on school improvement teams, attending workshops and professional conferences and enrolling in graduate courses. The standards can also guide decisions about spending on professional development.

PAWS CALENDARS STILL AVAILABLE – Those wishing to support animal welfare programs in Garrett County are reminded that the 2005 PAWS (Partners for Animal Welfare and Safety) calendars are still available for $8, with all proceeds benefiting the PAWS spay/neuter and education programs. The photo above, taken by 13-year-old Brittany Upole, Terra Alta, W.Va., is among the 12 prize-winning photographs in this year's edition. This picture of Brittany's sister Ashley and her kitten Asha won second place in the PAWS annual photo contest (Pets and People category). "The calendars make great gifts for the animal lovers on your Christmas list," said a PAWS spokesperson. They will be available through Jan. 1 and may be purchased at the Book Mark'et, Gregg's Pharmacy, and Tropical World in Oakland; Bill's Outdoor Center, Cobblestone Alley Gifts, and Schoolhouse Earth at Deep Creek Lake; Animal Crackers Grooming in Accident; and MuttWorks Grooming and Fernwood Soap in Grantsville.

W.Va. Woman Faces Drug, DUI Charges

A Grant County (W.Va.) woman was arrested in Oakland early Friday morning on charges including drug possession and driving while under the influence.

At approximately 1 a.m. Oakland police officers were summoned to the Oak Street BFS, where it was reported that store employee Jessica Lynn Gaither, 22, Bayard, had been harassing a co-worker. When the officers left BFS, they observed Gaither driving on Oak Street and then in the BFS parking lot.

An investigation revealed that Gaither was allegedly intoxicated, and she was subsequently arrested for DUI. A search of her vehicle uncovered suspected marijuana and a smoking device.

Gaither was transported to the detention center for a bond hearing. She is charged with DUI, possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, resisting arrest, and failure to obey a lawful order. Oakland police officers were assisted by sheriff's deputies during the investigation.

Gaither was released from the Garrett County Detention Center after she posted a $2,500 bond set by a District Court commissioner.

GC United Way Sets 2004-2005 Campaign Target

United Way of Garrett County's fundraising campaign kicked off in October with the second annual Day of Caring and Sharing, and announced this year's campaign target as $100,000.

"Each year, United Way depends on volunteers to facilitate the fundraising campaign, many of whom may be your friends, relatives or neighbors," said Robin Murray, campaign chair. "This year's campaign committee is eager to surpass the $100,000 goal and is committed to making the Garrett County community a better place to live."

Last year the United Way of Garrett County and their affiliates achieved the following:

•8,200 residents were educated regarding the dynamics of domestic violence and sexual assault via the Dove Center.

•2,459 residents received blood services via the American Red Cross.

•223 youth participated in mentoring programs offered by Big Brothers Big Sisters, Boy Scouts of Potomac Council, and Maryland Salem Children's Trust.

•100 patients were given prescription medication assistance via the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

•40 individuals were given the basic necessities including shelter, utilities and food via the American Red Cross Disaster Relief.

•30 elderly residents attend day care services via Mountain Glade Adult Day Service.

•Two economically disadvantaged families were given assistance in creating a better human habitat in which to live and work via Garrett County Habitat for Humanity.

Donations received from individuals, local businesses, payroll deductions, and annual events are used to fund several different local agencies. "It is often difficult to choose just one organization to receive your charitable contribution, but by donating to United Way, you do not need to choose which charity or special need is more important," said Murray. "United Way takes this difficult decision and places your dollars where they will have the most impact in our community. Over 18 organizations feel its strength in Garrett County.

"Every pledge is vital to our local programs. Any size donation is greatly appreciated and will help us respond to crisis in our neighborhoods, invest in our local children, and strengthen our families within our community."

Contributions may be mailed to United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550; or can be made online by visiting www.national.-unitedway.org/give and entering "21550" in the ZIP Code box.

The United Way of Garrett County, formed in April of 2000, is fully supported by contributions from individuals and businesses in the community. Affiliated organizations have met the requirements of the United Way of Garrett County by delivering community services to improve the quality of life for the county.

Volunteer representatives from the United Way of Garrett County are available to any businesses or organization interested in learning more about the agency. For further information on volunteering or supporting, or to receive an application for affiliation, persons may call the United Way of Garrett County at 301-359-9697, or visit its web site at www.garrett-unitedway.org.

Contributions may be mailed to the United Way of Garrett County, P.O. Box 394, Oakland, MD 21550.

Gov. Suggests

new legislation, including the funding source.

But the speaker opposes the governor's new proposal to use MHIP as the solution.

"We're not taking money away that underwrites the poorest of the poor," Busch said. "We're not shifting that money out of there and taking insurance coverage away from the neediest Marylanders."

According to its Web site, MHIP is a state administered health insurance program for Maryland residents who do not have access to health insurance.

Busch said the funding source must be new — not a present pool of money.

"If (Ehrlich) wants to come up with a new revenue source . . . that's fine," Busch said. But MHIP "is not a funding source - it's an existing program."

Yet Ehrlich opposes use of the HMO tax because it would tax poorer Marylanders.

But the speaker called that claim "ridiculous," and added that he doesn't see the Senate or the House "backing off the HMO tax."

Both chambers have crafted medical malpractice proposals — the House in a bill last session and the Senate in a task force that concluded last week.

"I think where we are is an HMO tax for a funding source and a combination of the House bill and the Senate bill," Busch said. Miller was unavailable for comment. Despite disagreement on the funding source, Ehrlich said he, Miller, and Busch made "a lot of progress on tort reform issues" and was confident that there was little or no controversy on patient safety reforms. The governor said he remains optimistic that a special session will be convened by the end of the year, but added that it's "impossible to specify a date."

Busch said a special session must occur by Dec. 17 or the issue won't be resolved until regular session, which begins Jan. 12.

Delegate Brian Feldman, D-Montgomery, gave meeting the speaker's deadline a 50 percent chance. Delegate Charles Boutin, R-Harford, said a special session could occur Jan. 10-11, just two days before the regular session.

The problem with a special session in January, Boutin said, is that doctors' insurance payments will be overdue by then.

Busch said it is possible that Medical Mutual — the company that insures 75 percent of Maryland physicians — would prolong the "courtesy period to the end of January" in anticipation of a funding source.

But Medical Mutual has no intention of extending the Jan. 1 deadline, said company spokesman John Franklin.

"Medical Mutual must maintain the existing timetable for physician payments on their medical malpractice insurance coverage" to ensure doctors working on New Year's Day will be covered, Franklin stated in an e-mail.

Doctors are growing increasingly frustrated that legislators are moving slowly — "like molasses in winter" — to resolve the issue. Some of them said they won't pay their premiums by Jan. 1, and others are shutting down their practices altogether [illegible]

"We will not sit back and allow this to occur," Karl Riggle, a Washington County surgeon said Dec. 1. "The stakes are too great. We plan to continue making our appeal, loud and clear, in the best interests of the citizens of this state."

solve this serious problem so that we do not lose our physicians and our access to quality medical care. While we have no solution in place at this moment, I am committed to finding and instituting a long-term solution to this complex issue, along with our local delegation and our governor.

I look forward to keeping you informed of our progress during the 2005 General Assembly.

Sincerely,
John J. Hafer
State Senator
District I

To the Editor:

I had hoped to take a longer hiatus from writing letters to The Republican, but your editorial about wind turbines agitated me and provoked me to write again. I am not sure whether you are just energy ignorant or suffer from NIMBY (not in my back yard) or both. As a consultant for the U.S. Department of Energy for over 15 years and now as an employee of the same, I feel somewhat qualified in writing this article. This country has enjoyed a long history of low-cost energy and as a result, our economy has benefited. However, this has come at a cost in terms of the environment and to protect regions of the world that supply this country with oil. Furthermore, the days of low-cost oil and gas are gone.

The foundation of any national energy policy (we have not had one since the late 1980s) should be conservation and energy independence. Unfortunately, Americans consume 25% of the world's energy. Oil imports continue to rise and now stand at more than 55% of the oil consumed. Projections are that by 2015 we will import as much as 15% of our natural gas needs. Reducing our energy dependence requires a change in the American mindset. Have we not learned our lessons from years of oil dependence?

The point is, as American citizens we need to conserve energy and be more open to new energy alternatives that reduce our dependence on foreign energy. Alternative energy sources such as wind, solar, hydro, and geothermal all offer benefits and need to be considered in the energy mix. The same can be said for coal, for which this country has enormous reserves. But coal comes at a cost; polluted streams and air, and leveled mountains. Some will argue that new technology can reduce or eliminate much of the environmental impact from coal. My response to this is that technology has also made nuclear power safe and more environmentally benign. France is powered by 70 percent nuclear. Yet, in this country NIMBY attitudes have halted any proposed construction of new nuclear plants.

In closing, I have but two simple questions to the editor. First, what is worse, wind turbines obscuring our mountain views or clear cutting to build ugly million dollar condominiums? Second, since when have the fertile soils of the Midwest, the nation's breadbasket, become tracts of "virtually worthless" land?

Robert Vagnetti
McHenry

Mr. Vagnetti:

To answer your questions, (#1) your conclusion seems to be that putting up wind turbines is an effective way to stop construction of "ugly million-dollar condominiums." I can think of dozens of other ways to control development, and not one of them involves the erection of wind turbines. And only a tiny percentage of people who come to enjoy Garrett County have the means and/or the intention of building or buying an ugly, million-dollar condominium.

As for the "virtually worthless" land (#2), I'm referring to the vast areas of ground (okay, more so in the far west than the Midwest) that are unsuitable for any other use. Given your background as a consultant, I'm sure you have flown over those stark, barren, hundreds of thousands of acres of steep-slope, otherwise useless land that exist in a couple dozen states out west.

Finally, your letter implies that I am opposed to aggressively working toward the discovery of new energy sources, or that I am an advocate for continued use of coal and oil to produce electricity. Nothing could be further from the truth. I agree with you that more nuclear power plants are needed in this country, and are far safer than most people realize. I would advocate construction of one right here in Garrett County in lieu of wind turbines.

What your letter fails to say is how much energy these wind turbines produce. What are the percentages? How many of them are needed to replace the energy produced by a single coal-fired plant? Give me some numbers. Maybe I am "energy ignorant." Since you are the expert, I'm sure you can provide for me and all of our readers those statistics. Let's try to be as objective as possible and let the numbers help us decide whether or not we are for or against wind turbines.

Editor

To the Editor:

Please let me clear up the misconceptions and red herring issues raised by the letter written by Mr. Ed Clemons (Nov. 4 issue).

First, no pity was ever suggested — I merely expressed sadness over the illusions offered by election year rhetoric by politicians named Bush, citing examples which were never refuted by our correspondent.

Second, as a registered Republican in Baltimore City I served as a voter registrar for hundreds of college students at a dozen colleges in the early 1970s and received a letter of commendation from Barbara Jackson for my work, so to claim that "the left is attacking without the facts again" shows just how erroneous our correspondent is.

Third, I don't understand why being class president has any relevance to the facts set forth in my October 28 letter, but suffice it to note I was student government treasurer for my entire college in the early 1970s and spoke before the Joint House-Senate Conference Committee on Student Loans and had my picture taken with Maryland Senator Glenn Beall and Maryland Congressman Charles "Mac" McMathias (both Republicans), so I have likewise been one of the most informed people in my age group, but in my case this has occurred for decades and preceded the time our correspondent was wearing diapers.

Fourth, I have a full understanding of the flip-flop ways of the Bush administration, and since 30 documented examples can be found on numerous websites, there is no need to repeat them here, but suffice it to say I will respond to the "lying lies" of the individuals who categorize themselves as representing the "right."

Fifth, it was very revealing for our correspondent to belatedly disclose he is not worried about being drafted due to health reasons. The October 14 letter concealed this fact, which was certainly relevant to the very issue under discussion. Most people with any sense of ethics feel a duty to disclose their personal interests in an issue, and reveal when an issue for which they are arguing will not personally affect them.

Sixth, there was never any personal attack made against our correspondent, and any rational examination of the original letter will clearly demonstrate there was merely a rebuttal to some erroneous claims. In fact, Ron Krug's October 28 letter on page A-5 of the same Republican elucidated further details about Congressman Rangel's draft bill and the purpose for which it was introduced, but drew no wrath or response from our correspondent.

Seventh, at no time was there any name-calling, and at no time was our correspondent disparaged, since delusions suffered from raw political media spin, unanalyzed, is not the fault of those suffering under its spell as much as those who offered the palaver for public consumption. It would seem that if someone felt "attacked" when I just highlighted some essential truths, then the only logical reason for such result would be insecurity on the part of the person who perceived general elucidation of as such a personal "attack."

And eighth, the moon must indeed be made of blue cheese if I am supposed to believe who "cares about every single person" feels free to cast such aspersions and spew such venom to demonstrate this care. What's truly ironic is that this letter appeared directly under the "Call for Unity" editorial, which advised in part we should "uphold standards of civilized discourse in...letters to the editor..." With the discourse displayed by our correspondent, it's easy to understand why many people believe it is no longer possible to have intelligent political discussions.

I HEART HUCKABEES

Rated R - Running Time: 1:46 - Released 10/22/04

What Is Life All About?

This question has been the focus of debate, analysis, philosophy, psychotherapy, written works ranging from Kierkegaard's Fear And Trembling to Douglas Adams's The Hitchhiker's Guide To The Galaxy, and general human discourse, probably since man first began to think in the abstract. Most people rely on religion to provide a relatively simple answer—i.e., it's all in the hands of the Almighty; He has a plan which we cannot possibly comprehend, so we need not worry about it. But there are some of us, lying awake at night in an anxiety-filled insomniac flop-sweat, who need more. For those who seek a deeper understanding of why we're here, why the universe is here, where it came from, where it's going, what it means...the study of existentialism provides a fascinating diversion, if not an answer per se. I suppose the real answer is that there are no answers. But that is what David O. Russell's funny and thought-provoking I Heart Huckabees is all about.

Written and directed by Russell with screenplay assistance from Jeff Baena, the film follows a young Los Angeles environmentalist and poet named Albert Markovski (Jason Schwartzman) who has formed a coalition of like-minded tree-huggers to lobby against the proposed construction of a giant new Huckabees department store on a picturesque tract of swampland. Being a spiritual person interested in the interconnectedness of things, Albert believes that there is some significance to the fact that he has seen the same man—a tall, African stranger—three times in the last week. So he hires Bernard and Vivian Jaffe (Dustin Hoffman, Lily Tomlin), a husband-and-wife team who call themselves "existential detectives," to follow him through every moment of his life and thereby ascertain not only the meaning of this coincidence, but the reason for all the fear, doubt, and anxiety he suffers each day. In doing this, they introduce him to their theory that every person, thing, concept, and experience is connected in some way, like the threads in a giant blanket.

The Jaffes' investigation brings them inevitably to an acquaintance of Albert's, the Huckabees corporation's appointed ecologist Brad Stand (Jude Law, managing a flawless American accent), who has recently begun to take control of Albert's coalition by using his good looks and oily charm to strike some sort of corporate-friendly compromise. They also meet Brad's girlfriend Dawn Campbell (Naomi Watts), whose starring role in the Huckabees advertising campaign has made her face and voice practically synonymous with the corporation. When Brad meets the Jaffes, he is so intrigued that he and Dawn become their next clients. This causes Albert even more anxiety, so the Jaffes introduce him to Tommy Corn (Mark Wahlberg), yet another meaning-seeker and environmentalist, who has recently been seduced away from the big-blanket theory toward the nothing-means-anything philosophy of a French existentialist named Caterine Vauban (Isabelle Huppert).

This movie is definitely geared toward blue-staters. You must be able (and willing) to think past the end of your nose to enjoy it, and if you are one of those people who goes to movies for simple entertainment or escapism, don't bother—you will HATE this film. Apart from the fact that religion hardly ever even comes into the discussion, this movie forces people to think about themselves and others in a way that may make some people uncomfortable. But besides the philosophical ramifications of being versus non-being, everything is connected versus a random chaotic universe, etc., it's a funny movie, well presented with enough tongue-in-cheek humor and interesting effects to amuse even those who are not inclined to ponder the deeper issues. Russell's story delves into the existential philosophies with an absurdist attitude, which is really the only way to go about it, I think. And his casting choices are inspired—Hoffman and Tomlin, in their first film together, have an interestingly quirky and yet laidback relationship, while Schwartzman and Wahlberg also share a kind of yin and yang connection. Meanwhile, Jude Law is superior as the good-looking, smarmy American hypocrite, and Naomi Watts, undergoing perhaps the most amusing character journey in the movie, restates the depth of her technique.

While I Heart Huckabees may not answer all your questions about Life, the Universe, and Everything, it'll certainly provide something to discuss on the way home. And it just might give you a few laughs, too, if you're willing to let it. ★★★★½

Medbank of Maryland Offers A Link To Free Medications

by Peggy Santamaria

In our society, a person should not be choosing between food and medication. However, this is the decision that some must face. The Maryland Medbank Program was established in 2000 to help remedy this unhealthy situation.

Oakland resident Eleene Sacks praises the program, saying, "Medbank has saved my life."

Eleene faced a host of changes when she moved from Florida to Garrett County about four years ago. The most difficult to adapt to was the change in insurance coverage and the "sticker shock" of the cost of medications. It was at the time that Medicare was eliminating the HMO (health maintenance organization) options that picked up the cost of prescription drugs.

"I had lived in Florida for 30 years. While I worked and when I retired I was always covered by an HMO. I never had to pay for medications," she explained.

The first time she went to a pharmacy in Garrett County to get her prescriptions refilled, she was quoted a price that she couldn't believe. To better absorb the hundreds of dollars she would need to pay for a three-month supply of medications, Eleene asked the pharmacist to give her only a 30-day supply.

A widow for 30 years and now in her 80s, Eleene lives on a fixed income.

"I know a lot of people who stopped taking medications. They couldn't afford them," she said.

Fortunately, Eleene would not become one of those people. Her daughter, Beth Tressler, who works for a local physician, knew about the Medbank of Maryland Program and referred her mother to Angela Lucas at the Garrett County Health Department for more information. Angela has served Garrett County as the Maryland Medbank Program coordinator since its inception.

FOOD OR MEDICATION? That was a decision facing Eleene Sacks of Oakland before she learned of the Maryland Medbank Program, which helps older residents with the purchase of expensive prescription drugs. The program can be accessed through the Garrett County Health Department. See story for details.

Medbank of Maryland helps people get free medications from large pharmaceutical companies. Many of the drug manufacturers offer assistance programs for uninsured or low-income individuals. Each company has its own program, which is generally limited to medications prescribed for long-term chronic conditions.

To take advantage of these subsidies, the patient must first know that the program exists and how to get in touch with the company to get the application to be enrolled. As Garrett County's coordinator, Angela knows that this whole process can be daunting. She is there to help each person assess what help is out there and how to get it.

Every person asking for help from Garrett County's Medbank of Maryland program gets one-on-one assistance in every step of the process.

"Each pharmaceutical company that offers a patient assistance program has its own guidelines, applications, releases, and other forms. They can be very confusing to the patient, particularly when the patient is requesting help with medications from more than one company," she explained.

This approach also expedites the Medbank of Maryland process for the physicians.

"We fill out all of the paperwork. The physicians need only sign," Lucas said.

Potential Medbank of Maryland clients will receive a free evaluation by the Adult Evaluation and Review Service staff, which screen and refer to an array of other community services such as energy assistance, home-delivered meals, breast and cervical cancer programs, and more, according to Lucas.

In addition to providing efficient professional services for Medbank of Maryland participants, Angela and her staff at the health department offer friendly personal support.

"She is absolutely marvelous. I feel like I'm with old friends when I'm with Angela and the others who work there. I always go in to the health department to see them instead of calling when I need to get a prescription refilled," Eleene said, adding, "I don't know what I'd do without this program."

For more information on the program, persons may contact Angela Lucas at 301-334-7742, or 301-895-3111 from Grantsville, or via e-mail at alucas@dhmh.state.md.us.

Literacy Council President Attends Training Program

Maury Feinstein, current president of the Garrett County Literacy Council, recently attended a regional training program in Pittsburgh, Pa. Literacy council representatives from across the nation were in attendance.

The program focused on in-dept problems faced by the literacy groups and covered subjects ranging from management, to instruction, to evaluations.

The regional training was funded in part with grants from Verizon, United Parcel Post (UPS), the Dollar General Foundation, and Pro Literacy America.

The Garrett County Literacy Council is affiliated with Pro-Literacy America, which is the largest literacy support organization in the world, according to Feinstein.

It is estimated that 90 million adults in the United States are at Level 1 literacy, which is the lowest level. Those scoring at Level 1 display difficulty using certain reading, writing, and computational skills. They can read a little, but not well enough to fill out an application, read a food label, or read a simple story to a child.

The Garrett County Literacy Council offers to the low level and non reader one-on-one tutoring to improve his or her reading skills. All services are free of charge.

The council is completely staffed with volunteers and is supported through community donations. For further information, persons may call 301-334-8606.

St. Paul's United Methodist Church Choir will present a Christmas cantata titled "A New Birth, A New Beginning" by John Purifoy during its 61st annual Candlelight Service at 5 p.m. on Dec. 19.

Only one performance will be held this year. The event celebrates "God's promise fulfilled," noted a spokesperson.

In addition to the cantata, the "Angels' Carol" by John Rutter will be presented, featuring the women of the choir. Katie Richter will play a flute obligato with a quartet, and there will be a duet featuring Katie and Allison Richter on flute and saxophone.

This long-standing community event will close with the traditional singing of "Silent Night."

The choir is under the direction of Muriel R. Franc, and the pastor is Rev. T. Patrick Kerr.

The concert is free and open to the public. St. Paul's Church is located at 318 Oak St. in Oakland.

Tourism Garners $9.3 Billion For Md.'s Economy

The tourism industry is continuing to show "tremendous" growth in Maryland, reaching a record $9.3 billion in economic impact for Maryland in the calendar year 2003, according to the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

That figure is up from $8.8 billion the previous calendar year, according to a study released last week by the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, an agency of DBED.

The study, compiled for Maryland's tourism office by the Travel Industry Association of America, also showed tourism generated an estimated $2 billion in federal, state and local taxes. In addition, 112,000 people were employed in Maryland's tourism industry in 2003, remaining steady from 2002, mainly in the areas of foodservice, public transportation, and lodging. In 2003, Maryland welcomed more than 20 million visitors.

"This study confirms what we already know, which is that tourism has a tremendous economic value over and above its inherent value to our quality of life," said Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. "I am proud of the efforts of many dedicated partners who have worked tirelessly to spur travel to our state. Tourism continues to be one of our strongest industries, and we expect that its economic impact as well as visitor volume will be even stronger in 2004."

"We are fortunate to have a governor, a lieutenant governor, and a first lady who have been true supporters of our tourism industry," said Aris Melissaratos, DBED secretary. "We can attribute 2003's gains not only to our prime location on the mid-Atlantic corridor and our proximity to nearly 60 percent of the nation's population, but also because we have more sharply targeted our advertising dollars, which has resulted in increased visitation."

The study also showed that visitors to Maryland spent the most money ($2.36 billion) on foodservice, which includes restaurants, grocery stores, and other eating and drinking establishments. Expenditures on public transportation, which included travel by air, intercity bus, rail, boat or ship, and taxicab or limousine service, ranked second at more than $2.27 billion. Lodging (hotel, motel, campground, and ownership or rental of vacation homes) ranked third with an estimated $1.7 billion spent.

The Maryland Office of Tourism Development promotes Maryland as "a great state in which to tour and travel, as well as to hold meetings and conventions." Tourism is one of Maryland's fastest growing industries and largest economic generators, according to DBED.

Meals On Wheels Clients In Need Of Holiday Meals

Garrett County Community Action Committee/ Area Agency on Aging is seeking community volunteers to cook and package a holiday meal from their own tables and deliver it to Meals on Wheels clients.

"Many of these individuals will be home alone on Christmas, and the gift of a homemade meal makes an important difference in their day," a spokesperson said. "The agency has asked the community to help out with meals on every major holiday for the past five years, and the response has been wonderful, to say the least."

Volunteers cooked and delivered meals on Thanksgiving Day to more than 25 homebound elderly. "We expect at least that many elderly will need a meal on Christmas," said the spokesperson.

The agency will identify the clients who could benefit from the delivery of a meal on Christmas. Persons willing to share their Christmas dinner may call the Area Agency on Aging at 301-334-9431 or toll free at 888-877-8403.

Any of you who lives in a part of the country that receives a massive amount of snow each winter can relate to this scene shown on a televised weather segment. The snow on the roof of this house must be shoveled to the ground due to the fact that the weight of it could collapse the roof. Shoveling the sidewalk...well, that's hard enough... but the roof?? Yes, one snow on top of another would render the roof too laden with snow to withstand the stress.

Though life brings with it a different kind of stress, this principle could apply to us as well. Continuous problems can send our soul to the brink of despair; and without relief can render us weak and unable to function in our daily life. Can we prevent this?

Turn to your Heavenly Father before your life becomes unbearable. Read His Word and you will be able to find joy and peace, even in the face of adversity. God can make you stronger than your problems. We read in Matthew 11:28 the words of Jesus. "Come unto me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest."

Won't you worship each week at your local church or synagogue? God is waiting to lighten your load.

Persevere With Prayer

The Holy Bible tells us that the Lord hears the prayer of the righteous (Proverbs 15:29), and that we should approach the throne of grace with confidence, so that we may receive mercy and find grace to help us in our time of need (Hebrews 4:16). Daily prayer is important in our lives: it refreshes our soul and gives strength to the weary. Prayers of petition, thanksgiving, and worship are all essential to maintain and enhance a spiritual presence in our lives. Prayer should not be just a once-a-week occasion or for only when we are in a panic situation. The Bible tells us that the will of God for us is "pray without ceasing." Although at times, this may seem impossible, along with our necessary daily tasks, our attitude should be that God is always with us, like a good friend who is always willing and able to help. We would surely not hesitate to ask a good friend for help when needed, and of course a "thank you" is always in order for help received. Persevering in prayer, and recognizing that God is the source of everything in our lives, will build a relationship that will endure forever.

He shall call upon Me, and I will answer him; I will be with him in trouble;
I will deliver him and honor him.

Caution When Taking Herbs & Blood Thinners

Blood thinner medicines (also called anticoagulants) are important, powerful prescription drugs that work in various ways to stop blood from clotting quickly. These drugs may interact with certain other prescribed and over-the-counter medicines. Because the use of many herbal and dietary supplements have become more popular, there has been some concern that such supplements taken with anticoagulants could cause increased risk of bleeding or throw off required laboratory test values.

Some plants like alfalfa, celery, chamomile, and horseradish contain natural ingredients with blood thinning properties. Combining these with prescription anticoagulants could lead to an increased risk of bleeding. Herbs known to have antiplatelet properties similar to aspirin are ginger, black cohosh, and ginkgo. Onion, garlic, and green tea can also thin the blood independently of prescribed drugs. While a reported 60-70% of Americans are pursuing alternative approaches to their health, it is always wise to consult a healthcare provider before adding any type of supplement to your daily medication regimen.

TV PIPELINE

'Stargate' will open for ninth season

By Jay Bobbin
© Zap2it

Richard Dean Anderson

Q: "Stargate SG-1" ... an eighth season or not? In the last six episodes, the actors seemed unhappy, and Richard Dean Anderson was almost calling his performance in. –Nancy Maslan, Highland, Ind.

A: Well, that just may be a booster shot for what actually will be the show's ninth season. Sci-Fi Channel recently confirmed there will be another new set of episodes, tying "Stargate SG-1" with "The X-Files" as the longest-running science-fiction drama series in U.S. television history. The spinoff series "Stargate Atlantis" also earned renewal for a second season. Production on both shows is expected to resume in March, 2005, with the results slated to air in the summer.

Q: Who plays principal Gibb on "8 Simple Rules"? –Caleb, Easton, Pa.

A: That's Adam Arkin, who starred as one of the doctors on CBS' "Chicago Hope" and also has appeared from time to time on NBC's "The West Wing" as a psychiatrist. He's a second-generation actor; his father is Alan Arkin ("Catch-22," "100 Centre Street").

Q: I recall a show from the 1970s that, I believe, starred Sally Field. Her character had the ability to read people's minds, and her boyfriend (or husband) would often think of shredded wheat to avoid her knowing his thoughts. What was the name of this show, and who starred in it? –Linda Reese, New Berlin, N.Y.

A: Ah, that shredded wheat ... it's not just for breakfast anymore. Actually, you're right on. It was indeed Sally Field, and the 1973-74 NBC show was "The Girl With Something Extra." Singer-actor John Davidson played her husband; the supporting cast included Teri Garr and Jack Sheldon, Merv Griffin's talk-show trumpet virtuoso.

Q: I saw the movie "Mission: Impossible" on TV recently, and I was wondering why Emilio Estevez is not mentioned in any of the credits in the beginning or at the end. – Austin, via e-mail

A: Sometimes, familiar actors go unbilled in films to surprise audiences, which was the case with Estevez in that situation. It's likely he also did the part as a favor to the picture's star, longtime pal Tom Cruise. Estevez was the best man at Cruise's wedding to Mimi Rogers. On other occasions, stars choose not to be billed if their names can't be above the title because of contractual matters. That was why Gene Hackman's name wasn't advertised for "The Firm" when it was originally released, since Cruise's deal for that film stipulated his would be the only above-the-title name.

Ask The Everyday Scientist

SCIENTIFIC CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Q. I want to get my grandchildren something different for Christmas this year. Are there any particular gifts that can help them learn about science?

Well, you didn't tell me what ages the children are; but there are good ideas across every age group.

First of all, remember that you don't have to spend a bundle on science items. Fancy toys with lots of embedded electronics just use science, but don't teach any science. Sometimes the best device to enhance learning is also the cheapest.

An infant still in a crib likes to look at bright colors, which is why many kids have a mobile attached to their crib. In the "science" department, one really neat thing is to stand a prism on the windowsill and let it make rainbows across the room at different times of day when the sun comes in. A prism costs about $3 to $5.

For a toddler who is able to climb stairs, the Slinky is a delightful toy, and costs about $2. Slinky demonstrates a scientific point about oscillations and "cooperative motion" that is too complicated to describe here; but it serves very well at the "gee whiz" level to help a child appreciate scientific things and motivate the ultimate scientific question: WHY ?

Magnets are devices that hold enormous fascination for children: Something moves toward the magnet but nothing obvious is moving it. When an object is held tight, and the little one has to struggle to get it apart, the question "Why" jumps out, and that sense of wonder is the start on the path toward science. Ten dollars will get you a decent horseshoe magnet that will hold many things; with a $20 magnet you can pick up a wagon with a small child in it. A good compass costs about $10; a bag of 12 tiny compasses (for party favors?),costs about $5.

In the 5 to 10 age range, a Yo-Yo is fun to play with, and a child can learn a lot of tricks, but few people (adults or children) know that it works on the important scientific principle of conservation of angular momentum. A Yo-Yo costs about one dollar. A gyroscope is likewise under $6, and demonstrates the same principle.

The old grandparents' cliche "Why, when I was your age all I had to play with was a ball and a stick" is very true when it comes to scientific toys. The really useful ones that create a sense of wonder about science are not expensive at all.

A balsa-wood airplane costs about $4. A vernier caliper (about $8) enables very precise measurements of size of objects. A magnifying glass is a great present at any age. Fun-house mirrors are entertaining, and they can be made out of just aluminum-coated plastic, so they distort images in many different ways. A kaleidoscope produces beautiful images via multiple reflections. Again, real cheap stuff.

Take a tiny ball (ping pong, golf, etc.) and a basketball. Hold the little ball about ¼ inch above the basketball and drop them both together. When the basketball rebounds from the floor, it will blast the tiny ball way up into the air. This is a lot of fun for kids to be able to do themselves.

An adult who is handy with PVC plumbing parts can make a gun that shoots marshmallows for about $1 worth of elbows, tees and scraps of PVC pipe. (I actually made 5 of them last year for a total cost of $5.30 including tax, starting with a 10-foot section of pipe, a bag of 10 elbows, etc. They were much more popular with the kids than some toys that cost 30 times as much.)

Around age 10, serious scientific experimentation becomes possible. A calibrated spring scale (of the type used by fishermen) only costs about $6, and can be used to take a concept like "how hard are you pulling?" and turn it into a numerical value – the first step toward quantitative measurement. A set of pulleys (under $10) shows how a lifting task can be accomplished with less force, and the difference can be measured numerically.

The best years for learning science are the pre-teen years of junior high school. An actual frog (shipped inside a bag of formaldehyde) can be dissected with just an exacto knife and tweezers, and the student can learn a great deal about the human body this way. A coloring book with accurate drawings of the human body is another great way to learn – in fact, medical schools urge their students to memorize body details that way.

If you want to go up in price, there are plenty of catalogs and stores that will help you do so. But the best scientific things are usually very simple, and their value lies in the way they illustrate simple but very basic scientific principles. In addition to being simple, they're often cheap as well.

Biblically Based Counseling Svc. Offered In MLP

The Living Hope Biblical Counseling Ministry, located at Oak Park Church of the Brethren, will begin offering free counseling services on Monday, Jan. 3. The church is located at 110 Church Lane, across from Southern High School.

"Living Hope will offer sound, practical biblical solutions to the problems people face," Oak Park pastor Mel Menker stated of the counseling service, which is open to all Garrett and Preston (W.Va.) county residents. "Biblical counseling is an alternative to the normal counseling services generally offered, in that biblical scriptures and principles are the foundational building blocks to lead to wholeness and health.

"Living Hope is incorporated as a non-profit corporation under the state laws of Maryland and is a separate entity from the Oak Park Church," Menker continued. "The biblical-ethical foundations of Living Hope have been taken from the American Association of Christian Counselors Christian Counseling Code of Ethics and adapted to our ministry situation.

"Living Hope is not in 'competition' with the area mental health services already available. It simply offers a spiritual approach to problem solving. Living Hope's biblical counselors are not psychologists, psychiatrists, or licensed social workers. They are simply dedicated Christians willing to volunteer their time, talents, and energy to assist others through difficult times," stated Menker.

The volunteer lay counselors are Oak Park congregation members who have been trained over the past year in preparation for this ministry. They have received extensive information, and engaged in thorough study to learn about this "spiritual approach to wellness," said Menker, adding that some volunteers have had professional training and hold various degrees and certifications in counseling.

Although Living Hope's counseling services are offered free of charge, the ministry will rely on donations to provide additional training for the biblical counselors, reimbursement for biblical counselor expenses, office and mailing supplies, memberships in the American Association of Christian Counselors, and other associated costs of running the ministry. "This is a volunteer ministry, and the members of the board of directors receive no financial compensation," Menker explained.

All information provided to intake processors, biblical counselors, and the board of directors remains strictly confidential. Copies of Living Hope's Confidentiality Statement and a "Frequently Asked Questions" sheet are available upon request.

For further information on the counseling service, persons may write to Living Hope Biblical Counseling Ministry, c/o Oak Park Church of the Brethren, 110 Church Lane, Oakland, MD 21550, or e-mail oakparkchurch@verizon.net. Information can also be obtained by calling the church office, which is open from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mondays through Thursdays, at 301-334-2243. The church secretary will take a message and relay it to a member of the Living Hope staff, who will return the call.

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• When the "Wild West" of America was being settled in the 19th century, pioneers in wagon trains had to rough it, usually sleeping on the ground. Evidently recognizing the importance of their sustenance, however, they always seemed to find a soft, covered spot for the chuck-wagon cook to spend the night.

• In the 16th century, Spaniards thought that eating potatoes would cure impotence.

• It's still not known who made the following sage observation: "A conference is a meeting to decide where the next meeting will take place." It seems likely, however, that whoever it was had extensive experience in the corporate world. Its sentiment is similar to that expressed by Fred Allen when he remarked, "A conference is a gathering of important people who decide that nothing can be done."

• The word "limousine" was originally used as the name for a woolen cape worn mostly by sheepherders.

• Those who study such things say that only half of all marriages can be generally categorized as "happy." One-quarter of all marriages end in divorce; the remaining quarter of the couples, it seems, are unhappy but stay together.

• White wine is actually made from high-quality black grapes.

• Today's homemakers might not recognize early versions of the automatic dishwasher. In 1929, a model that was sold at Harrod's department store in London had various attachments used to make ice cream, sausages and butter.

• The children's scooter was invented by a 15-year-old boy. Unfortunately, his short-sighted father thought it wouldn't be successful and so didn't obtain a patent.

• Famed Italian tenor Andrea Bocelli earned a degree in law.

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Dec. 16, 1773, in Boston Harbor, a group of Massachusetts colonists disguised as Mohawk Indians board three British tea ships and dump 342 chests of tea into the harbor. The midnight raid, popularly known as the "Boston Tea Party," was in protest of the British Parliament's Tea Act of 1773.

• On Dec. 17, 1903, near Kitty Hawk, N.C., Orville and Wilbur Wright make the first successful flight in history of a self-propelled, heavier-than-air aircraft. Orville piloted the gasoline-powered, propeller-driven biplane, which stayed aloft for 12 seconds and covered 120 feet on its inaugural flight.

• On Dec. 18, 1916, the Battle of Verdun, the longest engagement of World War I, ends with a French victory. During the 10-month battle, 650,000 lives were lost and 23 million shells were fired.

• On Dec. 15, 1939, "Gone With the Wind" premieres in Atlanta. The film, based on Margaret Mitchell's Pulitzer Prize-winning novel, became an instant hit, breaking all previous box-office records.

• On Dec. 14, 1947, the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR) is founded at the Streamline Hotel in Daytona Beach, Fla. It was the first formal organization for stock-car racing, a sport said to have begun with souped-up bootlegger hot rods during Prohibition.

• On Dec. 13, 1978, the United States mint starts production of the Susan B. Anthony dollar, and by the following summer 850 million coins had hit the streets. Alas, while well-intentioned, people confused it with the quarter and the Susan B. Anthony coin was a flop.

• On Dec. 19, 1998, after nearly 14 hours of debate, the House of Representatives approves two articles of impeachment against President Bill Clinton, charging him with lying under oath to a federal grand jury and obstructing justice. Clinton, the second president in American history to be impeached, vowed to finish his term.

Low-Cost Clinics

Q. My cat "Squick" developed urinary problems recently. He is better and on a special diet now, but I am left with a bill of more than a thousand dollars, and the vet says he needs more treatment. I'm on a fixed budget and can't afford bills this size, not to mention the cost of the prescription food Squick must eat. Are there any low-cost clinics in my area where I can afford to get him the treatment he needs? — Kathleen in Kissimmee

A. There are many Americans in your predicament, Kathleen, and fortunately, low-cost clinics exist in many areas of the country to help pets get the medical care they need. In your area, the SPCA of Central Florida maintains offices in five area counties, including your own. The nearest office can be found listed in your local phone book.

In fact, quite a few organizations provide low-cost veterinary services to pets. Some of these discounted services apply only to general procedures (such as wellness checks and annual shots), but generally, financial help is available with a bit of searching.

And since it's the holiday season, pet owners who want to help low-cost clinics continue providing quality service can donate money or time to a local clinic. Again, check your phone book or search the Internet for listings of pet-rescue organizations, humane societies and other nonprofit groups.

Collecting

National Geographic

Q. We have collected National Geographic magazine for quite some time. Is there an appraiser in my area? — Donato, Orlando, Fla.

A. There is little demand for back issues of National Geographic magazines. In fact, most of the issues from the 1920s and '30s sell for about two or three dollars per copy. Some Coca-Cola collectors occasionally look for certain issues that feature colorful ads for the soft drink, but other than that, older copies of the magazine are often discarded, even by dealers.

For a second opinion, you might want to contact William Barr, a serious collector who occasionally purchases pre-1916 issues. His address is 6341 Werk St., Cincinnati, OH 45248.

Q. I am a senior citizen and was given a small toy car when I was about 6 or 7. I can't find it in any of the reference books I've consulted. Can you help me identify it? — Fred, Lincoln City, Ore.

A. One of my favorite reference books is Collecting Toys, edited by Karen O'Brien and published by Krause Publications. It is the premier identification and price guide for vintage toys, especially those made before WWII. Perhaps you can find your car featured in it.

Bernie Resnick is an expert and might also be willing to help you. His addresses are 1317 North Rosemont Blvd., Tucson, AZ, 85712 and bresn@aol.com.

Q. I have an old military sword. Whom can I contact to find out more about it? — Pete, Bronx, N.Y.

A. Fred Coluzzi is a dealer who is knowledgeable about swords. His address is 6919 Westview Drive, Oak Forrest, IL 60452. One of the better clubs is the Association of Sword Collectors, P.O. Box 288, Parsonsburg, MD 21849.

Oak Park Pastors Schedule 10-Day Holy Land Tour

Pastors Mel and Cathy Menker of the Oak Park Church of the Brethren have announced their plans to host their eighth trip to the Holy Land, departing Tuesday, Nov. 8, 2005.

"Having just returned from our seventh trip to Israel, we can clearly state that things have continued to stabilize in Israel and that it remains very safe for group travel," Mel Menker said as he unveiled the itinerary. Menker noted that there is an early registration discount of $90 off the basic tour cost for participants who register by Tuesday, Dec. 14. Other discounts will be available over the next few months for later registrations. (See end of story for further cost details.)

The 10-day trip will include stops at such biblical sites as Chorizim, the Mount of the Beatitudes, the Sea of Galilee, Capernaum, the Jordan River, Cana, Nazareth, Caesarea, Mount Carmel, Megiddo (Armageddon), Qumran, and Jericho. Also on the itinerary are the Mount of Olives, the Garden of Gethsemane, Bethany (Lazarus' tomb), Bethlehem (the Church of the Nativity), the Old City of Jerusalem, and the Pool of Bethesda. Participants will also view the Via Dolorosa, the Church of the Holy Sepulcher (Christ's tomb), the Temple Mount, the Upper Room, King David's Tomb, the House of Caiaphas the High Priest, and the Garden Tomb.

A number of additional locations, including some "special sites" the Menkers learned of on their previous trips, are also on the itinerary.

As with the Menkers' previous trips, the tour is being undertaken through Educational Opportunities, a Christian-based, not-for-profit organization, which is the largest tour host to the Holy Land in the world.

"This trip can provide spiritual renewal, growth, and maturity," commented Mel Menker. "It can increase your devotional life by enhancing your knowledge of Scripture and provide a familiarity with the places found in the Bible. The Bible, the land, and biblical events will become realities which will be easier to recall. It can also increase your confidence to teach and/or share your knowledge with others."

The basic tour cost from Dulles International Airport is $1,848, which includes round trip air fare from Dulles, deluxe motor coaches, deluxe first class hotels, guided sightseeing with excellent trained guides, all entrance fees, Israeli breakfast buffet and dinner daily, a Bible study guide, evening lectures, and the services of E.O. staff on site in Israel.

Registration payments can be made via check or the Visa, MasterCard, or Discover credit cards.

Special discounts are available for clergy and their spouses who are visiting the Holy Land for the first time. "This might be the time to send your pastor to the Holy Land," noted Menker. "The wealth of information he or she will bring back can be a special blessing to your congregation."

Tour brochures can be obtained from Menker by calling 301-334-5906, or by contacting him via e-mail at hmenker@gcnetmail.net. Menker is also available to meet with prospective participants to answer questions, and will be hosting informational meetings at the Oak Park Church in the coming months.

AURORA SCHOOL FLOAT PLACES IN PARADES – The Aurora School, with sponsorship from the Mt. Lions Club of Aurora, once again produced an "outstanding" entry in the Buckwheat Festival and Autumn Glory parades this fall. The year's annual edition's theme was "Volunteers Rise to Make the Aurora School Shine." The float displayed two large moon faces shining down on stars, which were scripted with the numerous titles of volunteer jobs performed by individuals for the Aurora School. Each May, those volunteers are honored with a tea, and a book is placed in the school library inscribed with their names. Last year's list included more than 100 names. This float entry placed first in Kingwood and second in Oakland.

Nature Connection

By Liz McDowell & Ron Boyer

Typically by now in Garrett County if there isn't snow cover, the ground is at least frozen. But the recent period of wet and warm weather has provided the opportunity to continue a favorite pastime – rolling logs and turning over rocks. Whenever you take the time to explore the hidden world beneath the surface of a forest or field, a "wow" moment is bound to happen. As you get ready to flip the rock or log, there's a child-like feeling of anticipation similar to unwrapping a Christmas present. When the "box" is empty and no critters are found, there's palpable disappointment. But uncovering just one treasure, such as a ringneck snake or redback salamander, makes you want to try again and again. Hiking along a cliff trail on a cool, misty December morning, you look for likely spots where small animals would seek shelter. In a mixed stand of conifers and hardwoods, you spy a moss covered log decaying on the forest floor. You pause a moment before rolling the log, not knowing what might lie beneath it. Imagine your shock when you come face to face with a formidable foe, the bald-faced hornet. But you quickly realize that the current low temperature is your ally, and you have nothing to fear from this insect today.

The bald-faced hornet, Vespula maculata, is a member of the Order Hymenoptera, which includes ants, wasps, and bees. Their size (about 1") and whitish markings on face, thorax and the tip of the abdomen make them fairly easy to distinguish from their close relatives, the yellow jackets. Another distinctive feature of bald-faced hornets is their nest, which can reach over a foot in diameter. Typically hidden during the summer, these large, gray hives are clearly visible in shrubs and trees as soon as the leaves have fallen. In fact, these papery nests can be so well camouflaged in the summer that it's possible to walk by one everyday and never notice it. In the winter after a long period of below-freezing temperature, it's safe to examine the nest up-close. But since other insects and spiders may be using the nest as a winter shelter, it's best to simply admire it from a distance.

Each hornet nest is started by a fertile queen in the spring; the construction is completed by the infertile worker females that she produces. The nest material is actually bits of wood, that's mashed to a pulp by their powerful mandibles. The color of this papery-mix varies somewhat according to the species of wood that is chewed. If you ever encounter an active bald-faced hornet nest be sure to give it wide berth in order to avoid being considered as an intruder. Bald-faced hornets are reported to have the most painful sting of all the insects in the mid-Atlantic region and will sting repeatedly if threatened.

Bald-faced hornets are social insects that form a colony with the fertile queen acting pretty much like an egg-laying machine. The female workers do most of the daily chores including feeding the young and defending the nest. No males emerge until late summer and early fall. The males have just one duty before they die – to mate with the new fertile females. These new queens will be the only members of the hive to over-winter. Developing bald-faced hornet larvae feed exclusively on pre-chewed insects provided by female workers. Adult hornets have a more varied diet consisting of nectar, fruit juice, and insects. Despite their sting, bald-faced hornets do fall prey to at least some animals, including striped skunks and wild turkey.

You count four bald faced-hornets beneath this one log. Remarkably each new queen has apparently carved-out a perfectly sized hollow in the wood for its own winter resting place. You photograph them and then carefully roll the log back into the same position that you found it. You honestly hope they make it through the winter…you also hope that encounters with them next summer are not so very close.

Reports from the Field:

Caroline Blizzard of the Deep Creek Lake Discovery Center reported that a hunter on Big Savage Mountain was almost hit by two ruffed grouse fleeing something; seconds later a northern goshawk landed in front of him.

Barb and George Gaffney of New Germany observed an unusual visitor to our area a few weeks back; using a spotting scope they positively identified a Ross's goose on Little Meadows Lake.

INTEREST IS GETTING INTERESTING!

There's been a lot of talk about the fact that interest rates are likely to rise. Indeed, they couldn't fall much lower than they have in the last couple years! Before you start worrying about how rising interest rates could affect your ability to secure a mortgage, remember that the best time to buy a home is when your lifestyle dictates you are ready.

With rates still relatively low, you should avoid playing the "numbers game," and settle instead for some solid advice. While it's true that higher interest rates could increase your overall long-term cost, don't forget that the mortgage interest you pay remains a big tax deduction.

Don't overlook the additional fact that your home is likely to appreciate at a faster rate than the interest you're paying anyway. There are more mortgage options out there than ever before, and you should educate yourself in order to make the best financial decision.

You can control factors like the length of the loan, the schedule of payments, fixed or variable rate, etc. Overwhelmed by all the loans being offered? If you're considering purchasing a home, a local real estate agent is a good place to start. The agent can explain your options and even put you in touch with a suitable lender, not to mention help you find the home you've been dreaming of!

If you'd like to buy a home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Time to Take Soil Samples and Update Your Nutrient Management Plan

This is an excellent time to take soil samples to prepare for next years crop season. If you have an active nutrient management plan, check your plan to see if your soil and manure samples are up to date. These samples are good for three years. Remember, to take a good sample, randomly sample the field in about 10-15 locations about 8 inches deep. Avoid areas of the field such as low areas, rock outcrops, outside edges, etc., that may not give a good representative sample. Adjoining fields that have the same crop history and soil type may be sampled together as a management unit. There are a number of labs that soil samples can be sent to. For a list of soil testing labs or other questions about soil testing call the Extension office at 301-334-6960. If you do not have a nutrient management plan, Danny Shawley, Nutrient Management Advisor, can assist you in preparing a plan. Farmers in Garrett County who would like assistance from the extension service in writing their plan must provide soil test information, crop information, account ID numbers and a map of their farm. A nutrient management plan can assist you in determining the amount of manure or commercial fertilizer that you need to apply to your fields in a environmentally and economically sound manner.

LDP Reminders Issued By Farm Service Agency

Maintaining beneficial interest is a key rule for grain to be eligible for a loan deficiency payment (LDP), the Maryland Farm Service Agency reminded the state's farmers this week.

"Knowing the rules for LDPs is crucial to ensuring eligibility for this USDA Farm Service Agency Program," said Maryland FSA executive director Elizabeth Anderson. "There are two types of LDPs–field direct and basic. They each require different forms to be executed in a timely manner."

Field direct LDPs require that producers of commodities complete a field direct LDP agreement (CCC-709) prior to harvest. Producers can use the CCC-709 form to cover some or all of their production.

A basic LDP is requested in the same manner as a CCC loan, after the grain has been harvested and put into storage but prior to losing beneficial interest. Producers must complete a CCC-633, Loan Deficiency Payment Certification and Application prior to losing beneficial interest. This is necessary when the commodity enters short term storage, long term storage, or on farm storage. Once a producer losses beneficial interest in a commodity it can not be regained for LDP purposes.

Producers need to make sure they have the right documentation if grain is stored in an elevator; otherwise, they may be ineligible for the LDP. Growers are encouraged to visit their local FSA offices to ensure they are aware of program provisions before losing beneficial interest in their commodities.

A New Experience At Deep Creek Lake

Christmas Markets in Germany are known by two names, Weihnaehts Market (literally, Christmas Market) or Christkindlemarket. They originated during the 15th century, and typically last about four weeks during the month of December. The Christmas Market was traditionally the place to go in order to buy all the things needed for the Christmas celebration. It was here that people bought molds and cutters for baking, as well as candles, Christmas decorations, cookies, toys and gifts for the whole family.

Christmas Markets are a feast for the senses—roasted chestnuts, gingerbread, almonds, German Festival foods and music, mulled sweetened wine called glutwein or hot apple cider. A variety of small wooden stalls, festively lit and filled with colorful Christmas decorations and gifts for the holidays, suggests a magic in the air. You can feel Christmas drawing near.

Germany's Christmas Markets have become so popular in Europe, we'd like to share this event with you in America and present to you the first German Christmas Market at Deep Creek Lake, Maryland. Come visit our Christmas Market at Deep Creek Lake's German Village—at Fantasy Valley on Hoyes Run Road in McHenry.

Mt. Top Ministerial, Thrivent Donate To Warm The Children

The Mountaintop Ministerial Association held a community Thanksgiving worship service at St. Mark's Lutheran Church in Oakland on Nov. 21. The offering collected at this service was designated for Warm the Children, a program hosted each year by The Republican newspaper and the Civic Club of Oakland.

The offering total was then matched by Thrivent Financial for Lutherans, which is a national Lutheran fraternal organization that assists communities in taking care of citizens and their needs.

The check presented to Warm the Children was for $400.

All money raised for Warm the Children goes strictly toward the purchase of new winter clothing and footwear for local children in need. The campaign is winding down for this year, but monies raised in it will also be used to help with the annual Rotary Christmas Project in purchasing needed clothing.

READING CHALLENGE WINNER ANNOUNCED – Lorena Rodeheaver is pictured reading to her son, Lance Storey. She read a total of 164 books to Lance during the Summer Reading Challenge sponsored by the Overlook Judy Center and was declared the winner of the event. Lance attends Annie's Little Angel Child Care, one of the Judy Center's Early Care and Education partners. Judy Lantz was named the second-place winner. She read 159 books to her son Tyler, who also attends Annie's Little Angel Child Care. The intent of the Summer Reading Challenge was to provide a structured activity for parents to support their children's literacy development. The Overlook Judy Center provides various literacy-based activities for children from birth through the age of 5 and their families throughout the year. The center is a partnership between the Garrett County Board of Education and the Garrett County Community Action Committee to "ensure the school readiness of children."

The Nativity story featuring Mary, Joseph, Baby Jesus, shepherds, and a choir of angels will be portrayed by children as the scriptures are read. The children will also sing "Away in the Manger" and "Go Tell It on the Mountain."

The public is invited to attend. A social gathering will take place in the church's fellowship hall following the program.

Radiologic Techs Honored By Colleagues

Radiologic technologists at Garrett County Memorial Hospital were recently honored by their colleagues locally and across the country as part of National Radiologic Technology Week.

"Radiologic Technology Week celebrates the hard work and important contribution medical imaging and radiation therapy professionals make in patient care," said Don Battista, CEO of GCMH. "Through their dedication and professionalism, radiologic technologists play an intricate part in the diagnosis and care of the ill patient."

There are more than 200,000 radiologic technologists working in the United States today. The radiologic technologist field is divided into several modalities: diagnostic radiology, ultrasound, nuclear medicine, radiation therapy, cardiovascular interventional technology, mammography, CT scanning, and MRI imaging.

A vital link in patient care, radiologic technology provides the means by which pathologies may be determined, treatment planned and administered, and patient health restored.

"In today's world, technology has driven the science at an incredibly fast pace. Thus, the demands on the technologists have become ever increasing," said Michael Reed, director of radiology at GCMH.

As part of the celebration, the technologists at GCMH held a contest for employees and set up a display in the hospital lobby. Markwood Citgo donated a $25 gift card to be given to the contest winner.

GCMH's radiologic technologists are Brian Bennett, Zane Byers, Joe Dever, Rosalee Finch, Wendy James, John Jones, Kenneth Martin, Mary Norwish, Rose Palaisa, Mark Phillips, Michael Reed, Judy Snurr, Janet Thomas, Jennifer Warner, Amy Warnick, and Brad Woolslayer.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

It is hard to believe that here I am at half past 5 a.m. and have already done almost two hours of hard housework. But like lots of children do when they know they did something very bad and want to face the music as soon as possible and not worry about it before the ax falls, I guess that is why our black lab Boo felt she must wake me up from a rare deep sleep to show me the mess she had created on my living room floor, which was one full carton of eggs shredded across my carpet. Some messes can wait, but raw eggs mixed with tiny pieces of shell on the main traffic path is not one of those. The potential smell and the breaking of shells if put off would only become a bigger mess.

That meant punishing Boo. First was a good swat on her rump with a half roll of paper towels and repeated over and over, "Bad dog! Bad dog! Bad dog." Then she had to go outside in a driving rain storm. When she started to scratch on the front door I just yelled, "No, you are a bad dog!" I believe in the ability of some animals living close to humans being able to understand some spoken language. She maybe will think outside getting soaked that she should not get into the refrigerator, or else this will happen once again.

She was able to force the screen door and the front door half open. But she was not home free. I forced her to lie down on the cold, hard, wood floor of our vestibule and shut the door between that and the living room where she really wanted to go to smell the scent of her dear girls. But no, not yet; at least until I finished cleaning up the mess, including scrubbing the carpet as I crawled on it. Let her listen to the driving rain outside and think about her conduct and possible consequences of it.

It was really raining hard, so the early rush hours of deer hunters did not seem to happen, unlike the previous days in hunting season. Rock Lodge Road looked like the closing hours of the Fair between 5 and 7 a.m.

This was one ugly rain storm, and besides the pouring rain the wind was so strong that it picked up and threw something against my window, something solid like gravel, but likely small twigs or something. If the temperature were 20 degrees colder this would be a howling Bittinger blizzard, which is not that far in the future. But I am certainly plenty thankful for the new sound roof that the Angel Bell Crew of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish completed a few weeks ago. If not for them, I would face a day of clean-up from a major flood – the kind of mess that even many rolls of paper towels could not clean up. But like the eggs on the carpet, that mess would only get worse if you put it off. I assumed that my back roof would collapse, but it is not a problem now. Thank God for the Angel Bells.

It looks like, but it is hard to tell through the rain, that there are some lights on up in the Weavers' home. I wish I was sure because I wonder if they think they are back in Kansas and soon their and my house will be carried over the rainbow. No, we are not in Kansas or above the rainbow, but just in Bittinger in a rare December rainstorm.

Traffic is now flowing again on Rock Lodge Road, as three vehicles just passed at a little past 6 o'clock, which is quite a bit later than normal. I wish someone up at this hour would allow me to call them. That is one thing I liked about living in "The City That Never Sleeps, New York, New York." But here in Bittinger the only other ones awake, besides some farmers, are in their cars or trucks going somewhere in this awful weather. I bet the last bit of dirt on Rock Lodge Road after being scraped by the roads department is washed away by now. If your car is outside you really do not have to worry about washing it.

It is strange to think that when I was young and maybe stupid I would enjoy a bareback ride on "Joey" in this kind of weather. I was not stupid enough to damage my expensive saddle with this much water, but my little brother Scott and I loved to jump on our horses and gallop around in the pouring rain. It washed the sweat off nicely. It is not something I would do now, but lots of things I used to enjoy I would not or could not do now. But I am glad that I had the chance to do so many wonderful and strange things in my early life. Now about all I can do is remember and relive some fine experiences.

I felt like some real winter was on its way to the 4-H buckwheat cake dinner Friday evening, at least to me as I trudged up the handicapped ramp to the hall only to discover that the door was locked. After a few chilly minutes someone kindly opened it for me. It was not that I could escape paying for my meal, as who could possibly want to cheat our wonderful 4-H kids who were so busy serving politely and anxiously making sure that everyone had everything they wanted. Meanwhile in the kitchen a whole gang of good-hearted Bittinger adults provided an almost endless supply of perfect buckwheat cakes, golden brown and baked just right. One of Bittinger's 4-H leaders and great supporters and who had just gotten out of the hospital earlier in the day got out of bed and went to the store to get the syrup. They even had some sugar-free syrup.

It was good to see the fire hall pretty much full with supporters of our kids, and of course, fans of good old-fashioned cooking. The price was far too low for what you got. You can't buy that kind of food or service in local restaurants for $5. During the dinner my classmate Randy Wiley "Coyote" and I got into our usual debate about politics. An unfamiliar older man asked whether he could intercede. Randy and my ongoing relationship is based on just being "fussy" with each other, or closer to teasing or just having fun.

I hope I get all the many Buckel birthdays right this month. Pete Buckel will celebrate his birthday on the same day as my brother Scott's birthday, the 13th. Pete and Linda Buckel celebrated their wedding anniversary on December 3 and went away for the weekend. Denny Buckel and his older cousin Dave, now of Kentucky, had a double birthday on the 16th. Gary Buckel's birthday will be the next day on the 17th, while my little sister Carol Bass will enjoy one of the few good birthdays on the right side of 50 on the 18th. Maddy Whittemore had a birthday on December 5, and she is still on the right side of the dreaded teenager years.

I guess people are already in the Christmas rush because I can't get anyone on the phone to confirm the birthdays or get some news tips.

I think Sally Poholsky has the right idea, as she takes her evening walk dressed in a bright orange vest. There are still a few days of deer hunting season, and it is better not to take any chances.

I learned with horror about a 6-year-old little girl, Lucindia Bender, who lives about halfway between Grantsville and Bittinger and who is battling a brain tumor. That truly shows that all other problems are not that big a deal, and she deserves all our prayers.

Only two more weeks before our days start to get longer. This Tuesday was delightfully mild for December. When I got home from a trip for some fast Christmas shopping the wind was gusting so hard it almost blew over my array of purchases, and the temperature dropped fast.

Some good news about a few people on our Parish prayer lists. Lottie Brenneman was able to attend the buckwheat dinner and attend church on Sunday. Also a good report about the health of Audrey Nesline and my Aunt Helen Englar. Although Helen is still pretty tired, her mystery illness is under control.

The bad news is that Don Sealing had to be admitted to the hospital again on Monday after being home for several days. Don just can't sit still a minute.

A good number of people from the community attended the Northern Huskies' basketball game on Tuesday night at Northern. They played Beall High School from Frostburg and had a decisive victory. Good start for the Huskies.

State's Welfare Reform Efforts Get A C; Rank 12th in National Report

by Kis Hall Hayes
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Maryland got a grade of C for its welfare reform efforts, but that was still good enough to make the state 12th-best in the nation, according to a report card released by the Cato Institute.

Maryland's relatively high ranking was primarily a result of its significant reduction in welfare rolls: Caseloads have dropped 68 percent from 1996 to 2003. But the report by the libertarian think-tank also ranked the state last for the percentage of welfare recipients who were "actually working" jobs as opposed to those taking classes or job training.

Advocates in the state did not challenge the Cato numbers, but said grading the states misses the point of welfare reform, which gave states the freedom to experiment with programs that suit their needs. What is important to Cato — stringent requirements that make it harder for families to participate — might not be to states like Maryland, they said.

"Welfare reform isn't an exam. Things aren't necessarily right or wrong," said Lynda Meade of Welfare Advocates.

The report compared figures from 1996, when most states began welfare-reform efforts, to the most recent numbers available in categories ranging from caseloads to teen pregnancy rates.

It compared those numbers to each state's requirements for welfare recipients, such as job activities, time limits, and cutting off funding to families that do not satisfy those requirements.

"The greatest result welfare reform could produce would be the elimination of the system," said Jenifer Zeigler, a Cato policy analyst who wrote the report.

Cato looked favorably on states that have more restrictive policies, such as shorter time limits, and harsher punishments for families that do not satisfy requirements. By contrast, it gave states fewer points for having education and job training programs, as Maryland does.

But Cato quantified program requirements that should not necessarily have been given the same weight, said Mark Greenberg, director of policy at the Center for Law and Social Policy. He said the institute's grading system is consistent with its desire to eliminate the system.

"Consistent with that goal, the policies states were rewarded for . . . were the policies that make it more difficult for families to get help," he said.

The report does not look at whether states are doing the necessary things to keep families off welfare, Greenberg said, like offering parents daycare vouchers, as Maryland does.

Meade said the report oversimplifies a complex system.

"We're talking about families and children. Giving states a grade doesn't speak to moving to self-sufficiency," she said.

But Zeigler said previous reports have proved that stronger penalties and stricter requirements are more effective in moving families off welfare. If recipients are aware of the repercussions, she said, they will be motivated to find work. And while job training and education are helpful, Cato believes actual job experience is the best way toward getting families to work.

While some state officials may not agree, this report can help them see which requirements are working and which need improvements, Zeigler said.

"You need some kind of a tool where they are held accountable for these policies that they make," she said.

But Norris West, a spokesman for the Maryland Department of Human Resources, said that while the state is proud to have reduced welfare caseloads to the lowest level since the '60s, it does not necessarily agree with Cato's welfare guidelines.

"We have to use our own yardstick to measure our success," West said.

BEING THE SAME AS ALL THAT LOT OF GROUND AND THE IMPROVEMENTS THEREON situated in Allegany County, Maryland, and in Garrett County, Maryland, and more particularly described on Exhibit A to the aforereferenced Deed of Trust (and in the Deed of Trust as the "Deed of Trust Property"), which consists of three (3) parcels of land and improvements thereon.

Bidders will be allowed to bid on each Lot individually and/or all Lots jointly. Subject to the Trustee's right to switch the order of bidding, the Mortgaged Premises shall first be offered for bid jointly (i.e. all the Lots together for a single combined bid for all Lots) (the "Joint Bidding"). Promptly following the Joint Bidding, a second round of bidding will occur pursuant to which each Lot that is part of the Mortgaged Premises shall be offered for bid separately (the "Individual Bidding"). Subject to the terms below relating to the subsequent default by a successful bidder, in the event that the highest amount bid jointly for the combined Lots in the Joint Bidding exceeds the aggregate highest amounts bid separately for the Lots in the Individual Bidding, then the Mortgaged Premises shall be sold together to the highest bidder from the Joint Bidding. On the other hand, but subject to the terms below relating to the subsequent default by a successful bidder, in the event the aggregate highest amounts bid separately for the Lots in the Individual Bidding exceeds the highest amount bid for the combined Lots in the Joint Bidding, then the Mortgaged Premises shall be sold as separate Lots to the separate highest individual bidders from the Individual Bidding. in any foreclosure sale conducted as set forth above it shall be possible, depending upon whether the successful bidder(s)/bid(s) is/are successful on the basis of joint or separate bids, for there to be as few as one successful bidder and/or as many as three successful bidders and, accordingly, for there to be multiple and different scenarios under which one or more of such otherwise successful bidder(s) could default on their bid(s). Accordingly, and to eliminate the inefficiency and potential economic risk to Borrower and Lender from successive failed foreclosure sales, Lender shall have the right to declare "back-up" winners (the "Back-up Winners"). In the event that the Lender shall determine to select Back-up Winners, then the Lender shall announce their identity prior to the conclusion of the above-described bid and foreclosure process, it being the intent of the Lender to select as Back-up Winners that person, or those persons, whose bid(s) will yield the greatest proceeds without, however, exposing Lender to a potential second default by the same bidder. Only qualified bidders will be allowed to bid -- prior to bidding, bidders must deposit cashier's or certified check in the amount of $50,000 for each Lot the bidder will bid upon.

TERMS OF SALE: Cash deposit of $50,000 per Lot to be paid at the time and place of sale, except no deposit shall be required by note holder, its successors or assigns, and the same cash deposit may be used for both the Joint Bidding and the Individual Bidding. Notice is hereby given that a public hearing of the Board of County Commissioners of Garrett County is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 21, 2004, at 11:00 a.m. in the Garrett County Commissioners' Public Meeting Room, located at the Courthouse, Oakland, Maryland, to consider two Amendments to the Water and Sewer Master Plan.

Amendments to consider are as follows:

1. Garrett County Water and Sewer Financial Policy Change [Chapter 4 Page 19]. Adoption of this policy change will provide the financing mechanism necessary to complete the capital sewer and water projects necessary for all Garrett County public water and sewer systems.

2. Sweet Rewards Development Inclusion in the Water and Sewer Sanitary District, Map 42, Parcel 65 [Chapter 4 pages 23 and 24]. Adoption of this service area will provide public water and sewer service to a new residential development consisting of 50-52 new home construction projects.

3. Garrett County Airport Expansion, Map 42, Parcel 7 [Chapter 3 Page 25, Chapter 4 Page 15]. Adoption of this amendment will allow for the expansion area to be served by public sewer and public water for fire protection and potable use and to obtain a right-of-way for a possible storage tank site.

Interested persons will be heard at the public hearing on December 21, 2004, to determine if the amendments to the Water and Sewer Master Plan are necessary for the public health, safety, and welfare of the residents of the current or proposed service areas and if the projects are feasible financially from an engineering standpoint.

2. VR-590 - an application submitted by Michael and Deborah Croghan for a Variance for an attached garage to come within 30' of the front property line instead of the required 40'. The property is located at 387 Pinnacle Drive (tax map 58, parcel 694, lot 9) and is zoned Lake Residential.

The applicant received a Variance (VR-580) from the Board on June 18, 2004, to build a structure to within 15 feet of a rear lake front property line. The Zoning Administrator has interpreted that the plans submitted for the building permit, are significantly different from the plans presented at the June hearing, especially concerning the height of the building. The property (tax map 50, parcel 240) is located at 2693 State Park Road and is zoned Lake Residential.

Interested persons are invited to attend.

Final DCL Study Presented To GC Commissioners

The final recommendations in the Deep Creek Lake Watershed Economic Growth and Planning Analysis Study were presented to the Garrett County commissioners this week.

Environmental Resource Management of Annapolis conducted the yearlong study, incorporating suggestions from a 10-member volunteer task force and the general public.

Director John Nelson, Garrett County Department of Planning and Land Development, said the task force reviewed the study last week and had additional suggestions.

Members would like more Deep Creek Lake representation on the Planning Commission and would like the county to promote Deep Creek Lake as a retirement destination.

Task force member Louise Conjura presented the commissioners with a document outlining ways to encourage more retirees to become full-time residents of Garrett County.

Judge Fred Thayer, another task force member, said he believed Conjura's idea was unanimously supported by the other members. "[Her] document bears a lot of consideration," he said.

"I think this is a no-brainer type issue," said task force member Troy Ellington about promoting the lake to retirees. He noted most retirees are very active, and that their communities benefited from their economic and civic contributions.

For just a small cost to the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce and Department of Economic Development for advertising, Ellington said, the county could benefit greatly from retirees.

Two members of the task force disagreed with item 9 on page 17 of the study. The ERM consultants recommended that additional public and quasi public access points to Deep Creek Lake be established.

Task force member Dr. William Savage noted that there were already several public access points which were used mostly by non-residents. He said the points were used by persons who drove to the lake from nearby areas to fish or boat for just a few hours and do

AN AMAZING DISPLAY of model trains is currently in the window of First United Bank & Trust's Littman building on Second Street in Oakland, but there is another similar layout in Oakland that many don't know exists. The Model Railroad Club, which consists of local model train and railroad enthusiasts, has such a display in the lower level of the historic Oakland B&O Railroad Station. The display, which has been in the making for 2½ years, is based upon old area photographs from the West End of the B&O rail system. It is complete with landscaping, buildings, streets, trees, shrubbery, and miniature automobiles. It is open to the public for viewing on Thursday evenings at 6 p.m. and upon request. Schools and other groups may make reservation for tours by calling The Shoppe at Heritage Square, 301-334-1243. Free membership in the club is also available for persons of all ages. Family Holds On To Each Other For Adoption's "Roller Coaster"

by David Foster

Although they boarded as a twosome, Annette and Terry Chapman finished what they describe as their "long roller coaster ride" through the adoption process as an exhilarated family of five. The ride left Annette, Terry, and Sean, 10, and his 6-year-old twin sisters Ashton and Jackie – Garrett County's 2004 Adoptive Family of the Year – amazed at where they are now, after hanging together through the ups and downs of the last 4½ years.

"A long roller coaster ride is really the best way to describe it," Annette said recently after the family was honored during the local National Adoption Day banquet at Uno Restaurant.

"The Chapmans went through an exceptionally long period between the foster care process and the adoption," said Garrett County Department of Social Services adoption worker Monica Barnett. "They worked very well with the biological parents, and had the children's best interests foremost in their minds through the entire process."

"On the morning of June 25th, 1999," Annette recalled, "I received a call from the Department of Social Services saying that a pair of 17-month-old twin girls had been removed from a home under emergency circumstances, and 'do you want to take them into foster care?'

"I said yes, and two hours later these two beautiful little girls were in our lives. Their brother Sean, who had gone into foster care with another family at the same time, came to live with us in foster care on January 1st, 2003, and the adoption for all three was finalized on December 3rd of last year.

"Nothing's been the same for us since this began, but nothing could be more worth it," stated Annette, a trust officer at First United Bank. Her husband Terry owns his own company, Chapman Logging.

The Bray School Road couple had no idea where the ride was headed five years ago when they answered a Department of Social Services advertisement in The Republican seeking participants for a foster

SYMBOLS OF EVERY ADOPTIVE FAMILY, the Chapmans of the Swallow Falls area were honored as Garrett County's 2004 Adoptive Family of the Year during last month's National Adoption Day celebration at Uno Restaurant. Pictured in the front row are Sean, Jackie, and Ashton, and in the back row are Terry and Annette Chapman, and Department of Social Services director Rick DeWitt as he presents the family with a certificate. A list of persons interested in foster care opportunities is being compiled by DSS for an upcoming class tentatively set to begin in January. To be added to the list, and receive an information packet, persons may contact DSS at 301-533-3003. See story for the Chapmans' adoption experience.

Battista Pleased With Community Support In Malpractice Ins. Crisis

Approximately 2,000 letters, many with multiple signatures, that voice concern over the medical malpractice crisis that could ultimately terminate obstetric services at Garrett County Memorial Hospital have been received by the hospital and relayed on to various elected officials, according to a release from Garrett Memorial.

"We want to extend our sincere thanks to the community for this strong show of support to help us persuade our legislature to come up with some type of solution to this crisis," stated Donald Battista, president and CEO of GCMH.

Effective January 1, the Garrett Memorial physicians who provide obstetric services will be forced to pay malpractice insurance premiums that are up to five times greater than those currently being paid. The hospital has agreed to assist the physicians with the increased premiums for the time being, but is pushing legislators to enact significant tort reform to enable these physicians to be able to continue to provide obstetric services at the hospital in the long term.

"On behalf of the hospital and our physicians, I would like to commend both Senator John Hafer and Delegate George Edwards for their support and assistance," Battista said. "They hand-delivered the initial batch of signed letters to Senate president Thomas V. 'Mike' Miller and House speaker Michael Busch. As the only hospital in the state whose obstetrics is provided exclusively by family physicians, Garrett County needs some sort of waiver, subsidy, or exception to the new requirements that family practice physicians must pay OB/GYN rates in order to provide unrestricted obstetrics services."

Battista said that letters are still coming in, and persons are encouraged to continue to submit them. Copies of the letter can be found on The Republican newspaper web site, accessed at www.therepublicannews.com, and then clicking on "Letter to Legislators" found at lower right on the home page. Persons may also obtain copies from the hospital.

"Once again, we really do appreciate the support that Garrett County Memorial Hospital has received from both our community and our legislators," Battista said. "The large number of letters received so far is truly indicative of the Garrett County spirit of caring and concern for others."

Sheriff's Office May Purchase Taser Stun Guns

Deputies and corrections officers with the Garrett County Sheriff's Office may soon be armed with Taser® stun guns. Sheriff Dick Sanders said his office was looking at them "very seriously" as tools to protect officers.

Taser proponents also say the devices offer law enforcement another alternative to lethal force and help prevent injuries and deaths, which reduces litigation costs.

Cpl. Mike Beck, a corrections officer at the Garrett County Detention Center, gave a Taser presentation for the Garrett County commissioners this week. The presentation included videos of officers using the weapon in real situations in Orange County, Fla., Los Angeles, Calif, Phoenix, Ariz., and other locations.

"It's a very effective weapon," Beck said. "It will take you out." He knows from first-hand experience.

The corporal and Deputy Chris Helbig attended an instructor training seminar in October. So that they could fully comprehend the effects of the Taser, the trainees were shot with the device. Beck describes the experience as "being dropped like a bag of rocks." He and Helbig are now qualified to instruct other officers in using the weapon.

Manufactured by Taser International of Phoenix, the gun-like devices use compressed nitrogen to project two small, sharp metal barbed probes up to 15, 21, or 25 feet at a speed of over 160 feet per second. Each probe is connected to the Taser by an insulated wire. An electrical signal is transmitted through the wires to where the probes make contact with the body or clothing, resulting in an immediate loss of the person's neuromuscular control and coordination for up to five seconds.

"It's designed to avoid hands-on contact with violent suspects," Beck said.

Sometimes officers only have to fire the Taser once. After which individuals often beg to handcuff themselves, rather than be hit again, the corporal noted.

But some individuals, particularly those under the influence of drugs or alcohol, still resist arrest. Because the barbs on the probes stay imbedded, though, an officer can stun them as needed until backup arrives.

SWAN MEADOW STUDENTS ARE PROPOSING that Garrett County select a county bird and wildflower. Through a decision matrix, which was created to assist in the selection process, and with help from Jon Boone, the students narrowed down the bird selection from 25 to four. Students also worked with Liz McDowell in selecting four wildflowers. Their goal for this project is to promote awareness and interest in taking care of the county's birds and wildflowers. The students presented their idea for approval to the Garrett County Board of Education at this week's monthly meeting. They plan to present their idea to the Garrett County commissioners next month in hopes that the commissioners will adopt a county bird and wildflower. According to Randee Craig, principal, if the students are granted permission to continue this endeavor, students in grades 2 through 5 in the entire county will participate in making the final decision. "We want this to be a well-informed decision," said Craig. "All aspects of these finalists were discussed in detail from what attributes they have that reflect the county and what they do for the county." The four bird finalists are the Eastern Bluebird, the Black-Capped Chickadee, the Rose-Breasted Grosbeak, and the Golden-Crowned Kinglet. The final four wildflower choices are the Wild Columbine, the Jack-in-the-Pulpit, the Pink Lady Slipper, and the Painted Trillium. Pictured above with some students from Swan Meadow at the board meeting are Dr. Wendell Teets, superintendent; Craig; Arlene Lantz, third, fourth, and fifth grade teacher; and Jim Raley, board president.

Arrest Made In Connection With Stabbing Death Of Local Man

An Oakland man has been arrested in connection with the stabbing death of James Patrick Savage, 53, Oakland, according to Garrett Bureau of Investigation.

Milton Charles (Tilton) DeWitt, 52, is currently being held in the Garrett County Detention Center.

Savage was found dead Tuesday inside his 8th Street residence from a stab wound to the chest. The death was reported at approximately 9:30 a.m.

The cause of death was released Wednesday following an autopsy from the Maryland State Medical Examiner's Office.

According to police, there were no signs of forced entry into the residence.

"Investigators are relatively sure this was not a random crime of violence," said a GBI spokesperson.

The incident continues to be investigated by GBI.

Pair Of I-68 Accidents Claim Three Lives In Three-Day Span

A West Virginia woman was killed and her son injured in a single-vehicle accident on Interstate 68 last Thursday, Dec. 9, and two days later a Baltimore couple died in a single-vehicle accident on the interstate. Both crashes were investigated by Maryland State Police troopers, who attributed Saturday's crash to an ice-slicked road surface, while no information has been made available as to the cause of the earlier fatal mishap.

Thursday's crash occurred on westbound 68, approximately four miles east of Friendsville, at 6:15 a.m. when a 1999 GMC Jimmy westbound traveled off the left side of the roadway into the grass median. The vehicle traveled down the median before it struck a culvert and became airborne. After striking the ground at its front end, the vehicle flipped onto its roof before coming to rest.

The driver, Suzanne Yvonne Herron, 54, Buckhannon, was pronounced dead at Cumberland Memorial Hospital following the accident, while her son, Keith Edward Herron, 23, also of Buckhannon, was admitted to Cumberland Memorial. He was listed in stable condition later that same afternoon.

The victims were transported by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad and MSP medevac helicopter Trooper 5. The Friendsville and Grantsville volunteer fire departments also responded to the scene, along with personnel from the Maryland State Highway Administration.

The second accident occurred on the other end of the county, on eastbound I-68 near Finzel. The 5:35 p.m. crash claimed the lives of Baltimore residents Barbara Lee Engle, 64, and her passenger, Arnold Paul Engle, 68.

The Engles were traveling in the area of the 30-mile marker when, in poor weather conditions, their 2002 Isuzu Axiom spun out of control. The vehicle traveled to the right and onto the right side of the roadway, where it overturned.

Emergency personnel worked to extricate the victims, both of whom were pronounced dead at the scene. Fire personnel from Frostburg and Salisbury, Pa., as well as Frostburg Area Ambulance Service and a Cumberland Fire Department ambulance, responded to the crash site.

Emergency personnel noted that the roadway had received snow showers early in the day, which reportedly

Del. Edwards To Retain Minority Leadership Role

GEORGE C. EDWARDS

House Republicans in Annapolis this week re-elected Del. George C. Edwards (District 1A) as minority leader and Del. Anthony J. O'Donnell (District 29C) as minority whip, by unanimous consent.

"Delegates Edwards and O'Donnell have led the caucus to new levels of unity and performance over the past year, and I was honored to have nominated them for re-election to leadership" said Del. Christopher B. Shank (District 2B).

The nomination of Delegates Edwards and O'Donnell was seconded by Del. Adelaide Eckardt (District 37B), and the motion to close nominations was made by Del. David Boschert (District 35A). Del. William Frank (District 42) moved to suspend the rules and affirm the nomination by unanimous consent, which motion was passed with a chorus of "ayes."

"The caucus membership is eager to begin the 2005 legislative session, unified and united behind their leadership," noted to a Maryland House Republican Caucus spokesperson. "They are anticipating further opportunities to stand behind Governor Ehrlich's agenda and to continue to act on behalf of the citizens of Maryland."

"We are very pleased with the support of the caucus for our record of leadership, and encouraged to move forward during the coming legislative session," Edwards said.

"Delegate Edwards and I are looking forward to continuing the success of the previous year, and are quite pleased with the prospect of another term of leadership," O'Donnell added.

Oakland Woman Arrested For DUI By Town Police

An Oakland woman was jailed by Oakland police officers yesterday evening for allegedly drinking and driving.

Hope Amber Ess, 18, was arrested after police were called to the Burger King parking lot for a reported fight. An investigation revealed that the woman was allegedly driving a vehicle and intoxicated.

Ess was charged with driving while under the influence and violating a license restriction. She was detained in the Garrett County Detention Center this morning on a $2,000 bond set by a District Court commissioner.

Swanton Woman Injured In New Germany Crash

A Swanton woman was injured Monday when her vehicle went out of control on a snow-covered New Germany Road and overturned after hitting an embankment, according to the Maryland State Police.

Carole Calli Perez, 70, was traveling south, nearing Big Run Road, when her 2000 Subaru Outback skidded off the right side of the roadway. The injuries sustained in the rollover necessitated Perez's transport to Garrett Memorial Hospital by the Northern Garrett County Rescue Squad. The Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department assisted at the scene.

No charges were filed by the investigating state trooper.

Edwards Attends White House's Economic Event

House Minority Leader Del. George Edwards (District 1A) and four other Republican members of the Maryland House of Delegates attended a White House economic summit yesterday (Dec. 15) at the Reagan Building in Washington, D.C.

The delegates were invited to attend the event at the request of the White House Inter-Governmental Affairs Office. That office coordinates White House efforts and events with both state and local governments throughout the United States.

"Of course it is always an honor to be asked to attend a White House event, but I think this particular conference will be especially valuable for our delegates," Edwards said. "The state of the economy is, of course, one of the most important issues facing Maryland today, and the information available and lessons learned at this summit should prove to be very helpful to our legislators in the upcoming session."

"I was honored to be asked to attend this summit," added Del. Charles R. Boutin (District 34A). "The president has brought together a broad cross-section of panelists from diverse sectors of the economy, to discuss ways to keep our economy strong, and to ensure that the United States continues to be the finest place in the world to do business. MAKING ADJUSTMENTS to an HO-scale model engine above is Mike Warnick, a member of the Model Railroad Club and primary builder of an intricate layout that is currently on display in the lower level of the Oakland Railroad Station. The photo below shows one of several tunnel exits/entrances, plus just a small part of the "community," complete with houses, vehicles, trees, fences, utility poles, and landscaping. Warnick said that believes many people don't even know the display exists, and that it is open to the public every Thursday evening beginning at 6 p.m., as well as other times that can be arranged. He also invites persons of all ages to join the club at any time. Membership is free, and the club meets every Thursday evening at the station. The club, which operates solely on donations and via fundraisers, is currently selling raffle tickets on a complete HO-scale model train, with buildings, trees, etc. The tickets can be purchased at the station. Donations to the club can also be dropped off at The Shoppe at Heritage Square or mailed to: Model Railroad Club, c/o The Shoppe at Heritage Square, 117 E. Liberty Street, Oakland. Warnick noted his appreciation for the support of the club provided by the mayor and town council of Oakland and the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Road Conditions To Blame For Two Vehicle Accidents

Snow-covered roads were to blame for two single-vehicle accidents Monday, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Oakland City Police assisted deputies at the 1:21 p.m. accident on Herrington Manor Road. Vincent Dzierski, Bridgeville, Pa., apparently lost control of his vehicle because of the conditions of the road, and crossed into the northbound lane and struck a ditch. A passenger, Joanne Wells-Dzierski, was treated at the scene by Southern Rescue Squad, but refused transport.

In a separate accident, Maria McKinney, 22, Gormania, W.Va., lost control of her vehicle on the snow-covered roadway and struck a guardrail. She was transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries. The 9:00 a.m. incident occurred at the intersection of Gorman Road and George Washington Highway.

Two-Vehicle Mishap Sends Six To Hospital

A two-vehicle accident Wednesday at the intersection of Rt. 135 and G Street sent six people to the hospital, according to Garrett County sheriff's deputies.

Audra Bentz was operating a 1989 Chevrolet car northbound on G Street and reportedly failed to stop at the stop sign and traveled into the path of a 2004 Chevy truck, operated by Leon Paugh, that was traveling westbound on Rt. 135.

Passengers in Bentz's vehicle, Amber Bentz, 14, and Kristin Chones, 11, and Carol Paugh and Haley Paugh, passengers in Paugh's vehicle, were all transported by Southern Rescue Squad to Garrett County Memorial Hospital.

Oakland firefighters also responded to the 6:50 p.m. scene.

Morgantown Man Jailed On Drug Charge

A traffic stop conducted by Maryland State Police troopers yesterday evening on Interstate 68 led to the arrest of a Morgantown man on a drug possession charge.

At approximately 6:47 p.m., troopers stopped a 1997 Mercury Mountaineer for speeding on the eastbound interstate west of Route 42. When the strong odor of suspected marijuana was detected emanating from the vehicle, the occupants were ordered to exit the SUV.

At that point a passenger, Andrew James Hager, 20, Morgantown, was allegedly observed dropping a bag of suspected marijuana on the ground. Hager was arrested and charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia.

During the course of the investigation, another passenger, Joseph Michael Bernstein, 19, Silver Spring, was found to be in possession of a fictitious New Jersey driver's license. He was summarily charged for that offense, while the driver, Brett Jay Devos, 20, also of Silver Spring, was charged with speeding.

Bernstein and Devos were released at the scene, while Hager was transported to Oakland, where he was detained pending an appearance before a District Court commissioner this morning.

Wise Investment or Big Mistake?...

Over a year ago the writer of this column endorsed the concept of the generation of electrical power with giant wind turbines. The endorsement of the concept still stands. How great it would be to be able to provide electrical power using a natural resource as pure as the wind, and not have to worry about air and water pollution as a side effect.

However, after becoming a bit more informed about the realities and the efficiency of the wind turbines, there is good reason to stand in opposition to them, at least for Garrett County, and such was stated in this column a couple weeks ago. The numbers — the relative amount of power generated by them — just don't justify their use here, especially when it places at risk that which is the primary attraction of folks to the county. More and more people, both long-time, permanent residents as well as visitors and potential future residents, are now speaking out against the turbines, saying they simply do not want them lining the picturesque mountain ridges of the county. Light and noise pollution and the potential threat to various wildlife are among the other criticisms.

There has been a lot of pressure lately on the Garrett County commissioners to do whatever they can to stop the erection of these turbines. However, months ago they wrote a letter of support for Clipper Windpower's proposal to place 67 of the turbines in the county. They are now in a bit of a difficult position as the resistance toward the turbines is growing. However, their endorsement is, in their eyes, water over the dam. Reneging now might make them look wishy-washy or foolish. It could conceivably pose legal ramifications as well.

But changing one's mind is certainly not a bad thing if new knowledge, new information, makes the initial position the less desirable one. Indeed, it usually takes courage to switch one's stand, especially for those in the political arena.

Perhaps this is precisely what the commissioners should do in this case. Granted, another thing for them to strongly consider is the $1.287 million in annual taxes that the county will receive when the 67 towers are up and spinning. That would replace Texas Eastern as the single largest taxpayer in the county. We're talking big money.

But is it a wise, long-range investment? That's the huge question, and from the growing cry of resistance, we're not sure that it is a wise, long-range investment. If we do anything — anything — to make people turn away from Garrett County as their home or favorite place to come spend time (and, yes, their money), then that "anything" would be the biggest possible mistake we could make.

[Persons can follow online precisely what is happening with the wind turbine project/debate by going to www.psc.state.md.us/psc/; clicking on "search case files"; entering case #8938 for Clipper Project (already approved); entering case #9008 for Synergics Project (still being examined by the PSC); and clicking on blue highlights to read specific documents, studies, testimony, etc.]

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

On behalf of the Family Centered Maternity Suite at Garrett County Memorial Hospital, I want to assure our patients and the community that we will be here in 2005 to meet the community's obstetrical needs.

We appreciate all the letters that were sent in to be forwarded to the legislators in support of the needed tort reform. While our OB services are at risk in the long term, we are confident that the community's support will have some impact in getting our legislators to act responsibly and resolve the medical malpractice issue.

Meanwhile, our dedicated nursing staff, along with Dr. Karl Schwalm, Dr. Sotiere Savopoulos, and Dr. Ken Buczynski will continue to be available at Garrett County Memorial Hospital to serve you.

Charlene Bennett, RNC, BSN
Nurse Manager
GCMH Family Centered Maternity Suite

To the Editor:

My family purchased a residence in Garrett County after falling in love with its rustic beauty and mountain views. I have reviewed information regarding the wind turbines that have been proposed in Garrett County and believe they will have a negative impact on property values, destroy our beautiful mountain landscape, and create noise pollution.

I am asking the commissioners to reconsider this type of project and withdraw their support for any and all wind turbine development in the county. The companies sponsoring these projects are looking to take advantage of the rural nature of this area as a means to profit and create a tax shelter at the expense of the residents who live here enjoying the mountainous landscape and quiet rural lifestyle. Their claims of green power, increased county tax revenue, new jobs, and reduced burning of coal are untrue.

Garrett County is a wonderful rural area, and allowing it to turn into an industrial landscape is scary and unthinkable.

Stephen Kaplan

To the Editor:

In this season of thankfulness and counting blessings, my husband and I find that the kindness of others tops the list. Terry was diagnosed with a very rare cancer invading his heart and lungs. He went through extensive open-heart surgery at Johns Hopkins Hospital and he is now recovering. He will soon start chemotherapy.

We have had so much kindness from others! Our families have really helped to carry us and to take care of our sons. I work at GCMH and they have treated me very well – just like an extended family. Many of my close friends went to much hard work to hold a benefit dinner and auction. We just cannot put into words how grateful we are for their time and hard work, especially at this already busy time of year. The nurse manager has been very gracious and forgiving of my schedule, and many co-workers have offered money and a donation of their well-earned vacation time.

Gary Fitzwater at Fitzwater Furniture has also been very kind, offering to hold Terry's job until he is well again. We have had so many people from the community send cards and offer their thoughts and prayers. The local businesses have been very kind also with donations.

The spirit of kindness is alive and well in Garrett County. We are very thankful to live in such a great place. This is going to be a difficult fight, but with so much caring from others, it will ease some of the burden. Thanks to each one of you for your greatness, and God bless you all.

Thank you!
Terry and Gina Artice and sons

To the Editor:

Now is the time when we reflect on the successes, big and small, of the past year. I am very happy that 2004 was a positive year for the Maryland Department of Transportation, and a positive year for the citizens of western Maryland.

Last April, Governor Ehrlich signed legislation that provides an additional $238 million every year for the Transportation Trust Fund, the pot of money that finances our roads, bridges, and transit systems. More than 180 new projects have been added to the state's Consolidated Transportation Program, many of them in western Maryland.

The Ehrlich administration is building the $31 million Oakland Bypass, a long-delayed project in Garrett County. Funding has been allocated for improvements to the Coal Heritage Trail, the Western Maryland Rail Trail, and the Allegheny Highlands Trail, important tools as the region expands its tourism industry. The Ehrlich administration also announced $3.5 million for road improvement projects in LaVale and Cresaptown in Allegany County.

Finally, thanks to Governor Ehrlich's transportation initiative, Garrett and Allegany counties will receive millions of extra dollars to use for their own local road projects.

I would like to thank Senator John Hafer and Delegates George Edwards, Kevin Kelly, and LeRoy Myers for their support of the governor's initiative. Because of their support, it has been a very productive year for transportation in western Maryland.

Sincerely,
Robert L. Flanagan
Md. Secretary of Transportation

Editor's note: Senator John Hafer requested that the following letter he wrote to Gov. Robert Ehrlich, Senate President Mike Miller, and Speaker of the House Michael Busch appear in this column.

Dear Governor Ehrlich, Senator Miller and Delegate Busch:

I am taking this opportunity to share some disturbing statistics with you that are specific to Allegany and Garrett counties in western Maryland. These statistics concern the effect of rising medical malpractice insurance rates on the availability of care for my constituents.

Allegany County has dropped from 12 obstetricians to seven and may drop even lower in January as the remaining doctors contemplate their future. Garrett County will be limited to only three physicians providing obstetrical services, with the threat of losing them if this malpractice insurance crisis is not resolved. Along with declining medical services our health care facilities are a minimum of 50 miles apart and as much as 125 miles by car or ambulance. As you can see, this distance is specific to western Maryland, where services and hospitals are spread over a large geographical area unlike more urban areas of the state.

Allegany County will have only three orthopedic surgeons, one of whom will be deployed in January to Iraq, with only one remaining physician taking calls. There are only two neurosurgeons, both in the same practice. If they decide to move their practice to another state, we will lose our trauma center.

As you can see, we are truly in a state of crisis in my district. We are potentially facing a huge area of our state offering no medical coverage for our citizens. This is not a problem for just physicians; this is an access to quality health care issue involving every citizen of our state. Jeopardizing the health of our citizens and impacting the potential for economic growth are unconscionable. I would ask you to be aware of these emergency issues as you work to achieve a meaningful compromise between the medical and legal professions.

If you have any questions or comments, or would like to discuss these issues, please do not hesitate to call on me. We are out of time and our citizens are going to pay an extremely high price in this scenario.

Sincerely,
John J. Hafer

To the Editor:

Let me start by saying that some of the comments by Commissioner Gregg at the windmill opponents' meeting have earned him my compliments for his candor and truthfulness under pressure by these people.

Let me tell you folks who are making noise on this issue and others who still don't understand, and please, make no mistake about this. Over the past 30 years, time after time, the citizens of Garrett County when given the opportunity have overwhelmingly rejected all attempts to take away what many of us still consider our most precious possession. It's called freedom!

To me it's kind of simple. If you don't like what you see on someone's property, be it a sign in his field or on his barn, or a wind generator on his mountaintop, that doesn't give you or the government the right to say he can't have it there. That's why they call it "private" property.

Furthermore, I agree that if your eyes are offended by these options that might enable landowners to make a little money back on acreage that they have paid taxes on for years, then perhaps you should reconsider, as someone said in last week's paper, whether or not you want to live in an area where owners actually have the audacity to believe that they still have the right to do what they want with their land. What a radical idea!

We've certainly seen what has happened to the one area of our county that has had all of the government control it could stand over the past three decades. To save space, my only comment on that for now will be, money talks!

Let me say in closing that, in my opinion, if most of us had to choose between the wind machines that we are being told are coming to overrun us or the windy newcomers who never miss an opportunity to tell us how much better our lives would be if we'd only let the government regulate how we can live on and use our own property, you can only guess which side of the fence I think the vast majority of folks here in Garrett County would land on when the wind quits blowing!

Jerry Plauger
Mtn. Lake Park

Editor's note: The writers of the following letter to the Board of Garrett County Commissioners requested that it appear in this column.

Dear Commissioners:

We are opposed to industrial wind plants proposed for Garrett County, for they will ruin our beautiful landscape and create hardships for those who will live near them – as they already have done in nearby Thomas and Meyersdale. The size and scale of this industry, with 40-story-tall turbines spread over many miles of our highest ridges, is appropriate only for big cities – not for our rural way of life.

We currently own a home at 135 Tenderfoot Road in Oakland and some undeveloped property nearby as well. We know our property values will be significantly reduced should these industrial wind plants be erected. Additionally, we do not want ourselves or our neighbors exposed to the continual noise, the shadow-flicker, night lighting, and loss of satellite reception that these intrusive structures will create. We are also concerned about the threat to wildlife and the loss of our natural heritage which will occur if Backbone Mountain and other historic ridges are honeycombed with 400-foot-tall wind machines.

We strongly urge you to study this issue very carefully to insure a thorough understanding is achieved of the pros and cons involved with industrial wind plants. We also urge you to support regulations which protect wildlife, important historical views, property values, and quality of life considerations such as noise and light nuisances. Currently, no such protections exist.

Finally, we request a special evening session dedicated to a discussion of this issue so that folks who work during the day can attend and be heard. This session should be held at a venue large enough to accommodate the many people who are concerned about this seemingly irresponsible development supported by those who will actually live hundreds of miles from the real problems they intend to create here.

Thank you for your attention to this matter.

Sincerely,
Julia and Robert Hoffmann
Springfield, Va.

ADVENT REFLECTIONS

Jacques-Bénigne Bossuet (A.D.1627-1704), a French priest and subsequently bishop, was chaplain to King Louis XIV. This Louis is most remembered for his dictum, "L'état, c'est moi!" ("I am the State."). The Louvre, today one of the great art museums of the world, was his palace. It was, in effect, his town house. He had palaces aplenty.

In short, Louis XIV was a monarch who had a high opinion of his place in the world. He brooked no opposition. These facts about Louis make all the more remarkable his obvious esteem for Bossuet, to whom he entrusted the education of his son and heir.

Bossuet was a fiery expository preacher in the great French tradition of St. Bernard of Clairvaux and John Calvin. In his sermon on the first Lord's Day of Advent A.D. 1665 at the Louvre in the presence of Louis, Bossuet expounded upon this verse: "The fool says in his heart, 'There is no God'" (14:1; 53:1).

Toward the end of the sermon he addresses the king directly and says in effect, that if the sun and the moon and the stars stand under the judgment of God, then how terrible must be that judgment for mortal man.

He concludes his sermon with these words, "If our salvation draws nigh, so too does our damnation. Both march together. Let us turn, then, toward salvation since God sends us such a Saviour as Jesus Christ. Let us be faithful to his grace and attentive to his truth that we might participate in his glory."

In challenging the king and his court, Bossuet distinguishes between explicit atheism and implicit atheism. The explicit atheist is the one who actually declares that God does not exist or if he does exist, his existence doesn't matter very much. Nietzsche and Marx were explicit atheists.

Bossuet also says, there are two kinds of implicit atheism. First is the atheism of someone who acknowledges God's existence but does nothing about it. When the pollster phones in the middle of supper and asks, "Do you believe in God?" the implicit atheist answers, "Yes," but does not go to church, pray, or ask what duty God requires of him.

The second kind of implicit atheism is more insidious. This is the temporary atheism of the Christian who affirms the faith, goes to church, prays regularly, performs works of charity as to Christ and on and on, but who may forget Christ in any given moment. At the time of forgetting, Bossuet says, even the most devout Christian has become a temporary atheist.

In forgetting Christ, the follower of Christ has denied his Lord, has absented God from his heart. In that forgetting, the Christian has become the fool who says in his heart that there is no God. Bossuet casts a wide net. Who can escape it?

Bossuet also observes that Advent is a season about waking up and staying awake. As the days grow shorter in the northern hemisphere, it is easier to sleep and harder to stay awake. God hides great things from us (like the certainty of our salvation) in order to keep us alert.

Because we do not know for certain that we are saved, because we do not know the day that Christ shall come again, we are cautioned in the direction of humility and obedience. Bossuet preached thus while evoking vivid scenes of the Last Judgment for the royal court of France.

During the two weeks before Advent I had the privilege and pleasure, here in Paris almost 340 years after Bossuet preached his Advent sermon, of sitting through three denunciations. At a French Reformed Church I listened as the pastor denounced various kinds of conservative Christians and their views of the world's end.

In one of my classes I listened to an Italian student denounce the bourgeoisie. At a conservative Catholic Church (Lefebvrist) I heard the priest denounce communists, Protestants, the Second Vatican Council and personalists (Pope John Paul II is the most prominent exponent of personalism in the world today).

What struck me in each case was the expectation of the speaker that none of the people being denounced would be in attendance. All three denunciations were exclusive.

Bossuet's sermon provides a splendid contrast to those denunciations. The contrast displays two essential elements of prophecy. The first is that always inherent in pronouncing prophecy is the possibility of losing property, liberty or life. That is the risk which Bossuet took in preaching as he did directly to the king.

The second characteristic is that prophecy is about bringing people in rather than shutting them out. Bossuet's sermon is completely inclusive in terms of standing as sinners under the judgment of God. None is excluded.

One has the sense that Bossuet had experienced the searing, blinding glory of God before he stepped into the pulpit. If one has survived the presence of the Almighty, what has one to fear from the mere king of France? Attentive to Christ's Advent, Bossuet was ready for anything.

"Advent" means literally "to-coming." It is Jesus Christ coming to the world as Saviour and judge, coming to the world, old and new, then and now, to Bossuet, to Louis, to you and me, by grace, for faith, in glory.

The corporal noted that Garrett County was a very big area for deputies to patrol and that back-up for them was often many minutes away. Tasers would offer an alternative to lethal force, but still allow a deputy to subdue individuals until other officers arrived on the scene, he indicated.

Beck added that pointing the Taser's red targeting light at an individual was often enough of a deterrent to resisting arrest.

The devices would also be beneficial at the Garrett County Jail. Beck recommends that two Tasers be purchased for correctional officers to keep in the control room to use when fights or "mini riots" occur.

He noted that the stun guns would be more useful than pepper spray in confined areas such as a jail or a hostage situation in a restaurant.

"It has its place," Beck said about pepper spray. But he added that the spray can affect everyone near it, while Tasers can be targeted at specific individuals.

Tasers can also help in court cases, Beck said. Data on how many times they have been fired and when they were fired can be retrieved through computer software, corroborating an officer's statement.

It is legal in many states for civilians to also purchase Tasers. But the device's Anti-Felon Identification (AFID) system enforces accountability. Each time a Taser is fired, it disperses tiny coded tags that have been assigned to a specific purchaser. When police investigate any Taser use, whether by a civilian or law enforcement, they can locate these tags and contact Taser International for a trace on the serial number.

The devices have been widely tested on humans, and numerous studies show that Tasers are non-lethal, according to Beck. More than 50 wrongful death lawsuits involving Tasers have been dropped, he noted.

The only apparent side effect from the devices may be minor skin irritation at the probe sites. As part of their Taser training, officers learn proper procedures for removing the probes, Beck said.

Tasers run about $700 each, plus the cost of probe cartridges, chargers, computer software, and accessories such as holsters, according to the corporal.

Food Bank Provides Sustenance For Needy Families, Volunteers

by Glenn Tolbert

They work behind the scenes, some 160 Garrett County volunteers moving boxes of groceries from a warehouse in Oakland to distribution centers around the county. It's been going on quietly once a month for 18 years, not really enough food to drastically make a difference to a family's way of living, but enough to at least give everyone participating something to look forward to.

The 13- to 16-ton shipment of groceries comes from the Maryland Food Bank. The operation is totally self-supporting, though it operates under the umbrella of the Garrett County Community Action Committee.

"Each family pays seven dollars a delivery," said Community Action's Sandy Park, who coordinates the food bank. "Groceries come in here costing us 12 cents a pound, and go out at 16 cents a pound. What each of the families gets depends on the person we call the 'captain' for their area."

A recent visit to the Food Bank revealed volunteers sorting through a mix of giveaways, ranging from kiwi juice to microwave popcorn to fabric softener. "We pretty much have to take what we're given and then figure out ways to make the best use of it," Park said as dozens of volunteers walked past, each carrying boxes in various stages of being filled.

"I've got a box of 12 of cereal," one shouted as she walked by, and Park entered the fact in her records. "We need maybe some of that popcorn or something in that area to round out this delivery," Park said to another volunteer. "Got it," he replied. "We've got more than enough popcorn here. I'll load it."

The enthusiasm within the storage facility for the work being done was palpable. "I think everyone here should feel good about what they are doing," said first-time volunteer Jeremiah Jefferson. "I plan to make this a regular part of my week from now on."

Anyone who wishes to volunteer for the food bank, or make a donation to the feeding effort on behalf of Garrett County's families in need, can do so by calling Park at 301-334-9431.

MASSES FEED THE MASSES each month through the Garrett County Food Bank, a self-supporting program that operates under the umbrella of the Garrett County Community Action Committee. Some of the action is shown above as volunteer Roger Kifer carries a box load of groceries for delivery to Garrett County families, while Garrett County's Food Bank coordinator checks off on the shipment. More than 800 families are recipients of the volunteers' efforts every month of the year. Persons interested in donating to or volunteering for the food bank are encouraged to contact Park at 301-334-9431. Photo by Glenn Tolbert.

LENDING A FEW HUNDRED HELPING HANDS – Lots of local folks, somewhere around 150, came out to help those less fortunate last Friday, as the Oakland Rotary Club engaged in its yearly Christmas Project. The Rotary had requests from an unprecedented number of families this year and reached out to 550 homes, with even more volunteers delivering the boxes on Saturday morning. This year, the project extended to 200 elderly residents as well as the families. They were given food boxes, which were packed by the many volunteers pictured here, and a number of the recipients were also given Christmas gifts for children. Area residents purchased gifts or made monetary donations after taking request cards from Rotary Christmas trees placed around the county. The Grantsville Rotary Club conducted its project as well. Warm the Children, another service project which is sponsored by The Republican newspaper and the Civic Club of Oakland, helped in the purchase of many of the clothing and footwear items, in collaboration with both Rotary clubs. Safety Education Cited In Improving Maryland's Boating Accident Rate

by Peter R. Palmieri
Capital News Service

ANNAPOLIS — Boaters who take an approved safety course are less likely to get into an accident than those without any safety training, according to a United States Coast guard database of Maryland boating mishaps.

Of the 183 people involved in a boating accident in the state in 2003, more than 60 percent had no boating education or their education was unreported. About 35 percent took a specified safety training course, and less than 2 percent reported taking an unspecified safety course.

In addition, boating accidents overall in Maryland declined from 2002-2003, reflecting a national trend, according to the databases.

Of the 198,395 registered boats in Maryland, reported accidents dropped about 9 percent from 2002-2003 and the number of fatal accidents dropped 28.5 percent during the same span. Boat registration increased by 383 during that time.

Nationally, the number of reported accidents dropped about 4.6 percent and the number of fatal accidents fell by about 6 percent. Those accidents resulted in 47 fewer deaths in 2003 than in 2002 nationally.

The declining number of accidents in Maryland is probably a result of the state's mandatory education program, said Bill Gossard, recreational boating program coordinator for the National Transportation Safety Board.

The database contains statistics on recreational boats, including open motorboats, canoes, personal watercraft, and sailboats. Commercial boats such as water taxis are not included in the report.

The operator of a vessel is required to file an accident report if an event results in a death, an injury that requires medical treatment beyond first aid, or if damage to a vessel or property totals $2,000, according to the Coast Guard.

A Maryland law, effective since 1988, requires anyone born after July 1, 1972, to have a boating safety certificate before operating any motorized vessel, said Julie Brown, boating safety coordinator for the Natural Resources Police.

Maryland was the first to get a law passed tha. reached a significant number of boaters, said Brown. While the law went into effect in the 1980's, the state is now starting to see significant results.

"Before it was catching people in their teens, now we're into the 30 (year-olds)," said Brown. "We believe that the education is the tool to decreasing the accidents out there."

Rod Jabin, the owner of Bert Jabin's Yacht Yard, said the course required by Maryland is very important for new boaters.

"I think it's a place to start," said Jabin. "What I don't want to do is add too much red tape in order to get on the water and enjoy yourself . . . . There should be a basic understanding."

Even with the strict regulations, some are still not getting the message. In 2003, 30 boat operators required to have a safety certificate and involved in an accident reported no education, according to the database.

Any course approved by the National Association of State Boating Law Administrators is acceptable for boat operators in Maryland, as long as they take a proctored exam, said Brown. Certifications from online courses are not valid in Maryland. The state-approved course can be taken at almost every community college, according to Brown.

"People need to understand that when they purchase a boat, they need to go through the process of finding out exactly what they need to have," said Brown.

In addition to boater safety, waterways police also are promoting alcohol awareness. Maryland only had one more alcohol-related accident in 2003 than in 2002, according to the database.

Three Swanton Residents Arrested By GC Task Force

Three Swanton residents were arrested on drug charges after a search and seizure warrant was executed on a Swanton residence Sunday night, according to the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force.

The warrant was obtained after uniformed deputies from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office responded to the residence in reference to a domestic dispute call and observed drug paraphernalia in the residence, police said.

Arrested were Joan Hoban, 39; Jesse Getson, 18; and Jonathan Frye, 40. All were charged with manufacturing marijuana, possession with intent to distribute marijuana, possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia, and maintaining a common nuisance.

Recovered from the residence were suspected marijuana plants, suspected marijuana, and suspected drug paraphernalia.

All were released from the Garrett County Detention Center after each posted $5,000 bond, according to a jail spokesperson.

MORE ABOUT WIND TURBINES

I want to thank the hundreds of people who have expressed concern about the wind turbine issues–both those for and those against; I have been able to see how others view this issue as well.

However, I would now like to ask readers in favor of the projects to consider the local problems the wind industry will create and understand how we got into this mess.

First, property values will fall everywhere within a windplant viewshed. In nearby Meyersdale, properties located approximately one (1) mile away from Wind Turbines have seen devaluation from 50% to 80%. In other areas where windplants have been built, Realtors flatly tell you your property value drops 25-30%–even in some cases miles away from the turbines.

Also consider the noise generated by these massive structures. Here are a few comments from various articles I have read: "The developers assured us that the windmills would cause hardly any disturbance, but once they began operating I couldn't work on my yard or in my garden any more– the noise was unbearable." "It was as if someone was mixing cement in the sky." "It sounds like an old boot in a tumble dryer or a train continuously passing through the room or a C-130 Hercules flying outside your window or distant pile driving." "It has been a miserable, horrible experience. They grind you down and you can't get away from them." "They make you depressed–the chomp and swoosh of the blades creates a noise that begs for relief." Doesn't seem like a very neighborly experience.

And consider the strobe light effect caused by the sun shining through the 360 ft blades of the wind turbines–a phenomenon known as "shadow flicker." Just imagine how annoying this would be if, for hours at a time, you and your family would have to endure such a nuisance around your home.

Visual dominance is certainly an issue everyone should be concerned about. Garrett County has the potential for many hundreds of 400 ft. tall (40 story) industrial-sized wind turbines stretched across a hundred miles of our ridgetops. Keep in mind ... these things are hardly a farm. They are Power Plants that will be haphazardly scattered across the Mountain Ridges throughout Garrett County.

Wind energy won't work well here because, despite the industrial scale of its plant, it is extremely inefficient. The wind doesn't blow with sufficient regularity and intensity to capture enough energy to make much of a difference relative to the size and rate of our demand for power. Imagine a thousand hamsters working out on their circular treadmills. They will also produce electricity–but what's the point! The industry tries to compensate for these problems by making its turbines larger and placing them on high ridges with good wind, but their operation still requires back-up from fossil-fueled plants. Even if we placed huge wind turbines throughout all the possible wind sites, saturating our region with 35,000 wind power plants, this would still NOT reduce the mining or burning of coal, given our rate of demand for power. Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania and New Jersey COMBINED have less than one-half of one percent of the nation's continental wind potential. Consequently, we will not see a reduction in air pollution because of these wind machines. In the larger scheme of things, wind power will always be a sideshow technology. And here in the East its façade is energy production; the real function is tax sheltering. And everyone who has studied the issue knows it.

Wind Turbines will NOT reduce the use of power plants that burn coal. Coal plants will actually increase in number over the next 30 years.

So... to summarize, Wind Turbines reduce property values, can be annoying with noise and constant flickering lights, wreck heritage views and rural scenic views, produce just a trickle of power and have NO impact on the depletion of fossil fuels.

My view is that the adverse consequences of Wind Plants to our land and its traditional uses the quality of life in Garrett County, the wildlife, the unspoiled views far exceeds any perceived benefits for our county from wind. Token local revenues and limited power production (keep in mind wind turbines will not affect the production or mining of coal) hardly justify their intrusive presence and the hardships that will affect people who will live near them.

Moreover, the developers of wind turbines are exempt from paying fair and justifiable taxes in the county or even in the state. They are heavily subsidized with OUR tax dollars. And while the illusion of the developers is to promise a cleaner and healthier environment, all they are really doing is using the "illusion" of Green Power for a tax shelter worth tens of millions of dollars.

So while they will destroy our quality of life in many ways, the wind developers are getting rich at our expense.

What can we do as a community? Write the county's commissioners. Although NOW they say they are "helpless" in fighting this project, they are the ones who endorsed these projects at an accelerated pace, ignoring the normal two to three year study period. If they can approve it, they can certainly disapprove it. They need to send another letter asking, at a minimum, to recognize the two to three year study period for all Wind Turbine Projects.

Based upon the obvious problems associated with windplants–and the negligence of our leaders–the county must now work to undo all this mischief and do what is best for the majority of citizens, not just assist the wind turbine developers. Although two wind projects were initially approved for an accelerated start-up by the Commissioners, they now claim they are withdrawing their support for the rapid start-up for Synergics, the latest windplant applicant. But the commissioners need to do the same for the first project (Clipper) as well.

Had the Commissioners considered how the average resident would be negatively impacted by this development, we would not be in this mess today. Such a massive industrial operation was–and is– worthy of public scrutiny. All too often we wait until it is too late to act. After all this is our home and we should not let it be so carelessly abandoned to the craven consequences of irresponsible development.

MSDE Set To Launch Comic Book Initiative

Maryland students will soon be able to take advantage of an unusual form of literature not often associated with schools as they strengthen their reading skills.

The Maryland State Department of Education, in partnership with Diamond Comic Distributors and Disney Publishing Worldwide, is developing an instructional toolkit that will allow schools to supplement traditional literature with comic books and graphic novels.

MSDE's new reading initiative is being assembled by a creative team that includes award-winning teachers, reading specialists, educational administrators, library specialists, comic book authors, and publishers.

"Reading is a wonderful activity in all of its many forms," said Dr. Nancy S. Grasmick, Maryland State Superintendent of Schools. "Our job as educators is to help children learn to enjoy reading, making it a pleasurable experience rather than a burden. By using nontraditional materials along with our regular materials, we believe students will become even more excited about reading."

Maryland's unique statewide project will not mandate comic books or replace traditional classroom materials. Rather, the program will provide options for teachers as they seek to encourage reading across the grade spectrum.

Pilot instructional projects began this month in Baltimore, Harford, Carroll, and Queen Anne's Counties. In addition, the Jessup Correctional Institution is developing a pilot reading instruction program for incarcerated adults using graphic novels.

"Comic books offer a wonderful gateway to the joys of reading," said Steve Geppi, president and chief executive of Diamond Comic Distributors. "They bring together art and literature to communicate ideas and spark the imagination – much like the best novels. This is an exciting program for Maryland schools."

Diamond has given the state a $10,000 project grant to support substitute teachers and other costs associated with the pilot programs currently under way. The corporation also has provided thousands of dollars in materials to creative team members and pilot schools to help launch the project.

Disney has agreed to provide materials for the elementary school roll-out, and will be creating new titles for Maryland elementary programs.

Graphic literature has drawn increasing interest from educators. They can be used as powerful motivational tools, provide context for written text for students who have difficulty with visualization, and provide reluctant readers with the foundations they need to move on to more challenging materials. Comic books have found their place in both remedial and gifted classrooms.

An expert panel of K-12 educators, college and university professors, comic book authors, and others involved in the graphic novel field is selecting program materials for the project. Comic books considered for inclusion will be evaluated by panelists to ensure their utility in the classroom. In addition, a team of higher education and reading experts will develop an evaluation of the program's content, motivational capabilities, and effectiveness.

Instructional components for the program are being put together for elementary schools beginning in grade 3, middle schools, high schools, and adult education programs. The initiative uses state content standards and is directly connected with Maryland's Voluntary State Curriculum.

Plans are for the Maryland Comics Initiative Instructional Toolkit to be completed by June, with a roll-out of the program to state systems scheduled for fall of 2005.

Dr. Grasmick is scheduled to make a presentation on the graphic literature project before the International Reading Association in San Antonio this coming May.

Adorable Adoptables

LUCKY, a large black Lab mix, is available for adoption from the Garrett County Animal Shelter (pictured above left). She is an owner giveup and is not spayed. Also looking for a new home is a collie/shepherd mix who has been at the shelter for about two weeks. He was probably tied outside all his life, but he is still said to be a "friendly guy." He was brought in as a stray and was never reclaimed. Pictured below left is a small, friendly beagle mix. Not much is known about him. Two black/white tuxedo felines, Bonnie and Clyde, are also available for adoption. They were given up by their owner because he could no longer keep them. The siblings have both been altered and would like to be adopted together. Only one of them is pictured. "Remember to provide shelter from the wind and snow and provide fresh water to your pets each day," said a Garrett County Humane Society spokesperson. "Please don't assume because they have fur that they won't get cold or die from exposure or dehydration. Get some straw and put it in their dog/cat house." For more information, persons may visit the animal shelter, located along Oakland Sang Run Road, or call 301-334-3553.

Animal Shelter Report

The Garrett County Office of Emergency Management reported that the following animals were recently picked up as strays and are now housed at the Garrett County Animal Shelter:

A young mixed breed dog, black and brown, female, found along Reese Street in Oakland; and an adult tabby cat, black and white, male, found in the Gorman area along LeMoyne King Road.

These animals must be claimed within 72 hours. For more information, persons may call the Garrett County Animal Shelter at 301-334-3553.

HELPING CELEBRATE THE SEASON, employees of the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce have donated from their own pockets, and used funds remaining from a holiday party, to help some local residents enjoy Christmas more. Chamber staffer Laura Reilly is pictured as she wraps gifts for a local family adopted through the Department of Social Services. "We wanted to help others instead of just doing things for ourselves," Reilly said. Previous Christmas donations by chamber staffers have benefited the House of Hope, Warm the Children, the Dove Center, and the Rotary Christmas Project. "This is something the staff likes to do and I am proud of them," said Chamber president Charlie Ross. "Community involvement, whether by local businesses, groups, or individuals, helps make this county a great place to live."

CONTEST WINNERS — Students from Linda Wengerd's sixth grade health class at Northern Middle School recently won Maryland's SunGuard Man Birthday Card Contest. After finishing a unit on skin care and cancer prevention, the students entered the contest by sending original cards to SunGuard Man for his 5th birthday. They shared sun-safe messages they had learned, especially the importance of wearing sunscreen when out in the snow. The Joanna M. Nicolay Melanoma Foundation sent a birthday cake to the students, and they also had a visit from SunGuard Man.

Sheriff Sanders and his officers will research the cost of implementing a Taser program further and assess their needs. They will then submit that information to the commissioners for consideration in the FY 2006 budget.

Commissioner Ernie Gregg indicated he supports the idea of purchasing the devices for the local officers.

More than 2,500 police departments in the United States and abroad have purchased Taser products, according to the manufacturer.

More information about the stun guns is available at Taser International's web site: taser.com.

Final Study

not stay in local motels or rental units.

Savage added that the points are not supervised and, therefore, littering and other problems arise. He was concerned that more access would mean even more problems.

"Let us remember that Deep Creek Lake is the engine that drives the county," Savage told the commissioners. "Don't let us turn this into a Coney Island."

Commissioner Ernie Gregg said the lake access issue was somewhat of a contentious one, and noted that the lake had been purchased with taxpayer dollars.

ERM's final recommendations along with the task force's final comments will now be reviewed by the Planning Commission at its January and February meetings. If the commission agrees with all or most of the recommendations, local officials will then use them as a guide when adopting policies for land use, economic development, zoning, infrastructure, and other issues involving Deep Creek Lake.

The study is available online at garrett.org/pandz/finalrecommend.pdf.

Others members appointed to the task force by the Garrett County commissioners were Greig Johnson, Richard Devlin, Carl Roberts, Zachary Taylor, Bill Weissgerber, and Hugh Umbel.

Gregg commended the members for their efforts, noting that they had spent countless hours on the study project.

Family Holds

care training session. "We love children and weren't able to have any of our own," Annette said. "We had looked into adopting through various agencies, but the cost was prohibitive – we know of people who have gone overseas themselves, and spent thousands of dollars to adopt a child. We just couldn't do that, and we knew there were children right here in Garrett County who needed a family."

After completing DSS's 27-hour foster care/adoptive parent class, facilitated by adoption workers and experienced foster/adoptive parents, the Chapmans went through an in-depth home study, consisting of home visits by DSS staff. Annette and Terry were interviewed as their motivations were discussed, and their residence was subject to fire safety and sanitation inspections, and their finances were examined for proof of steady income and budgeting. The couple's health histories were also examined, and character and criminal background checks were performed.

After completing that process, the Chapmans were licensed as both foster care and adoptive parents, just as most Garrett County residents willing to take foster care training are. The licensure enabled them to welcome a child placed in foster care into their home; however, they also knew at that point any child they welcomed into their home could also be taken at any point if the biological parents met DSS criteria for reunification.

"The goal of foster care is to provide a home for the children and work with the kids to prepare them to go back home, while at the same time the biological parents are working towards taking them back," stated Annette. "Foster care is viewed as a temporary situation. There was a review hearing every six months where the biological parents had the opportunity to prove to the judge they had progressed enough to be reunited with the children."

That roller coaster of emotions gave Terry and Annette the opportunity to prove to themselves that they understood the greatest lesson a parent can learn (and impart) – that of unconditional love, without strings attached.

"In the beginning, when Ashton and Jackie first came to us, it was very stressful to think that they could be taken at any point. But someone said 'God doesn't even promise anyone they can keep their own children; at any time anyone's children can be taken away.' That helped put it all into perspective."

While the Chapmans were providing foster care for the twins, their older brother Sean was living with foster parents of his own. "We had a good relationship with the Sean's foster family, and that helped the kids tremendously I think," remarked Annette. "If Terry and I needed a babysitter, we'd call Sean's foster parents, and vice-versa, so the siblings were very comfortable with each other.

"When the children moved from foster care into the adoption process, we knew Sean's foster parents would have loved to keep him, but DSS and they agreed that keeping the siblings together was the best choice. They were very gracious in letting Sean come live in our home in January of last year."

Once under way, the adoption process itself took 11 full months to complete. "Our case worker, Sharon Corley, worked with the kids during that time and was great to work with, and Monica Barnett, the adoption caseworker has been wonderful also," Annette said. "There were certainly challenges during the 4 1/2 years but we all worked together to get things resolved. The staff at DSS really cares about the children they are working with and doing what is best for them."

On Dec. 3, 2003, a judge's signature united Sean, Ashton, Jackie, Annette, and Terry as an adoptive family. The children and parents had what every family deserves – a permanent home, just in time for Christmas.

Since then, the Chapmans have continued to nest comfortably into the "routine" of family life with three young children. Sean is in the fifth grade at Broad Ford Elementary School, where Ashton and Jackie are first-graders.

"During the last two years the kids have been involved in basketball, cheerleading, football, gymnastics, T-ball, and minor league baseball, and wrestling, as well as being involved with activities at church," said the proud mother, who yesterday was slated to help chaperone a school field trip with the girls' class to attend a performance of Cinderella in Morgantown.

"We became foster parents because we both love children, and weren't able to have any of our own," Annette said. "I believe that everything happens for a reason, and since we weren't able to have children, these children were brought into our lives – because they needed someone too."

NEW CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS — The town of Grantsville was able to replace all of its existing Christmas decorations this year with the help of a Community Legacy Grant offered by Garrett County Community Action, plus donations from local business owners and organizations. The grant enabled the town to purchase 10 lighted candle wreaths. Pictured above are representatives from area businesses and organizations that offered donations. In the front row, left to right, are: Earleena Tressler, Grantsville Rotary; Miriam Maust, Casselman Ventures and Global Expressions; Lena Eicher, Casselman Inn; and Jim Wilburn, Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department and town council. In the back row are: Sean Beachy, Beachy's Pharmacy; Alan Shapiro, First United Bank and Trust; Richard Towers, Grantsville Lions Club; Debbie Klotz, Dream Weavers Antiques; and Camilla Rawe, Casselman Veterinary Services. Other businesses that offered donations include Pine Accents, Blue Moon Antiques, He's Alive Radio (WAIJ), Grantsville Station, Four Seasons Stitchery, The Print Shop, Spinning Wheel Antiques, Greater Grantsville Business Association (GGBA), and Billy Bender Chevrolet. The Mayor and Council noted appreciation to all those who contributed their money, time, and efforts to make this project a success.

The Arts

Arts Generate $911 Million In Economic Impact For Maryland

The arts generated a record breaking $911 million in economic impact for Maryland in fiscal year 2003, up from $898 million the previous fiscal year, according to a recent study released by the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED).

The study, prepared for the Maryland State Arts Council (MSAC), also showed the arts generated an estimated $33.4 million in state and local taxes, up from $32 million, and generated 12,475 full- and part-time jobs.

In addition, for every dollar of direct spending by audiences attending arts events, another $2.30 is generated on other goods and services, according to the study.

"This study highlights the tremendous importance that the arts have as an economic generator, and their value to our quality of life in Maryland," said Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr. "I am proud of the efforts of many dedicated partners who have worked tirelessly to produce, present and support the arts in our state."

The study also showed that more than 11 million visitors attended arts events in FY 2003, remaining steady with FY 2002 figures. The state's central region (Baltimore City and Anne Arundel, Baltimore, Carroll, Cecil, Harford, and Howard counties) drew an estimated 5.2 million, and the Washington region reported an estimated 4.4 million visitors, a significant increase over FY 2002 data.

Arts organizations reported a total income of $137 million in 2003. About 30 percent, or $42 million, was earned from various program activities including ticket sales, exhibitor's fees, contracts and memberships. Cash contributions and revenues from fundraising events totaled $25.8 million, or 18 percent, of total earnings.

The Allegany County dispatcher's office noted that approximately 30 minutes earlier, another single-vehicle accident nearby resulted in the transport of three patients to Cumberland Memorial Hospital.

That mishap occurred almost directly across from the first accident in the westbound lane of the interstate on top of Big Savage Mountain, according to a representative of the Eastern Garrett County Volunteer Fire Department, but neither the McHenry nor LaVale barrack of the Maryland State Police could provide any information.

TATYANA T. RINGER

Holly Hare, Tatyana Ringer To Present Holiday Concert Sunday

Music at Penn Alps will present "Songs of Romance, Songs of Christmas," a classical concert for the holiday season, this Sunday, Dec. 19 at 2:30 p.m. in the Great Hall. The event will feature lyric soprano Holly Hare and pianist Tatyana Titova Ringer.

Hare, a native of Bittinger, began piano study at age five with her mother and continued another six years with Gale Ringer. During her freshman year at Northern Garrett High School, she began studying classical voice with Kathryn Sincell-Corwell at Frostburg State University.

As the youngest member of the Frostburg Opera Workshop class, Hare performed scenes from several major Mozart operas.

She was awarded a scholarship to attend State University of New York's Purchase College Conservatory of Music to study under tenor Jacques Trussel.

Hare now studies with soprano Kaori Sato and is preparing two roles in Purcell's Dido and Aeneas.

She also frequently performs with Collegiums Westchester in Ossining, N. Y. This spring, Hare will perform the lead role of Blanche de la Force in François Poulenc's opera Dialogues des Carmelite.

Ringer is a native of Ukraine who now lives in Bruceton Mills, W.Va. She moved to the United States in 2002 and is now active as a chamber and solo musician in the Pittsburgh, Pa., and Morgantown, W.Va., areas.

After graduating with honors from the Nikolaev State Higher Music School, Ringer earned qualifications as teacher, chamber company artist, concertmaster and concert performer from S.S. Prokofiev Donetsk State Conservatory.

She returned to the Nikolaev State Higher Music School to serve as a teacher from 1994 until 2002. During this time, she was noted as best concertmaster at the Zoloty Leleka Republican Festival in Nikolaev and the Novye Vremena Contest in Kiev.

Ringer was active as a concertmaster, soloist and chamber musician while teaching at the Nikolaev State Higher Music School.

Presented by Music at Penn Alps and the Alta Schrock Memorial Fund, the holiday concert will include Gabriel Fauré's "Clair de Lune," Frédéric Chopin's Nocturne – Op. 9, No. 2, George Frideric Handel's "Rejoice Greatly, O Daughter of Zion," and Franz Gruber's "Silent Night."

The suggested minimum donation for a ticket is $10. Proceeds benefit the Holly Hare Educational Fund.

The BookWorm

by Terri Schlichenmeyer

According to the U.S, Department of Veterans Affairs, there is only a small handful of World War I veterans alive today. Soon they will be gone. And then World War II veterans will be scarce. Korean veterans will be rare after that. And I wonder… when they're gone, who will tell their stories?

As much as I love history, I'll be the first to admit that it can be rather dry, but not when the recollections are as vivid as they are in Voices of War by The Library of Congress Veterans History Project (c. 2004, National Geographic). Taken from diaries, journals, letters, and taped interviews with veterans of the last five conflicts, these are stories of war – before, during, and after – from the people who were there.

Voices of War tells what it was like when patriotic fervor swept across America during the days just after Pearl Harbor was bombed and young men enlisted because they felt it was the right thing to do. Many of them tell of the brutal but necessary way that boot camp tore them down to build them up. A not-so-surprising number of young women enlisted too, including a young black woman who trained in a segregated barracks in Iowa.

In the beginning of World War I, many of the new enlistees were teenagers. You'll read the story of one young boy who joined the armed forces at age 15 and fought alongside men twice his age. Today's soldiers might find it funny how leaders were chosen back then; one soldier says that he was given orders to show up at 6 a.m. Upon arrival, he was then put in charge of a group of men. He organized them into ranks and marched them to the station to board the train.

Perhaps the most heartbreaking parts of this book are the chapters devoted to coming home or being home. Nurses recall soldiers they'll never forget. Women who supported the efforts on the home front during World War II tell about the harassment they got from people who thought they shouldn't be doing a man's job. While there were many soldiers with happy returns, some veterans remember the way people reacted when they returned from unpopular wars.

With a foreword by Ron Kind, writer of the Veterans History Project Act, this book is powerful and filled with pride for those who have served. Also included is information on the Veterans History Project, which gathers interviews and writings for the Library of Congress, so that, decades from now, children can learn first-hand what it meant to fight on the beaches of Normandy, the trenches of Germany, the hills of Korea, the jungles of Vietnam, or the sands of the Gulf.

Voices of War is highly recommended for anyone who believes that these stories need to be recorded and wants to learn how to do it. It's also a book that will prove that there is more than just one Greatest Generation.

Ms. Schlichenmeyer resides in West Salem, Wisc., with her husband, three dogs, and 9,000 books.

CHRISTMAS CANTATA TO BE PRESENTED – St. Paul's United Methodist Church Choir will present its 61st annual Christmas Cantata at 5 p.m. on Sunday, Dec. 19. In addition to the concert, the "Angels' Carol" by John Rutter will be presented, featuring the women of the choir. Katie Richter will play a flute obligato with a quartet, and there will be a duet featuring Katie and Allison Richter on flute and saxophone. This long-standing community event will close with the traditional singing of "Silent Night." The choir is under the direction of Muriel R. Franc, and the pastor is Rev. T. Patrick Kerr. The concert is free and open to the public. St. Paul's Church is located at 318 Oak St. in Oakland.

Choral Society Hosts Send-Off For Retiring Director Nancy K. Learey

by Mary Sincell McEwen

Past and present members of the Garrett Choral Society expressed their appreciation to Nancy K. Learey recently upon her retirement from directing the community singing group. A party was held in her honor at the home of William and Laurel Grant in Oakland, with nearly 100 persons in attendance. She has officially handed the baton over to Julie Turrentine, and singers from across the county came to wish her well.

The Garrett Choral Society was born in 1977 after several local singers and actors had produced a United States Bicentennial program in 1976.

"During that production, I just could see how much talent there was here, and I felt we should foster it," Nancy said. That year she contacted local churches and invited choirs to take part in a community chorus. The group was dubbed the Garrett Choral Society because it included singers from all over the county (and actually from nearby West Virginia, too). The singers presented their first Christmas concert in 1977.

"I remember we had a blizzard, and about 20 people in the audience that first night," she recalled. But that was just the beginning. Now the annual Christmas concert, which was held this past weekend, is routinely a sold-out, standing-room-only event. And those 26 years of performances led by Nancy constituted "the most fulfilling experience of my life," she said.

"There is a warmth that exudes from the singers," she said. "It's more than the music. When they open their mouths to sing, they show their souls."

The Choral Society has produced not only concerts, but a great many musicals as well, directed or co-directed by Learey. The long list of shows over the past 27 years includes Amahl and the Night Visitors, South Pacific, Fiddler on the Roof, Wizard of Oz, Oliver, HMS Pinafore, and The Music Man, in addition to a number of "scenes from Broadway" shows, with vignettes from musicals such as The Sound of Music and Oklahoma, among others.

Learey said the most important aspect of this experience to her has been the many hundreds of people involved in the shows and concerts.

"So many people over the years, so many friends. The chorus is my family, truly it is," Nancy said, noting her fond remembrance of certain singers, such as the late Jim Chisholm and Dotty Leighton. "It ended up being so much more than I ever thought it would be."

And it certainly wasn't for the money, because there simply isn't much of that in a non-profit, volunteer organization such as the Choral Society. For the first two years of the group's existence, Learey personally purchased all the music. Slowly the finances started to at least take some shape, with a budget developed through the funds received in ticket sales. But Learey was never paid for her work.

"It wasn't about that, of course," she said. "The volunteer aspect of it is imperative — it's so important. We can't lose that."

Volunteerism doesn't always mean amateurism, however. Learey earned a bachelor's degree in music at Western Maryland College, and later studied with the well-known band leader and composer Fred Waring. She then earned a master's degree in psychology and counseling at West Virginia University. She credits her husband Fred, who is also a singer, with supporting her in the plan to initiate the community choral group back in '77.

"I wouldn't have done it without Fred's encouragement," she said.

The singers who gathered at the Grant residence to thank Learey all had their stories to tell and memories to share. David Callis, a long-time member of the Choral Society, sang a unique rendition of "Thanks For the Memories," rewritten somewhat with a series of verses describing escapades and events in the history of the singing group.

A book of memories was presented to the honoree, with many members jotting down their remembrances and thoughts on her long career as conductor. Julie Turrentine, the new conductor and an artist, presented Nancy with a clock set in glass that she created in her studio.

"You are the history of the Garrett Choral Society," Turrentine said. "You brought together so many people who otherwise would not have had the wonderful opportunity to sing together. And take one look at that vast library of music compiled over the years, all so carefully filed and kept, and you can just can see the dedication and the hard work. You are surely one of Garrett County's greatest treasures."

As for the future, Learey plans to keep close ties with the Garrett Choral Society.

"I certainly have to have an outlet, because music has always played such an important part in my life. If I don't continue in music in some way, I will lose part of my soul," she said. Learey hopes to work on a musical, in fact, sometime next year.

But she is not worried about the Choral Society, now under the direction of Turrentine.

"Julie is a tremendous talent," Learey said. "We're so lucky to have her. I have brought the Choral Society this far, and now Julie will take it farther."

TWO MUSICAL TALENTS – The Garrett Choral Society is in good hands now, and has always been so. The two leaders of that group are pictured above, with retiring conductor Nancy Learey, left, and new conductor Julie Turrentine. Both are accomplished musicians, offering themselves as leaders and conductors of a musical group that involves singers from every part of Garrett County. Learey retired this year, handing the baton over to Turrentine. A party was held in Learey's honor recently. See story.

EXPRESSIONS OF THANKS were extended to Nancy Learey, right, recently, as she stepped down from the podium of the Garrett Choral Society, which she founded in 1977 and has directed until this year. Julie Turrentine, the group's new conductor, is shown as she presents Nancy with a gift at the retirement party, held at the home of William and Laurel Grant, Oakland. Turrentine said Learey is "one of Garrett County's greatest treasures." See story.

Correction Noted To Court Report

An item that appeared in last week's District Court report requires a correction. Area resident Randy Dean Maust, 32, appeared in traffic court and was handed a probation before judgment and a $123 fine after he pleaded guilty to passing a school bus as it was operating its flashing red lights.

The defendant was not Randy Dean Dumire, as was reported last week. The Republican regrets the error.

Rams Rebound For Victories Over Beall And Petersburg

After opening their season with a loss, the Southern High School boys' varsity bounced back this past week to record a pair of victories: a 50-42 Western Maryland Interscholastic League win over visiting Beall last Friday and a 38-27 decision over Petersburg on Tuesday, also in Oakland.

In the contest with Beall, the Rams held the Mountaineers at arm's length and then got a 7-for-9 effort at the foul line from point guard Cory Bosley in the fourth quarter to ice the win.

Bosley finished with 15 points to lead the Rams in scoring, while teammates Evan Lantz and Joe Tressler were right behind with 14 points apiece. All but two of Lantz's points were scored in the first half, as a defensive change by Beall after halftime kept Lantz in check. Tressler finished with four three-point buckets.

Also scoring all but two of his game-high total of 17 points in the first half was Beall's Carter Dickel.

The loss dropped the Mountaineers to 0-2.

The Southern junior varsity cruised to a 56-35 win in the preliminary game behind 14-point performances by both Sean McCreery and Ryan DeWitt. Nick Washington paced the Beall jayvees with 11 points.

Senior forward Corey Tressler, who led the team in scoring last year, but struggled in the Rams' first two games this season, returned to form Tuesday evening in the game against Petersburg, as he poured in 22 of the Rams' 38 points.

Southern was sluggish through much of the first half against the Vikings, who were playing their season opener. The stingy Petersburg defense did not allow Ram center Evan Lantz to take feeds underneath, and Southern's outside shooting was ineffective.

The Vikings led by a 10-6 margin at the end of the first quarter. The score remained close throughout the second stanza, but a big three-point bucket by Corey Tressler at the buzzer gave the Rams a 20-16 lead and seemed to turn the momentum in their favor. It would be the first of three long-range goals by Tressler.

The pesky Southern defense limited the Vikings to just three points in the third period, and only 11 for the entire half.

Cory Bosley, who did not have a good shooting night for the Rams, did record a team-high six rebounds and six assists, while Brad Reese was credited with five assists.

In post-game comments, Coach Bosley noted the play of Corey Tressler, but was particularly impressed with the efforts of Lantz.

"Evan did not have a lot of points, but he did so many outstanding things underneath, both offensively and defensively, that a lot of people would probably not notice," he said. "Without a doubt, he had the best all-around game for us."

Leading Petersburg in scoring was Ben Whetsell with seven points.

The junior varsity game was a nail-biter, as a successful shot by Sean McCreery with 3.3 seconds left in the game gave the Rams a 42-40 victory. Ryan DeWitt and Adam VanBogelen were the scoring leaders for Southern, with 14 and 12 points, respectively. The Viking jayvees were paced by Lewis Geary with 11 points.

The Rams will travel to the Cove this Friday for a big WMIL, county clash with Northern. The jayvee contest will tip off at 6 p.m. and the varsity game will get under way at 7:30.

Southern will host Westmar next Tuesday (6 and 7:30 p.m.) and travel to Williamsport next Thursday for games beginning at 5:30 and 7 p.m.

Rec. Basketball League Results Are Announced

There was some fierce competition on the court during the Oakland Recreational Basketball League's action of Sunday, as two of the three games were decided by just two points, with one of those contests running through two overtime periods. MeadWestvaco nipped Fox's Pizza 54-52, Quality Machine bolted over Mettiki by nine points, 62-53, and M&M Acres outlasted Markwood Citgo in a heated double-overtime battle, 55-53.

MeadWestvaco's Billy Braith-waite paced his squad to victory with 21 points, while teammate Jason Shank contributed 13. Jason Shreve tossed in 12 points for Fox's Pizza.

M&M Acres capitalized on a balanced scoring effort, paced by Tobi Stoner's 11 points and 10 by Mike Fazenbaker, to down Markwood, which got 15 points from Jerry Myers.

Husky Boys Hang Tough With Ft. Hill And Alco; Rams Up Next

The Northern High School boys' varsity basketball squad lost a pair of Cumberland road outings this week, at Fort Hill and Allegany, but were well within striking distance throughout both contests. On Friday the Huskies dropped a 45-37 battle with the Sentinels, and on Tuesday NHS came out on the short end of a 69-62 clash with the Campers.

While recorded as defeats in the record books, the hard-fought contests can only help prepare the Huskies (1-2) for tomorrow night's home court showdown with their arch-rival Southern Rams (1-1).

Northern exploded to take a 16-6 lead after the opening quarter at Fort Hill, but the hosts answered with a 16-4 run over the second stanza to snag a 22-20 halftime advantage. The Huskies were down by just two buckets, 37-33, as the fourth quarter got under way. Only 12 points separated the two squads at the final buzzer, despite the Sentinels' 51-29 scoring advantage over the final three stanzas.

Three juniors highlighted the Northern effort, as point guard Chris Speicher netted 12 points, and forwards Brent Beachy and Blake Walker recorded 11 apiece.

Fort Hill's Kevin Page led all scorers with 16 points. Eight of Page's points were scored in the fourth quarter, with six of those coming from the free-throw line. Ritchie Brandenburg contributed 14 points and 10 rebounds.

NHS lost the junior varsity game by a 59-41 margin, despite a game-high 17-point performance by Tyler Southerly. Fort Hill's balanced offense was evidenced by 14-point tallies from Zach Blank, Ryan Foutz, and Steve Iser.

Northern was in the thick of Tuesday's game at Alco's Campobello gym from start to finish. After one quarter of play the hosts held the slimmest lead possible at 19-18, then the Huskies went on a second-quarter run that put them on top at the half, 39-31. The Campers rallied to knot the score at 49-all going into the fourth stanza.

Beachy paced a balanced NHS scoring effort, as he and three teammates made it into double figures. With 19 points, Beachy matched Alco's Donavin Vinson for game-high honors, while Northern teammates Speicher contributed 15, senior guard Matt Bass had 14, and Walker recorded 10.

Allegany's Michael Page had 16 points to add to Vinson's output, and David Latimer hit for 11.

Allegany won the JV game, 80-20, behind Tanner Zembower's 16 points.

NHS is slated to host Southern tomorrow in a 7:30 p.m. varsity battle, which follows a 6 p.m. JV contest. The Huskies visit Calvary Christian Tuesday evening.

Ram Girls Fall To Tucker, Rebound To Crush 'Cats

The Southern High School girls' varsity basketball team lost its season opener at home to Tucker on Wednesday, Dec. 8, in a 42-37 overtime heartbreaker, but rebounded last night to crush Westmar's Wildcats, 54-35.

The Rams fell to a come-from-behind effort by Tucker last week. SHS had opened the contest by grabbing a 9-4 first-quarter lead, and was up 22-16 at the half. The visitors cut the gap to one, 28-27, by the time the fourth quarter opened, and that stanza concluded with the score knotted at 35-all. The Rams went cold in the overtime period, and were outscored 7-2 as Tucker went on to win by five.

Junior Kendra McLaughlin paced the Ram effort with 10 points, the only double-figure tally for the hosts. The Mountain Lions got a game-high 13 points from Jennifer Booth, an 11-point tally from Chelsea Gsell, and 10 points from Jessy Pifer.

Southern's junior varsity squad won its contest by an unreported score, and individual player statistics were also not available.

Perhaps stung by starting their campaign off with a loss, the Rams gave no quarter to Westmar last night in cruising to a 19-point victory. SHS jumped out to a 16-6 first-quarter lead, went up 31-14 at the half, and opened the final stanza with an insurmountable 46-16 advantage.

McLaughlin took game-high scoring honors with 20 points in just three quarters of play. Senior Jasmine Scheffel tossed in 11 points while hauling down seven rebounds, and classmate Kayla Nazelrod grabbed seven rebounds while snagging five steals. Sophomore Sarah Stephens dished out six assists and had four steals. Westmar's high point tally was supplied by Jessica Marsh, who scored 15 points.

The Ram jayvees improved to 2-0 with a 33-24 victory. Jessica Petrella paced Southern with 11 points, while Katie Sloan had nine for Westmar.

The Rams (1-1) will visit Petersburg Monday and travel to Keyser on Thursday, Dec. 23.

NHS Girls Battle Campers Before Losing By A Dozen

The Northern High School girls' varsity basketball squad hosted Allegany Monday night, and dropped the WMIL showdown 47-35. NHS's record stands at 1-2.

Faced with a 10-2 first-quarter deficit, the Huskies were forced to play catch-up throughout the night. The first half ended with NHS down 18-9, and the fourth quarter opened with Northern on the short end of a 31-19 deficit.

Senior NHS guard Jeseca Gibson netted a double-double tally, scoring 20 points while grabbing 13 rebounds. Classmate Lakin Weimer contributed 12 points from the post.

Although Gibson's numbers were high water marks for the Huskies, Alco had two players, Jessica Tichnell and Erika Earnest, who also recorded double-doubles. The Camper pair scored 11 points apiece, and Tichnell snagged 12 rebounds and Earnest hauled down 10. Allegany's team-high tally was a 15-point performance by Erin Wilson.

The Huskies are scheduled to host Fort Hill tonight and Union High Monday, in 6 p.m. jayvee and 7:30 p.m. varsity match-ups.

Lakers Have No Trouble Disposing Of Harford CC

It was virtually no contest for the Garrett College men's basketball team on Saturday, as the Lakers traveled to Bel Air and handed Harford Community College a lopsided 99-47 defeat. It was the eighth win in a row for the Lakers (11-2 overall) and their fifth Maryland JUCO victory in five conference starts.

Tyrice Watkins led six Lakers in double figures, finishing with 19 points. Doyle Brown scored 17 points, followed by Tauvon Pettiford with 15, Ivan Funcic with 14, Lavonti Jeter with 11, and Marco Van Pelt with 10.

Watkins also recorded double figures in rebounding with a game-high 10. Tristan Largent provided six of the Lakers' 13 assists, Brown finished with five steals, and Jeter blocked for shots.

The Lakers had a 46-34 lead in rebounds.

Garrett took the lead early and never looked back, holding a comfortable 39-17 advantage at intermission.

James Mickens was the only Harford player to reach double figures in scoring, finishing with 11 points. Brian Selby had eight rebounds to go with nine points.

The Lakers have been dominant both offensively and defensively most of the season, as they have scored 90 or more points in seven of their 13 games, with 115 against the College of Southern Maryland being their top score. Meanwhile, the Garrett squad has yet to allow 90 points by any of its opponents.

"Since our loss to Mercyhurst at home (64-60 on Nov. 13), our defense has been outstanding," stated Laker coach Dennis Gibson. "We have been particularly strong in our half-court play."

The Lakers will meet Potomac State College this evening in Keyser, with the tip-off set for 7 p.m. They will then take a holiday break and return to action on January 5 at Howard Community College.

Garrett will play 12 more Maryland JUCO games in the second half of the season. The next home game is slated for January 12 against arch-rival Allegany College of Maryland.

Rams Second, Huskies Fourth In Horz Invitational Tourney

Both Garrett County high school wrestling teams fared well this past weekend in the Max Horz Invitational Tournament, a highly competitive event hosted annually by Berkeley Springs High School.

The Southern High Rams, coached by Dave Taylor, captured second place as a team among the 16 squads in contention, while the Northern Huskies, led by Coach Scott Stough, placed fourth.

Southern also had two individual tournament champions in Scott Wildesen and Nathan Sines, while Northern had one, Casey Kamp.

The tournament featured teams of all high school sizes from West Virginia, Maryland, and Virginia. Southern finished with a team score of 175, second only to DeMatha, which won the team title with 191 points. Hedgesville finished third with 154.5 points, followed by Northern with 134.

Scott Wildesen, the reigning Maryland 1A/2A champion in the 171-pound division, recorded three pins before defeating Robert Conner of Martinsburg by major decision, 13-4, in the championship bout. Conner came into the match ranked third in the West Virginia triple-A standings.

Sines was the winner of the title in the 145-pound division when he pinned Jeff Musterman of Strasburg, Va., in 3:07 of the final round. Musterman is the defending Virginia state champion and is ranked #1 in the state. Sines pinned all four of his opponents en route to the title.

Kamp, who is also a current Maryland state champion, recorded two pins, defeated Brandon Pangle of Strasburg in a semifinal round, 15-9, and finally topped S.R. Shiley of James Wood High School by decision in the title clash, 6-2. Pangle is ranked sixth in the Virginia single-A ratings, while Shiley is ranked second in the Virginia AA.

Two other Northern Huskies brought home runner-up trophies after each of them was edged by a single point in their respective title bouts.

Michael Wolf recorded two pins and a decision before being nipped by Troy Foltz of Hedgesville, 3-2, in the 152-pound championship clash. Brock Glotfelty gained a pin and two decision victories before losing by a 1-0 margin to Derek Young, also of Hedgesville, in the finals of the 189-pound division. Foltz is ranked fifth in the West Virginia AAA standings, while Young is ranked second in West Virginia AAA.

Southern's Jeffrey Gregory (152) and Sean Sisler (275) both won their consolation bouts to place third individually. Earning fourth places were Randy Wilhelm (103) and Andy Ganoe (135) of Northern, and Justin Fitzwater (215) of Southern.

Placing fifth were Daniel Carr (125), Greg Beckman (130), and Justin Ratliff (135), all of Southern, while Northern's Nick Payne (171) and Jared Beachy (215) both finished sixth in their respective weight classes.

The Rams returned to action last night at Allegany (see separate story), and the Huskies will host a strong Beall squad this evening at 7 p.m.

The Rams will entertain Harford Tech and Frankfort this Friday in a tri-match that will get under way at 5 p.m., and they will travel to Meyersdale next Tuesday.

The Huskies will have another match next Tuesday at Frankfort.

Poor Weather Hampers Area Deer Hunters

Despite a statewide record preliminary deer kill tally during the recent two-week firearms season, hunters in far western Maryland found themselves in larger part frozen out of the higher than usual numbers, according to the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. Garrett County's preliminary numbers were down 32 percent from last year, while Allegany County saw a 15 percent drop. The harvest improved markedly to the east, beginning with Washington County's 29 percent increase over last year.

"Reduced antlered deer bag limits combined with poor weather during the two-day either sex deer season in Maryland's far western Garrett and Allegany counties contributed to a drop in the deer kill in the new Region A," DNR spokesperson Heather Lynch said.

Maryland firearm deer hunters registered 43,455 deer during the two-week firearm season, a record preliminary harvest total for the firearm season according to DNR. The count exceed last year's figure statewide figure by 1,289 deer, a 3.1 percent increase.

In Garrett County, hunters took 2,036 deer this year, compared to 2,992 in 2003. Allegany County's tally for 2004 was 2,992, compared to 3,513 last year. Washington County had the state's highest figure at 5,125 deer killed, Frederick was second with 4,106, and Carroll was third with 3,670 deer killed.

"Liberalized bag limits and overall favorable weather conditions in much of Maryland were likely factors that led to an increase in deer taken in many areas of the new Deer Management Region B," the DNR spokesperson explained.

Lynch reminded citizens that the preliminary count can change before the final figures are tallied. "As hunters may legally check deer taken in one county at a check station in an adjacent county, the preliminary harvest totals for each county are subject to change," she said. The official harvest analysis will be conducted at the completion of all deer hunting seasons, using the final harvest figures. A breakdown of the separate antlered and antlerless harvest figures per county will also be available at that time.

"Maryland firearm season is the most popular deer-hunting season," Lynch stated. "Firearm deer hunters typically take about 55 – 57 percent of the total deer harvest. Eight out of ten deer taken during this two-week period are killed on private lands. In addition, no firearms-related hunting accidents were reported during the two-week season."

DNR Wildlife and Heritage Service director Paul Peditto welcomed the news. "Hunters should be proud of continuing the successful record of safe, effective and efficient management of our deer herd while enjoying an opportunity for outdoor recreation in the forests and fields of Maryland."

During this two-week season, Maryland wildlife biologists collect information that is essential for scientific deer management. Age structure, sex structure, antler dimensions and body weights are collected at locations across the State during the firearm deer season. This information, in conjunction with final harvest data, is used to monitor the deer population response to deer hunting seasons and bag limits.

Careless Weapons Use, Tree Stands Still Cause Most Hunting Accidents

by Linda Nishida
Capital News Service

WASHINGTON — Careless handling of weapons edged ahead of tree-stand accidents as the leading cause of Maryland hunting accidents in 2004, the first time in five years that tree stands were not the number one danger to hunters, according to state data.

State officials could not explain the slight shift — careless weapon handling accounted for 10 of the 26 hunting accidents in fiscal 2004 and tree-stand accidents accounted for seven — but they were not surprised that those two categories were on top.

Of the 118 hunting accidents reported from 2000 to 2004 in the state, 57 occurred when hunters fell from tree stands and 29 occurred when firearms, bows, or other hunting devices were mishandled.

"As a whole, usually, it's tree stands that account for 50 percent of all hunting accidents . . . . You just really can't explain it," said Cpl. Ken Turner, spokesman for the Maryland Natural Resources Police, where the data originated.

But he did not see a trend emerging with the 2004 numbers.

"If we started seeing careless handling for a few years as a trend, then that would be something," Turner said.

The Natural Resources Police data includes all accidents for fiscal years 2000 through 2004. It does not include accidents from this year, fiscal 2005, and the popular deer-hunting season that ends Saturday at sundown.

The state hunting data also showed that of the 118 incidents reported between 2000 and 2004, firearms were involved in one capacity or another in 71 percent while 75 percent of accidents were self-inflicted. Eleven of the accidents, or 9 percent, were fatal.

Three of those deaths occurred last year: Two victims were mistaken for game and the third was a 10-year-old Talbot County hunter who was hit in the chest with his crossbow while he was trying to leave a tree stand, the police data showed.

Education is the key to preventing accidents involving weapons, said advocacy and hunter education groups. When accidents do occur, they said, it often means that hunters were not properly educated or failed to take the proper precautions.

"You have to do three or four things wrong at the same time for an accident to happen," such as pointing a gun in the wrong direction or leaving it loaded and keeping a finger on the trigger when it is not in use, said Eric Nuse. He is executive vice president of the Colorado-based International Hunter Education Association.

Larry Moreland, president of the Maryland State Rifle and Pistol Association, agreed that the likelihood of hunting accidents increases when hunters are not properly and consistently educated about safety.

"It's a lack of education, lack of knowledge on their part," Moreland said. "You just got to keep driving home the point about safety."

But tree-stand accidents are another matter, Nuse said, and occur most often when hunters climb to and from tree stands without using a falling restraint.

"Most of the injuries occurring are when people are going up the tree, and when people are going down, so it's not with the stand itself," he said.

The National Rifle Association said that "even one accident is too many," and that all measures must be taken to educate the public about hunting safety, said spokeswoman Autumn Fogg. But Nuse said that while hunting involves risks, it is generally a safe sport.

"Hunting is extremely safe," he said. "There's other stuff that are problems, like tree stands . . . but we've been making inroads with firearms."

Three games were played in Mountain Top Basketball League action on Sunday at Garrett College, as ConDoerr, Copeland's, and Mt. Top Paving each came away winners.

Ronald Rhodes scored 22 to lead ConDoerr past Bosley Construction by an unreported score. Shawn Koontz recorded 23 for Bosley Construction.

Copeland's downed Mortimer Builders 58-52, as Tobi Stoner netted 16 points and Brian Reams had 14 for the victors. Joey DiSimone tossed in 30 points in Mortimer Builders' losing effort.

The day's final contest went down to the wire, as Mt. Top Paving edged Coney 89-87. Mt. Top Paving's Jimmy Yoder was on fire from the perimeter as he sank eight three-pointers on his way to 28 points, while teammate Jeremy Skiles hit three treys and tallied 24 points. Coney put up a valiant effort by hanging close with just four players on the floor, led by Jimmy Lauders who bombed away for 33 points, including 11 three pointers.

This Sunday's slate at Garrett College pits Copeland's against Bosley Construction at 1 p.m. (Mortimer Builders keeping score); Mt. Top Paving vs. Mortimer Builders at 2 p.m. (Bosley Construction scorekeeper). The 3 p.m. contest has been canceled as Coney does not have enough players, according to a league spokesperson.

OCEAN'S TWELVE

Rated PG-13 - Running Time: 2:05 - Released 12/10/04

When I saw Ocean's Eleven, I commented that director Steven Soderbergh had assembled a cast that was almost too star-studded for the film at hand. But in a way it seemed to fit, since it took place in the ultra-star-studded city of Las Vegas. For his sequel, Soderbergh assembles all the original players plus more, and accomplishes less. For a film that includes such a worthy (and expensive) cast as George Clooney, Julia Roberts, Brad Pitt, Catherine Zeta-Jones, Matt Damon, Andy Garcia, Don Cheadle, Elliot Gould, Carl Reiner. . . Jeez, this seems like a lot of talent for such a so-so movie.

As viewers of 2001's Eleven undoubtedly remember, that film was about an impossibly elaborate robbery of a Las Vegas casino—well, actually, three of them, which all shared the same vault—by veteran con man Danny Ocean (Clooney) and his longtime partner Rusty Ryan (Pitt), along with nine other guys they assembled to do various parts of the job. Although the film seemed a bit overstocked, it was fun to watch them work out their detailed plan, with each man scheduled to do his part in just the right way at the right moment, and then pull it off with just enough hitches to make it thrilling. In the sequel, however, penned by George Nolfi, we don't even get to do that.

After successfully ripping off Terry Benedict (Garcia), the owner of Las Vegas's Mirage, Bellagio, and MGM Grand casinos, not to mention recouping his ex-wife Tess (Roberts), who had been seeing Terry while Danny was in prison, Danny and his ten friends are living high on the proverbial hog in various parts of the globe. But Terry wants his $160 million back, with interest. He seeks out all ten of Danny's friends and lets them know that if he doesn't get his dough back in two weeks, they're all going to be sleeping with the fishes, or spinning the big roulette wheel in the sky, or whatever they say in casino-mob lingo. So Ocean has to reassemble his eleven for another even bigger and more dangerous job, in Europe, to pay off Terry while making it all worth their respective efforts.

But this time he has to contend with a couple of problematic new elements, like the intrepid and beautiful Interpol agent Isabel Lahiri (Zeta-Jones), who is apparently the foremost expert in the world at catching this type of crook (and who until recently was dating Pitt's character, Rusty), and the "Night Fox" (Vincent Cassel), a mysterious French con man who intends to show Danny and his crew that they are only second best.

This movie starts off well, with a typical Soderbergh sequence reassembling the previous group from all their far-flung locations and putting them together for a planning session that promises another delightfully complex caper. But for reasons I won't divulge, we never really get to see the plan properly put into action. Sure, there's a lot of clever banter, some interesting character and relationship work, and a few nicely shot robbery scenes, but when it's really time for everything to start clicking...it doesn't. Julia Roberts is used a little more in this movie than in the previous one, but the whole premise of her part in the caper is kind of ridiculous. And the whole "dancing through the laser beams" sequence is so idiotic, I hated it just as much as I did when Zeta-Jones did it in Entrapment.

There's no question that Soderbergh is a gifted director, and his vastly talented cast does the job they're given with aplomb. But again they seem overqualified (even more so this time), because while Nolfi's dialogue occasionally sparkles, they are essentially appearing in an action movie which is mostly talk and very little action. ★★★

Dean of Academic Affairs

Much of my academic and professional life has involved English – first, as an English major, then as a student pursuing a master's and a doctorate in English, and next, as a professor of English. Yet despite all the years of working with language, occasionally, I find that words fail me. This week marks such an occasion, for I cannot readily find the words to express what being part of Garrett College and Garrett County mean to me and to others in our community.

To be sure, words of excitement and pride flow readily when I write about our past and present students and their accomplishments. Knowing, for instance, that I could see Jennifer Bosley and Ashley Liller play D-1 basketball or Juilliard's Amanda Stewart give a solo trombone performance thrills me, particularly when I remember working with them as they studied English at GC while seniors at Southern High School and continuing to work with Ashley as she completed her degree at Garrett. I'm equally proud to know that I could travel to ACM and watch Sara Vance graduate as a nurse this month; Sara started her allied health studies, like many students, at Garrett before completing her work at Allegany.

While at Allegany, in fact, I could see more Garrett students than I can name, but I'd keep my eyes open for Cathy Coddington-Durst, who has been awarded several scholarships recently. I'd also look for Chris Howell, one of Garrett's former honors program students who worked along with Amanda Savage in my office as work-study students and as my two best "right hands" last year. Amanda is now participating in the Garrett/Franklin bachelor's program, incidentally, and continues to serve as a wonderful work-study for the Arts and Sciences division as well as for my office. Thanks to her, I'm able to stay apprised of other Garrett graduates' accomplishments, such as her sister Miranda Savage and their friend Stacy Holler, who are now studying at Frostburg. Clearly, I have no trouble describing how glad I am that so many of GC's former students have gone on to prosper.

Words come readily, too, when I think about welcoming new employees to Garrett, such as Paige Quigley, who's joined us as the director of Garrett Information Enterprise Center. Paige, who's been a part of our team while working at Willy Wisp, brings great energy to GIEC, and we're delighted she's on board one of Garrett's Continuing Education initiatives that's designed to contribute to our region's growth.

Words are easy to find, then, as I write about our students or as I contemplate new individuals joining us at GC. Yet language is elusive when I try to capture the spirit behind Garrett College and Garrett County. I can't easily express, for instance, how proud I am of our Student Government Association, which has led several charity drives recently, including sponsoring a tree linked to the Rotary's drive for helping area families. Despite their preoccupation with exams, with holidays, with work and with school, our students reach out to those in need. Perhaps they are inspired by some of our faculty and staff, who work tirelessly to raise funds for area charities such as the March of Dimes walk held every September, or who held a benefit toy drive this past week.

The Garrett spirit of reaching out, of course, isn't limited to Garrett College. It's part of life in Garrett County and has been abundantly evident this week as so many of us keep Ben Biser in our thoughts. Ben's mother, Lyz Biser, is one of Garrett's academic program directors and a very special part of our Garrett family. When that family learned of Ben's condition, it went into action, letting Lyz and Ben know that we at Garrett would do whatever we could to make this time easier for them. The college's actions simply echo those of so many others in our county who have reached out to let the Bisers know that they are held close to our hearts.

Ultimately, despite years of working with language and years of teaching English, I know that sometimes, words truly can't capture what we'd like. Having lived and worked in many places, I know special communities when I see them. Such communities are marked by pride in one's fellow citizens, by care for those whom one knows, and by outreach even to those one does not know. To say that I am consider it a privilege and a blessing to be part of Garrett College and Garrett County is not, in the end, to say enough.

GC Teams With High Schools For Computer Training

by Joan Crawford

Careers in the computer industry and the world of information technology lie ahead for the Garrett County students who are currently enrolled in the Cisco Academy at Garrett College. The academy, which began in September, was conceived and developed by instructor Rich Seese as an affiliate with the parent academy at West Virginia University.

Thirteen students from Northern and Southern high schools take their academic classes in the morning and attend the academy four afternoons each week. On Fridays they serve as interns in Garrett County schools providing computer servicing and network administration. Most of these students have had two years of electronics courses before they enter the Cisco program. Kurt Lear serves as coordinator of the program for the Garrett County Board of Education.

Cisco, the world's largest provider of Internet equipment and software, trains youth at the high school level and college level. In the first semester students are trained for A+ certification as computer service technicians. In the second semester students train for Net+ certifications to build and design networks.

"The course is very intense, very technical," Seese said. "There is so much material to cover. We encourage students to go on with their education when they finish this program. If they get certification, there is no doubt they will be employable."

Before coming to Garrett County, Seese had started new programs in North Carolina and Kansas. He would now like to find companies in this area who would take students as interns on Fridays.

To showcase the Cisco Academy for parents and potential students, Seese and Dr. Virginia Broaddus, GC's dean of academic affairs, recently hosted an open house. Broaddus said she sees the academy as a vital addition to the curriculum.

"Cisco lends a new dimension to an already vibrant part of the Information Technology curriculum," stated Broaddus. "We are proud of the opportunities this affords our students."

In addition to the high school students who attend classes during the day, four adults are enrolled in the evening academy taught by Seese two evenings each week.

Persons interested in further information about the Cisco Academy may call Seese at 301-387-3043.

Name Selected For New Lutheran Church At DCL

The Lutheran Fellowship of Deep Creek Lake, a recent addition to local worshiping communities, has chosen "Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church" as its new official name. The developing congregation selected the name at a recent organizational meeting at the home of Marilyn and Guy Sedlack of Terra Alta, W.Va.

"This name really describes who and where you are," said Dr. Ralph W. Dunkin, bishop of the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America (ELCA). "If we are creating a unique ministry in Garrett County let's make the name truly unique."

Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church has been authorized as a worshipping community by the West Virginia/Western Maryland Synod of the Evangelical Lutheran Church in America, and is first mission congregation authorized in the synod since the merger of the ELCA in 1987.

Currently the congregation is led in worship by supply pastors from Maryland and West Virginia. The new church's congregational officers and steering committee members are president Scott Johnson, treasurer Paul Durham, financial secretary Chris Durben, Linda Bowman, Mary Ellen Dore, Bob Huebner, and Ruth Seib.

The church has slated a regular gathering time of 5 p.m. each Sunday for worship, music, Bible study, and fellowship in the Sitzmark Room of Will O' the Wisp, located along Garrett Highway just north of Glendale Road. All are welcome to attend.

The Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church Christmas Eve candlelight service, slated for 5 p.m. Friday, Dec. 24, will be presided over by Bishop Dunkin, and the regular service of Sunday, Dec. 26, will feature lessons and carols for Christmas, led by congregation members.

For further information, persons may visit the church's web site at www.shepherdofthehillslutheran.org, or call 301-387-0400. Messages are returned daily.

Curran Issues Warning About Gov't Grant Scam

Attorney General J. Joseph Curran Jr. has issued a warning to Marylanders to beware of telemarketers who promise to arrange government grants in return for a fee.

Telemarketers are apparently calling Maryland citizens, saying they have been specially selected to receive thousands of dollars in free grant money from the federal government. The caller asks the person to supply a bank account number, supposedly so that the grant can be deposited. If the person does so, a "processing fee" of $249 or a similar figure is taken from the bank account.

No grant money arrives, only a packet of generic instructions on how to apply for government grants — none of which the average citizen would actually be eligible for, Curran said.

He noted that the government does not call individuals out of the blue to offer grant money, and that grants are awarded through an application process. Curran said that information about government grants is available for free through sources such as government websites (www.grants.gov, for example) and public libraries.

"If someone calls you promising a 'government grant,' and wants money or your bank account number, just hang up," Curran said. "This is just another scam."

The attorney general said that anyone who gave their bank account number to such a caller should contact their bank immediately to see if they can request a stop payment.

FROST AND FREEZING TEMPERATURES

A friend and I were talking about frost. He said, "The temperature doesn't have to be freezing for there to be frost." Is this true?

It IS true, but the temperature has to be pretty close to freezing, although slightly above will still get you frost. Here is what's going on:

The scientific concept of a "temperature" refers to the average properties of a substance. In a gas like air, various molecules are moving with all different velocities (a few thousand feet/second), but the average velocity is what counts when talking about temperature. The kinetic energy of any one molecule is $\frac{1}{2} m v^2$. To find the average kinetic energy, we need to know the average value of velocity-squared, written $< v^2 >$; that is, the average kinetic energy is $\frac{1}{2} m < v^2 >$. The definition of the temperature T is proportional to this number. If a thermometer reads 32° F = 0° C = 273 K, you can quickly calculate what must be the average value of $< v^2 >$.

On the other hand, when there is a surface present, such as the windshield of an auto, the situation changes. The air molecules nearby are moving around freely, with a certain $< v^2 >$ and hence a definite temperature T. An inch away, the molecules making up the surface (for example, the glass) are held in a fixed position, but are vibrating quite a bit, and we associate that vibration with temperature as well.

However, right at the surface, some molecules from the air settle on the surface and totally stop moving. We call that process condensation. Look closely at just one: Suddenly that air molecule's velocity has dropped to zero. That one molecule, momentarily stopped, doesn't have a temperature, because it's not part of the average any more. Soon the vibrations of the molecules in the glass will bounce that molecule loose and send it back into the air; we call that process evaporation. That happens constantly to the oxygen and nitrogen in the air. Condensation and evaporation happen so fast that nobody even notices.

Now, one component of air is water molecules, and in their case, when they land on a surface, something different might happen: If another water molecule lands nearby, almost touching, they can bond to each other. A third, fourth, fifth, etc., molecule of water might do likewise. The structure of the little clusters tends to form six-sided crystals that hold each other together. At this point, the binding among the water molecules is comparable to the force exerted by the vibrations from beneath, and the cluster of water molecules wants to stay put.

It doesn't take long before a gigantic number of water molecules have condensed this way, formed bonds, and remained on the surface instead of evaporating. The molecules arrange themselves in the familiar six-sided pattern we know as snow crystals. When you come out in the morning and find your windshield like this, it helps to have a scraper handy.

For this to happen, the air temperature does NOT have to drop below 32° F. It just has to get close. The key fact is that the strength of the bonds between water molecules on the surface is great enough to overcome the force of vibration from the surface that is trying to break up the water molecules and send them away into the air.

When the temperature of the windshield gets a little warmer (maybe 38° F), the vibration forces are strong enough to outgun the bonding force between water molecules, and so the water molecules leave the surface and go back into the air. If you start your car's engine in the morning and turn on the defroster, a very light frost like this will disappear very quickly.

Examples like this (of molecules binding to each other) are fairly commonplace. The large beads of water that form on a wet car show that the water molecules would rather stick together with each other, instead of simply running off the painted surface. Cooking oil in a metal frying pan beads up at low temperatures, but when the pan gets hotter the oil spreads out and coats the entire surface. The liquid metal mercury in a thermometer would rather stick to itself than to the glass, and so a scientist making an accurate measurement has to carefully discern the position of the meniscus. In all such cases, it's intermolecular forces that hold the substance together. That's how frost can form above the freezing temperature.

Businesses May Participate In GC's Next "E-Cycling" Event This Spring

The Solid Waste & Recycling Division, Garrett County General Services Department will host another electronic recycling event in spring 2005 for Garrett County residents and businesses.

With the holiday season, new electronics will be filling many homes. Solid Waste & Recycling, therefore, is asking local businesses and residents to hold on to their unwanted or obsolete electronics and participate in the "e-cycle" event in the spring.

"In the past, only residents have been able to participate in the e-cycle events, due to funding and restrictions made by the Maryland Department of the Environment," said Kimberly Madigan, recycling coordinator. "Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling is addressing the many requests made by businesses and is pleased to announce their inclusion at the next electronic recycling event."

The following is a list of items that will be accepted for recycling: CPUs, keyboards, mice, cell phones, fax machines, copiers, printers, VCRs, monitors, televisions, copper wire, CPU contents (circuit boards, hard drives, and fans), scanners, calculators, stereo equipment, adding machines, laptops, and telephones.

The following items will not be accepted: any electronics/appliances that had or currently have freon or microwaves, kitchen appliances, and speakers (from stereo equipment).

If it is not convenient to hold onto computer systems until spring, the Garrett Computer Adoption Project (GCAP) is accepting computers with Pentium II or above processors that are in working condition. The GCAP gives Garrett County families the opportunity to have a computer in their home. For additional information or an application, persons may call 301-334-1921.

In addition, if it is not possible to save cell phones, Motorola Inc.'s web site at promo.motorola.com/recycle/phones/whyrecycle.html has a prepaid postage label to use on a mailer than can contain an old mobile phone from any manufacturer. Garrett County Solid Waste & Recycling also has labels available at the office, located along Oakland Sang Run Road.

For more information about the electronic recycling event or the Garrett County recycling program, persons may call 301-387-0322.

Visitors To Md. May Reach 24 Million In 2004

Early forecasts for Maryland's tourism industry indicate significant gains in visitors for 2004, with the state possibly welcoming as many as 24 million visitors, compared with 20 million visitors in 2003.

According to figures recently obtained by the Maryland Office of Tourism Development, an agency of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development (DBED), visitor volume was up by 33 percent for the first six months of 2004, compared with the same period in 2003. Significant increases were reported in visitors from Virginia, Delaware, California, Connecticut, and Ohio.

"If those numbers continued in the second half of 2004, which we think that they have, then we expect this to be a blockbuster year for tourism," said Secretary of Business and Economic Development Aris Melissaratos. "Of course, with increased visitation also comes increased economic impact, which was $9.3 billion in 2003."

Tourism officials attribute the gains to several key factors – a robust economy in Maryland, the state's strategic location on the Mid-Atlantic corridor and a successful advertising campaign. The "Seize the Day Off" campaign, which featured Governor Robert L. Ehrlich Jr., ran from April through July, and again in September and October. The ads ran on regional cable stations and local channels in the Boston, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Hartford, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, and Providence areas.

"Every indication is that our ad campaign was a huge success, and now we have these outstanding figures to support that," said Dennis Castleman, assistant secretary for Tourism, Film, and the Arts. "We believe that our prime location on the Mid-Atlantic corridor and our proximity to nearly 60 percent of the nation's population is also a significant factor in the increase in visitors."

Earlier this month, Maryland's tourism office reported that the economic impact of tourism in Maryland reached a record $9.3 billion in calendar year 2003. That figure is up from $8.8 billion the previous calendar year. The study, compiled for Maryland's tourism office by the Travel Industry Association of America, also showed tourism generated an estimated $788 million in state and local taxes.

In addition, 112,000 people were employed in Maryland's tourism industry in 2003, remaining steady from 2002, mainly in the areas of foodservice, public transportation and lodging.

The study also showed that visitors to Maryland spent the most money ($2.36 billion) on foodservice, which includes restaurants, grocery stores, and other eating and drinking establishments.

Expenditures on public transportation, which included travel by air, intercity bus, rail, boat or ship, and taxicab or limousine service, ranked second at more than $2.27 billion.

Lodging (hotel, motel, campground, and ownership or rental of vacation homes) ranked third with an estimated $1.7 billion spent.

The Maryland Office of Tourism Development promotes Maryland as "a great state in which to tour and travel, as well as to hold meetings and conventions."

Tourism is one of Maryland's fastest growing industries and largest economic generators, according to DBED. To learn more about Maryland tourism, persons can go to visitmaryland.org.

Robin Baker's Name Omitted

Robin Baker's name was omitted in the caption about the Mountain Laurel Garden Club's window display at the Ruth Enlow Library in the last issue of The Republican. The display's theme is "A Dolls' Christmas," and Baker contributed numerous items: Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls, the Jeanie and Shirley Temple dolls, the "Boys & Toys" collection, and Christmas tree ornaments. The Republican regrets the omission.

NEW ATTENDANCE PROCEDURES FOR UNEXCUSED ABSENCES

Southern Garrett High School will implement a new school procedure for monitoring attendance beginning with this school year's second semester. In an attempt to eliminate unlawful reasons for missing school, the following procedure will be in place.

Unlawful excuses will be monitored through a variety of individuals: 1) after two unlawful absences during the semester, a phone call will be made to parents/guardians and letters will be sent with specific absence dates; 2) after three unlawful absences during the semester, letters and parental/guardian contact will be made in addition to a notification to Pupil Services at the BOE and the Department of Juvenile Services (if the student is under the age of 16); 3) on the fourth unlawful absence during the semester, letters and parental/guardian contact will be followed by DJS referral to the State's Attorney's office for action with regard to those students under the age of 16.

All parents and students should remain mindful of the procedures and policies pertaining to state required attendance demands. Exact absence requirements can be found in the Garrett County Student Handbook for Rights, Responsibilities, and Discipline, which is given to students the first day of school. Any students exceeding the stated requirements must appeal their credit acknowledgment through the school attendance committee. All questions with regard to Southern Garrett High School attendance procedures should be directed to Ms. Sandi Smith, attendance assistant, at 301 334-3086.

Winter Solstice Celebration Set At Discovery Ctr.

The Discovery Center has slated a Winter Solstice celebration for Tuesday, Dec. 21, to note the shortest day of the year and "welcome the lengthening days ahead," said Deep Creek Lake State Park naturalist Caroline Blizzard. The 90-minute event will also benefit local citizens in need, as participants are asked to bring a nonperishable food item to donate to a food bank in Garrett County.

The celebration will get under way at sundown (approximately 6 p.m.), with nature and multicultural readings around an outdoor fire. Participants are encouraged to bring their favorite writing to read or have read by someone else.

The solstice will also be marked by a drumming demonstration, as "people have used rhythms to welcome the seasons and other significant events thought out time," Blizzard said. Participants may take part by bringing their own percussion instruments or using one available at the event.

Hot chocolate, cider, and s'mores will be available.

ELCA Women Convene At Zion Lutheran Church

The Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting in the church last Tuesday, Dec. 7.

The meeting opened with the group singing a verse of the hymn "Oh Come, O Come, Emmanuel."

The topic "Ready Or Not!" was led by Leota Baker. The chief objectives of the lesson were to encourage reflection on the biblical understanding of the parable of the 10 virgins; to learn about wedding customs in Jesus' day; and to reflect on the use of the bridegroom metaphor.

The study concluded with the lighting of a candle. The group watched the flame flicker, so noting the "joy of its light and the feeling of the heat it produced."

Strange BUT TRUE

By Samantha Weaver

• Here's some food for thought while you're calculating your household budget: According to recent estimates, the government of the United States borrows approximately $1 million every minute.

• Add to the list of odd works of literature six books that, I daresay, none of you has ever read: "!!!," published in 1881; "?" (1885); "C" (1924); 1963's "v" (lower-case, of course!); "G" (1972); and "U and I," which was published in 1991.

• It was Abba Eban, a former Israeli foreign minister, who made this sage observation: "It is our experience that political leaders do not always mean the opposite of what they say."

• The most sparsely populated country in the world, Mongolia, has only 4.4 people per square mile of territory.

• Critically acclaimed dramatic actor Gene Hackman was once considered as a possible casting choice for Mr. Brady in "The Brady Bunch."

• Tofurkey — that turkey-shaped concoction of bean curd — is becoming more popular as a choice for holiday dinners these days. Vegetarianism is hardly a new concept, however. Benjamin Franklin ate no meat, and neither did artist and inventor Leonardo da Vinci; Greek mathematician Pythagoras; composer Richard Wagner; or the father of Western philosophy, the ancient Athenian Plato. More recent well-known vegetarians include Dr. Henry Heimlich, inventor of the Heimlich maneuver; and Steve Jobs, co-founder of Apple Computers.

• The country of The Bahamas issues a three-dollar bill as legal tender — one of the only nations in the world to do so.

• Las Vegas legalized gambling in 1931. The stated purpose of the move was "to fund public schools." It seems they got more than they bargained for.

Under an agreement reached between East and West Berlin, more than 170,000 passes were eventually issued to West Berlin citizens.

• On Dec. 26, 1966, the first Kwanzaa is celebrated in Los Angeles under the direction of Maulana Karenga, the chair of Black Studies at California State University at Long Beach. The seven-day holiday, which has strong African roots, was designed by Dr. Karenga as a celebration of African-American family, community and culture.

Lingering Pet Odors

Q. I am writing in regard to your recent column on older cats that are soiling their owner's carpet, and what to do about the smell.

There is a wonderful organization in Brooklyn, N.Y., called Muffin's Pet Connection. One of its tips for getting rid of cats' spraying and regular urine smells is white vinegar. It seems to work, so I thought I would send it along to you. You might want to check out Muffin's Web site, www.muffins.org. — Elyse K. via e-mail

A. Thanks, Elyse! White vinegar is a fairly gentle cleaner and is worth a try, especially by pet owners exasperated by lingering odors.

Muffin's Pet Connection is indeed a wonderful nonprofit organization. Its mission is to assist pet owners in placing dogs, cats, ferrets, iguanas — you name it — in loving homes. It is not a shelter; owners continue to care for their pets while a new home for them is found. This certainly eases some of the stress that a pet goes through when leaving one family and being adopted by another. It also helps the owner know that his or her pet will go to a loving family rather than a dubious future at a shelter.

Thanks for giving great advice all around! Folks, check out Muffin's Pet Connection to find out more about the services it provides to the pet community in New York City.

Norman Rockwell

Q. I would like to find a price list for Norman Rockwell collectibles. I have several plates featuring his artwork that I bought during the 1980s. — Nellie, Spokane, Wash.

A. Norman Rockwell was born in New York City. He studied at the Chase School of Art and found fame as an illustrator for such publications as Collier's, Judge, Life, Look and, of course, The Saturday Evening Post. Many of his pictures idealized small-town America.

Although there are numerous reference books that list his collectibles, you might want to contact an expert. Mary Moline is just such an authority. Her books, "The Norman Rockwell Collectibles Value Guide" and "The Norman Rockwell Encyclopedia" are excellent. Her e-mail and Web site addresses are RockwellArt@aol.com and www.RockwellArt.com.

Q. I have one of the new quarters that was double struck. Who can I contact to find out how much it might be worth? — Alice, Jamestown, N.C.

A. I suggest you get a copy of the "Official Price Guide to Mint Errors" by Alan Herbert. This excellent reference book is in its sixth edition and features exhaustive information about all kinds of mint errors. It will answer your question. Herbert's book is available at most larger book stores or through its publisher, House of Collectibles, at www.randomhouse.com.

Q. I have old play bills dating back to the 1930s. Who can I contact to sell them? — Alice, Brooklyn, N.Y.

A. Lacy E. Long is a serious collector who buys, sells and trades theatrical memorabilia. Her address is 199 Tarrytown Road, Manchester, NH 03103.

Sweet and Simple

I remember that Christmas vividly. The afternoon was not going at all well. I was nearly frantic...

"It's almost time for our guests! There is so much left to do before they arrive. Why, I still must wash the good china and put those fragile ornaments on the tree. Wait, was that a knock... already??"

Yes, there was a tiny tapping, as five-year-old Jimmy, my neighbor and star Sunday School pupil, ran in, all smiles, and scrambled into my lap. With excited hugs, he waved a homemade-crayoned card in front of me, with a precious scrawled "I LUV YU. MARY CRISMUS" at the bottom. That was the year I remembered what the joy of Christmas was all about.

This holiday season, won't you choose to concentrate most of your focus on the honored Guest? Gifts of smiles and laughter, time spent with family in reminiscent conversation, and fellowship with our friends and neighbors will be remembered more than dinner and decorations. After all, only Christ was perfect. Why not let your sentiments echo those of the apostle Paul, in Romans 15:13, "May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing...".

Won't you worship God's Son this Sabbath in the humble spirit of His birthplace? Discover the joy of keeping it "sweet and simple".

Help One Another

What does it mean that God should come to us as a tiny, helpless baby, born in a stable, to parents who were basically homeless? Consider also that Mary was probably no more than 14 or 15 years old: Joseph had doubts about the circumstances of her being with child: and, the couple was a long way from home in a strange and distant land where they knew no one. Under these very trying circumstances, God came into the world. And, while there are certainly a lot of lessons to be learned from this, one of the most obvious is that we are extremely needy beings who must rely on the goodwill and help of others. No infant could survive without the care and sustenance of its parents (or other well-intentioned adults). Finding no room at the inn, Mary and Joseph were forced to rely on the kindness of strangers in bedding down at the stable. Imagine how much worse their plight would have been without those kind shepherds. Even today, we depend on others in similar circumstances, and our hope is that we live in a world where others will be willing to help. We often hear that the message of Christmas is God?s willingness to help us; but, maybe the message is just as much that God needs our help too, and that He calls on all of us to help those in need.

Practice hospitality ungrudgingly to one another. As each has received a gift, employ it for one another, as good stewards of God's varied grace.

Zinc And Vision Loss Prevention

Zinc is an important mineral in our diet that has many known functions in the body and some which science is just now learning about. New research is discovering that zinc, taken along with antioxidant vitamins, can help slow or possible prevent vision loss due to macular degeneration. This eye disorder affects over 7 million Americans and is the leading cause of blindness in persons 65 years of age and older.

However, zinc can be an important supplement for more than just eye health. Some research suggests that taking zinc might also help treat acne, whether it's used orally or topically. Zinc supplementation may increase weight gain and improve depression symptoms in persons with anorexia. In children with attention-deficit-hyperactivity disorder, taking zinc in combination with traditional treatments appears to improve symptoms of hyperactivity, impulsivity, and social impairment but does not seem to help attention deficit. Some studies suggest that zinc lozenges may help decrease the duration of the common cold in adults.

Maule Completes Certification For Coding Specialist

Garrett County Memorial Hospital announced this week that Angela Maule, coder, has successfully completed testing for her certified coding specialist certification.

Certified coding specialists are professionals skilled in classifying medical data from patient records, generally in the hospital setting. These coding practitioners review patients' records and assign numeric codes for each diagnosis and procedure. To perform this task, they must possess expertise in the ICD-9-CM coding system and the surgery section with the CPT coding system.

In addition, certified coding specialists are knowledgeable in medical terminology, disease processes, and pharmacology.

"The CCS credential demonstrates tested data quality and integrity skills in a coding practitioner," said a hospital spokesperson. "The CCS certification exam assesses mastery or proficiency in coding rather than entry-level skills."

Medical Coding Series Slated In Grantsville

Garrett College's Grantsville Outreach Center will host seven sequential courses in medical coding beginning next month, at evening and weekend times convenient for working students. The series will prepare participants for the medical coding national certification exam, and an entry-level position as a medical coding specialist in settings such as hospitals or doctors' offices.

"Correct coding is an indispensable element in the financial security of all medical practices," a college spokesperson said. "Medical coders are vital members of the health care team. They are responsible for accurately coding diagnoses, procedures and supplies for each patient seen in the health care system. These codes are then forwarded to the insurance companies or third-party payers and are the basis for reimbursement."

Coding professionals work in a multitude of settings throughout the health care industry, including hospitals, physician's offices and clinics, long-term care facilities, insurance companies, government agencies, and home-care providers.

According to the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics, the demand for medical coders is projected to grow faster than the average for all occupations through 2010, and a shortage of coders is putting upward pressure on salaries of medical coders.

The courses are Medical Terminology, Introduction to Anatomy and Physiology, Medical Coding Specialist I and II, Introduction to Pharmacology, Study of Disease Process-Pathophysiology, and Medical Coding Advanced.

Newcomers or persons who are re-entering the medical coding field are advised to first take Medical Terminology. The course includes an analysis of medical terminology designed to give a clear understanding of medical terms on the basis of roots, prefixes, suffixes, and derivatives. The class will be offered on Tuesdays and Thursdays, Jan. 18 - Feb. 17, from 6 to 9:15 p.m., and one Saturday, Feb. 19, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The next course in the series is Introduction to Anatomy and Physiology, an overview of human anatomy and physiology, including an introduction to structure and function of the human body by systems and on the cellular level. The class is slated for Tuesdays and Thursdays, March 1-24, from 6 to 9:15 p.m., and one Saturday, March 19, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The third course is Medical Coding Specialist I, which provides a basic introduction to ICD and CPT-4 coding. Topics include current procedural terminology (CPT) overview, review of conventions used in ICD, and fundamental coding guidelines. The class is set for Tuesdays and Thursdays, April 15 - May 17, from 6 to 9:15 p.m., and two Saturdays, April 23 and May 14, from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.

The fourth course, Medical Coding Specialist II, addresses additional diagnostic and procedural coding and is designed to broaden coding knowledge and enhance coding skills by covering a variety of medical specialties and coding issues encountered in the health care office. The class will meet on Tuesdays and Thursdays, May 24 - July 12, from 6 to 9:15 p.m., and one Saturday, June 18, from 8:30 a.m to 3:30 p.m.

After completing those four courses, students will have the opportunity to broaden their knowledge and expertise by taking the subsequent final three courses – Medical Coding Advanced, Introduction to Pharmacology, and Study of Disease Process-Pathophysiology – the following semester. Dates and times of those courses will be announced by the college in the near future.

Financial assistance may be available to qualified applicants. Persons interested in more information, or in registering for this series, may contact Grantsville Outreach Center coordinator Terry Beachy by calling 301-895-3368, or via e-mail at tbeachy@garrett-college.edu.

SMS STUDENTS HOLD A KANGAROO KIDS WORKSHOP – The Southern Middle School's gym was "hopping" with Kangaroo Kids, along with after-school program staff, volunteers, and student leaders earlier this fall. This event was part of the leadership training workshop for "JumpSmart!," a new interactive nutrition and physical activity program introduced by the Food Stamp Nutrition Education Program (FSNEP). What began as a small jump rope physical fitness club in 1978 has become the world renowned Kangaroo Kids Precision Jump Rope Team. Currently both girls and boys compete, perform, and help introduce others to the fun of jumping rope. These athletes work in close cooperation with the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports, and have been awarded the Governor's Fitness Award. They have performed and conducted workshops at Maryland Special Olympics events and also at the International Winter and Summer Special Olympics Games. During the six-hour workshop, head coach James McCleary and the Kangaroo Kids Team helped staff and junior leaders learn rope jumping skills, which they will share with students in five Garrett County after-school programs. According to McCleary, this Garrett County group was one of the most energetic groups he has worked with. FSNEP is funded by USDA in cooperation with the Maryland Department of Human Resources and the University of Maryland. Above, left to right, are Chelsie Custer and Katie Maust. Below are Brenda Frazee, Cara Stough, and Sharon Custer.

Farming On The Mountaintop

Southern States Calls 2005 Ag Outlook Bright

Terry Hauser and Tom Hart, board chairman and manager for Southern States Oakland Cooperative, respectively, attended the cooperative's board leadership conference in Westminster on Monday. The meeting was part of a five-city series in which the cooperative's senior management delivered the following message to store managers and local board chairmen: 2005 looks to be another good year for agriculture, and Southern States will be a strong factor in this trend.

"With the U.S. and global economies charted for moderate-to-strong growth in 2005, consumer food demand should remain strong. Agricultural exports, which in 2004 for the first time in decades did not exceed agricultural imports, should be aided by the dollar's weakening exchange rates," Dr. Joseph Coffey, a former USDA agricultural economist, told the assembled Southern States local leaders.

"Farm sales of most major farm commodities — especially beef, broilers, hogs, dairy, corn, and wheat — should remain strong. Total farm sales are expected to be 10 percent higher in 2004 than their record-high levels of 2003," he added.

Coffey noted that there are several uncertainties lurking on the horizon. Along with war, terrorism, fluctuating energy prices, and rising interest rates, 2005 will be the first year in decades without a tobacco program, a result of tobacco buy-out legislation.

"It will take some time for tobacco areas to adjust to this major change, but we expect tobacco acreages to consolidate on larger farms and prices to be lower overall," Coffey said.

Likewise, forecasts for beef cattle depend on the embargo most countries have levied on U.S. exports because of last year's discovery of a single cow with mad cow disease. This year's beef exports were only 15 percent of 2003 levels. Grain prices may be somewhat weaker because of this year's bumper crop, but the weakening dollar should help buoy export sales.

With 2004 being the year Southern States returned to profitability, Thomas R. Scribner, president and CEO, says employees are freed to focus on customer service. Fiscal 2004 put the co-op back on the profit-making track with a pre-tax savings of $3.6 million before a gain on the cancellation of capital securities.

Including that gain, overall earnings were $67.9 million. The improved results — along with a general improvement in the credit markets — gave Southern States an opportunity to gain more favorable terms for its revolver and term loan financing.

"With our funding in place for the long term, our employees can give total attention to what is really important — our customers," Scribner said. "We are dedicated to total customer service."

Celebrating its 81st anniversary this year, Southern States now has more than 300,000 farmer members. As one of the nation's largest agricultural cooperatives, it provides a range of farm inputs, including fertilizer, seed, livestock feed, and pet food, animal health supplies, and petroleum products, as well as other items for the farm and home. The cooperative has more than 1,200 retail outlets and had sales of just under $1.3 billion in its fiscal year ended June 30, 2004.

SHARE THE LOVE!

You've heard it a million times, but it's a cliché because it's true, "First Impressions Count." And even though "Don't judge a book by its cover" is also a popular cliché, buyers tend to ignore that one when comparing potential home purchases.

Put yourself in the buyers' shoes and step out to the curb to take a look. See anything that might not make the impression you desire? Consider the following "first glance" improvements.

The front door should be inviting, paint or stain the entrance if it shows signs of chipping or peeling. Have a front porch? Dress it up with container gardens and sweep regularly, making it an attractive "outside room."

Check for other signs of peeling paint around the exterior and touch up where needed. Remember that buyers will be comparing your home to other similar homes, and every little detail that makes yours more appealing will pay off.

Of course, your landscaping makes an obvious first impression, so remove any dead or dying debris, fertilize the lawn and plant some flowering bushes if you need a little color.

Finally, your home looks great, so make sure it's well lit for the show! Don't overdo it, but do offer a well-lit doorway and walkways, and even "uplight" your better landscaping elements. If you show buyers "We love this home," then so will they!

If you'd like to sell your home, but feel "out of touch" with what's happening in real estate, give me a call today!

Westernport Man Pleads Guilty To Drug Charge, DUI

A Westernport man is spending four months in the local jail after he entered guilty pleas to drug possession and driving while under the influence (DUI) before the bench of Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph Burnett.

Zachary Russell Jones, 18, was handed an eight-month sentence, half of which was suspended, and was fined $700 and placed on two years' supervised probation. Additional charges of possession of marijuana with intent to distribute and possession of drug paraphernalia, along with several traffic charges, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

Jones was jailed by Maryland State Police troopers in November after a vehicle collision on a Garrett County section of Westernport Road. He was accused of failing to give up the proper half-portion of the roadway and hitting an oncoming car. After arresting Jones for DUI, troopers undertook a search that revealed he was carrying a bag that contained four smaller baggies of marijuana packaged as if for individual distribution, a second bag of marijuana, and a deer antler modified for smoking purposes.

In other District Court news, a Mtn. Lake Park man pleaded guilty to second degree assault.

Austin Huffman Gardner III, 27, was handed a 60-day sentence, all but four days of which was suspended, and was fined $100, placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to complete 30 hours of community service. Gardner's July arrest by Oakland police officers stemmed from a domestic altercation outside his Decatur Street apartment building, when he struck the victim with a tire iron and dragged her along the ground by the hair.

Stet rulings were handed down to several defendants, meaning their respective cases can be recalled for trial within the next 365 days should the court deem appropriate.

Jeffrey Allen Liller, 39, Oakland, faced two counts of second-degree assault and a single count of making an arson threat, each of which was stetted. Liller was jailed by Garrett County sheriff's deputies in August for allegedly making verbal threats to shoot two men as he was holding a shotgun, and for another instance when he reportedly threatened to burn down their cabin. The incidents stemmed from an apparent property right-of-way dispute in the area of Liller's Shady Dell Road residence.

A second-degree assault charge faced by Terry Lynn Ford, 42, Swanton, was placed onto the stet docket. Ford's July arrest by sheriff's deputies stemmed from a domestic altercation at his Upper White Oak Road home, when he allegedly grabbed the victim by the throat and attempted to kick her.

Jeffrey Michael Higson, 20, Cumberland, faced a misdemeanor theft charge that was stetted. Oakland police officers arrested Higson in June following an investigation of an April burglary of a Crook Street apartment.

A marijuana possession charge filed against Mark Lewis Riley, 37, Loch Lynn, was not prosecuted. The charge stemmed from his August arrest by sheriff's deputies.

Christmas Eve Caroling Set In Oakland

The annual Christmas Eve caroling gathering in downtown Oakland will begin at 5:30 p.m. Friday, Dec. 24, in front of the town's historic train station. The event will take place regardless of the weather, although if conditions are too cold or otherwise inclement, participants will gather to sing in the train station's baggage room.

Sue Peterson will accompany the carolers on keyboard, and copies of song lyrics will be made available to all singers. The caroling is expected to last 20-30 minutes, "to allow everyone time to safely get to their Christmas Eve destinations," said Oakland Main Street Program manager Cherie Ross.

"Everyone, young and old, is invited to join the gathering to sing Christmas carols, and to wish friends, family, and neighbors a great holiday time together," Ross stated. "We'd also like to remember those who cannot be with their families during this season, and send our best wishes to them and their families no matter where they are."

For further information, persons may call Ross at 301-616-3026.

Osteoporosis Drug Therapy Update

Osteoporosis literally means "porous bones." With this condition, the bones become brittle and easier to break. The term osteopenia means low bone mass. It frequently develops into full-blown osteoporosis. Together, osteoporosis and osteopenia pose a major health threat to over 44 million Americans. New research findings related to drug therapy are changing the way both doctors and patients view popular treatments for both conditions.

During the last two years, there has been much published related to the potential detrimental effects of estrogen by postmenopausal women. Alendronate and risedronate are approved to slow or stop bone loss by attacking bone-removing cells. One comparison study concluded that Fosamax helped to make bones denser than Actonel. Ibandronate (Boniva) was approved because its once-daily use increased spine and hip bone density. The results of recent research concluded that giving Boniva once monthly produced results that were equivalent to daily dosing. Monthly dosing could be especially important for any osteoporosis drug because other studies have shown that many postmenopausal women do not stay with daily treatments or take them as directed.

FAMILY TRIP TO EUROPE

A 10-day trip to Europe began at Athens, Greece, and ended in Zurich, Switzerland, for 14 members of the Scott and Dean Sisler family. Those who joined their mother, Dean Sisler, were Donetta and Dane Nice, Jana, Ronald, Skylar, Mariah, and Jasmine Freeman, Tamara Sisler and Cody Fauber, Cara and Dylan Radford, and Shuana and Mikail Perrine.

In Athens they went to the Acropolis, the Archeological Museum, the port, and the new Olympic stadium. Traveling by train, they visited Corinth, the ancient city being investigated, and there saw where the Apostle Paul had preached.

A flight to Rome allowed them to obtain tickets for an audience with the Pope and they also visited the St. Peter's Basilica and Square, the Sistine Chapel, the Colosseum, the Forum, the Pantheon, and the Trevi Fountain. On to Venice, they walked around the city and visited St. Mark's Basilica and St. Mark's Square. Another day gave them time to visit the sites in Zurich before their return home on Nov. 29.

Notes From Bittinger

by Joan Glotfelty Sussman

Sherri Weaver complained that she couldn't get in the spirit of decorating for Christmas without at least a little snow. Well, within 48 hours we got plenty of snow. Most of the Bittinger folks did not wait to put their outside lights up, but my mother's outside nativity scene is now about covered with snow. Last year she wasn't able to even get them put up, as the snow came early and she had a six-foot drift where the nativity characters were to be set up. I guess it was last Friday night a week ago when I drove up to my house after dark from downtown Bittinger and almost every house was fully decked out. It was a sight to see in Bittinger.

There is now no doubt that it is Christmas season in Bittinger and, yes, the weather is more than just being cooperative for Sherri. It was a real Bittinger-style winter storm that started on Friday and continued through today, which is Tuesday. I have already been out in it, as Audrey Howe and I tried to finish our Christmas shopping at Grantsville Plaza before the really bad weather hit. It was hard to make the decision to head directly home instead of stopping by Howe's Country Store so I could see their renovation for a new feature, which will be a sit-down restaurant. It is almost ready to open.

I was glad for that decision since it is usually during our first major snow storm that the road crews are not ready to spring into action. The first snow usually makes the roads very bad since the roads do not have remaining cinders on them. However, the conditions weren't too bad and it had not gotten into the worst combination of snowing hard with a brisk wind.

A few hours later I saw the horizontal snow and it drove me into my bed with a persistent cold that I have suffered from since last week. Even if I wish I could sleep straight through until spring springs again, I had to get busy and write something for this week's Republican.

Even if there is not much real news, most people are busy with early Christmas preparations or staying inside to escape the winter weather. I imagine there are still a few hunters hoping to bag a buck with muzzle-loading season in now and a few hardy folks like my mother who is willing to go out in any kind of weather conditions. However, I was shocked this afternoon to learn that she decided it was too bad to go to her weekly meal and bingo at the Grantsville Senior Citizen Center. She said she hasn't hardly stuck her head out the door since attending the annual Volunteer and Staff Christmas Luncheon for Hospice at the "Will O' the Wisp" on Saturday. So I guess her 75th birthday has really slowed her down.

I remember when I was a young teenager and when my little brothers were still just kids we were glued to the windows watching for her car lights to emerge from a raging blizzard signaling that she made it home safe from a Christmas shopping trip to Cumberland. About 48 years ago, she was busy doing her last-minute shopping in Cumberland until labor pains stopped her and signaled the impending arrival of our little Christmas "Carol" on December 18.

In my generation, parents are eagerly awaiting their college students coming home for their holiday vacations any day. Landon, Torrey, Brent, Carlee, and my Claire will be back in Bittinger soon. As Pastor Pat Pittsnogle will be having a pre-holiday break, the Campus Ministry from West Virginia University will preside at our parish's services this coming Sunday for the final Sunday of Advent. Another thing to look forward to is that we will finally sing my favorite Advent hymn, "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel."

Last Sunday at Emmanuel was our annual congregational meeting. New council members elected were Tina Buckel, Rodney Glotfelty, and Tina Collins. The budget for the coming year was approved.

Sheila Southerly reported to me of a lovely Christmas colorful scene she was treated to behind her house. The hemlock branches were loaded with new snow, and a pair of cardinals lent their scarlet presence to complete the color scheme. She has not seen any cardinals for years, and with the death of her cat and moving her new bird feeder to a more sheltered location, she now has them back again. My mother has them at her bird feeder too.

I used to enjoy the extension of the holidays, as we used to celebrate Hanukkah as well as Christmas. That involved getting eight more presents for each of my three girls. The Jewish holiday was in celebration of a miracle during the occupation of Jerusalem by a foreign power and the temple only had enough lamp oil for one day, but it lasted for eight days. I wish that miracle would reappear with heating oil. I dread running my furnace at all because it is a sure thing that the worst cold is yet to come. I am still trying to pay off my first tank of oil and I dread having to go into debt for another thousand dollars, which is how much the first filling of my tank cost.

I plunged into deep depression thinking about Christmas past. When my children were little and when I was just a kid, we never worried about the price of heating oil or had a long therapy list. There were not many worries involved in my childhood's December, except for the time when my father was in the hospital for his first heart attack and in 1960 when my Mother had to stay in a Cumberland hospital for over a month after Scott arrived. We children were happy and safe in the care of both of their grandparents, but we did miss her very much.

As I look outside I remember one holiday memory very clearly. When my little brothers were still pretty small we would go into our woods and cut

Dear Friends and Neighbors:

In the past few weeks, representatives of Friends of Backbone Mountain have focused upon county government because of our concerns about the wind industry, first meeting at some length with key staff to the commissioners and later, in a three hour session, with the county's commissioners themselves. Our purpose was three-fold:

1. to provide local government officials with our documentation about the wind industry and answer any questions about it;
2. to investigate and then challenge the appropriateness of the actions taken by county government vis-à-vis the wind industry over the last two years;
3. to request the support of government officials--and specifically the county's commissioners--by asking them to reconsider their efforts on behalf of the wind industry, particularly in light of the values expressed in the county's recent Heritage Plan and the negative economic and civic impacts which will ensue if windplants are constructed in Garrett County.

The Maryland Public Service Commission (MDPSC) is the agency responsible for approving any power-generation plant in the state. The MDPSC normally requires a two or three year process in order to adjudicate a variety of complex issues which typically flow from any large power generating facility. An expedited review limits the review process to a few months, which when combined with the failure of the MDPSC to notify adjacent land owners about its hearings into the permit requests to build wind factories, prevents broad public inquiry and forecloses opinions altogether by those most affected. By sending their endorsement for an expedited review of two windplants, which would erect nearly 100 forty-story turbines atop fifteen miles of the state's highest ridge, Backbone Mountain, we believe the commissioners placed many people and much property at risk in Pleasant Valley.

In defense of their actions, the commissioners said there was little they could do to constrain wind developers, and offered the opinions expressed in a letter from the county's attorney, Mike Getty, as justification for their actions. However, even a casual reading of that letter suggests there is much the commissioners could have done–and still can do. Approval of power plant applications in this state is to a considerable extent a political process. As the executive authority for the county polity, the commissioners chose to support the wind industry; however, they could–and we believe should–have chosen otherwise.

WHAT THE COMMISSIONERS HAVE DONE

Without informing residents about the wind industry's scope and purpose, the county commissioners more than a year ago officially asked the MDPSC for an expedited review, recommending the agency set aside its regular–legally required–practice of conducting a lengthy examination of environmental and economic implications, including assessing the impact upon property values and living conditions in Pleasant Valley wrought by the construction of 67 400-ft. wind turbines atop Backbone Mountain. Based at least in part on that request, the MDPSC waived its usual investigative procedures and, following an expedited hearing with virtually no notice to adjoining landowners, granted a permit to an outside investor to build a massive wind factory. The legality of that permit is now being challenged in the Maryland Court of Appeals–and may be appealed further. Keep in mind this was a precedent-setting review, the first for a windplant in Maryland–but all done in the blink of the regulatory agency's eye.

Before and during this application process–again without systematically seeking opinion from adjoining Pleasant Valley landowners or the Garrett County public–representatives of county government conducted private meetings and countless discussions with the applicant, Clipper Windpower, Inc.

More recently, a second applicant–Synergics–approached the commissioners privately and sought their formal endorsement for another 24 turbine windplant and a waiver of the regular MDPSC review period. Once again, the commissioners did just as they were asked and sent yet another letter to the MDPSC requesting an expedited review of the Synergics application, the effect of which would limit the scope of inquiry significantly. By this time many residents had made known their concerns about the effect of wind factories on Pleasant Valley property values and living conditions. Nonetheless, the commissioners failed to act upon this local concern and instead supported the outside investors' request.

WHAT THE COMMISSIONERS SHOULD HAVE DONE

Under the Maryland Annotated Code, Article 66B, section 401, the commissioners have the authority–and obligation as elected officials–to consider land use regulation to prevent any adverse consequences to property values and living conditions for citizens of Garrett County. That authority includes regulation of the height as well as the size, use, lighting, sound, and location of any proposed wind turbines. By ignoring those obligations and the concerns posed by residents from Pleasant Valley and others to the effect that property values would be adversely impacted and quality of life would be reduced, the commissioners placed in jeopardy much this county holds dear.

The commissioners should have declared a study period of their own. Specifically, the commissioners have the legal authority to declare a moratorium delaying any construction of wind turbines until a thorough study of environmental and economic impacts, including those on land values and living conditions, is conducted. INSTEAD, THE COMMISSIONERS CHOSE TO JOIN FORCES WITH OUTSIDE INVESTORS IN ASKING FOR AN EXPEDITED REVIEW BY THE MDPSC WHERE THE ONLY CONCERNS EXPRESSED ABOUT PROPERTY VALUES AND QUALITY OF LIFE WERE THOSE OF THE WIND) DEVELOPER–AND HE OF COURSE STATED THERE WERE NO SUCH ADVERSE IMPACTS.

Using their land-use authority, the commissioners should have written the MDPSC asking for time in which to study and weigh all the evidence, not just the claims of the wind developer. During this study period, the commissioners should have systematically sought the input of local residents about their views on constructing huge wind factories atop Backbone Mountain. The questions raised should have motivated them to retain expert analysis, gathering information and sharing it in open hearings. Only after considering the results from this process should the commissioners have written anything to the MDPSC. By passing off this responsibility to the state regulatory agency, even urging that agency to short-circuit its own investigative responsibilities, the commissioners have acted irresponsibly, skirting their legal obligations to protect citizens and their property. At the very least they should have written the MDPSC to request a full review of the application. If the county, using the current Comprehensive Development Plan, can create a county-wide subdivision ordinance, it certainly can fashion regulations for other kinds of development like windplants.

The commissioners are not helpless in the face of industry pressures. Garrett County's attorney makes clear that the commissioners have every right–even an obligation–to constrain problematic development, including wind facilities incompatible with the county's natural heritage which jeopardize the value of resident property and diminish the quiet enjoyment of it. The commissioners can hold public hearings and conduct expert analysis. They can act consistently so that they don't give mixed messages to developers and citizens. For example, when they approve a county heritage plan, they should not also endorse projects that sabotage it (which they have). They can ask the MDPSC for time to examine and implement appropriate local siting standards for power plants–and then insist that the MDPSC honor those standards. They can also rescind their earlier endorsements of all wind projects, asking the MDPSC to conduct a full review. Unless they do so, they will have abandoned the residents and property owners along Backbone Mountain and in Pleasant Valley to the caprice of irresponsible developers.

We feel county government should account for its strident support of the wind industry here. There are hundreds of people who have expressed concern about this issue, stating they want an opportunity to meet with the commissioners and others in county government in order to hear them defend their actions. Consequently, we will sponsor an evening meeting at a place able to accommodate large numbers of people–and invite the commissioners and their staff to attend. Look for announcements about this meeting soon.

Happy Holidays!
Sincerely,
Eric Tribbey
